Ah Chu Company 259 NLRB No. 02
(refusal to hire Ees of predecessor E after transfer of lease violative where sole reason for refusal was Ees membership in U which had represented them prior to transfer of lease; moreover where this refusal diluted U's majority and E refused to bargain with it E also violated Sec. 8(a)(5))

Ah Chu Company 259 NLRB No. 02
(where E sold discount store but retained operation of sundry department as lessee and lessee negotiated new contract with U bringing leased sundry department Ees into unit of sundry Ees of another store owned by lessee, Bd held that when lessee afterwards sold lease to Respondent who also leased pharmacy department at store, Ees of leased sundry department formed appropriate unit in and of themselves at store since pharmacy Ees and sundry Ees were always represented by separate locals though latter in larger unit at time of sale)

Westwood Import Company, Inc. 251 NLRB No. 16

Barclay Hospital, Inc. 247 NLRB No. 144
(although not dealing with all implications of E's argument that it has right not to be successor, Bd noted that successorship is a labor relations conclusion derived from economic facts and that a right not to become a successor would suggest a right to make employment decisions based on representational rights clearly proscribed by U.S. Sp.Ct. decision)

Cabinet Shop & Supply Co., Inc. JD-(SF)-262-82
(where successor-E never notified its Ees that it would establish initial terms and conditions of employment different from those of predecessor, its contributions to trust funds became established term or condition of employment and cessation of its contributions violated Act)

(successor E's paying wages to Ees which were lower than those prescribed by predecessor E's contract and discontinuing contributing to Ee's fringe benefit trusts, violative where successor E took these steps w/o prior notice or bargaining with U; it was perfectly clear successor E intended to retain Ees, had adopted predecessor's contract, and therefore was required to consult with U before altering terms of pre-existing contract)

N.L.R.B. v. Nevis Industries, Inc., d/b/a Fresno Townehouse 647 F.2d 905 (C.A. 9, June 1981)

Better Building Supply Corp., and Evergreen Roofing, Inc., Its Alter Ego 259 NLRB No. 063
(single-E finding is not dispositive of issue of whether each is bound to collective-bargaining agreements of other; test is whether Ees of separate companies constitute appropriate unit, or whether Ees of each company constitute distinct and separate units, and here, where operations of Es are totally intertwined, appropriate unit is of Ees of both Es; thus refusal to apply contract violative)

Hageman Underground Construction; etc. 253 NLRB No. 007
(non-U company found herein single E with company that executed 8(f) agreement held bound by agreement at all existing and future jobsites, where U at one time represented majority of Ees who constituted a permanent and stable group of backhoe operators and E did not generally hire on project-by-project basis; this established irrebuttable presumption of majority status during length of contract and whether U enjoyed such status at time E repudiated contract irrelevant)

Robert E. Johnson and Geneva H. Johnson, a Partnership, d/b/a Jolie Belts Company 265 NLRB No. 141
(E obligated to bargain with District Council as successor to U, where U merger into District Council complied with U constitution and Bd mandated elements except that evidence was missing that all eligible Ees were properly notified and provided opportunity to vote on merger; E, having recognized and negotiated with District Council as continuation of U, cannot now attack validity of merger)

Yates Industries, Inc., California Division 264 NLRB No. 161
(E entering into new agreement with recognition of new local as sole representative during existing terms of contract, violative, where international (the certified representative) and local (U that executed contract) were joint representatives, notwithstanding local disaffiliated itself from international since international never relinquished its status, no amendment made to certification, no schism, old local not defunct; therefore contract act as bar to attempt midterm modification of bargaining representative in contract)

Amoco Production Company 262 NLRB No. 160
(reversing prior decision in which Bd had held E unlawfully refused to bargain by repudiating contract with U after it affiliated with international U following affiliation election, Bd held E's repudiation of contract was not unlawful since affiliation election, permitting members only to vote, was invalid; in order to provide adequate due process safeguards in affiliation election, all unit Ees, whether U members or not, must be permitted to vote and participate in such election)

5714 INTENT OF EMPLOYERS

Michael J. Bollinger Co. 252 NLRB No. 067
(refusal of member of multi-E association to sign agreement reached by association, violative, notwithstanding letters of withdrawal sent to U, where member continued to participate in negotiations and manifested intention to be bound by group)

Schaetzel Trucking, Inc. 250 NLRB No. 044
(E not part of multi-E unit, notwithstanding that E adopted, with modifications, result of negotiations between U and representatives of E members of the unit, where neither E nor E's only representative participated in those negotiations, E gave notice of its intention to pursue separate course of bargaining well in advance of beginning of negotiations, and E's subsequent actions were consistent with its expressed intention to bargain individually)

Local #197, Electrical Workers, AFL-CIO (McLean County Electrical Contractors Association, Inc.) JD-(SF)-369-80
(U's insistence that certain members of predecessor multi-E association who did not consent to substitution of new multi-E association as bargaining representative must bargain only as part of new multi-E association, violative, as U had notice that these members had opposed such substitution; therefore, no consensual tripartite relationship between U, association and individual members of association existed; furthermore, continued observance of contract negotiated by new association w/o more, did not render these nonconsenting Es part of multi-E bargaining unit)

Binswanger Glass Company, Division of National Gypsum Company JD-462-80

Amax Coal Company, a Division of Amax, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. (Mine Workers, Local No. 1854) 614 F.2d 872 (C.A. 3) (1980)

H & D, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 670 F.2d 120 (C.A. 9, Feb. 1982)
(substantial evidence supported Bd's finding that multi-E bargaining unit existed where, notwithstanding that there was no formal agreement establishing such, Es had bargained together for ten years, each E received same letter from U at commencement of negotiations, caucused together and formulated one response to U proposal, and signed identical contracts with U)

Kraft Plumbing & Heating, Inc., an Arizona Corp. v. N.L.R.B. 661 F.2d 940(T) (C.A. 9, Sep. 1981)
(ct affirmed Bd's determination that E violated Sec. 8(a)(5) by refusing to recognize bargaining agreement between U and multi-E bargaining unit where Bd's finding that E was member of unit was supported by substantial evidence provided by circumstances which permitted Bd to conclude that E manifested unequivocal intention to be bound in collective bargaining by group rather than individual action)

Crane Sheet Metal, Inc. and Hartley Sheet Metal Company, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 675 F.2d 256 (C.A. 10, Apr. 1982)

Arco Electric Company v. N.L.R.B. 618 F.2d 698 (C.A. 10, 1980)

(E's stopping compliance with new bargaining agreement between U and multi-E association because of financial hardship, violative notwithstanding asserted good faith doubt of majority U status, where E did not notify U of intent not to renew bargaining obligation as E's letter of assent to expired multi-E bargaining agreement had provided, but rather availed itself of U hiring hall for referral of Ees for 15 months after effective date of new contract and implemented terms of new contract until it encountered economic hardship)

N.L.R.B. v. J. D. Industrial Insulation Company, Inc. 615 F.2d 1289 (C.A. 10, 1980)

(no contract with U by implication absent E's application for multi-E association membership, payment of initiation fee, authorization for association to bargain on E's behalf or individual short-form agreement with U)

5728-2300 Informal

McCormick-Boyett Plumbing Company JD-(ATL)-93-82

(Es held multi-E bargaining entity and single E for purposes of collective bargaining notwithstanding negotiations by informal group w/o specific delegation of authority rather than by formal association, or that Es in group customarily separately signed negotiated agreement, where Es have indicated unequivocal intent to bargain as group rather than as individuals; further, herein there was history of multi-E bargaining and appropriateness of multi-E unit not disputed)

Reliable Roofing Company, Inc. JD-237-81

(absence of any formal organization, charter, constitution or bylaws, membership dues and officers does not preclude roofing contractors from constituting a multi-E bargaining group, where contractors demonstrated unequivocal intention to be bound by group rather than individual action; Es comprised group of Es in related business whose Ees were represented by one U, and Es found it mutually advantageous to bargain with U as a group; Es had common goal to negotiate unified contract with U, and throughout negotiations Es spoke with one voice, mutually agreed upon; and Es signed identical through separate contracts)

5742 AUTHORITY OF ASSOCIATION

Crane Sheet Metal, Inc. 248 NLRB No. 015

(where E-association informed U that additional contractors had became members, including E, U justified in concluding that E-association had full authority to bargain for this E notwithstanding these additional contractors reserved right to reject contract as this limitation on association's right to negotiate for them was not communicated to U; this apparent authority is sufficient to bind E to agreement reached by E-association absent timely withdrawal)

Crane Sheet Metal, Inc. and Hartley Sheet Metal Company, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 675 F.2d 256 (C.A. 10, Apr. 1982)

Hilton International Company d/b/a Caribe Hilton Hotel v. N.L.R.B. 690 F.2d 318 (C.A. 2, Sept. 1982)

(enforcement denied of order based on finding that hotels unlawfully withdrew from hotel association to avoid bargaining with U about steady engagement musicians, since musicians were found Ees of band leaders rather than of hotels herein)

5770-0100 Generally

Charles D. Bonanno Linen Service, Inc. v. N.L.R.B., et al. 454 US 404 (U.S. SCt. Jan. 1982)

(contrary to dissenting opn which would find that Es may withdraw from multi-E bargaining unit on impasse because Bd permits interim agreements to be executed with struck Es, ct majority held it was unwilling to substitute its judgment for that of Bd that withdrawal from group bargaining on impasse is unlawful; consequently, majority deferred to Bd's rule which, while denying E a particular economic weapon, does so in interest of proper and preeminent goal of maintaining stability of multi-E unit)

Polar Air Sheet Metal Company 264 NLRB No. 172

(relying on Teamsters, Local 378 (Capitol Chevrolet case, Bd adopted ALJ's determination that E violated 8(a)(5) when it attempted untimely withdrawal from multi-E bargaining w/o consent of U, and declined to take position that such withdrawal does not, of itself, constitute violation, but that refusal to execute and apply contract reached through multi-E bargaining is essential part of 8(a)(5) violation)

Beaumont Graphics, Ltd. 254 NLRB No. 044

(E not bound by strike settlement between multiE association and U, nor was E required to furnish information relevant to grievance brought by U alleging violations of association contract and strike agreement, since E had lawfully withdrawn from multiE association; E was not party to association contract and had not consented, to be bound by association's strike agreement with U)

Crane Sheet Metal, Inc. 248 NLRB No. 015

(where E-association informed U that additional contractors had became members, including E, U justified in concluding that E-association had full authority to bargain for this E notwithstanding these additional contractors reserved right to reject contract as this limitation on association's right to negotiate for them was not communicated to U; this apparent authority is sufficient to bind E to agreement reached by E-association absent timely withdrawal)

Reliable Roofing Company, Inc. JD-237-81

(E, who claimed to have withdrawn from multi-E bargaining, held engaged, with other contractors in multi-E bargaining through informal association of area contractors, notwithstanding E's ambiguous statement at early meetings in regard to option of individual E to negotiate separately, where more recent expression by another E, made in E's presence, negated alleged and rather vague understanding as to individual E's freedom to withdraw; and E, both before and during negotiations, acted in such a way as to create appearance of unequivocal acquiescence in multi-E bargaining, and was thus bound by results of such bargaining)

Reliable Roofing Company, Inc. JD-237-81

(Bd's rules governing unilateral withdrawal of E from multi-E bargaining provide that E may withdraw w/o U's consent prior to start of bargaining by giving unequivocal notice of intent to abandon multi-E unit and to pursue negotiations on individual E basis; however, once negotiations have actually begun, withdrawal can only be effectuated on basis of mutual consent or unusual circumstances)

Harding Glass Industries, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 672 F.2d 1330 (C.A. 10, Feb. 1982)
(after considering ct decisions which hold that impasse alone is sufficient for E's withdrawal from multi-E unit and those which consider impasse, in combination with other circumstances, as justifying withdrawal, ct held impasse alone does not justify withdrawal, since there is no reason to hold that impasse alone triggers right to withdraw, whereas concerns relating to impasse are actually related to separate contracts and selective strikes; impasse does not mean Es and U will not ultimately reach agreement; and recognized importance of multi-E units to labor peace must be considered)

5770-1200 Timely and unequivocal

S. Freedman Electric, Inc. 256 NLRB No. 068
(E effectively withdrew from multi-E bargaining association where it notified U and association of its intention to withdraw 6 months prior to expiration of contract, abided by terms of contract until it expired; moreover, E has no duty to express willingness to bargain on individual unit basis with U for its withdrawal to be effective)

N.L.R.B. v. Charles D. Bonanno Linen Service, Inc. 630 F.2d 25 (C.A. 1, 1980)
(E is free to withdraw from multi-E unit for any reason prior to date set for renegotiation of existing contract or date on which negotiations commence, provided adequate notice given U)

N.L.R.B. v. Joseph J. Callier, et al, d/b/a Callier's Custom Kitchens, a co-partnership 630 F.2d 595 (C.A. 8, 1980)
(E's withdrawal from multi-E association ineffective because company failed to provide U with unequivocal notice of its withdrawal; moreover fact that U had constructive notice of E's withdrawal 10 weeks prior to signing of final agreement and did not formally protest, is not consent; thus, E's refusal to honor agreement violative)

N.L.R.B. v. Thomas Hoover and Dennis Loy, d/b/a The Players Restaurant 639 F.2d 789(T) (C.A. 9, 1981)
(where E notified U 6 weeks prior to expiration of contract that it desired to terminate contract when it expired but made no mention of withdrawal from multi-E unit nor gave any indication of willingness to bargain on individual basis, E never effectively furnished adequate written notice to U that evinces unambiguous intent to withdraw from unit and is bound by provisions of successor contract)

5770-2833 During contract term

Fox Painting Company 263 NLRB No. 071
(where E executed and implemented multi E contract, served on negotiating committee which negotiated addendum to contract and implemented addendum though E did not execute addendum, he is bound by contract and addendum and liable for all payments to funds set forth in agreements save industry advancement fund and for any loss of dues not collected under checkoff provision of agreement)

Huettig and Schromm, Inc. JD-(SF)-139-82
(E was bound by multiE association's (Council) agreement with U by its actions after contract was signed; paid increased contractual fringe benefits, E's secretary told U agent that E said it was bound by Council's agreement and so was unnecessary to sign another independent short-form agreement, attended meetings and paid membership fee to Council)

Royce Lindsey d/b/a Royce Lindsey Plumbing, Heating, and Refrigeration Supply Company, etc. JD-(SF)-3-82
(single E comprised of several companies held precluded from asserting withdrawal from E-association as defense to E's failure to abide by its contractual obligations under multi-E agreement, where association was never informed by E of its withdrawal nor received copy of E's letter to U in which E indicated that it wanted to terminate rather than negotiate regarding relations with U; and there were no unusual circumstances, impasse, or other factors warranting deviation from requirement that definitive notice of withdrawal be given to both U and association)

5770-2550 Where negotiations had begun

Charles D. Bonanno Linen Service, Inc. v. N.L.R.B., et al. 454 US 404 (U.S. SCt, Jan. 1982)
(ct majority held Bd properly found bargaining impasse did not justify E's unilateral withdrawal from multi-E bargaining unit, and its withdrawal was unlawful as was its refusal to execute agreement later executed by U and E association; impasse is not sufficiently destructive of group bargaining and is not an unusual circumstance justifying withdrawal; it is only a temporary deadlock or hiatus in negotiations rather than a rupture of the bargaining relation; permitting withdrawal at impasse would undermine utility of multi-E bargaining; and Bd's resolution is neither arbitrary nor contrary to law)

Young's Market Company 265 NLRB No. 094
(withdrawal after negotiations had begun, ineffective where there was no U consent, unusual circumstances or fragmentation of unit, as contended)

General Printing Company 263 NLRB No. 084
(E's refusal to abide by agreement negotiated by U and to execute copy thereof as requested by U, violative where E did not effectively withdraw from multi-E bargaining associations before beginning of negotiations for new contract and U did not thereafter acquiesce in or consent to its withdrawal)l)

Puerto Rico Hotel Association 259 NLRB No. 058
(contention of hotel E Association that unit of all Ee musicians of hotels, excluding bandleaders, not appropriate, because some hotels had attempted to withdraw from multi-E bargaining and bandleaders had historically been included in unit, rejected, since E hotels signatories to mutual aid and protection pact and participated in negotiating through E association; attempted withdrawal from multi-E bargaining was untimely where after U had presented demands, and placement of leaders in unit never issue in negotiations and inclusion of supervisors in unit does not render it inappropriate)

J. D. Candler Roofing Company, Inc. 258 NLRB No. 053
(E was estopped from asserting its purported withdrawal from or nonmembership in multi-E association as defense to its failure to abide by terms of contract negotiated by multi-E association since, because of E's long history of participating in multi-group E bargaining arrangement involved, E was bound to give some positive notice of its intention not to participate or be bound by negotiations)

Beaumont Graphics, Ltd. 254 NLRB No. 044
(refusal of E to give effect to, or enter into, contract negotiated on its behalf by multiE association, not unlawful where notwithstanding that E's withdrawal was untimely, association did not object to E's withdrawal and acquiesced thereto as demonstrated by its entire course of conduct; U never protested E's withdrawal nor insisted that E was bound by association contract and negotiated separately with E)

Teckwal Corp. 253 NLRB No. 022
(where E member of multi-E bargaining unit sent notification of its withdrawal from the association weeks after new contract negotiations began, and E's attempted withdrawal lacked mutual assent or other cognizable justification, E's later refusal to execute and implement subsequently negotiated multi-E agreement, held violative)

Michael J. Bollinger Co. 252 NLRB No. 067
(refusal of member of multi-E association to sign agreement reached by association, violative, notwithstanding letters of withdrawal sent to U, where member continued to participate in negotiations and manifested intention to be bound by group)

Wm. Chalson & Co., Inc. 252 NLRB No. 006
(E's withdrawal from multi-E bargaining unit during negotiations because of doubt as to U's majority support among its Ees, held untimely and unwarranted and E's subsequent refusal to execute or abide by association wide contract held unlawful; prior withdrawal and signing of separate contract with U by large E that belonged to other of 2 multi-E bargaining units bargaining with U not unusual circumstances justifying withdrawal of respondent as each association separate appropriate unit and contract negotiations continued after E signed individual contract; there integrity of bargaining unit not undermined by separate agreement)

Harding Glass Industries 248 NLRB No. 091
(withdrawal by E of one of its facilities from multi-E bargaining violative even if impasse)

J. F. Swick Insulation Co., Inc. 347 NLRB No. 006
(E-member's refusal to sign and abide by contract negotiated on its behalf by multi-E association, violative, since E-member's attempted withdrawal from association was not with consent of U and there were no special circumstances to justify its untimely attempt to withdraw from the association)

McCormick-Boyett Plumbing Company JD-(ATL)-93-82
(E's refusal sign and honor negotiated multi-E contract when it had not given required notice of withdrawal from multi-E bargaining prior to commencement of neogitations, unlawful; E's failure to respond to U's request for bargaining not timely withdrawal, nor did E's financial situation constitute unusual circumstances that would justify its withdrawal where its financial reports did not substantiate required dire straits; further, E's contention that change in character of business (more repair work than service or maintenance) made agreement inapplicable, rejected)

N.L.R.B. v. Marine Machine Works, Inc. 635 F.2d 522 (C.A. 5, 1980)
(withdrawal from multi-E bargaining association after negotiations had begun but after parties had reached impasse constituted unlawful refusal to bargain)

N.L.R.B. v. Preston H. Heskell Company 616 F.2d 136 (C.A. 5, 1980)
(C based on E's refusal to execute and apply E association's contract with U held barred by Sec. 10(b) where, although such conduct occurred w/i 10(b) period, E's withdrawal from group bargaining transpired outside 10(b) period; since C based upon allegedly unlawful withdrawal was barred by limitations, that event cannot serve to infuse with illegality E's otherwise permissible refusal to sign contract that it did not itself negotiate)

N.L.R.B. v. Preston H. Haskell Company 616 F.2d 136 (C.A. 5, 1980)
(C based on E's refusal to execute and apply E association's contract with U held barred by Sec. 10(b) where, although such conduct occurred w/i 10(b) period, E's withdrawal from group bargaining transpired outside 10(b) period; since C based upon allegedly unlawful withdrawal was barred by limitations, that event cannot serve to infuse with illegality E's otherwise permissible refusal to sign contract that it did not itself negotiate)

N.L.R.B. v. Preston H. Haskell Company 616 F.2d 136 (C.A. 5, 1980)
(C based on E's refusal to execute and apply E association's contract with U held barred by Sec. 10(b) where, although such conduct occurred w/i 10(b) period, E's withdrawal from group bargaining transpired outside 10(b) period; since C based upon allegedly unlawful withdrawal was barred by limitations, that event cannot serve to infuse with illegality E's otherwise permissible refusal to sign contract that it did not itself negotiate)

Weatherford Motors, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 669 F.2d 1332 (C.A. 9, Feb. 1982)
(enforcement granted where issue herein, whether impasse existed when Es withdrew from multi-E unit, was rendered moot by SCt's Bonanno decision that impasse is not an unusual circumstance justifying withdrawal)

Seattle Auto Glass v. N.L.R.B. 669 F.2d 1332 (C.A. 9, Feb. 1982)
(where E association and U executed master agreement but reached impasse over separate agreement covering certain job classification, whereupon U struck and then entered into interim agreements with some E members, E's withdrawal from multi-E unit upon signing of such agreements, unlawful; under SCt's Bonanno decision neither impasse nor signing of interim agreements that do not survive final master agreement, as opposed to separate agreements that do survive unit negotiations, is an unusual circumstances justifying withdrawal; and here only interim agreements were signed)

Western Pacific Roofing Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 669 F.2d 1332 (C.A. 9, Feb. 1982)
(E's withdrawal from multi-E unit on ground that, because of extreme financial distress, it did not want to be bound by proposed contract submitted to U membership for approval, unlawful; while financial distress may be unusual circumstance justifying withdrawal, E, whose financial difficulties began long before negotiations began, never demanded special treatment, and nothing happened during negotiations to worsen its financial status; and E cannot withdraw at last minute claiming financial distress)

N.L.R.B. v. Birkenwald, Inc. d/b/a Birkenwald Distributing Company 669 F.2d 1332 (C.A. 9, Feb. 1982)
(E's withdrawal from multi-E unit upon signing of separate agreement with U by one member of unit, not unlawful, where signing of such agreement, constituting loss of 1 of 11 Es and 30 percent of unit Ees, sufficiently fragmented unit so as to amount to unusual circumstance justifying withdrawal)

H & D, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 633 F.2d 139 (C.A. 9, 1980)
(E's withdrawal from multi-E bargaining unit w/o consent of U after bargaining had begun not violative, where there was negotiating impasse at time of withdrawal)

Harding Glass Industries, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 672 F.2d 1330 (C.A. 10, Feb. 1982)
(while U's consent to E's withdrawal from multi-E unit may be inferred where U accepts benefits of withdrawal or proceeds to bargain individually w/o protest, ct held U did not consent as result of U negotiator's angry remarks during bargaining session that it might be possible to reach settlement if E was not part of negotiations; such remarks ought not to be treated as offer establishing binding contract if accepted before withdrawal; U negotiator subsequently indicated possibility that U would not consent; and when E actually attempted to withdraw, U expressed its unequivocal protest)

Harding Glass Industries, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 672 F.2d 1330 (C.A. 10, Feb. 1982)
(after considering ct decisions which hold that impasse alone is sufficient for E's withdrawal from multi-E unit and those which consider impasse, in combination with other circumstances, as justifying withdrawal, ct held impasse alone does not justify withdrawal, since there is no reason to hold that impasse alone triggers right to withdraw, whereas concerns relating to impasse are actually related to separate contracts and selective strikes; impasse does not mean Es and U will not ultimately reach agreement; and recognized importance of multi-E units to labor peace must be considered)

Harding Glass Industries, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 672 F.2d 1330 (C.A. 10, Feb. 1982)
(issue as to whether E's withdrawal from multi-E unit was permissible in light of separate agreement with U by another member of multi-E group w/o any protest by other members held not properly before ct where record was devoid of any information regarding what impact agreement had on other Es when separately contracting E continued working during strike; and, since distinction between permanent and interim agreements was not explored, ct could not make factual determination regarding matter for first time on record before it)

5770-2583 Absent unusual circumstances

Charles D. Bonanno Linen Service, Inc. v. N.L.R.B., et al. 454 US 404 (U.S. SCt. Jan. 1982)
(ct majority held Bd properly found bargaining impasse did not justify E's unilateral withdrawal from multi-E bargaining unit, and its withdrawal was unlawful as was its refusal to execute agreement later executed by U and E association; impasse is not sufficiently destructive of group bargaining and is not an unusual circumstance justifying withdrawal; it is only a temporary deadlock or hiatus in negotiations rather than a rupture of the bargaining relation; permitting withdrawal at impasse would undermine utility of multi-E bargaining; and Bd's resolution is neither arbitrary nor contrary to law)

Young's Market Company 265 NLRB No. 094
(withdrawal after negotiations had begun, ineffective where there was no U consent, unusual circumstances or fragmentation of unit, as contended)

Polar Air Sheet Metal Company 264 NLRB No. 172
(E's untimely withdrawal from multi-E bargaining and refusal to abide by multi-E agreement, unlawful, since there was no showing withdrawal was justified because of unusual circumstances arising from E's filing of bankruptcy ptn, where E's claimed inability to pay U wages and bid competitively on jobs did not justify E's withdrawal; E's continued operation following withdrawal negates finding that its very existence was then ending; E maintained its E-association membership for its benefits; and ptn did not retroactively extinguish E's obligation to execute and abide by agreement nor abrogate Bd's jurisdiction over ULPs)

J. D. Candler Roofing Company, Inc. 258 NLRB No. 053
(where no finding could be made that E was in dire economic circumstances which would constitute unusual circumstances and allow otherwise untimely withdrawal of E from results of association's bargaining but such circumstances might exist, remedy was fashioned which would allow for flexibility in compliance stage)

L.B. Priester & Son, Inc. 252 NLRB No. 034
(poor business year in which E's losses were approximately $45,000 does not justify untimely withdrawal)

Wm. Chalson & Co., Inc. 252 NLRB No. 006
(impasse not unusual circumstance justifying untimely withdrawal from multi-E bargaining association, especially where E's desire to withdraw from association is not motivated by an alleged impasse)

Wm. Chalson & Co., Inc. 252 NLRB No. 006
(E's withdrawal from multi-E bargaining unit during negotiations because of doubt as to U's majority support among its Ees, held untimely and unwarranted and E's subsequent refusal to execute or abide by association wide contract held unlawful; prior withdrawal and signing of separate contract with U by large E that belonged to other of 2 multi-E bargaining units bargaining with U not unusual circumstances justifying withdrawal of respondent as each association separate appropriate unit and contract negotiations continued after E signed individual contract; there integrity of bargaining unit not undermined by separate agreement)

J. F. Swick Insulation Co., Inc. 247 NLRB No. 086
(E-member's refusal to sign and abide by contract negotiated on its behalf by multi-E association, violative, since E-member's attempted withdrawal from association was not with consent of U and there were no special circumstances to justify its untimely attempt to withdraw from the association)

(unusual circumstances consist of either extreme financial pressures or where bargaining unit has been substantially fragmented)

(Bd has repeatedly and explicitly held that impasse is not an unusual circumstance justifying unilateral withdrawal)

(E's refusal to abide by contract negotiated by multi-E association unlawful where E had untimely attempted to withdraw during negotiations upon association's request for its resignation because E's Ee had filed decertification ptn; neither filing of decertificaiton ptn, which was found not to constitute unusual circumstance, nor E's and association's mutual mistake of law in believing that E should resign because of ptn was held to justify E's untimely withdrawal w/o U's consent)

Weatherford Motors, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 669 F.2d 1332 (C.A. 9, Feb. 1982)

(enforcement granted where issue herein, whether impasse existed when Es withdrew from multi-E unit, was rendered moot by SCt's Bonanno decision that impasse is not an unusual circumstance justifying withdrawal)

Western Pacific Roofing Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 669 F.2d 1332 (C.A. 9, Feb. 1982)

(E's withdrawal from multi-E unit on ground that, because of extreme financial distress, it did not want to be bound by proposed contract submitted to U membership for approval, unlawful; while financial distress may be unusual circumstance justifying withdrawal, E, whose financial difficulties began long before negotiations began, never demanded speical treatment, and nothing happened during negotiations to worsen its financial status; and E cannot withdraw at last minute claiming financial distress)

5770-3100 Unusual circumstances permitting untimely withdrawal

Beaumont Graphics, Ltd. 254 NLRB No. 044

(impasse is not, of itself, unusual circumstance warranting unilateral withdrawal from existing multiE bargaining relationship, but amounts to no more than temporary deadlock or hiatus which is usually resolved by actions of parties)

Wm. Chalson & Co., Inc. 252 NLRB No. 006

(impasse not unusual circumstance justifying untimely withdrawal from multi-E bargaining association, especially where E's desire to withdraw from association is not motivated by an alleged impasse)

Reliable Roofing Company, Inc. JD-237-81

(where E merely withdraws from multi-E bargaining, establishment of unusual circumstances would permit withdrawal w/o U consent; however, here, E sought to avoid its U obligation entirely, to cease recognizing U, and to continue in business as non-U E, which E could only do if it secured U's consent; question of whether Ees are to be represented by U is not a question which may be answered by E or determined by his wishes)

Reliable Roofing Company, Inc. JD-237-81

(E held not entitled to withdraw in untimely manner from multi-E bargaining where failure of U to protest withdrawal prior to its filing of charge did not constitute requisite overt act on part of U signifying clear intent to acquiesce in withdrawal; and E did not meet requisite unusual circumstances test since E did not sustain burden of establishing dire economic circumstances, attributable to compliance with U contract or which would have been alleviated by escape from contract, in which very existence of E as viable business entity had ceased or was about to do so)

Reynolds Aluminum Supply Company, A Division of Reynolds Metals Company JD-(SF)-34-81

(E's assertion that it must comply with guidelines of Council on Wage and Price Stability did not present unusual circumstance that justified E's attempted withdrawal from multi-E bargaining and refusal to honor collective bargaining agreement executed by E-association and U)

(E's withdrawal from multi-E unit upon signing of separate agreement with U by one member of unit, not unlawful, where signing of such agreement, constituting loss of 1 of 11 Es and 30 percent of unit Ees, sufficiently fragmented unit so as to amount to unusual circumstance justifying withdrawal)

N.L.R.B. v. Custom Sheet Metal & Service Co., Inc. 666 F.2d 454 (C.A. 10, Dec. 1981)

(unusual circumstances sufficient to justify E's withdrawal from multi-E association after bargaining has begun are: (1) extreme financial hardship threatening existence as viable business entity, (2) fragmentation of multi-E bargaining unit, and (3) bargaining impasse)

N.L.R.B. v. Custom Sheet Metal & Service Co., Inc. 666 F.2d 454 (C.A. 10, Dec. 1981)

(E's withdrawal from construction industry multi-E association after bargaining for new contract started justified by economic considerations where because of strike over progress in contract negotiations E was faced with imminent loss customer which purchased 75% of its production and having lost other customers its very existence as viable enterprise was threatened; furthermore, no showing of any anti-U sentiment)

5770-3700 Consent to untimely withdrawal

General Printing Company 263 NLRB No. 084

N.L.R.B. v. Charles D. Bonanno Linen Service, Inc. 630 F.2d 25 (C.A. 1, 1980)
(consent of U not found where: U did not explicitly object to E's announced withdrawal, continued to negotiate with E-association representatives and 3) did not formally protest attempted withdrawal until 2 weeks after unit-wide agreement reached, as U under no duty to protest in formal manner, consent involves affirmative action antithetical to claim of no withdrawal)

N.L.R.B. v. Joseph J. Callier, et al, d/b/a Callier's Custom Kitchens, a co-partnership 630 F.2d 595 (C.A. 8, 1980)
(E's withdrawal from multi-E association ineffective because company failed to provide U with unequivocal notice of its withdrawal; moreover fact that U had constructive notice of E's withdrawal 10 weeks prior to signing of final agreement and did not formally protest, is not consent; thus, E's refusal to honor agreement violative)

N.L.R.B. v. Carpenters' District Council of Greater St. Louis, AFL-CIO 622 F.2d 381 (C.A. 8, 1980)
(E's refusal to abide by contract negotiated by multi-E association unlawful where E had untimely attempted to withdraw during negotiations upon association's request for its resignation because E's Ee had filed decertification ptn; neither filing of decertificaiton ptn, which was found not to constitute unusual circumstance, nor E's and association's mutual mistake of law in believing that E should resign because of ptn was held to justify E's untimely withdrawal w/o U's consent)

J & D, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 633 F.2d 139 (C.A. 9, 1980)
(E's withdrawal from multi-E bargaining unit w/o consent of U after bargaining had begun not violative, where there was negotiating impasse at time of withdrawal)

Harding Glass Industries, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 672 F.2d 1330 (C.A. 10, Feb. 1982)
(while U's consent to E's withdrawal from multi-E unit may be inferred where U accepts benefits of withdrawal or proceeds to bargain individually w/o protest, ct held U did not consent as result of U negotiator's angry remarks during bargaining session that it might be possible to reach settlement if E was not part of negotiations; such remarks ought not to be treated as offer establishing binding contract if accepted before withdrawal; U negotiator subsequently indicated possibility that U would not consent; and when E actually attempted to withdraw, U expressed its unequivocal protest)

N.L.R.B. v. Hayden Electric, Inc. 693 F.2d 1358 (C.A. 11, Dec. 1982)
(U consented to or acquiesced in company's withdrawal from multi-E bargaining unit by engaging in direct negotiations on overtime pay, special service contract rate, wage package, and possible welfare fund contributions after receiving company's withdrawal notice)

N.L.R.B. v. Hayden Electric, Inc. 693 F.2d 1358 (C.A. 11, Dec. 1982)
(U engaged in individual bargaining with company which withdrew from multi-E unit by meeting with company to discuss proposals and by letters, i.e., offer of striking Ees to return to work, soliciting counter proposals while failing to indicate that company was bound to association agreement, and requesting further negotiations)

N.L.R.B. v. Hayden Electric, Inc. 693 F.2d 1358 (C.A. 11, Dec. 1982)
(where U expresses its willingness to meet and discuss terms peculiar to individual E's operation, and listen to counter proposals, Bd has found that such conduct evidences acquiescence in otherwise untimely withdrawal, even though U ultimately insisted that E could sign only association contract)

5770-3784 Mutual consent of Union and Employer Association

Beaumont Graphics, Ltd. 254 NLRB No. 044
(consent of both U and association must be present if withdrawal from multiE bargaining and ultimate refusal to be vound by agreement negotiated by U and association are not to be found unlawful)

Beaumont Graphics, Ltd. 254 NLRB No. 044
(refusal of E to give effect to, or enter into, contract negotiated on its behalf by multiE association, not unlawful where notwithstanding that E's withdrawal was untimely, association did not object to E's withdrawal and acquiesced thereto as demonstrated by its entire course of conduct; U never protested E's withdrawal nor insisted that E was bound by association contract and negotiated separately with E)

Techval Corp. 283 NLRB No. 022
(where E member of multi-E bargaining unit sent notification of its withdrawal from the association weeks after new contract negotiations began, and E's attempted withdrawal lacked mutual assent or other cognizable justification, E's later refusal to execute and implement subsequently negotiated multi-E agreement, held violative)

5770-5000 Interim agreements

Charles D. Bonanno Linen Service, Inc. v. N.L.R.B., et al. 454 US 404 (U.S. SCt. Jan. 1982)
(fact that interim agreements exert economic pressure on struck Es in multi-E bargaining unit should no more warrant withdrawal by Es from unit than refusal of one E to join with others in lockout; uneven application of economic pressure per se is not inconsistent with multi-E bargaining; and, in any event, interim agreements tend to deter rather than promote unit fragmentation since they preserve a continuing mutual interest by all E members in final association-wide contract)

Charles D. Bonanno Linen Service, Inc. v. N.L.R.B., et al. 454 US 404 (U.S. SCt. Jan. 1982)
(Bd properly rejected proposition that negotiation, on impasse, of truly interim, temporary agreements, as distinguished from separate, final contracts, is inconsistent with concept of multi-E bargaining; in balancing conflicting legitimate interests rather than economic weapons and bargaining strength, Bd properly concluded that unit stability, recognized as major consideration by SCt and Bd, adequately justifies enforcement of obligation to bargain despite execution of temporary agreement)

Charles D. Bonanno Linen Service, Inc. v. N.L.R.B., et al. 454 US 404 (U.S. SCt. Jan. 1982)
(although no interim or separate agreements were executed in instant case involving E's withdrawal from multi-E bargaining unit on impasse, ct majority held that, while some circuit cts question legitimacy of enforcement of duty to bargain where impasse has occurred and interim agreements have been or may be executed, impasse did not initiate any right to execute an agreement unconsistent with duty to abide by results of group bargaining)

Fox Painting Company 263 NLRB No. 071
(where E executed and implemented multi E contract, served on negotiating committee which negotiated addendum to contract and implemented addendum though E did not execute addendum, he is bound by contract and addendum and liable for all payments to funds set forth in agreements save industry advancement fund and for any loss of dues not collected under checkoff provision of agreement)

Seattle Auto Glass v. N.L.R.B. 669 F.2d 1332 (C.A. 9, Feb. 1982)
(where E association and U executed master agreement but reached impasse over separate agreement covering certain job classification, whereupon U struck and then entered into interim agreements with some E members, E's withdrawal from multi-E unit upon signing of such agreements, unlawful; under SCt's Bonanno decision neither impasse nor signing of interim agreements that do not survive final master agreement, as opposed to separate agreements that do survive unit negotiations, is an unusual circumstances justifying withdrawal; and here only interim agreements were signed)

N.L.R.B. v. Inland Cities, Inc. 618 F.2d 117(T) (C.A. 9, 1980)
(E who signed interim agreement which bound him to outcome of negotiations by E-association violated Act when it refused to comply with contract; repudiation is not excused because E was motivated by economic necessity)

Harding Glass Industries, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 672 F.2d 1330 (C.A. 10, Feb. 1982)
(issue as to whether E's withdrawal from multi-E unit was permissible in light of separate agreement with U by another member of multi-E group w/o any protest by other members held not properly before ct where record was devoid of any information regarding what impact agreement had on other Es when separately contracting E continued working during strike; and, since distinction between permanent and interim agreements was not explored, ct could not make factual determination regarding matter for first time on record before it)

5770-7500 Dissatisfaction with contract terms

N.L.R.B. v. Hayden Electric, Inc. 693 F.2d 1358 (C.A. 11, Dec. 1982)
(company revoked association's bargaining authority and notified U by timely letter to U and association of its intent to exercise our option to cancel contract with U, notwithstanding company admitted that letter was insurance to preserve its right to bargain individually in event of strike or it did not like contract)

5770-8700 Adoption of parts of contract

Huettig and Schromm, Inc. JD-(SF)-139-82
(E was bound by multiE association's (Council) agreement with U by its actions after contract was signed; paid increased contractual fringe benefits, E's secretary told U agent that E said it was bound by Council's agreement and so was unnecessary to sign another independent short-form agreement, attended meetings and paid membership fee to Council)

McMillian Cartage, Inc. JD-(ATL)-48-81
(E adopted association contract by paying wage, cost of living and annual increases; and by attempting to negotiate changes in contract)

5770-8700—Cont.

Local #197, Electrical Workers, AFL-CIO (McLean County Electrical Contractors Association, Inc.) JD-(SF)-369-80

(U's insistence that certain members of predecessor multi-E association who did not consent to substitution of new multi-E association as bargaining representative must bargain only as part of new multi-E association, violative, as U had notice that these members had opposed such substitution; therefore, no consensual tripartite relationship between U, association and individual members of association exicted; furthermore, continued observance of contract negotiated by new association w/o more, did not render these nonconsenting Es part of multi-E bargaining unit)

5784 WITHDRAWAL OF UNION FROM MULTIEMPLOYER BARGAINING

5784-6700 Untimely where negotiations begun

H & D, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 670 F.2d 120 (C.A. 9, Feb. 1982)

(ct upheld Bd's finding violation in E's unilateral withdrawal from and refusal to bargain as part of multi-E group where bargaining to impasse and mass resignation of E's Ees from U were not unusual circumstances justifying withdrawal from multi-E bargaining unit; test is not whether majority of Ees of one E resign from U but whether majority of all Ees represented in contract negotiations resign)

5791 INDIVIDUAL BARGAINING WITH UNION DURING MULTIEMPLOYER NEGOTIATIONS

Wm. Chalson & Co., Inc. 252 NLRB No. 006

(E's withdrawal from multi-E bargaining unit during negotiations because of doubt as to U's majority support among its Ees, hled untimely and unwarranted and E's subsequent refusal to execute or abide by association wide contract held unlawful; prior withdrawal and signing of separate contract with U by large E that belonged to other of 2 multi-E bargaining units bargaining with U not unusual circumstances justifying withdrawal of respondent as each association separate appropriate unit and contract negotiations continued after E signed individual contract; there integrity of bargaining unit not undermined by separate agreement)

5800 MULTIUNION BARGAINING

5850 ASSENT OF EMPLOYER

Campbell-Harris Electric, Inc. and Campbell Electric, Inc. 263 NLRB No. 167

(violation where partnership and subsequent sole proprietorship, found alter ego, failed to abide by terms of contract entered into between multi-E bargaining association and U at time when partnership assented to association as bargaining representative)

5892 COORDINATION OF BARGAINING DEMANDS

The Procter & Gamble Manufacturing Co., et al. v. N.L.R.B. 658 F.2d 968 (C.A. 4, Sept. 1981)

(Bd properly found that coordinated bargaining by negotiating committees of Us representing Ees at E's different plants presented no clear and present danger to bargaining process where Us did not engage in multiplant bargaining w/o E's consent, and each round of bargaining and resulting agreements were confined to single plant)

6000 NATURE AND EXTENT OF OBLIGATION AND DUTY TO BARGAIN

6001 GENERALLY

Bob's Big Boy Family Restaurants, A Division of Marriott Corporation 264 NLRB No. 063

(collateral litigation does not suspend duty to bargain under Sec. 8(a)(5))

N.L.R.B. v. United Optical Workers Union Local 408, Electrical Workers (Marine Optical, Inc.) 671 F.2d 11 (C.A. 1, Feb. 1982)

(E's withdrawal of recognition, refusal to bargain on demand, and unilateral changes after relocating operations violated 8(a)(5) and 8(d); contract's description of unit as consisting of Ees employed at address of E's old facility was not shown to be intended as geographical limitation, as contended, and continuity was sufficient for Bd to apply modified contract-bar doctrine and find contract effective at new facility where there was substantial continuity of operations and in bargaining unit after relocation, and new facility was near old facility and in same state)

6001-2900 Effect of 8(f) prehire agreement

Construction Erectors, Inc. 265 NLRB No. 098

(on remand from U.S. Court of Appeals, Bd found E's repudiation of collective bargaining agreement before its termination date, unlawful, since workforce in bargaining unit had become permanent and stable and U obtained majority support w/i unit of Ironworkers during period w/i effective term of applicable contract; E moved its Ees from job to job and did not regularly assign Ees to single jobs and then to no subsequent jobs; 10 of 15 Ees in core group were U members and worked 75% of total days on which Ironworkers were employed)

Remodeling By Oltmanns, Inc. 263 NLRB No. 160

(contractor's withdrawal of recognition from U after expiration of agreement with U to continue to maintain existing working conditions established by most recent contract between U and contractor's association of which it was not member, unlawful, notwithstanding no specific mention of recognition in agreement, where U had obtained majority in unit after having been recognized under Section 8(f) agreement, contractor never disavowed bargaining relationship, and continued to adhere to contractual terms)

Pacific Erectors, Inc. 256 NLRB No. 066

(violation, where contractor discharged Ironworker Ees, and rather than resolve dispute signed contract with Sheet Metal Workers over protest of Ironworkers, since E had short form contract with Iron Workers who had majority on job, notwithstanding Ironworker Ees walked off job, or that short form contract stated dispute provisions of master agreement were not binding; E's action could not be justified by existence of any jurisdictional dispute nor could Sheet Metal Workers contract be considered pre-hire contract under construction industry proviso for job herein where job between 34 to 40 percent complete when signed)

Carlson Roofing Co., Inc. 255 NLRB No. 007

(where E is member of E association which had collective bargaining agreement with U, E not bound by contract as E never signed written consent required by E-association bylaws to bind E to that contract, never paid Ees contract wages, or checked off dues on their behalf, notwithstanding E did recruit 2 Ees to join U and paid their initiation fee, 3 months dues, and made health, welfare and pension fund contributions for them; furthermore, manner in which memberships were obtained precludes reliance upon them as evidence of U's majority)

Hageman Underground Construction; etc. 253 NLRB No. 007

(non-U company found herein single E with company that executed 8(f) agreement held bound by agreement at all existing and future jobsites, where U at one time represented majority of Ees who constituted a permanent and stable group of backhoe operators and E did not generally hire on project-by-project basis; this established irrebutable presumption of majority status during length of contract and whether U enjoyed such status at time E repudiated contract irrelevant)

N.L.R.B. v. Haberman Construction Company 641 F.2d 351 (C.A. 5, Apr. 1981)

(while it is an ULP for E under 8(a)(1) and 8(a)(2) and for U under 8(b)(1)(A) to enter into bargaining agreement with minority U, Sec. 8(f) specifically provides that it shall not be an ULP for E to make an agreement with U covering Ees engaged in building and construction industry prior to establishment of U's majority status, and Sec. 8(f) contract is voidable until such time as U achieves majority support in appropriate unit)

6001-5000 Scope of section 8(d)

Marine Optical, Inc. 255 NLRB No. 158

(E's refusal to apply existing agreement with U to new location and to bargain with U, and unilateral changes in working conditions and wages violated Sec. 8(d), as well as Sec. 8(a)(5))

6001-5017 Obligation to meet with object of reaching understanding on wages, hours, and other terms and conditons of employment

Anaconda Ericsson Inc. JD-726-80

(E's failure to notify or consult with U concerning layoffs of some unit Ees due to its unintentional neglect, held violative notwithstanding E did consult with U as to subsequent layoffs of unit Ees)

N.L.R.B. v. Carbonex Coal Company 679 F.2d 200 (C.A. 10, May 1982)

(the duty to bargain, at least in the sense of a prohibition on unilateral changes attaches as of the election date)

6001-5017-5000 Obligation during contract hiatus

Martinsburg Concrete Products Co. 248 NLRB No. 172

(refusal to meet with U after expiration of U's bargaining agreement concerning grievance filed on behalf of unit Ee, violative, since E's continuing past contract obligation includes duty to meet with bargaining representative and discuss unit Ees' grievances)

6001-5017-7500 Effect of agreement to arbitrate

Sweet-Orr & Company, Inc. JD-(ATL)-1-82

(after agreeing to arbitrate grievance, E's reneging on agreement by instituting delays which culminated in flat refusal to arbitrate, violative)

Newspaper Guild, Local 10 v. N.L.R.B. 636 F.2d 550 (C.A.D.C. 1980)

N.L.R.B. v. Southern California Edison Company 646 F.2d 1352 (C.A. 9, Jun 1981)
(sympathy strike cannot be enjoined pending arbitration of scope of no-strike clause, since agreement to arbitrate disputes does not necessarily imply promise to refrain from sympathy strikes pending arbitration)

6001-5025 Continuation of existing terms and conditions pending bargaining

Southwest Security Equipment Corporation 263 NLRB No. 079

Aeronca, Inc. 253 NLRB No. 026
(Christmas bonus paid Ees over number of years was considered component of wages or terms of employment, even though not expressly provided for by contract, which cannot be discontinued by E before U has been given notice and opportunity to bargain)

Inta-Roto, Inc. 252 NLRB No. 111
(E's insistence on bargaining over items which were non-negotiable as result of limitation in contract reopener clause to negotiations solely concerning wages, violative)

Vienna Sausage Manufacturing Company 252 NLRB No. 183
(where contract contains reopener provision and also automatic renewal clause effective unless contractually terminated or parties agree to modifications during period of reopening, contract remains in effect after expiration date)

Island Typographers, Inc. 252 NLRB No. 003
(E bound by unsigned collective bargaining agreement where it complied with all its terms for 1st year of contract term and gave U no reason to believe it repudiated contract terms already agreed upon)

Newspaper Printing Corporation 250 NLRB No. 132
(unilateral removal of advertisement typesetting work from composing room to job shop, violative, since this work was customarily performed by composing room Ees)

6001-5033 Act does not compel agreement

Struthers Wells Corporation 262 NLRB No. 136
(while E bargained in good faith on some topics, its overall course of conduct in negotiations constituted unlawful refusal to bargain; finding that E unlawfully refused to bargain by insisting on deletion of certain provisions does not in any way derogate from statutory scheme prohibiting compulsion by Bd or cts over actual terms of bargaining agreement; while E is not required to agree to re-establishment of precise clauses of prior contract, E is required to bargain with U in manner consistent with Sec. 8(d) requirements)

6001-5033-5000 Failure to agree to terms deemed reasonable by Board not proper basis for 8(a)(5) violation

AMPAC, a subsidiary of Kane-Miller Corp. 259 NLRB No. 151
(no failure to recognize and bargain with U where E and U conducted negotiations for new agreement in over 13 negotiating sessions w/i one year; minutes of sessions showed both parties were flexing their economic muscles and none of E's bargaining positions or tactics were unlawful, since they were neither improperly motivated nor unyielding)

Westvaco Corporation, d/b/a Westvaco Gauley Woodyard v. N.L.R.B. 639 F.2d 185 (C.A. 4, 1981)
(no violation, where E took firm stand on several issues as legitimate reasons existed for position of E and good faith negotiation does not compel party to agree to proposal or make concession)

Pittsburgh-Des Moines Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 663 F.2d 956 (C.A. 9, Dec. 1981)
(ct rejected proposition implicit in Bd's conclusion that in face of U's unequivocal rejection of E's offer, E was somehow committed to all portions of the proposal as to which tentative agreement had been reached; that U could hold E to what U liked while rejecting that which it disapproved. Party may retract proposal before other side has accepted it)

6001-5050 Act does not regulate substantial terms of employment

Delmar Concentrator Company, Inc. 253 NLRB No. 040
(E's proposal of open shop not violative where terms of prior settlement agreement did not oblige E to agree to U shop and Act imposes no obligation upon E to agree to any specific term of employment)

East Bay Chevrolet dba Time Chevrolet v. N.L.R.B. 659 F.2d 1006 (C.A. 9, Oct. 1981)
(enforcement denied and case remanded to Bd where R/O improperly prescribed substantive provision for future agreement between E and U; namely, effective date of agreement be made retroactive to effective date of agreement between E and 3 Us representing other units of E, notwithstanding in previous successful negotiations, all 4 Us had conducted joint bargaining with E association of which E had properly withdrawn from)

6001-5083 Duty to bargain as to matters not covered by agreement

Dunham-Bush, Inc. 264 NLRB No. 175
(if parties have collective-bargaining agreement which is silent as to certain terms and conditions of employment, but requires renewed bargaining to impasse over those particular terms, absent clear and unmistakeable waiver of bargaining)

GTE Automatic Electric Inc. 261 NLRB No. 196
(E not obligated to bargain in midterm regarding implementation of new savings and investment plan granted to nonunit Ees since E may rely on waiver in contractual zipper clause which clearly and unequivocally covered U's request to bargain concerning implementation of new benefit, notwithstanding clause included w/o discussion, where E merely seeking to maintain status quo and has not made unilateral changes that directly or adversely affected unit Ees with accompaning effect of undermining and derogating U)

Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Company 261 NLRB No. 002
(parties should bargain in good faith regarding conditions under which needed information (names of substances E claims to constitute trade secrets,) may be furnished to U with appropriate safeguards protective of E's legitimate proprietary interests yet maintained)

Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Company 261 NLRB No. 002
(Bd will not engage in full balancing of countervaling rights discussed by SCt in Detroit Edison Company v. N.L.R.B., 440 U.S. 301 (1979) concerning requested relevant information as to substances that may constitute trade secrets, before first affording E and U opportunity to reach accomodation on their own through traditional collective bargaining mechanism)

Aeronca, Inc. 253 NLRB No. 026
(Christmas bonus paid Ees over number of years was considered component of wages or terms of employment, even though not expressly provided for by contract, which cannot be discontinued by E before U has been given notice and opportunity to bargain)

Appalachian Power Company John E. Amos Plant 250 NLRB No. 038
(E's stating it would not place in signed agreement certain existing terms and conditions of employment which it intended to continue and which U agreed should be continued, not violative since all minor terms and conditions of employment not required to be included in bargaining agreements)

(compelling Ee to attend investigatory interview, which Ee reasonably believed might result in disciplinary action, when his request for U R has been denied, held violative)

6033 MECHANICS OF BARGAINING

6033-1400 Time and place of meeting

6033-1450 Employer not required to pay employees for attendance at sessions during worktime

The Procter & Gamble Manufacturing Co., et al. v. N.L.R.B. 658 F.2d 968 (C.A. 4, Sept. 1981)
(E's discontinuance of negotiations on plant premises and of pay for lost work time to Ees serving on multiplant negotiating committee, unlawful, where E instituted changes as retaliation over U's inclusion of other plants in negotiating committee, and E's claimed security policy for excluding outside negotiators was mere pretext; U filed charges concerning changes; and where E had right to exclude non-Ees from plant, he cannot discontinue longstanding practices so as to interfere with Ees' statutory rights)

6033-1458 Employer representative must be available with reasonable frequency

Eastern Maine Medical Center 253 NLRB No. 024
(E held to have engaged in deliberate effort to stretch out negotiations with U so as to delay effective start of negotiations and to infect entire bargaining process, where E's chief negotiator refused to consent to U's request to meet frequently because of his busy schedule, took position that he could not meet for longer hours or have more meetings unless he determined that satisfactory progress was being made, and unilaterally concelled specifically dated meeting on short order)

6033-1475 Situs of bargaining sessions

E. I. Dupont De Nemours & Co. JD-(ATL)-100-81
(violation by E in insisting that negotiations be carried on inside plant (preferred place under Bd cases) where, in instant case, E's own bad faith by attempting to exert retribution from U for insisting on its (U) statutory rights percipitated U's desire to move negotiations away from plant so as to remove itself from locus of managerial authority and thereby maintain appearance, if not reality, of parity between both sides)

The Procter & Gamble Manufacturing Co., et al. v. N.L.R.B. 658 F.2d 968 (C.A. 4, Sept. 1981)
(E's discontinuance of negotietions on plant premises and of pay for lost work time to Ees serving on multiplant negotiating committee, unlawful, where E instituted changes as retaliation over U's inclusion of other plants in negotiating committee, and E's claimed security policy for excluding outside negotiators was mere pretext; U filed charges concerning changes; and where E had right to exclude non-Ees from plant, he cannot discontinue longstanding practices so as to interfere with Ees' statutory rights)

6033-2800 Authority of representative

Shawn's Launch Service, Inc. 261 NLRB No. 124
(when agent is appointed to negotiate bargaining agreement that agent is deemed to have apparent authority in absence of clear notice to contrary)

Shawn's Launch Service, Inc. 261 NLRB No. 124
(E's contention no agreement reached because of lack of approval by its managing partners rejected where managing partners have attended negotiating sessions)

Progressive Medical Group, Inc., t/a Walnut Hill Convalescent Center 260 NLRB No. 039
(agent appointed to negotiate bargaining agreement is deemed to have apparent authority to bind his principal in absence of clear notice to the contrary; in instant case, there was clear notice that E's agents had no independent authority to bind E and there was no clear notice that E's board of directors reserved right to act upon agreement only after it had been accepted by bargaining unit Ees)

Progressive Medical Group, Inc., t/a Walnut Hill Convalescent Center 260 NLRB No. 039
(Sec. 8(a)(5) does not demand that an E be represented at bargaining table by a negotiator with independent authority to bind the principal; however, lack of such authority is a factor to be considered in evaluating E's good faith)

Parkview Nursing Center II Corp. 260 NLRB No. 037
(although E is not required to be represented by individual possessing final authority to enter into agreement, this is subject to limitation that it does not act to inhibit progress of negotiations, and degree of authority possessed by negotiator is factor which may be considered in determining good-faith bargaining)

Parkview Nursing Center II Corp. 260 NLRB No. 037
(in context of totality of E's conduct, E's bad-faith bargaining was indicated by fact that E failed to vest its chief negotiator with sufficient authority to conduct negotiations but allowed him to agree to numerous contract proposals over prolonged period of time and then engaged in hiring and firing of representatives at bargaining table as result of which chief negotiator questioned his own authority to negotiate; such changing and confusing circumstances could only serve to disrupt and impede the bargaining process)

6033-2850 Must have sufficient authority and knowledge to negotiate effectively

Bedford Farmers Cooperative 259 NLRB No. 165
(E sending to bargaining table standing committee which had no authority either to enter into contract or advance any binding proposals held violative, since proposals were little more than trial balloons which (E's Bd of Directors) could seemingly shoot down or reject at will; E used bargaining committee to frustrate U's efforts to obtain contract)

Marriott In-Flite Service, A Division of Marriott Corporation 258 NLRB No. 099
(E's negotiators did not lack authority to engage in meaningful bargaining, notwithstanding fact they opposed implementing increase in wages proposed by E as bargaining tactic, left bargaining session to consult with supervisors, and contention that lack of communication between negotiators and principals prevented U from quickly ascertaining E's actual positions and demonstrated E's intent not to reach agreement and delay negotiations)

Rockingham Machine-Lunar Company 255 NLRB No. 015
(refusal to bargain in good faith not evinced by E's failure to vest its negotiator with sufficient authority to conduct negotiations inasmuch as U was aware of E's negotiator's tentative authority and negotiated on that basis)

Maywood Do-Nut Co., Inc. 248 NLRB No. 080
(violation where all E's representatives made clear to U that they did not have authority to consummate agreement w/o approval of E's president, and E's president did not agree to terms and conditions which had been ostensibly negotiated by E's negotiator with U)

6033-4200 Composition of bargaining committee

The Procter & Gamble Manufacturing Co., et al. v. N.L.R.B. 658 F.2d 968 (C.A. 4, Sept. 1981)
(Bd properly found that coordinated bargaining by negotiating committees of Us representing Ees at E's different plants presented no clear and present danger to bargaining process where Us did not engage in multiplant bargaining w/o E's consent, and each round of bargaining and resulting agreements were confined to single plant)

6033-4220 Employees may designate composition of bargaining representative

E. I. Dupont De Nemours & Co. JD-(ATL)-100-81
(refusing to negotiate with U over selection of Ees to serve on safety committees, violative)

6033-4240 Employer may not refuse to meet with designated representative absent special circumstances

M K Laboratories, Inc. 261 NLRB No. 031
(where E had discharged chief steward and steward had grieved the discharge, E's refusal to recognize grievant as chief steward at the grievance hearing constituted unlawful refusal to bargain with Ees' representative, since discharge was found unlawful, and discharged grievant therefore retained status as Ee and thus as steward)

Merillat Industries, Inc. 252 NLRB No. 114
(E's refusal to allow U president to attend grievance meeting to act as advisor, not unlawful where contract was silent as to any right of U president to attend such meetings and absence of such practice in past represents closest approximation of evidence of how E and U would have decided issue in contract negotiations)

Fitzsimons Manufacturing Company, West Branch Tube Division 251 NLRB No. 053
(E's refusal to meet and bargain with designated representative for purpose of resolving grievances, not unlawful, where representative physically assaulted E's personnel director during earlier bargaining session in presence of Ee bargaining committee and management officials, and thus justified such refusal since presence of (this) particular individual would create ill will and make good-faith bargaining impossible; furthermore, E had met and bargained with other U representatives in interim)

B. & S. Sandock, Inc. JD-317-82
(declining to meet with negotiating committee selected by U because number or identity of members of that committee did not conform with provision of bargaining contract which had expired, violative)

The Procter & Gamble Manufacturing Co., et al. v. N.L.R.B. 658 F.2d 968 (C.A. 4, Sept. 1981)
(E may refuse to negotiate with U committee if he can show that U's selected representatives present clear and present danger to bargaining process because of exceptional circumstances such as bad faith or ulterior motive underlying U's choice of its committee members; however, mere inclusion of persons outside negotiating unit does not constitute exceptional circumstances; and U's use of outsiders is also insufficient unless E can demonstrate U actually attempted to bargain outside unit bounderies)

International Union, United Automobile Aerospace and Agricultural Implement Workers of America (UAW) v. N.L.R.B. 670 F.2d 663 (C.A. 6, Feb. 1982)
(ct affirmed Bd finding that E was relieved of its duty to bargain with U's lead negotiator because of his unprovoked assault on high company official during negotiating meeting and in presence of Ee bargaining committee whose members looked to negotiator for leadership; such conduct rendered good faith bargaining impossible)

6033-4280 Presence of persons other than conferees at bargaining session

6033-4280-1300 Stenographers or court reporters

Latrobe Steel Company v. N.L.R.B. 630 F.2d 171 (C.A. 3, 1980)
(it would be contrary to policy of Act, which mandates negotiation over substantive provisions of E-Ee relationship, to permit negotiations to break down over presence of ct reporter at negotiating session, since issue did not involve wages, hours and other terms and conditions of employment; issue was one of preliminary procedure)

N.L.R.B. v. Bartlett-Collins Company 639 F.2d 652 (C.A. 10, 1981)
(Bd's decision that presence of court reporter during collective bargaining is nonmandatory subject of bargaining was not w/o reasonable basis in law; presence of court reporter is not so inextricably interwoven with substance of contract that it constitutes term or condition of employment)

6033-4280-2500 International representatives

AMPAC, a subsidiary of Kane-Miller Corp. 259 NLRB No. 151
(E's entering into agreement with international U rather than local U, with which E had prior contract, not violative where local U acquiesced in international's participation in contract negotiations and ratified fruits of that participation)

6033-4280-7500 Representatives of other unions

The Procter & Gamble Manufacturing Co., et al. v. N.L.R.B. 658 F.2d 968 (C.A. 4, Sept. 1981)
(E's denial of uncompensated leave and/or vacation time sought by Ees in order to serve as members on other Us' negotiating committees at E's other plants, unlawful, where E did so as retaliation over U's inclusion of outsiders in bargaining committees at its plants)

6033-5000 Counterproposals

6033-5050 Obligation to make after proposals

Hudson Chemical Company 258 NLRB No. 009
(E's failure, during contract negotiations, to define, explain and advocate its position and, instead, its attempt to thrust its deletions from prior contracts on U on take it-or leave it basis constitute additional indicia of E's lack of sincere attempt to conduct meaningful negotiations)

Maywood Do-Nut Co., Inc. 248 NLRB No. 080
(refusing to present counter proposals and utilizing negotiators who had no authority to make any concessions and indeed made none, violative)

6033-6000 Withdrawal of agreed-upon contract proposals

Georgia Kraft Company, Woodcraft Division 258 NLRB No. 121
(complete package proposal made on behalf of either party through negotiations remains viable, and upon acceptance in toto must be executed as part of statutory duty to bargain in good faith, unless expressly withdrawn prior to such acceptance or defeased by event upon which offer was expressly made contingent at time prior to acceptance)

Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company of Mason City, Iowa 251 NLRB No. 028
(since Bd not strictly bound by technical rules of contract law, fact that U rejected E's contract offer and even made counterproposals did not nullify offer; complete package proposal made on behalf of either party through negotiations remains viable, and upon accpetance in toto must be executed as part of statutory duty to bargain in good faith, unless expressly withdrawn prior to such acceptance, or defeated by an event upon which offer was expressly made contingent at time prior to acceptance)

Times-Herald, Inc. 249 NLRB No. 004
(E's withdrawal of proposals, not unlawful, where U engaged in economic strike causing E to hire permanent replacements and no evidence to show action taken to prevent agreement)

N.L.R.B. v. Midvalley Steel Fabricators, Inc. 621 F.2d 49 (C.A. 2, 1980)
(E's change in position regarding wages, pensions and termination date of already agreed upon in contract, unlawful)

Pittsburgh-Des Moines Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 663 F.2d 956 (C.A. 9, Dec. 1981)
(ct rejected proposition implicit in Bd's conclusion that in face of U's unequivocal rejection of E's offer, E was somehow committed to all portions of the proposal as to which tentative agreement had been reached; that U could hold E to what U liked while rejecting that which it disapproved. Party may retract proposal before other side has accepted it)

6033-7000 Impasse

Cote Bros. Bakery, Inc. 259 NLRB No. 101
(insisting to impasse that U agree that there would be no U retribution from its members against members who had crossed picket line, violative, since insistance on such clause relates to nonmandatory subject of bargaining)

6033-7001 Generally

Charles D. Bonanno Linen Service, Inc. v. N.L.R.B., et al. 454 US 404 (U.S. SCt. Jan. 1982)
(ct majority held Bd properly found bargaining impasse did not justify E's unilateral withdrawal from multi-E bargaining unit, and its withdrawal was unlawful as was its refusal to execute agreement later executed by U and E association; impasse is not sufficiently destructive of group bargaining and is not an unusual circumstance justifying withdrawal; it is only a temporary deadlock or hiatus in negotiations rather than a rupture of the bargaining relation; permitting withdrawal at impasse would undermine utility of multi-E bargaining; and Bd's resolution is neither arbitrary nor contrary to law)

Charles D. Bonanno Linen Service, Inc. v. N.L.R.B., et al. 454 US 404 (U.S. SCt. Jan. 1982)
(although no interim or separate agreements were executed in instant case involving E's withdrawal from multi-E bargaining unit on impasse, ct majority held that, while some circuit cts question legitimacy of enforcement of duty to bargain where impasse has occurred and interim agreements have been or may be executed. impasse did not initiate any right to execute an agreement unconsistent with duty to abide by results of group bargaining)

Latrobe Steel Company v. N.L.R.B. 630 F.2d 171 (C.A. 3, 1980)
(no Borg Warner ULP (see N.L.R.B. v. Wooster Div. of Borg Warner Corp., 356 U.S. at 349) notwithstanding continued disagreement over nonmandatory subject since impasse over mandatory subject would have occurred even absent insistence on nonmandatory proposals)

Associated General Contractors of North Dakota (a non-profit corporation) v. N.L.R.B. 637 F.2d 556 (C.A. 8, 1980)
(multi-E association's bargaining to impasse over no-conflicting agreements clause, violative, where such clause is not mandatory subject of bargaining since it does not sufficiently affect wages, hours and other terms and conditions of employment between E and Ees in bargaining unit)

Newspaper Printing Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 625 F.2d 956 (C.A. 10, 1980)
(E's insistence to impasse on jurisdictional unit clause which modified unit description so as to give E unilateral control over unit scope unlawful in view of unlawfulness of both insistence on modification of unit scope and insistance to impasse on non-mandatory subject of bargaining; moreover, clause allowing E to change unit composition at will by unilaterally transferring work out of unit would deprive unit Ees of collective representation and bargaining over reduction or elimination of their jobs by work transfers or automation)

6033-7001-5000 No obligation to continue negotiations after impasse

Forester Beverage Corporation 265 NLRB No. 035
(unilateral increase in wages after impasse equal to E's final offer not violative, but increase in wages after impasse greater than that which was offered to U in its final offer, violative for such action is necessarily inconsistent with sincere desire to conclude agreement with U)

Signatory Labor Committee of The Colorado Contractors' Association, Inc. 261 NLRB No. 191
(respondent Es and their signatory labor committee failed and refused to bargain in good faith with U by conditioning further negotiations on U's consent to untimely withdrawal of certain Es from multi-E bargaining unit and thereafter disbanding multi-E unit, where contrary to contention, no genuine impasse existed because committee's demand for release of Es from unit was not mandatory subject of bargaining)

International Medication Systems, Ltd. 253 NLRB No. 120
(although impasse may suspend bargaining for time, it does not relieve an E from the continuous duty to take no action—which amounts to a withdrawal of recognition of the U's representative status)

Patrick & Company 248 NLRB No. 061
(E's refusal to discuss U's proposals other than economic and conditioning negotiation of agreement on U's acceptance of E's wage proposals, unlawful; contention impasse reached regarding wages, rejected; further, impasse regarding wages would not justify refusal to bargain regarding remainder of U's proposals)

Service Spring Company A Division of Garlock, Inc. A Wholly-Owned Subsidiary of Colt Industries JD-123-82
(no violation by refusing U's request to resume negotiations after impasse in absence of changed circumstances which would indicate that agreement might be possible)

Accessory Controls and Equipment Corporation JD-590-81

Newspaper Printing Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 692 F.2d 615 (C.A. 6, Nov. 1982)
(ct held that words all composing room work used in prior agreement and words all work performed in the composing room contained in impasse proposal described same tasks; thus negotiations had centered on U's jurisdiction not question of appropriate unit and impasse was not reached over permissive subject of bargaining but rather over work assignment clause which was also negotiated and was mandatory subject of bargain and E was w/i its rights to bargain to impasse and to proceed unilaterally to implement changes in terms and conditions of employment)

Saunders House a/k/a The Old Man's Home of Philadelphia 265 NLRB No. 207

Signatory Labor Committee of The Colorado Contractors' Association, Inc. 261 NLRB No. 191
(no impasse where Es' bargaining committee insisted upon U release of certain Es from multi-E unit)

Harry Sonn, Jr. and Winton R. Wagner, Partners d/b/a Briarcliff Pavilion For Specialized Care 260 NLRB No. 184
(no violation by increasing wages pursuant to last offer in view of impasse resulting from U's bad faith in failing to provide another negotiator to meet with E after U president engaged in physical altercation with E's negotiators and negotiations had to be carried out with mediator and with parties in separate rooms; U claimed that mediator did not relay E's message that E needed to hire strike replacements and then wages would be increased)

Harry Senn, Jr. and Winston R. Wagner, Partners d/b/a Briarcliff Pavilion For Specialized Care 260 NLRB No. 184
(E's proposals for contract limited to 4-1/2 months' duration (closely linked to end of certification year), dues and fees limited to ten dollars and two hours pay caused impasse and were violative)

Marco, Inc. d/b/a Towne Plaza Hotel 258 NLRB No. 016
(no impasse where E never fully tested finality of U's bargaining position and E was in poor position to argue that further negotiations would have been futile)

South Shore Hospital 256 NLRB No. 001
(unilaterally implementing its last offer for increase in wages and benefits, violative, as no impasse could exist because of E engaging in surface bargaining with intent of preventing agreement)

Inta-Roto, Inc. 252 NLRB No. 111
(no impasse where neither party has exhausted bargaining possibilities nor reached stage where further meetings would have been fruitless)

Atlas Metal Parts Co., Inc. 252 NLRB No. 029
(no impasse justifying E's unilateral actions where bargaining stalemated by E's violative course of bargaining)

Wm. Chalson & Co., Inc. 252 NLRB No. 006
(no impasse existed, contrary to respondent's contention, notwithstanding facts that contract had expired, lockout had occurred, parties were far apart on many major issues and no new meeting date was set up at close of bargaining session, where bargaining had been conducted continuously, multi-E bargaining associations had not as yet considered significance and effect of Ees' unanimous rejection of their last offer, and associations knew that offer they made on date respondent contended impasse had occurred was not their final offer and would make further offers until U changed its position)

Excavation-Construction, Inc. 248 NLRB No. 081

Temp Tech Industries, Inc. JD-255-82
(no impasse, where antecedent bargaining had not been in good faith; moreover, U made clear to very last meeting that it was still prepared to alter bargaining position and E made no effort to fully test finality of U's position)

Bureau of Rehabilitation of The National Capital Area JD-262-82
(no genuine impasse where E failed to bargain in good faith)

Service Spring Company A Division of Garlock, Inc. A Wholly-Owned Subsidiary of Colt Industries JD-123-82
(impasse reached in view of E's prolonged meaning but good faith bargaining where U did not drop U shop proposal, adhered to broad grievance and arbitration procedure, refused to discuss economics and through Federal Mediator submitted its final position which E rejected in good faith, target date for end of negotiations was reached and no more meetings were scheduled)

Accessory Controls and Equipment Corporation JD-590-81
(impasse may exist as to some items of bargaining notwithstanding one party is guilty of bad faith bargaining on another item)

National Steel Service Center, Inc. JD-395-80
(E's insisting on charge in scope of unit as condition of signing new bargaining agreement and U unequivocally rejecting proposal and maintaining that position, notwithstanding side bar conversations at which U representative stated he was not personally opposed to unit charge)

H. H Fredericksen Co. JD-(SF)-64-80
(existence of bargaining impasse was evidenced, among other considerations, by fact that E's conduct, considerd in totality, was not in bad faith; limited number of bargaining sessions did not necessarily warrant finding that deadlock could not have happened since parties had fair and adequate opportunity to reach agreement; E and U recognized that situation was akin to a hiatus and that agreement was unlikely; and U's slightly modified proposals did not reflect concessions significant enough to break deadlock)

Excavation-Construction, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 660 F.2d 1015 (C.A. 4, Oct. 1981)
(where U and E, bargaining seperately, agreed to defer negotiations on make-up pay provision until after Association agreement was reached, this, in effect, was bargaining; impasse reached only when U rejected E's final offer, it cannot be said that there was realistic possibility that negotiations would be fruitful)

Electric Machinery Company v. N.L.R.B. 653 F.2d 958 (C.A. 5, Aug 1981)
(no impasse in bargaining negotiations where U at no time refused to bargain nor did U waive its right to bargain; facts did not begin to support defense of impasse because bargaining had only just begun and there appeared no reason which impelled E unilaterally to make changes in Ees' working conditions)

N.L.R.B. v. Bancroft Manufacturing Company, Inc., et al. 635 F.2d 492 (C.A. 5, Jan. 1981)
(refusal to bargain not unlawful in view of impasse; ct stated that it could not as a matter of law hold that E's refusal to concede on one issue – arbitrability of merit increases – constituted bad faith bargaining)

N.L.R.B. v. Gibraltar Industries, Inc. and Case, Inc. 653 F.2d 1091 (C.A. 6, July 1981)
(bargaining impasse reached where E negotiated and eventually agreed with U on many proposals and stoutly resisted U efforts to increase basic wage package and to involve U in setting piece-work rates; it was hard bargaining but not unfair bargaining)

Blue Grass Provision Co., Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 636 F.2d 1127 (C.A. 6, 1980)
(no impasse regarding subcontracting of delivery operations where U never understood E meant to terminate bargaining unit upon expiration of contract and meetings between parties were at best preliminary sparring matches)

H & D, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 633 F.2d 139 (C.A. 9, 1980)
(situation where the negotiating members could well conclude that there was no realistic prospect that continuation of discussion at that time would have been fruitful)

H & D, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 633 F.2d 139 (C.A. 9, 1980)
(where E unilaterally withdrew from multi-E bargaining group after three months and seven sessions of bargaining followed by U membership's rejecting three E proposal and voting for strike, ct held impasse existed at time of E's withdrawal)

Albion Corporation d/b/a Brooks Towers, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 682 F.2d 874 (C.A. 10, July 1982)
(notwithstanding Bd accepted ALJ's determination that E had not adopted and maintained its bargaining strategy with its janitorial Ees for other than legitimate reasons, E nontheless violated Act by conditioning reinstatement of striking maintenance Ees upon acceptance of the lower janitorial wage after they had unconditionally offered to return to work; therefore, no meaningful bargaining over wages possible so long as reinstatement of maintenance Ees used as bargaining bait by E to force acceptance of its terms. No good-faith impasse could exist because E unlawfully refused to restore status quo)

6033-7014 Agreement need not be reached

Deister Concentrator Company, Inc. 253 NLRB No. 049

6033-7014-5000 Failure to reach agreement may be evidence of lack of good faith

Glenmar Cinestate, Inc. 264 NLRB No. 035
(E did not bargain in bad faith and valid impasse was reached, although under normal circumstances magnitude of wage decrease proposed along with proposed sharp curtailment of other benefits would be strong evidence of such, where evidence that E was experiencing severe financial difficulties stood uncontroverted; moreover, U never requested to see E's financial books or records, and in fact, U representative stated during negotiations that both sides were bargaining in good faith, that U did not question E's integrity, and that it was not demanding to see E's books)

Huck Manufacturing Company 254 NLRB No. 008
(where parties met only 4 times and E refused to bargain further no impasse existed)

Seattle-First National Bank v. N.L.R.B. 638 F.2d 1221 (C.A. 9, 1981)
(*those engaged in collective bargaining are normally required to bargain to impasse on all mandatory issues. 6033-7028 Concessions indicate lack of impasse

Inta-Roto, Inc. 252 NLRB No. 111
(where U rejected E's last offer and struck E, and E then acquiesced to U's request for further bargaining; E waived any claim that impasse might have been created by U's actions)

Times-Herald, Inc. 249 NLRB No. 004
(E did not insist to impasse that U agree on modification of unit-juridiction clause of contract, where E changed its position and offered to agree to language from prior contract)

6033-7042 Existence of impasse is question of fact for Board

Carpenter Sprinkler Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 605 F.2d 60 (C.A. 2, 1979)

Marriott In-Flite Service, A Division of Marriott Corporation 258 NLRB No. 099
(no impasse, notwithstanding 37 negotiating sessions, where at time of alleged impasse few economic proposals had been made or resolved, no serious discussion of U security and checkoff, or no-strike provision, and when negotiations broke off there were 26 open items; further there had been mediation and any alleged impasse caused by E's failure to bargain)

Henry Cauthorne, an individual, t/a Cauthorne Trucking 256 NLRB No. 115
(unilaterally ceasing payments into U's health and welfare, and pension trust funds upon expiration of contract which E had not signed but to terms of which E had bound itself by signing interim agreement and implementing significant portion of contract held violative, since; (1) change was not made subsequent to bargaining impasse, (2) E did not, in good faith, doubt U's majority status, and (3) U did not waive right to bargain regarding alterations; health and welfare fund trust agreements did not contain language which might limit E's obligation to bargain regarding cessation of payments into fund)

Southern Newspapers, Inc., d/b/a The Baytown Sun 255 NLRB No. 022
(while parties may have been at impasse at date of trial, no impasse existed as of controlling date when unilateral shift change was effected since E failed to meet burden of showing impasse existed as of that date inasmuch as there was no bargaining concerning shift change between date of E's submission of proposed change and date change was effected)

Mark Twain Marine Industries, Inc. 254 NLRB No. 144
(unilateral implementation of contract proposals affecting changes in wages and other conditions of employment, violative, notwithstanding E's contention that negotiations had reached impasse, since evidence clearly establishes that E implemented contract provisions in retaliation for its Ees' determination to exercise their right to strike, U's decision to strike does not in itself amount to impasse)

Sea Bay Manor Home For Adults 253 NLRB No. 068
(no impasse existed where parties had signed stipulation agreement setting forth method for resolving their differences; E's refusal to abide by agreement and unilateral change of wage rates of Ees violative)

Atlas Metal Parts Co., Inc. 252 NLRB No. 029

Albion Corporation d/b/a Brooks, Inc. 251 NLRB No. 104
(on ct remand, Bd affirmed ALJ's conclusion that impasse did not exist and that E's conduct in treating U's rejection of its final offer as revocation of U's earlier unconditional offer to return to work was w/o merit, where E seized upon Ees' strike as a means of obtaining favorable contract, and its continued bargaining while operating at lower cost by use of temporary replacements unfairly strengthened E's bargaining position; no meaningful bargaining over wages was possible so long as E used reinstatement of strikers as bargaining bait to force acceptance of its terms)

Pease Company 251 NLRB No. 080
(E's claim that impasse existed, rejected, where breakdown in negotiations was caused by E's bad faith bargaining which precludes finding of impasse)

Burrell Construction & Supply Co. JD-86-81

Carpenter Sprinkler Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 605 F.2d 60 (C.A. 2, 1979)
(no justification for unilateral change in wages and benefits since contrary to contention, impasse had not been reached where parties only met twice, no specific proposals were made at first meeting, and no counter-proposals were made by E to U's suggestions at second meeting)

Huck Manufacturing Company v. N.L.R.B. 693 F.2d 1176 (C.A. 5, Dec. 1982)
(no impasse existed where neither party indicated that negotiations would be fruitless, federal mediator's presence indicated that negotiations were continuing, bargaining had occurred at only four meetings, E's final offer was simply consolidation of previous positions, and strike was called to put heat on E rather than to break an impasse)

N.L.R.B. v. M. A. Harrison Manufacturing Company, Inc. 682 F.2d 580 (C.A. 6, June 1982)
(no legitimate bargaining impasse where although E did participate in either directly or through mediator in approximately eleven bargaining attempts, there is evidence from which Bd could reasonably conclude that E was giving the U a runaround while purporting to be meeting with U for purpose of collective bargaining)

Blue Grass Provision Co., Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 636 F.2d 1127 (C.A. 6, 1980)

6033-7084 Unilateral action may be justified by impasse

R. A. Hatch Company 263 NLRB No. 140

Harry Sons, Jr. and Winton R. Wagner, Partners d/b/a Briarcliff Pavilion For Specialized Care 260 NLRB No. 184

Southern Newspapers, Inc., d/b/a The Baytown Sun 255 NLRB No. 022

(unilateral change in shift hours held not justified even if impasse had existed since it was not reasonably comprehended by E's original proposal which was directed to elimination of night shift and anticipated normal bargaining concerning shift work, whereas effected change was response to serious and real emergency situation, whereby E sought to avoid increased costs resulting from paying more than day shift rates; fact that emergency existed is not necessarily proper basis for unilateral change during negotiations)

Beaumont Graphics, Ltd. 254 NLRB No. 044

(impasse is not, of itself, unusual circumstance warranting unilateral withdrawal from existing multiE bargaining relationship, but amounts to no more than temporary deadlock or hiatus which is usually resolved by actions of parties)

KCW Furniture Company, Inc. 247 NLRB No. 079

Potters' Medical Center, Inc. JD-605-81

(unilaterally changing wage scale and pay classification system violative notwithstanding impasse, as such changes were not those reasonably comprehended by the bargaining proposals; i.e., general wage increase granted though bargaining proposals covered merit pay increase on Ee's anniversary date)

Huck Manufacturing Company v. N.L.R.B. 693 F.2d 1176 (C.A. 5, Dec. 1982)

(unilateral grant of shift differential previously porposed during negotiations where there was no impasse to justify it, unlawful)

Newspaper Printing Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 692 F.2d 615 (C.A. 6, Nov. 1982)

(ct held that words all composing room work used in prior agreement and words all work performed in the composing room contained in impasse proposal described same tasks; thus negotiations had centered on U's jurisdiction not question of appropriate unit and impasse was not reached over permissive subject of bargaining but rather over work assignment clause which was also negotiated and was mandatory subject of bargain and E was w/i its rights to bargain to impasse and to proceed unilaterally to implement changes in terms and conditions of employment)

Blue Grass Provision Co., Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 636 F.2d 1127 (C.A. 6, 1980)

(E's unilaterally subcontracting its delivery operations and laying off Ees performing this work, unlawful, where U was not on notice E contemplated subcontracting and absent impasse, where U never understood E meant to subcontract operations upon expiration of contract and meetings between parties were preliminary sparring matches)

6033-8400 Failure to sign or reduce agreement to writing

Charles D. Bonanno Linen Service, Inc. v. N.L.R.B., et al. 454 US 404 (U.S. SCt. Jan. 1982)

(ct majority held Bd properly found bargaining impasse did not justify E's unilateral withdrawal from multi-E bargaining unit, and its withdrawal was unlawful as was its refusal to execute agreement later executed by U and E association; impasse is not sufficiently destructive of group bargaining and is not an unusual circumstance justifying withdrawal; it is only a temporary deadlock or hiatus in negotiations rather than a rupture of the bargaining relation; permitting withdrawal at impasse would undermine utility of multi-E bargaining; and Bd's resolution is neither arbitrary nor contrary to law)

Cutter Laboratories, Inc. 265 NLRB No. 078

(E's failure to reduce to writing and execute agreement, unlawful, where E and U had reached agreement which required E to reduce to writing and sign, notwithstanding E's contention binding agreement had not been reached, in view of agreement evidencing unambiguous intent to incorporate E's benefits into agreement, decision to prepare galley proofs of agreement, implementation of all new contractual provisions, submission to arbitration of issue raised under new agreement, and E's admission of contractual relationship at arbitration hearing)

Cutter Laboratories, Inc. 265 NLRB No. 078

(U's request to include job classification codes in agreement, which U later dropped, did not justify E's refusal to sign agreement unless language that limitations and qualifications of benefit plans shall apply to unit Ees be included in agreement, since signing of valid agreement may not be predicated on modification of agreement)

Beaks Corp. #2, d/b/a Delano Hotel 263 NLRB No. [illegible]

(refusing to sign negotiated contract violative where one of 3 owner-brothers negotiated contract, delivered it to U with his name signed, conferred with U over two week period and did not state there was no contract and then claimed signature on contract was not his and two brothers were also required to sign contract and they refused to sign)

General Printing Company 263 NLRB No. 084
(E's refusal to abide by agreement negotiated by U and to execute copy thereof as requested by U, violative where E did not effectively withdraw from multi-E bargaining associations before beginning of negotiations for new contract and U did not thereafter acquiesce in or consent to its withdrawal))

Diplomat Envelope Corporation 263 NLRB No. 075
(E's refusal to sign agreement prepared by U pursuant to signed memorandum of agreement violative; contention that there was no meeting of minds on terms, e.g., increases in wages during 2d and 3d years, increases in annuity payments, and change in method of resolving disputes by substituting state board mediation for American Arbitration Association, rejected as any ambiguity over wages and annuity payments was resolved by bargaining history and memorandum provided for substitution of mediation for arbitration)

Wagner Distribution Services, Inc. d/b/a Distribution Services West 262 NLRB No. 096
(no violation, since E and U never reached agreement for new contract where assertion that agreement reached over telephone on picket line clause which was only issue of substance dividing parties, rejected; subsequently E persuaded itself it could escape bargaining with U by alleging loss of majority)

C.P.S. Chemical Company 262 NLRB No. 082
(E's refusal to reduce to writing and sign contract including pension plan, to which it had allegedly agreed, not unlawful where mediator had presented different set of proposals to each of the parties and there never was a meeting of the minds with regard to inclusion of pension plan in contract)

Presto Casting Company 262 NLRB No. 047
(failing and refusing to sign 1-year agreement reached with U, violative)

Shawn's Launch Service, Inc. 261 NLRB No. 124
(E's refusal to sign agreement, unlawful, notwithstanding changes made after agreement reached were merely to correct inadvertant errors, or fact U seeking more benefits where U had made clear that in event no further benefits could be obtained it desired contract be signed, or that contract had not been ratified by U members since no requirement for ratification in U rules and little or no discussion of ratification during negotiations)

Shawn's Launch Service, Inc. 261 NLRB No. 124
(E's contention its refusal to sign agreement justified since when U had been informed by Ees of their unhappiness with contract and desire for greater benefits U effectively withdrew original offer from any further consideration by attempting after meeting with Ees to renegotiate terms before E could reasonably be expected to act and thus no agreement reached, rejected)

Progressive Medical Group, Inc., t/a Walnut Hill Convalescent Center 260 NLRB No. 039
(E's refusal to execute and honor written agreement negotiated with U, unlawful, since it may properly be inferred that actual approval of terms of agreement was given by E's board of directors, as to whose participation in bargaining process U was informed early in negotiations, and U was justifiably led by E's agents to believe that such approval had been given; and, in the circumstances, U was entitled to rely on that belief)

Liberty Pavilion Nursing Home 259 NLRB No. 177
(no violation where failure to execute contract was based on E's failure to obtain necessary approval of wage provision by State Rate Setting Commission as condition precedent to implementation, and since Commission does not approve rate increases based on a contemplated collective bargaining agreement, prior approval of this essential provision would never be forthcoming as erroneously believed by both parties; furthermore, wage provisions could not be severed from entire agreement, since it would be contrary to seeming agreement of the parties)

Mercedes-Benz of North America, Inc. 258 NLRB No. 107
(E's refusal to execute bargaining agreement which included commencement date that parties had not agreed on, not violative)

Georgia Kraft Company, Woodcraft Division 256 NLRB No. 121

Alameda County Association For The Mentally Retarded, Inc. 255 NLRB No. 085
(E's refusal to execute letter of understanding assertedly embodying oral agreement resolving dispute over wage provision contained in newly executed contract, unlawful; even assuming E's negotiator had no actual binding authority, Bd found cover letter accompanying letter of understanding evidenced E's clear agreement with terms of initial agreement reached by parties' negotiators; facts established explicit acceptance of terms of letter of understanding and of E's intention to execute it as signed agreement; and U could assume that necessary approval had been obtained by E's negotiator from his principals)

Murphy Bonded Warehouse, Inc. 254 NLRB No. 178
(E's refusal to execute agreement negotiated during strikes unlawful, where all terms were agreed upon except return to work of strikers when U accepted E's final proposal and offered return to work of strikers but E falsely claimed it had hired permanent replacements)

Joe Carroll Orchestras & Entertainment Agency, Inc. d/b/a Meyer Davis Orchestra; et al. 254 NLRB No. 153
(refusal to execute contract because U was not policing terms pursuant to most-favored nations clause violative; this objection goes only to enforcement of contract)

Mark Twain Marine Industries, Inc. 254 NLRB No. 144
(refusal to execute previously agreed-upon contract because contention that U lost support of majority of Ees, violative, since any loss of majority was result of E's ULPs)

Consolidation Coal Company 253 NLRB No. 104
(where parties had reached final unconditional agreement as to new absenteeism policy, E's refusal to execute written agreement violative)

Jefferson Stores, Inc. 253 NLRB No. 048
(refusal to sign 1978-82 master agreement held not violative where agent who signed memorandum agreement of 1976-79 contract expressly limited contract to one jobsite and, therefore, did not become signatory to master contract and no obligation to sign new agreement; E's compliance with master agreement at additional jobsites does not establish adoption or ratification of agreement for those jobsites)

Teckwal Corp. 253 NLRB No. 022
(where E member of multi-E bargaining unit sent notification of its withdrawal from the association weeks after new contract negotiations began, and E's attempted withdrawal lacked mutual assent or other cognizable justification, E's later refusal to execute and implement subsequently negotiated multi-E agreement, held violative)

Western Truck Service, Inc. 252 NLRB No. 096
(refusal to sign agreed upon collective-bargaining contract, violative)

Petroleum Contractors, Inc. 250 NLRB No. 094
(contention of E which had prior bargaining agreement with U that its refusal to sign new agreement justified since negotiations conducted subject to condition precedent that U demonstrate majority status, rejected, where Ees approved contract and presumption of majority not rebutted by Ees' lack of membership or check off authorizations, nor by written poll taken by Ee where no valid decertification ptn filed)

Appalachian Power Company John E. Amos Plant 250 NLRB No. 038
(E's stating it would not place in signed agreement certain existing terms and conditions of employment which it intended to continue and which U agreed should be continued, not violative since all minor terms and conditions of employment not required to be included in bargaining agreements)

Kennebec Beverage Co., Inc. 248 NLRB No. 176
(E's failure to sign bargaining agreement previously agreed upon, violative, notwithstanding document prepared by U and forwarded to E did not contain provision for payment of helpers to which parties had agreed, where E insisted it would not execute document until it attorney approved, and since that time had neither informed U that document varied from agreement reached nor attempted to assist in reducing such agreement to writing; mere fact that addition to document was required did not relieve E of obligation to execute agreed-upon contract)

World Evangelism, Inc. 248 NLRB No. 117
(successor E's failure to execute contract where it had agreed to adopt and sign predecessor's contract, unlawful)

Sidney M. Baer t/a Ashbourne Apartments 248 NLRB No. 089
(E's refusing to incorporate certain terms in written document, not violative in view of insufficient evidence to support U's contention that E's sole negotiator communicated to U representative that agreement on those terms had been reached)

Maywood Do-Nut Co., Inc. 248 NLRB No. 080
(E's refusal to execute proposed contract not violative since, although U and E had orally agreed upon many of terms to be included in the proposed contract, at no time had all of substantive terms been agreed upon)

Tasman Sea, Inc. 247 NLRB No. 097
(successor E's failure to execute bargaining agreement, unlawful, where it had contract in its possession several months, was aware of specific provisions, and willingly accepted contract w/o modification upon receiving letter from U contract would not be effective until 6 months after close of escrow)

Redwood Chevrolet JD-(SF)-128-82
(E's refusal to sign agreement, unlawful, since agreement on terms had been reached and E's contention that negotiations were to be conducted in two stages, economic and non economic, rejected; neither representative's perusal of proposals handed him by E after agreement had been reached, nor his seeking strikers sanctions are admission that agreement not reached)

McMillan Cartage, Inc. JD-(ATL)-48-81
(refusal to execute association contract violative, where E adopted contract by paying wage, cost of living, and annual wage increase, failed to respond to U's request that it execute contract or to advise U that it was not bound, and by attempting to negotiate changes in contract's wage and benefits provisions)

Anderson Sand & Gravel Company JD-655-80
(E had no obligation to sign contract since U and E had no meeting of minds regarding grievance and arbitration clause where name and composition of dispute resolving committee in contract submitted to U for signature were not identical to what was agreed upon; however, when parties reach agreement on that provision, E will be obligated to sign)

Malibu Grand Prix Corp. JD-(SF)-90-80
(E's refusal to sign U contract on demand held not to constitute unlawful failure to bargain or withdrawal of recognition, notwithstanding unit was doubtless appropriate and assuming E had duty to bargain, where E had complied with pre-hire arrangement with U to pay U scale and cash equivalent of U fringe benefits; in addition, E's unlawful discharges were held not to constitute attempt to forestall U organizing drive or undermine U)

Petricca Construction Company JD-179-80
(E's refusal to execute written contract as requested by U, not violative, notwithstanding that E had paid its unit Ees new increased wage rate and fringe benefits contained in the new contract, where there was no evidence that E ever agreed, either orally or in writing, that it would sign new contract or that it considered itself bound by it)

N.L.R.B. v. Midvalley Steel Fabricators, Inc. 621 F.2d 49 (C.A. 2, 1980)

The Procter & Gamble Manufacturing Co., et al. v. N.L.R.B. 658 F.2d 968 (C.A. 4, Sept. 1981)
(E's refusal to sign agreed-upon contract containing signatures of nonplant Ees who had participated in negotiations as members of U's negotiating committee, unlawful, where, in sharp contrast to past practice, E's refusal resulted solely from its opposition to inclusion of outsiders on U's bargaining team; Bd discredited E's claim that U, not E, refused to sign and, since Bd is in unique position to judge witnesses' credibility and there is substantial evidence to support Bd's determination, its finding of violation is upheld)

N.L.R.B. v. L. B. Priester & Son, Inc. 669 F.2d 355 (C.A. 5, Mar. 1982)

N.L.R.B. v. Preston H. Haskell Company 616 F.2d 136 (C.A. 5, 1980)
(C based on E's refusal to execute and apply E association's contract with U held barred by Sec. 10(b) where, although such conduct occurred w/i 10(b) period, E's withdrawal from group bargaining transpired outside 10(b) period; since C based upon allegedly unlawful withdrawal was barred by limitations, that event cannot serve to infuse with illegality E's otherwise permissible refusal to sign contract that it did not itself negotiate)

N.L.R.B. v. Preston H. Haskell Company 616 F.2d 136 (C.A. 5, 1980)

(Es' refusal to honor bargaining contract negotiated by multi-E association violative, notwithstanding Es' contention that they had effectively withdrawn from the multi-E association, where actual reason for each company's withdrawal was not based on impasse or fragmentation as contended, but on fact that Ees of the individual companies express doubt as to U's representation of majority of each company's Ees'. It is well settled that this constitutes an impermissible reason for company's withdrawal from multi-E bargaining)

6050-1612-6200 Shift differential

Wagner Distribution Services, Inc. d/b/a Distribution Services West 262 NLRB No. 096

(E unilaterally changing hours of swing shift which was paid shift differential to hours substantially overlapping hours of first shift which was not paid wage differential, unlawful, notwithstanding E's contention U had actual knowledge of E's intended change through communication by shop steward to U official and U waived its rights by its failure to request bargaining, since change was mandatory subject of bargaining and E failed to show U received sufficiently reliable notice of change to trigger obligation to demand bargaining)

Empire Pacific Industries, Inc. 257 NLRB No. 190

(according to case law, E who has granted benefit which is mandatory subject of bargaining to unrepresented Ees has duty to bargain about granting such benefit to represented Ees where benefit has not been covered by contract or clearly and unmistakably waived; E's grant herein of COL wage increase to unrepresented Ees only, not unlawful, however, since E was bargaining with U about COL wage increases for represented Ees when U voluntarily suspended negotiations)

6050-1625 Bonuses

Aeronca, Inc. 253 NLRB No. 026

(Christmas bonus paid Ees over number of years was considered component of wages or terms of employment, even though not expressly provided for by contract, which cannot be discontinued by E before U has been given notice and opportunity to bargain)

(enforcement denied since there was no refusal to bargain over stock investment plan where E remained firm but did not refuse to discuss it or economic alternatives, made other concessions and compromises, and provided new benefits; ct placed little reliance on vague and conflicting testimony of U bargaining committee members about unrecorded session and found it against public policy for party which w/o reservations ratified agreement viable in all aspects to be permitted to complain later of injustice)

(unilaterally ceasing payments into U's health and welfare, and pension trust funds upon expiration of contract which E had not signed but to terms of which E had bound itself by signing interim agreement and implementing significant portion of contract held violative, since; (1) change was not made subsequent to bargaining impasse, (2) E did not, in good faith, doubt U's majority status, and (3) U did not waive right to bargain regarding alterations; health and welfare fund trust agreements did not contain language which might limit E's obligation to bargain regarding cessation of payments into fund)

Henry Cauthorne, an individual, t/a Cauthorne Trucking 256 NLRB No. 115

(refusal to continue payment into U's pension trust fund not violative where expired contract stated that E and U's obligations to pension fund shall terminate and E did nothing that could be construed as adopting another contract; E was privileged, under terms of pension trust agreement, to cease such payments w/o bargaining with U)

6050-4133-0100 Generally

The Mead Corporation 256 NLRB No. 108
(E's promulgation of new rules on procedures governing grievances ordering Ees to complete their work assignments before processing grievances held violative where E had existing practice of permitting grievance writing during Ee's working time)

Hickinbotham Bros. Ltd. 254 NLRB No. 022
(contention that E's proposed grievance/arbitration provision complementing its no-strike proposal was ineffective because grievance proposal required agreement of supervisor before Ee could file grievance, rejected, where, at worst, language of proposal was inartfully phrased which is not unusual when nonlawyer negotiators are involved, and sinister motives cannot be ascribed from reliance on words used which could arguably have been intended to mean something else when, as here, standard contract language was not used)

6050-4133-1200 Arbitration as final step of grievance procedure

Hack Manufacturing Company 254 NLRB No. 088
(E's instance on no arbitration clause coupled with severe limitations on grievance procedure but allowing U to strike over grievances put U in untenable position of either overlooking grievances or going on strike; thus reasonable to infer that E's motivation in refusing to consider arbitration clause was to frustrate bargaining process)

Independent Stave Company 248 NLRB No. 025
(E's failure to comply with arbitrator selection clause of current agreement with U held violative; E's position, attempting to spread arbitration work equally among five chosen arbitrators, blocked the arbitration provision entirely, and was mid-term modification of agreement w/o consulting with U)

6050-4133-1250 Arbitration as quid pro quo for no-strike clause

N.L.R.B. v. Southern California Edison Company 646 F.2d 1352 (C.A. 9, Jun 1981)
(express or implied no-strike obligation is quid pro quo for E's undertaking to submit grievance dispute to arbitration)

Northwestern Dodge, Inc. 258 NLRB No. 118
(refusal to process grievances protesting layoffs of two Ees violative notwithstanding contract had expired)

Pease Company 251 NLRB No. 080
(E's refusal to process Ees' grievances pursuant to its unilaterally and unlawfully instituted procedure amounted to unlawful unilateral implementation thereof, thereby frustrating any meaningful role of U in grievance processing and serving notice on Ees that U representation in such matters was futile)

Ednamae Brewer d/b/a Kalama Cafe JD-(SF)-244-81
(refusal to process or adjust Ee's grievance under contract, violative)

Bill Fox Chevrolet, Inc. JD-767-80

Heat Transfer Group, Gulf and Western Mfg. Co. JD-381-82
(mandatory subject)

6050-5000 Union-security and checkoff

Independent Stave Company 248 NLRB No. 025
(E's failure and refusal to comply with U security provision of current contract in response to U demand that some 46 Ees be discharged for failure to be U members in good standing held violative, since E had thereby unilaterally modified terms and conditions of parties' contract which called for investigation of named Ees and determination that they were delinquent and would not become members, notwithstanding U's alleged failure to fulfill its fiduciary obligation of notification to Ees)

N.L.R.B. v. Electro-Food Machinery, Inc. 621 F.2d 956 (C.A. 9, 1980)
(where U constitution prohibited it from entering into contract providing for open shop, this is no defense to E's refusal to execute contract containing such provision as internal U matters cannot releive E from its duty to execute agreed upon collective bargaining agreement)

N.L.R.B. v. Custom Sheet Metal & Service Co., Inc. 666 F.2d 454 (C.A. 10, Dec. 1981)
(Bd's R/O, which required E to execute 8(f) contract but not give effect to those provisions (8 day U security and qualification for employment clause) which would be unlawful if applied to E who was no longer engaged in construction work but was manufacturing concern, set aside, where, especially latter clause, is so basic to contract and so interwoven with all its terms that it must stand or fall as an entirety; furthermore, no savings and severability clause in contract)

6050-5075 Checkoff

Harowe Servo Controls, Inc. 250 NLRB No. 120
(refusal to agree to checkoff provision in order to protect interests of procompany Ees)

Independent Stave Company 248 NLRB No. 025
(E's refusal to remit checked-off dues to U held violative, since E failed to comply with checkoff provision in current contract; provision in E's authorization ptn that check-off dues be placed in escrow rather than be paid over to U deprived U of dues which Ees were obligated to pay)

Apex International Management Service JD-(ATL)-86-81
(successor E's unilateral discontinuance of predecessor's existing (contractual) practice of checkoff held violative, since checkoff was mandatory subject of bargaining and as such a term and condition of employment)

6050-5700 Interest arbitration clause

Sea Bay Manor Home For Adults 253 NLRB No. 068
(interest arbitration clause, in itself, is nonmandatory subject of bargaining and bargaining to impasse over whether to include such clause in contract under negotiation would be violative)

Sea Bay Manor Home For Adults 253 NLRB No. 068
(where parties to contract under negotiation voluntarily agreed in writing to resolve their differences over mandatory terms by submitting them to binding arbitration, this agreement becomes so intertwined with mandatory terms as to be inseparable and becomes mandatory itself; therefore E's repudiation of stipulation agreement violative, as it constitutes more than mere breach of contract)

Latrobe Steel Company v. N.L.R.B. 630 F.2d 171 (C.A. 3, 1980)
(Interest arbitration clause is non-mandatory subject of bargaining as it bears only remote or incidental relationship to terms or conditions of employment)

6050-5875 Management rights clause

Milwaukee Spring Division of Illinois Coil Spring Company 265 NLRB No. 028
(E's decision to relocate work from U to non-U plant, to layoff Ees as consequence during term of agreement solely because of higher labor costs, absent U's consent, is midterm repudiation of agreement in violation of Sec. 8(d), Sec. 8(a)(1), (3), (5); moreover, U did not waive right to bargain notwithstanding managements rights clause; such clause reserves for E right to decide whether and how products will be manufactured; it does not grant E right to transfer its operation. Thus, absent explicit language, U has not waived its right to object to E's decision)

Hickinbotham Bros. Ltd. 254 NLRB No. 022
(it is not illegal per se to propose and bargain concerning broad management rights clause; rather, rigid and inflexible insistence on inclusion in contract of sweeping management rights clause may, under some circumstances, constitute evidence of bad-faith bargaining)

Hickinbotham Bros. Ltd. 254 NLRB No. 022
(E's allegedly overly broad and restrictive management rights proposal, not unlawful, where E did not adopt rigid and inflexible position as to management rights indicating desire to avoid reaching agreement; proposal contained effective grievance/arbitration procedure complementing its proposal for no-strike provision; at worst, grievance proposal language was inartfully phrased; and U summarily rejected grievance proposal w/o any discussion and consequently, there is no way of knowing how flexible or inflexible E would have been as to such proposal)

Eastern Maine Medical Center 253 NLRB No. 024
(E's insistence on management rights clause as well as finality clause, as price for any agreement reached, exhibited desire to undermine U, avoid any meaningful final agreement, and unwillingness to bargain in good faith, where management rights clause spelled out management control over almost all aspects of employment relationship and permitted unilateral action on detailed set of working conditions; and in finality clause E sought waiver of U's bargaining rights during term of agreement over any subject matter not specifically referred to or covered in agreement)

Lever Brothers Company JD-301-80
(E's refusal to bargain over absentee rule violative notwithstanding prior contracts contained management rights clause covering absenteeism because U's waiver expired with contract and E must bargain over mandatory subject)

N.L.R.B. v. Cable Vision, Inc. 660 F.2d 1 (C.A. 1, Sept. 1981)
(E did not bargain in good faith where it insisted upon extensive management rights clause which would have significantly curtailed U's general power)

Eastern Maine Medical Center v. N.L.R.B. 658 F.2d 1 (C.A. 1, 1981)
(intransigence in insisting on verbatim retention of all language of management rights clause which gave E unilateral control over every aspect of employment relationship except wages and benefits and which, in case of doubt, would prevail over other inconsistent provisions, unlawful)

6050-5887 Finality clause

Eastern Maine Medical Center 253 NLRB No. 024
(E's insistence on management rights clause as well as finality clause, as price for any agreement reached, exhibited desire to undermine U, avoid any meaningful final agreement, and unwillingness to bargain in good faith, where management rights clause spelled out management control over almost all aspects of employment relationship and permitted unilateral action on detailed set of working conditions; and in finality clause E sought waiver of U's bargaining rights during term of agreement over any subject matter not specifically referred to or covered in agreement)

6050-6600 Internal union matters

Howland Hook Marine Terminal Corporation 263 NLRB No. 040
(designation of agent of Ees' collective bargaining representative (appointment of interim steward) is purely internal U affair and resolution of dispute, regarding who would be interim steward rested with U and not Bd; Section 8(a)(5) of Act not applicable to internal U dispute concerning who had authority to conduct business of local U and E not required to determine which of 2 representatives was the validly designated one)

Harry Sann, Jr. and Winton R. Wagner, Partners d/b/a Briarcliff Pavilion For Specialized Care 260 NLRB No. 184
(E's proposal that U fees and dues be limited to ten dollars and two hours pay per month violative and evidenced bad faith as such fees are of no concern to E (they are nonmandatory subject of bargaining) and proposal was made to ensure that no agreement would be reached)

6050-7000 Matters relating to nonunit employees

Local 777, Democratic Union Organizing Committee v. N.L.R.B. 603 F.2d 862 (C.A.D.C.)
(E not required to provide information pertaining to equipment purchased, whether equipment leased to nonunit Ees or its financial statements since data related to decision to institute leasing, a nonmandatory subject of bargaining, U did not represent nonunit Ees and so not relevant to U's performance as bargaining representative w/o special showing of pertinence to some bargainable issue; E not obligated to disclose financial statements merely because they might be helpful to U)

6050-7080 Participation in industry promotion funds

F.M.L. Supply, Inc. 258 NLRB No. 083

6050-9000 Most favored nations clause

Joe Carroll Orchestras & Entertainment Agency, Inc. d/b/a Meyer Davis Orchestras; et al. 254 NLRB No. 153

6050-9100 Contract enforcement provisions

Independent Stave Company 248 NLRB No. 025
(E's failure and refusal to comply with U security provision of current contract in response to U demand that some 46 Ees be discharged for failure to be U members in good standing held violative, since E had thereby unilaterally modified terms and conditions of parties' contract which called for investigation of named Ees and determination that they were delinquent and would not become members, notwithstanding U's alleged failure to fulfill its fiduciary obligation of notification to Ees)

Newspaper Guild, Local 10 v. N.L.R.B. 636 F.2d 550 (C.A.D.C. 1980)

N.L.R.B. v. J. D. Industrial Insulation Company, Inc. 615 F.2d 1289 (C.A. 10, 1980)
(failure to bargain not unlawful where (1) there was no contract between E and U by implication, (2) parties were equally at fault in contributing to ambiguity of their arrangement, and (3) there was no basis for finding of equitable estoppel absent evidence of (a) U's inability to obtain information as to status of E's membership in multi-E association and (b) U's detrimental reliance on E's conduct suggesting such membership)

Bureau of Rehabilitation of The National Capital Area JD-262-81
(E's unjustified refusal to invite Federal mediation found consistent with E's overall aim to avoid reaching agreement with U and constituted evidence of bad faith bargaining)

N.L.R.B. v. A. S. Abell Company 624 F.2d 506 (C.A. 4, 1980)

In addition, however, Bd must show substantial evidence that E's attitude was inconsistent with its duty to seek agreement)

Seattle-First National Bank v. N.L.R.B. 638 F.2d 1221 (C.A. 9, 1981)

6067-0150-8300 Union animus not prerequisite to finding of lack of good faith

Production Plated Plastics, Inc. 247 NLRB No. 076
(in finding independent 8(a)(5) violation, Bd did not rely on part of Judge's decision that found U animus prerequisite for 8(a)(3) violation in circumstances constituting unilateral change)

6067-0175 Policy of uniformity between unit and nonunit employees not per se indication of bad faith

United States Postal Service 261 NLRB No. [illegible]
(E's not informing certified U of E's decision not to pay, and not paying, certain wage increases to bargaining unit Ees while granting random wage increases to its unorganized Ees held not violative, since, once U was certified, bargaining unit Ees could not expect to receive all random wage increases while U was bargaining with E over new contract; absent evidence of animus or of contemporaneous unlawful conduct, E had no duty to notify U of wage increases to nonbargaining unit Ees, or to bargain with U about, or grant, wage increases to unit Ees)

Penn Color, Inc. 261 NLRB No. 058
(E unlawfully refused to bargain where E knew that U's demand for bargaining for E's production and maintenance Ees was intended for single location unit, not including Ees at separate location; after refusing to look at U authorization cards offered for his inspection, E stated that he was expecting U's demand and that his lawyer would decide; and at the same time E was engaged in ULPs which precluded fair election)

Peat Manufacturing Company 261 NLRB No. 026

Navajo Freight Lines, Inc. 254 NLRB No. 166
(E's refusal to negotiate renewal of area practice agreement, unlawful; U did not waive its right to demand bargaining about such agreement because it agreed to be governed by existing E-association agreement since, upon signing preceding area practices agreements, it was E's and U's intention that, where there was a difference between area practices and E-association agreements, area practices agreement would govern, and such intent was sanctioned by E-association agreement; fact that E-association did not sign area prectices agreement did not invalidate such agreement nor excuse E's refusal to negotiate its refusal)

W. G. Best Homes Corporation 253 NLRB No. 123
(burden of requesting bargaining about a change or proposed change in business operations shifts to U upon notification by E that such change is imminent; although conjecture and rumor are not adequate substitute for a formal notice, notice less than formal may be sufficient where more formal notice would have been futile in view of U's insistence on bargaining through association unit from which E had properly withdrawn and U is not interested in bargaining with E on individual basis)

The Arundel Corporation 252 NLRB No. 059
(E's refusal of charging U's request to recognize it as representative of portion of unit at new operation at which E had assertedly precipitously recognized another U, not unlawful, where there was no unlawful intent, no logical basis exists for assuming that matter was rigged so as to exclude charging U since only 2 or 3 of 15 Ees would have been represented by it, and there was no contention raised based on Midwest Piping doctrine or on recognition of contracting U before E had representative complement in its employ)

The Arundel Corporation 252 NLRB No. 059
(E's refusal of charging U's request to recognize it as representative of portion of unit at new operation at which E had recognized another U held not unlawful, where Ees sought by U were located substantial distance from other Ees covered by charging U's contract, they had no contact with such Ees, were employed in work situation in which their supervisor had considerable control over day-to-day personnel policies and employment, and they never expressed preference to be recognized by charging U rather than recognized U)

Howard Johnson Company 250 NLRB No. 16[illegible]
(E's refusal to acknowledge U's admitted requests to bargain, unlaw[illegible] where E knew that U was certified representative, and yet it ignored [illegible] letters requesting bargaining; if E were acting in good faith, it would have acknowledged U's letters and advised it of its reasons for refusing to bargain, and after indirectly receiving notice of Bd's denial of requests for review of RD's D/O, E had option of complying with RD's decision or questioning Bd as to validity of notice it had indirectly received, but it failed to do either)

6067-3020 Surface bargaining

A-1 King Size Sandwiches, Inc. 265 NLRB No. 127

Bedford Farmers Cooperative 259 NLRB No. 168
(E sending to bargaining table standing committee which had no authority either to enter into contract or advance any binding proposals held violative, since proposals were little more than trial balloons which (E's Bd of Directors) could seemingly shoot down or reject at will; E used bargaining committee to frustrate U's efforts to obtain contract)

(in case of surface bargaining, shadowboxing to a draw, or giving U a run-around the question is whether it is to be inferred from totality of E's conduct that he went through motions of negotiations as an elaborate pretense with no sincere desire to reach an agreement if possible, or that it bargained in good faith but was unable to arrive at an acceptable agreement with U)

N.L.R.B. v. Cable Vision, Inc. 660 F.2d 1 (C.A. 1, Sept. 1981)

(ct rejected proposition implicit in Bd's conclusion that in face of U's unequivocal rejection of E's offer, E was somehow committed to all portions of the proposal as to which tentative agreement had been reached; that U could hold E to what U liked while rejecting that which it disapproved. Party may retract proposal before other side has accepted it)

6067-2030-5000 Behavior in negotiations

(E's president walking out of meeting with mediator, lawyers and representatives of both sides upon being informed U membership had rejected contract reached after long good faith bargaining, and upon return told mediator he doubted U's ability to sell offer and it was useless dealing with them because it was unrepresentative group, not unlawful refusal to bargain when considered in context of long peaceful bargaining relationship and negotiating conteinued between attorneys)

Billion Motors, Inc., d/b/a Billion Oldsmobile-Toyota 260 NLRB No. 099
(E did not bargain in good faith by its offer to pay average of other local dealers' rates w/o explanation, since any average would be lower than the highest rate and E, as only unionized shop in city, paid highest rates in area: thus average would involve reduction for E's Ees, and proposal was attempt to freeze bargaining process into immobility)

(refusing to present counter proposals and utilizing negotiators who had no authority to make any concessions and indeed made none, violative)

Patrick & Company 248 NLRB No. 061
(E's refusal to discuss U's proposals other than economic and conditioning negotiation of agreement on U's acceptance of E's wage proposals, unlawful; contention impasse reached regarding wages, rejected; further, impasse regarding wages would not justify refusal to bargain regarding remainder of U's proposals)

Southside Electric Cooperative, Inc. 247 NLRB No. 107
(E announcing that it believed U had no majority and that it was only meeting because ct had ordered it to, presenting as final offer contract which included no wage increases or changes in existing benefits with wage reopener clause which required mutual consent which E knew U opposed and declining to make further proposals when its offer rejected by U membership)

(failure to present complete contract proposal when promised, unlawful)

N.L.R.B. v. Cable Vision, Inc. 660 F.2d 1 (C.A. 1, Sept. 1981)
(E did not bargain in good faith where at bargaining sessions E tended neither to accept, reject, nor offer modifications of U proposals but, instead, made promises to study and consider U's suggestions, and after nearly a year of negotiations, E's proposals had been submitted and resubmitted with little if any change; while attitude of openmindedness is hallmark of good faith bargaining, mere statement that party will study and consider proposals, repeated ad infinitum and combined with other evidence of deliberate delay, gives impression that party is attempting to avoid rather than to induce agreement)

N.L.R.B. v. Hospitality Motor Inn, Inc. 667 F.2d 562 (C.A. 6, Jan. 1982)
(ct held substantial evidence supported Bd finding that E's promotion of U adherent, its refusal to accept U proposals on dues checkoff and U security, its insistence on broad management rights clause which would have permitted unilateral acts by E and its refusal to accept no discrimination and no individual contracts clauses constituted bargaining in bad faith, Bd has been afforded flexibility to determine...whether party's conduct at the bargaining table evidences a real desire to come into agreement)

Patrick & Co. v. N.L.R.B. 644 F.2d 889(T) (C.A. 9, Mar 5, 1981)
(E's termination of negotiations unjustified where no genuine impasse existed at meeting)

6067-2030-5050 Away from bargaining table

Clearwater Finishing Company, A Division of United Merchants and Manufacturers, Inc. 254 NLRB No. 155
(E's statements to U away from bargaining table that if U would just walk away from newly-certified unit of back help Ees, E could give something better to craft unit which U also represented, were intended to undermine U's responsibility to backhelp Ees and constituted independent evidence of bad faith whatever the ultimate assessment of conduct of E's negotiators at bargaining table)

Interstate Paper Supply Company, Inc. 251 NLRB NO. 189
(refusal to bargain for 5-month period violative, since Bd rejected E's defenses of crowded calendar and unacceptability of individual negotiator who had assertedly, as striker, set fire to E's building, where most of E's business reasons in regard to crowded calendar were rectified and individual negotiator in contention was removed from committee before date of E's refusal to bargain)

Chateau Vegas JD-(SF)-132-82
(E's telling Ees that it is not going to have contract with U, violative)

Clearwater Finishing Company, a Division of United Merchants and Manufacturers, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 670 F.2d 464 (C.A. 4, Feb. 1982)
(ct held that ALJ's credibility determinations were supported by substantial evidence and from such credited statements it was reasonable to infer that E was attempting to induce U to abandon backhelp by offering greater benefits to unit already represented by U; same evidence supports Bd's findings that these statements constituted bad faith bargaining)

(in context of totality of E's conduct, E's bad-faith bargaining was indicated by its offer to reduce wages of Ees who were already earning more than amount proposed, which was departure from E's original bargaining position to continue the status quo; E's claim that it gave assurances that no Ee would receive less than that being currently paid was not supported by the evidence)

Pittsburgh–Des Moines Steel Co. 253 NLRB No. 086

(E's withdrawal of its original proposals tentatively agreed upon by U during negotiations for new contract, and substituting, w/o explanation, regressive proposals to U concerning U security, checkoff, picket line and right to strike provisions held violative, since E's reasons for, and timing of, its actions bore no relation to restrictive changes proposed; E's overall course of conduct evidenced intent to frustrate bargaining)

Deister Concentrator Company, Inc. 253 NLRB No. 040

(offer of 3-1/2 month contract)

Harowe Servo Controls, Inc. 250 NLRB No. 120

(offering less favorable proposals than previously offered on take it or leave it basis)

6067-2060-2700 Initial and final proposals essentially the same

Southside Electric Cooperative, Inc. 247 NLRB No. 107

(E announcing that it believed U had no majority and that it was only meeting because ct had ordered it to, presenting as final offer contract which included no wage increases or changes in existing benefits with wage reopener clause which required mutual consent which E knew U opposed and declining to make further proposals when its offer rejected by U membership)

N.L.R.B. v. Cable Vision, Inc. 660 F.2d 1 (C.A. 1, Sept. 1981)

(E did not bargain in good faith since evidence exists for concluding E has engaged in surface bargaining where E adhered uniformly to proposals predictably unacceptable to U, refused to make meaningful concessions and insisted, w/o clear justification, on maintaining its original position in such areas while U refrained from such conduct)

6067-2060-3300 Insistence on illegal or unreasonable provisions

Glenmar Cinestate, Inc. 264 NLRB No. 035

(E did not bargain in bad faith and valid impasse was reached, although under normal circumstances magnitude of wage decrease proposed along with proposed sharp curtailment of other benefits would be strong evidence of such, where evidence that E was experiencing severe financial difficulties stood uncontroverted; moreover, U never requested to see E's financial books or records, and in fact, U representative stated during negotiations that both sides were bargaining in good faith, that U did not question E's integrity, and that it was not demanding to see E's books)

Harry Sann, Jr. and Winston R. Wagner, Partners d/b/a Briarcliff Pavilion For Specialized Care 260 NLRB No. 184

(E's proposal that U fees and dues be limited to ten dollars and two hours pay per month violative and evidenced bad faith as such fees are of no concern to E (they are nonmandatory subject of bargaining) and proposal was made to ensure that no agreement would be reached)

K & S Circuits, Inc. 255 NLRB No. 163

(E engaged in unlawful surface bargaining where E, over U objections, refused to discuss economic items on grounds that all other matters had to be resolved first, insisted upon probationary period, and insisted on arbitration clause requiring that decision must be rendered in 30 days, making such clause nugatory)

Nansemond Convalescent Center, Inc. 255 NLRB No. 089

(E's insistence, during negotiations with U, on obtaining tentative agreement on non-economic issues prior to meaningful discussion of economic issues and its attendant refusal to engage in meaningful bargaining on economic issues held violative, since no binding agreement to resolve non-economic issues prior to meaningful discussion of economic issues existed; U had never agreed to this procedure and E insisted on conducting negotiations as if U had so agreed)

Deister Concentrator Company, Inc. 253 NLRB No. 040

(offer of 3-1/2 month contract)

Interstate Paper Supply Company, Inc. 251 NLRB NO. 189

(E's insistence during negotiations on giving nonstrikers and replacements recall rights over strikers in event of layoff, unlawful, since granting of superseniority violates 8(a)(3), and insistence on such unlawful superseniority plan violates 8(a)(5), even though no layoff had occurred and thus no striker had been injured; however, 8(a)(5) allegation herein regarding layoff recall rights dismissed since GC did not meet burden of proving that E insisted on such plan)

Interstate Paper Supply Company, Inc. 251 NLRB NO. 189

(while agreeing with ALJ's finding that E's inistence during negotiations on proposal depriving strikers of accrual of seniority for period they were on strike was unlawful, Bd disavowed ALJ's reliance on any adverse effect E's seniority plan might have on strikers' pensions, vacation, or other substantive benefits)

Interstate Paper Supply Company, Inc. 251 NLRB NO. 189

(agreement, insisted upon by E during negotiations, that strikers be deprived of accrual of seniority for period they were on strike, would be unlawful regardless of whether GC proved anti-U motivation on part of E; implementation of proposal would be inherently destructive of Ee rights due to potential impact it would have on their employment tenure with E, and E failed to present evidence of any business justification for its action; consequently, by insisting on agreement violative of 8(a)(3) had it been implemented, E violated 8(a)(5))

(offer to unit Ees to give up right to bargain or to strike over changes in conditions of employment in exchange for wage increase equal to half of what they would have expected to receive w/o bargaining, unlawful)

Newspaper Printing Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 625 F.2d 956 (C.A. 10, 1980)

(E's insistence to impasse on jurisdictional unit clause which modified unit description so as to give E unilateral control over unit scope unlawful in view of unlawfulness of both insistence on modification of unit scope and insistance to impasse on non-mandatory subject of bargaining; moreover, clause allowing E to change unit composition at will by unilaterally transferring work out of unit would deprive unit Ees of collective representation and bargaining over reduction or elimination of their jobs by work transfers or automation)

6067-2060-3317 Discriminatry seniority clause

Gehnrich & Gehnrich, Inc. 258 NLRB No. 075

(proposing that strikers not accrue seniority for time they were on strike or receive general wage increases granted to nonstriking Ees during strike, not unlawful, where E did not insist upon either proposal and subsequently withdrew proposals voluntarily during negotiations)

Interstate Paper Supply Company, Inc. 251 NLRB NO. 189

(E insistence, during contract negotiations, on proposal depriving strikers of accrual of seniority for period Ees were on strike, violative, since they could be penalized for strike activity in manner which could affect their tenure of employment, and it is well settled that, except to the extent that a striker may be replaced during an economic strike, his employment relationship cannot otherwise be severed or impaired because of his strike activity)

N.L.R.B. v. Mar-Len Cabinets, Inc. 659 F.2d 995 (C.A. 9, Oct. 1981)

Laredo Packing Company 254 NLRB No. 001
(E's insistence to impasse on U withdrawal of ULP charges and settlement of backpay in ct suit as condition of signing bargaining agreement, unlawful, not withstanding E expressed willingness to drop nonmandatory subjects after complaints issued)

Carbonex Coal Company 248 NLRB No. 107

Patrick & Company 248 NLRB No. 061

Parkview Nursing Center II Corp. 260 NLRB No. 037

Huck Manufacturing Company v. N.L.R.B. 693 F.2d 1176 (C.A. 5, Dec. 1982)

6067-2060-4900 Contract to expire within certification year

Harry Sann, Jr. and Winton R. Wagner, Partners d/b/a Briarcliff Pavilion For Specialized Care 260 NLRB No. 184

Huck Manufacturing Company 254 NLRB No. 088
(E's instance that contract expire at end of certification year violative as this would create contract of less than 1 year deviation)

Furr's Cafeterias, Inc. 251 NLRB No. 125

Crestline Memorial Hospital Association, Inc. 250 NLRB No. 028

Crestline Memorial Hospital Association, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 668 F.2d 243 (C.A. 6, Jan. 1982)
(where certification year due to expire in 2 months insistence on that time period as contract term violative)

N.L.R.B. v. Mar-Len Cabinets, Inc. 659 F.2d 995 (C.A. 9, Oct. 1981)

Parkview Nursing Center II Corp. 260 NLRB No. 037

Indiana Bell Telephone Company, Inc. 252 NLRB No. 065
(no violation where E at first would only arbitrate contractual grievances at its location but later offered to alternate with U in choosing site; moreover, E has no obligation to conduct all arbitrations at plant location, U's choice)

Harowe Servo Controls, Inc. 250 NLRB No. 120

Pittsburgh-Des Moines Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 663 F.2d 956 (C.A. 9, Dec. 1981)
(contract proposal, rejected by U during negotiations and subsequently withdrawn by E, ceased to exist and could no longer form basis for agreement where E's withdrawal was fully justified)

Pittsburgh-Des Moines Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 663 F.2d 956 (C.A. 9, Dec. 1981)
(ct rejected proposition implicit in Bd's conclusion that in face of U's unequivocal rejection of E's offer, E was somehow committed to all portions of the proposal as to which tentative agreement had been reached; that U could hold E to what U liked while rejecting that which it disapproved. Party may retract proposal before other side has accepted it)

6067-2060-6600 Illegal or unreasonable demands

Parkview Nursing Center II Corp. 260 NLRB No. 037

Puerto Rico Hotel Association 259 NLRB No. [illegible]
(hotels conditioning further bargaining upon U's conceding that musicians in unit were not Ees because of personal contracts and thus w/o protection of Act or upon U withdrawing ULP charges, unlawful, in view of holding herein that musicians were Ees of hotels)

Huck Manufacturing Company 254 NLRB No. 088

(E's insistence to impasse on jurisdictional unit clause which modified unit description so as to give E unilateral control over unit scope unlawful in view of unlawfulness of both insistence on modification of unit scope and insistence to impasse on non-mandatory subject of bargaining; moreover, clause allowing E to change unit composition at will by unilaterally transferring work out of unit would deprive unit Ees of collective representation and bargaining over reduction or elimination of their jobs by work transfers or automation)

The Mead Corporation 256 NLRB No. 108
(E required to reinstate its unlawfully withdrawn offer concerning wage rate adjustments for consideration by U for reasonable period of time (20 days), since it is Bd's policy to order restoration of status quo ante to extent feasible where there is no evidence that to do so would impose undue or unfair burden on E; remedy not barred by H. K. Porter Co., Inc., Disston Division-Danville Works v. N.L.R.B 397 U.S. 99 (1970) since remedy merely requires E to do what it had previously agreed to do)

(communicating directly with Ees by posting notice soliciting Ees to refuse to honor strike if called, advising Ees to resign from U to avoid fire in absence of U threat to fire, unilaterally raising wages, withdrawing last contract offer, ceasing bargaining, coercively threatening Ees, and establishing Ee committee, violative, notice was calculated to undermine U and set stage for further attempts to bypass and ignore U)

Walker Die Casting, Inc. 255 NLRB No. 034
(withdrawal of final offer because U struck E, violative as U effectively terminated negotiations instead of continuing good faith negotiations)

Hickinbotham Bros. Ltd. 254 NLRB No. 022
(E's allegedly regressive bargaining proposals, not unlawful, where E's prestrike proposals remained outstanding for month after strike began during which time E weathered strike and gained economic strenght as result of which it dropped some of its proposals made in effort to avoid strike, and it was not illegal for E to capitalize on new found strenght to secure contract terms it desired; moreover, E's specific reasons for its reversion to earlier proposals were not so illogical as to warrant finding intent not to reach agreement)

Atlas Metal Parts Co., Inc. 252 NLRB No. 029

Capitol-Husting Company, Inc. 252 NLRB No. 009
(where E agreed to match any proposal which U could obtain from either one of E's two named competitors, E's reneging on its agreement when confronted by U with such proposal, violative)

(ct held E's alleged reneging following strike on number of zones in provision for wage zones, not unlawful, where parties were negotiating subject to mutual initial understanding that all agreements on non-economic issues were tentative until final agreement had been reached on all issues; further, absent bad faith, following strike E may repudiate previously made concessions, and herein change was justified by E's economic decision to close two of its four facilities)

Walker Die Casting, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 682 F.2d 592 (C.A. 6, July 1982)
(no ULP where E's withdrawal of final offer during contract negotiations with U, but after economic strike started; E's action was legitimate bargaining tactic reflecting changed economic background)

(enforcement of bargaining order denied where U flatly rejected E's contract proposal concerning Ee retirement funds and E withdrew its proposal but E reiterated its willingness to negotiate with U; refusal to bargain was on part of U; U business representative's reckless (misunderstood) report of E's proposal to U members that proposal had been deleted from contract cannot be held against E)

6067-2070-6700 Conditions outside area of mandatory bargaining

Georgia Kraft Company, Woodcraft Division 258 NLRB No. 121

(E's refusal to execute contract held violative where, after 5 meetings between E and U to modify and renegotiate current contract, U, by telegram, advised E that (E's) last offer had been accepted as final and binding contract and that contacted strikers would return to work notwithstanding U did not intend to accept E's proposal on discipline of strikers who allegedly had committed acts of misconduct during strike)

Mercury Marine Division of Brunswick Corporation 259 NLRB No. 110

(E where UC ptn filed to determine exclusion or inclusion of job classification in bargaining unit opposing party on notice that petitioner intended to resolve unit issue through Bd's procedures rather than through negotiations; therefore, failure of U to insist that these Ees be included in unit during contract negotiations is not abandonment of its position)

National Steel Service Center, Inc. JD-395-80

(E's insisting to impasse on change in scope of unit, unlawful, since scope of unit nonmandatory subject of bargaining)

6067-2070-6780 Insistence upon stenographic transcript of negotiations

Latrobe Steel Company v. N.L.R.B. 630 F.2d 171 (C.A. 3, 1980)

(it would be contrary to policy of Act, which mandates negotiation over substantive provisions of E-Ee relationship, to permit negotiations to break down over presence of ct reporter at negotiating session, since issue did not involve wages, hours and other terms and conditions of employment; issue was one of preliminary procedure)

N.L.R.B. v. Bartlett-Collins Company 639 F.2d 652 (C.A. 10, 1981)

(Bd was justified in finding E failed to bargain in good faith by insisting to impasse that bargaining sessions be stenographically recorded, notwithstanding E's contention that issue was simply how to read, where U made counterproposal to E's demand for stenographic recording but E was unwilling to budge, declaring that court reporter's transcription was precondition to further bargaining)

(E's refusal to continue to bargain unless and until its Ees abandoned ULP strike, violative)

Albion Corporation d/b/a Brooks Towers, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 692 F.2d 874 (C.A. 10, July 1982)

(notwithstanding Bd accepted ALJ's determination that E had not adopted and maintained its bargaining strategy with its janitorial Ees for other than legitimate reasons, E nontheless violated Act by conditioning reinstatement of striking maintenance Ees upon acceptance of the lower janitorial wage after they had unconditionally offered to return to work; therefore, no meaningful bargaining over wages possible so long as reinstatement of maintenance Ees used as bargaining bait by E to force acceptance of its terms. No good-faith impasse could exist because E unlawfully refused to restore status quo)

6067-2070-7000 Continuation of existing terms and conditions

Robbins Door & Sash Company, Inc. 260 NLRB No. [illegible]

(E's discontinuance of dues-check off after expiration of contract not violative as that duty is extinguished with expiration of contract)

6067-2080 Uncompromising attitude or refusal to make concessions

6067-2080-0100 Generally

Hudson Chemical Company 258 NLRB No. [illegible]

(surface bargaining rather than hard bargaining violative where conduct of E exhibited refusal to budge from its original demands and was intended to insure that no agreement would be reached; U not equally stubborn where, during negotiations, it gave up far worse than was given to it)

Westvaco Corporation, d/b/a Westvaco Gauley Woodyard v. N.L.R.B. 639 F.2d 189 (C.A. 4, 1981)

(no violation, where E took firm stand on several issues as legitimate reasons existed for position of E and good faith negotiation does not compel party to agree to proposal or make concession)

6067-2080-1200 Intransigence

A-1 King Size Sandwiches, Inc. 265 NLRB No. 127

(E's refusal to consider modification of basic wage rates, unlawful)

Signal Transformer Co., Inc. 265 NLRB No. [illegible]

(E's president walking out of meeting with mediator, lawyers and representatives of both sides upon being informed U membership had rejected contract reached after long good faith bargaining, and upon return told mediator he doubted U's ability to sell offer and it was useless dealing with them because it was unrepresentative group, not unlawful refusal to bargain when considered in context of long peaceful bargaining relationship and negotiating contained between attorneys)

Alle Arecibo Corporation and Alle Industries Ltd. 264 NLRB No. 165

(E's flat refusal even to entertain idea of continuing superseniority, equal distribution of work, and grievance and arbitration provisions, violative)

Billion Motors, Inc., d/b/a Billion Oldsmobile-Toyota 260 NLRB No. [illegible]

Research Products/Blankenship Company 258 NLRB No. [illegible]

(E's insistence upon deletion of dues check-off clause, while providing no reasonable economic or even philosophical basis for desiring such modification, violative)

Research Products/Blankenship Company 258 NLRB No. [illegible]

(E's insisting that vacations for Ees be reduced from 2 weeks to 1 week and consistently maintaining fixed position on proposal while failing to support necessity or desire for such change with any economic or other reasonable justification, violative)

Rockingham Machine-Lunex Company 255 NLRB No. 015

(E failed to bargain in good faith where it had predetermined intention not to reach agreement with U on U dues checkoff, offered only minimal concessions on both non-economic and economic demands, made unfounded threats of plant closure, and committed various ULPs away from bargaining table including unilateral changes, threats of discharge, refusal to pay strikers vacation pay)

Central Virginia Electric Cooperative 254 NLRB No. 066

(E's not bargaining about subcontracting with open and fair mind, violative, where E made reference to possibility of subcontracting at meeting with U in that it only recognized its obligation to bargain regarding the impact on Ees resulting from E's decision)

Hickinbotham Bros. Ltd. 254 NLRB No. 022

(it is not illegal per se to propose and bargain concerning broad management rights clause; rather, rigid and inflexible insistence on inclusion in contract of sweeping management rights clause may, under some circumstances, constitute evidence of bad-faith bargaining)

Eastern Maine Medical Center 253 NLRB No. [illegible]

(E's intransigent position in refusing to bargain in good faith was evidenced by its refusal to even consider reaching tentative agreement on economic matters until either noneconomic issues or acceptance of its noneconomic proposals was resolved; by postponing economic bargaining to end of negotiations, E reduces flexibility of bargaining and narrows range of possible compromises with result of rigidly and unreasonably fragmenting negotiations)

Roberts Oldsmobile, Inc. 252 NLRB No. [illegible]

(E's proposed strike settlement agreement not violative of 8(a)(3) nor 8(a)(5) notwithstanding that the proposal included provision for withdrawal of ULP charges pending as result of the strike, where contrary to GC's contention there is no evidence that E established, as unyielding term of reinstatement of strikers, that ULP charges be withdrawn by U or that E insisted on such withdrawals as condition precedent to resumption of bargaining)

Barrow Servo Controls, Inc. 250 NLRB No. 120

(refusal to negotiate over pay of group leaders who comprise part of bargaining unit)

Cable Vision, Inc. 249 NLRB No. 062

Smyth Manufacturing Company, Inc.; Beacon Industries 247 NLRB No. 164

(rigid insistence, for purpose of precluding agreement on terms other than erosion of U's role as representative, on open shop provision, on grievance procedure with limited U role, and on merit wage increase system w/o U participation in its operation, unlawful)

N.L.R.B. v. Cable Vision, Inc. 660 F.2d 1 (C.A. 1, Sept. 1981)

(E did not bargain in good faith where it remained immovable in most key bargaining areas and, while U made important concessions in 14 of 16 key bargaining areas, E's concessions were minor)

N.L.R.B. v. Cable Vision, Inc. 660 F.2d 1 (C.A. 1, Sept. 1981)

(while adamant insistence on a bargaining position is not in itself a refusal to bargain in good faith, and use of E's relative economic strenght to exert pressure on U is of itself not at all inconsistent with duty to bargain in good faith, failure to come close to agreement accompanied by failure to make meaningful concessions on nearly every substantive issue suggests that something is awry, since one major function of collective bargaining is to allow parties to separately order their priorities and then to trade off what is less important for what is more important to each side individually)

Eastern Maine Medical Center v. N.L.R.B. 658 F.2d 1 (C.A. 1, 1981)

(intransigence in insisting on verbatim retention of all language of management rights clause which gave E unilateral control over every aspect of employment relationship except wages and benefits and which, in case of doubt, would prevail over other inconsistent provisions, unlawful)

Rockingham Machine-Lunex Company v. N.L.R.B. 665 F.2d 303 (C.A. 8, Dec. 1981)

(E unlawfully refused to bargain where it rescinded or modified over a dozen provisions, offered only minimal concessions to U, and had predetermined intention not to reach agreement on mandatory subject of dues checkoff)

6067-2080-2300 Nominal or illusory concessions do not establish good faith

K Mart Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 626 F.2d 704 (C.A. 9, 1980)

(offers of little or no wage increase, delay in presenting proposal and refusal to supply information to substantiate E's claim that it was unable to pay salary increase constitute bad faith bargaining)

6067-2080-3100 Refusal to continue predecessor contract until completion of new contract

Research Products/Blankenship Company 258 NLRB No. 003

(E's refusal to agree to U's request that terms of predecessor contract, including no-strike clause, be continued until completion of new contract, violative)

6067-2080-3700 Wage increases and other unilateral changes in employment terms

Strathers Wells Corporation 262 NLRB No. 136

(E's insistence on deletion of juridiction-unit clause which prohibited any non-unit Ees from performing unit work, unlawful, since E's proposal would deny exclusive recognition of U as representative of unit Ees, and E's insistence upon right to withdraw partial or total recognition of U was evidence of intent to frustrate agreement; nor was E acting in good faith assertedly because U desired parity with contract w/o juriadictional clause E negotiated with another U, since U herein was seeking purely economic parity, and other U's prior contract had no juriadictional clause)

Strathers Wells Corporation 262 NLRB No. 136

(E's proposal and subsequent insistence on right to deny U any role in representing Ees on issue of merit wage reviews, unlawful, since such insistence on U's waiver of its right to represent Ees in such important area as merit wage increases was evidence of bad faith, and E was not privileged to insist upon U's waiving its statutory rights simply because different U representing dissimilar unit had agreed to such proposal)

Strathers Wells Corporation 262 NLRB No. 136

(E's insistence on deletion of provision allowing U to file class grievance on behalf of all similarly situated Ees at third step of grievance procedure, not unlawful, since, unlike situation in which U is excluded from handling all grievances until latter stages of grievance procedures are reached, U here remained accessible to Ees at all stages of grievance procedure, and U would only have lost right to file class grievances directly at third step; and inability to file such grievances in no way diminishes U's representational status)

Strathers Wells Corporation 262 NLRB No. 136

(E's insistence on elimination from new contract of provisions pertaining to job bidding and posting procedures contained in expired contract unlawful, since E's demand for unilateral control of all promotional opportunities would divest U of representational status in most vital area of employment relationship)

Strathers Wells Corporation 262 NLRB No. 136

(E's proposal and insistence upon reduced wage structure and increased probationary period, not unlawful, where, after delay, U was given information necessary to bargain about wage-structure; E conceded to U's objection on ranking of two jobs, and there was no evidence that had U made other such objections E would not have entertained them; and E bargained and did not show unyielding attitude on issue of increased probationary period which E had right to seek because it proposed to make jobs more complex)

Strathers Wells Corporation 262 NLRB No. 136

(E's proposal and insistence upon contract provision requiring that Ees, in layoff situation bumping junior Ees, efficiently perform latter's work and assume bumped Ee's wage rate, not unlawful; while word efficiently set higher standard for bumping Ees, it is not evidence of bad faith, since E is not forbidden to seek to raise efficiency standards, and proposal that bumping Ee take wage rate of bumped Ee is purely economic proposal upon which E had right to insist)

Strathers Wells Corporation 262 NLRB No. 136

(E's insistence upon deletion of U shop clause and substitution of maintenance of membership clause, unlawful, since, assuming E took position as matter of principle that Ees hired during ULP strike should not be compelled to join U, it cannot take advantage of its own ULPs; having created situation of new Ees by unlawfully failing to reinstate ULP strikers, E cannot thereby extinguish U-security agreement of longstanding; moreover, even if E lawfully refused to reinstate strikers, its proposed maintenance of membership clause covered all Ees who may have elected to withdraw from U membership after prior contract's expiration)

University of Vermont/Vermont Educational Television 258 NLRB No. 001

(refusal of nonprofit E which was funded largely by legislative appropriation to agree to immediate wage increase held hard bargaining and not unlawful in view of E's claim of inability to pay increase -- due to lack of funds and uncertainty as to amount of appropriation -- and other substantial reasons where E exhibited overall subjective good faith in bargaining and no intention to use same strategy in future to delay negotiations until it received funding)

Atlas Metal Parts Co., Inc. 252 NLRB No. 029

(elimination of pension plan and substitution of direct payment which Ees could use for IRA pension funds)

Patrick & Company 248 NLRB No. 061

(E's refusal to discuss U's proposals other than economic and conditioning negotiation of agreement on U's acceptance of E's wage proposals, unlawful; contention impasse reached regarding wages, rejected; further, impasse regarding wages would not justify refusal to bargain regarding remainder of U's proposals)

South Shore Hospital v. N.L.R.B. 630 F.2d 40 (C.A. 1, 1980)

(E's refusal to make proposed wage increases for represented Ees in its final offer retroactive so as to equal wage increases already granted its unrepresented Ees, unlawful where its stated business reasons that it would be disadvantageous for it to do so resulted from its own unlawful bargaining strategy)

Aaron Brothers Company, a Division of Chromalloy American Corp. v. N.L.R.B. 661 F.2d 750 (C.A. 9, Nov. 1981)

(refusing to entertain wage proposals beyond amount granted by unilateral wage increase, unlawful where record indicated E wished to circumvent bargaining and did not inform U of wage increase because of doubt of U's continued majority support)

6067-2080-4000 Strict security clause

Marriott In-Flite Service, A Division of Marriott Corporation 258 NLRB No. 099

(E's close minded rejection of U security and checkoff, unlawful, in context of other acts constituting refusal to bargain in good faith)

Pease Company v. N.L.R.B. 666 F.2d 1036 (C.A. 6, Dec. 1981)

(ct held that neither bargaining proposals nor tactics of E, nor sum of its conduct, amounted to substantial evidence of bad faith; ct determined that this was case of hard bargaining between two parties who used their respective economic power to their best advantage)

6067-2080-4300 Union-security provisions

Rockingham Machine-Lunex Company 255 NLRB No. 015

(E failed to bargain in good faith where it had predetermined intention not to reach agreement with U on U dues checkoff, offered only minimal concessions on both non-economic and economic demands, made unfounded

threats of plant closure, and committed various ULPs away from bargaining table including unilateral changes, threats of discharge, refusal to pay strikers vacation pay)

Atlas Metal Parts Co., Inc. 252 NLRB No. 029

Hospitality Motor Inn, Inc. 249 NLRB No. 145
(E's contention that collection of U dues not E's responsibility, would constitute endorsement of U, and assertion of philosophical objections to checkoff does not satisfy statutory obligation to bargain, particularly where E did not ban solicitation for other causes; further, checkoff serves public good)

Bureau of Rehabilitation of The National Capital Area JD-262-82
(E's entering into and participating in negotiations with fixed intention not to consider or agree to any form of U security or checkoff, violative; inference of such intention was warranted where E adamantly opposed U security and checkoff on vague or generalized philosophical grounds, or questionable assertions of policy)

Potters' Medical Center, Inc. JD-605-81

Atlas Metal Parts Co., Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 660 F.2d 304 (C.A. 7, Sep. 1981)
(E's adherence to position that U-security clause and checkoff provisions be eliminated from contract, not unlawful where E made concessions on 34 of its 36 initial proposals)

(E unlawfully refused to bargain where it rescinded or modified over a dozen provisions, offered only minimal concessions to U, and had predetermined intention not to reach agreement on mandatory subject of dues checkoff)

6067-2080-4400 Non-discrimination provision

Hospitality Motor Inn, Inc. 249 NLRB No. 145
(E's rejection of provision prohibiting racial or sexual discrimination, unlawful, notwithstanding E's contention unnecessary because law already prohibits discrimination and that it had not and did not intend to discriminate)

6067-2080-4900 Recognition clause

Puerto Rico Hotel Association 259 NLRB No. 088
(no violation, where E hotel changed wording of recognitional clause of renewal bargaining agreement by inserting initials of U (AFM) before musicians after agreement had been reached but prior to final signatures, since fact U's president did not consciously assent to use of insertion did not require finding he did not assent to its use, parties agreed not members only contract, and change was to reflect agreement as it had been in past)

6067-2080-5600 Failure to make counter-proposals

Alls Arecibo Corporation and Alls Industries Ltd. 264 NLRB No. 163
(refusing to offer counterproposals on economic items above minimum requirements of local law, violative)

Taurus Waste Disposal, Inc. 263 NLRB No. 028
(violation, in view of E's whole course of conduct where for four months E failed to respond to communications from U requesting bargaining for new contract and failed to meet with U, cancelling meetings w/o proposing any additional meetings, and failed to make any counterproposals to U's proposed contract)

Hudson Chemical Company 258 NLRB No. 009
(E's failure, during contract negotiations, to define, explain and advocate its position and, instead, its attempt to thrust its deletions from prior contracts on U on take it-or leave it basis constitute additional indicia of E's lack of sincere attempt to conduct meaningful negotiations)

U.S. Contractors, Inc., and The Dow Chemical Company, U.S.A., Texas Division 257 NLRB No. 152
(alleged failure and refusal of E to bargain with certified U over E's decision to cease operating its janitorial division and lay off all janitorial Ees held not violative where E was advised by its counsel of necessity of bargaining concerning cancelling custodial contract and its effect on janitorial Ees and where U abruptly ended negotiating meeting with comment that there was nothing left to discuss; U did not avail itself of opportunity to discuss E's decision after E had requested response from U)

Rockingham Machine-Lunex Company 238 NLRB No. 015
(refusal to bargain in good faith not evinced by E's submission of only 19 proposals in first 10 bargaining sessions since conduct merely reflective of bargaining format utilized wherein parties bargained from U's proposed contract)

Southside Electric Cooperative, Inc. 247 NLRB No. 107
(E announcing that it believed U had no majority and that it was only meeting because ct had ordered it to, presenting as final offer contract which included no wage increases or changes in existing benefits with wage reopener clause which required mutual consent which E knew U opposed and declining to make further proposals when its offer rejected by U membership)

N.L.R.B. v. Cable Vision, Inc. 660 F.2d 1 (C.A. 1, Sept. 1981)
(E did not bargain in good faith where it made little meaningful response to U's offers and counter-offers to the point that, after 22 months of bargaining, parties reached agreement on only one of 16 priority substantive issues)

(E's implementation of its final offer absent valid pre-existing impasse, or U consent, violative)

Willard A. Selle, Inc. d/b/a Selle Insulation Company JD-528-81
(no bad faith bargaining in violation of settlement agreement where E made proposal and marked it final insisting on industrial terms which would permit it to use skilled insulators in variety of non-insulation jobs when need arose as it had during illegal strike of U journeymen, in view of fact E had adopted different method of operation during illegal strike and proposals were to allow it to continue operating in same manner)

6067-2080-6200 Insistence on unilateral power to act on matters within employment relationship

6067-2080-6900 Refusal to arbitrate, grievance or interference with arbitration machinery

GAF Corporation 265 NLRB No. 176
(no violation where E refused to submit claim that it changed retirees benefits w/o explanation to grievance procedure of collective bargaining agreement, but rather elected to go under claims procedures provided under separate ERISA Pension Agreement executed by U and E, as latter procedure specifically designed to handle such disputes, required to be utilized by ERISA and E willing to have grievance's merits resolved under its provisions)

Pittsburgh-Des Moines Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 663 F.2d 956 (C.A. 9, Dec. 1981)

(Bd must consider totality of the circumstances which are indicative of mental state in deciding whether or not (E) genuinely desires to reach an agreement; it does not suffice to rely solely upon the terms of contract proposals which Bd can properly look at. In addition, however, Bd must show substantial evidence that E's attitude was inconsistent with its duty to seek agreement)

Pittsburgh-Des Moines Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 663 F.2d 956 (C.A. 9, Dec. 1981)

(enforcement of bargaining order denied where U flatly rejected E's contract proposal concerning Ee retirement funds and E withdrew its proposal but E reiterated its willingness to negotiate with U; refusal to bargain was on part of U; U business representative's reckless (misunderstood) report of E's proposal to U members that proposal had been deleted from contract cannot be held against E)

6067-2080-8700 Insistence on limiting contract to certification year

Huck Manufacturing Company v. N.L.R.B. 693 F.2d 1176 (C.A. 5, Dec. 1982)

Struthers Wells Corporation 262 NLRB No. 136

(while E bargained in good faith on some topics, its overall course of conduct in negotiations constituted unlawful refusal to bargain; finding that E unlawfully refused to bargain by insisting on deletion of certain provisions does not in any way derogate from statutory scheme prohibiting compulsion by Bd or cts over actual terms of bargaining agreement; while E is not required to agree to re-establishment of precise clauses of prior contract, E is required to bargain with U in manner consistent with Sec. 8(d) requirements)

Schnelli Enterprises, Inc. d/b/a Cellar Restaurant 262 NLRB No. 094

Chevron Chemical Company 261 NLRB No. 004

(no unlawful refusal to bargain by E where E's proposals indicated hard bargaining rather than bad faith and displayed no harshness, vindictiveness or unreasonableness, and record showed no intent to undermine ongoing bargaining relationship, no refusal to meet and confer, provide information, make concessions, or justify bargaining posture; parties were not at impasse, no other ULPs were involved and record reflected no conduct away from bargaining table suggesting bad faith in negotiating)

Parkview Nursing Center II Corp. 260 NLRB No. 037

(E unlawfully refused to bargain in view of its totality of conduct both at and away from bargaining table and cumlative force of circumstances, where U was in same position at end of negotiations as when it started negotiating because E continually subjected progress in negotiations to needless delays, sudden changes, and outright repudiations of agreed upon proposals, new negotiations, or change in status and authority of its representatives at bargaining table)

F.M.L. Supply, Inc. 258 NLRB No. 083

(including E's refusal to bargain over agreement that E led U to believe was extant but was't and E's unilateral changes with respect to such agreement)

Pittsburgh–Des Moines Steel Co. 253 NLRB No. 086

(E's withdrawal of its original proposals tentatively agreed upon by U during negotiations for new contract, and substituting, w/o explanation, regressive proposals to U concerning U security, checkoff, picket line and right to strike provisions held violative, since E's reasons for, and timing of, its actions bore no relation to restrictive changes proposed; E's overall course of conduct evidenced intent to frustrate bargaining)

Eastern Maine Medical Center 253 NLRB No. 024

(E's conduct throughout negotiations evidenced intent not to bargain in good faith and to undermine U as Ee representative, demonstrating classic case of E who is prepared to sit at bargaining table almost forever and to make concessions here and there as means by which to conceal a purposeful strategy to make bargaining futile or to fail)

Pease Company 251 NLRB No. 080

(where ALJ found that by its unlawful conduct herein, E had demonstrated intent not to veer from its previously established conduct which Bd had found unlawful in prior case, and that such conduct, taken as a whole, constituted a further violation of 8(a)(5) and (1), Bd found such additional finding unwarranted inasmuch as no such overall allegation was specifically alleged as violation or fully litigated at hearing)

Chateau Vegas JD-(SF)-132-82

Temp Tech Industries, Inc. JD-288-82

(violation where E, from time it received U's initial request to bargain, deliberately set forth to delay, confuse and obstruct meaningful bargaining)

Clyde W. Dent Carpet Installation, Inc. JD-389-80
(E held to have refused to bargain in good faith where E, on several occasions, failed to meet with U at previously scheduled times; from the outset of bargaining, E's negotiator expressly voiced his belief that bargaining was futile and E went through the motions of negotiations without any serious intent to adjust differences and reach acceptable common ground)

H. H Frederickson Co. JD-(SF)-64-80
(E's general course of conduct, considered in totality, did not reflect E's purpose to frustrate or forestall contractual consensus, as evidenced, among other considerations, by absence of meeting of the minds or of consensus with respect to specific contract terms, and by fact that E's draft proposals cannot be considered clear repudiation of some tentative concession previously reached, and that E's bargaining tactics, though clearly firm, reflected no persistent or pervasive rigidity)

N.L.R.B. v. Cable Vision, Inc. 660 F.2d 1 (C.A. 1, Sept. 1981)
(in case of surface bargaining, shadowboxing to a draw, or giving U a run-around the question is whether it is to be inferred from totality of E's conduct that he went through motions of negotiations as an elaborate pretense with no sincere desire to reach an agreement if possible, or that it bargained in good faith but was unable to arrive at an acceptable agreement with U)

Soule Glass and Glazing Co., et al. v. N.L.R.B. 652 F.2d 1055 (C.A. 1, May 1981)
(no separate violation based on totality of conduct, notwithstanding E's unlawful granting of wage increase, strike misconduct by supervisors, failure to bargain regarding plant closing and diversion of unit work and failure to furnish information, since each was essentially isolated event, absent evidence of bad faith bargaining as inferred from unreasonableness of E's substantive positions at bargaining table)

Weirton Steel, Division of National Steel Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 689 F.2d 504 (C.A. 4, Sept. 1982)
(enforcement denied since there was no refusal to bargain over stock investment plan where E remained firm but did not refuse to discuss it or economic alternatives, made other concessions and compromises, and provided new benefits; ct placed little reliance on vague and conflicting testimony of U bargaining committee members about unrecorded session and found it against public policy for party which w/o reservations ratified agreement viable in all aspects to be permitted to complain later of injustice)

J. P. Stevens & Co., Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 623 F.2d 322 (C.A. 4, 1980)
(from totality of evidence concerning circumstances of bargaining, Bd could rationally infer E had not bargained in good faith as required by Act)

Huck Manufacturing Company v. N.L.R.B. 693 F.2d 1176 (C.A. 5, Dec. 1982)
(although it was dubious that E's refusal to consider arbitration alone was evidence of bad faith— E's UAW contract did not allow arbitration—, Bd's finding of bad faith was supported by totality of E's conduct, particularly its position on contract duration and its disparate treatment of U and nonU Ees)

N.L.R.B. v. Hospitality Motor Inn, Inc. 667 F.2d 562 (C.A. 6, Jan. 1982)
(ct held substantial evidence supported Bd finding that E's promotion of U adherent, its refusal to accept U proposals on dues checkoff and U security, its insistence on broad management rights clause which would have permitted unilateral acts by E and its refusal to accept no discrimination and no individual contracts clauses constituted bargaining in bad faith, Bd has been afforded flexibility to determine...whether party's conduct at the bargaining table evidences a real desire to come into agreement)

(ct held that neither bargaining proposals nor tactics of E, nor sum of its conduct, amounted to substantial evidence of bad faith; ct determined that this was case of hard bargaining between two parties who used their respective economic power to their best advantage)

Pittsburgh-Des Moines Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 663 F.2d 956 (C.A. 9, Dec. 1981)
(Bd must consider totality of the circumstances which are indicative of mental state in deciding whether or not (E) genuinely desires to reach an agreement; it does not suffice to rely solely upon the terms of contract proposals which Bd can properly look at. In addition, however, Bd must show substantial evidence that E's attitude was inconsistent with its duty to seek agreement)

6067-4001 Generally

RAHCO, Inc. 265 NLRB No. 030
(unilateral changes in Ees' working conditions in instant case made by E adversely affecting both pro and anti-U Ees does not detract from GC's prima facie case)

Rockwell International Corporation 260 NLRB No. [illegible]
(duty to bargain continues during existence of bargaining agreement concerning any mandatory subject of bargaining which has not been specifically covered in the contract and regarding which U has not clearly and unmistakably waived its right to bargain)

Magnolia Manor Nursing Home, Inc. 260 NLRB No. [illegible]
(SCt's Burns decision, relied on by successor E, held not applicable because predecessor E had never negotiated a contract with U, and successor E held to have violated Act by unilaterally changing terms and conditions of employment where it was motivated by U animus in announcing and implementing changes, as evidenced by conduct which showed a desire to have Ee turnover for purpose of reducing U support; but, despite E's efforts, previously certified unit continued to exist as result of which E had duty to bargain over initial terms and conditions of employment)

Bedford Farmers Cooperative 259 NLRB No. 165
(claim of economic necessity, even if sustained, does not excuse E's unilateral actions concerning terms and conditions of employment)

Charmer Industries, Inc. 250 NLRB No. 031
(contention that unilateral change in procedures for collecting c.o.d. payments by having salesmen replace drivers, represented in another unit, in making collections was caused by circumstances beyond Es' control as a consequence of change bargained for in drivers' contract, rejected; execution of agreement with drivers' U did not fall w/i category of external influences, outside agencies or external contingencies which adversely affected interests and environment of salemen)

Lorard Industries, Limited JD-[illegible]-82
(unilateral changes in terms and conditions of employment, including discharge and layoff, between election and certification held violative where there were no compelling economic considerations for discharges and/or layoffs)

Seattle-First National Bank v. N.L.R.B. 638 F.2d 1221 (C.A. 9, 1981)
(those engaged in collective bargaining are normally required to bargain to impasse on all mandatory issues. E's unilateral change in conditions of employment under negotiation is a violation of 8(a)(5) since it is circumvention of duty to negotiate. If one party fails to negotiate in good faith, no valid impasse can be reached)

Road Sprinkler Fitters Local Union No. 669, Plumbers v. N.L.R.B. 676 F.2d 826
(E's statutory duty to bargain with U before unilaterally changing terms and conditions of his Ees' employment is independent of any obligation E may incur under his contract with U)

6067-4001-1700 What constitutes change

Saks & Company d/b/a Saks Fifth Avenue 247 NLRB No. 128
(successor E's changes in pension plan, work week, and vacation, unlawful, where it retained all Ees in unit at predecessor E, except two Ees, where successor E was corporate subsidiary of predecessor, on predecessor's request gave these Ees hiring preference, and there was no indication employment conditioned on terms mentioned in interview; further, predecessor's longstanding, policy of extending joint pension plan to Ees transferred between companies)

Automobile Club of Michigan; Detroit Automibile Inter-Insurance Exchange; Motor Land Insurance Company; Group Insurance Company of Michigan; and Member Life Insurance Company of Michigan JD-[illegible]-82
(requiring salesmen to use contact forms, and, if low producers, to attend classes and telephone calling sessions, not unlawful, since they do not constitute material, substantial or significant changes and were not new with E or industry)

Road Sprinkler Fitters Local Union No. 669, Plumbers v. N.L.R.B. 676 F.2d 826
(modification of practices established by consistent pattern of conduct may constitute change in terms and conditions of employment whether or not it is also breach of contract; in face of such established practice, contract is only relevant to extent that it may indicate U's waiver of its right to bargain; moreover, any waiver of U's statutory rights under Act, by contract or otherwise, must be clear and unmistakable)

6067-4001-1750 Failure to abide by contract

Talbert Manufacturing, Inc. 264 NLRB No. [illegible]
(E's assigning bargaining unit production work to its foremen during course of layoff of unit Ees w/o notifying contracting U held violative, since there never had been layoff at E's plant and its foremen had not previously done production work of type and to extent they did during unit layoff; assignment was contrary to E's past practice and contractual obligation with U)

Vincent Brass & Aluminum Co. 264 NLRB No. 070
(E's refusal to allow bidding down to lower paying job in order to transfer to another shift and subsequently posting no job openings, unlawful unilateral change, notwithstnading not established openings existed after cessation of postings, since contractual provision provided that job vacancies be posted and that assignment be made to senior bidder able to perform work applied to down bidding, and in view of E's unlawful threats regarding Ee's using bidding and statement job bidding would be discontinued)

Ford Brothers, Inc. 263 NLRB No. 011
(implementation of wage scales and conditions of employment at new facility which were different from those in existing collective bargaining agreement w/o agreement thereto by U and consequent failure to apply existing agreement with local U, violative where new facility was accretion to existing bargaining unit)

(unilaterally discontinuing payments to Ee U negotiating committee members for per diem and travel expenses in accordance with past practice and supplemental agreement, violative)

Merrill & Ring, Inc. 262 NLRB No. 039
(E's unilaterally instituting policy of having day-shift Ees report for work before their jury duty w/o affording contractual U reasonable opportunity to bargain held violative, since E's refusal to cease its unlawful conduct provided evidence that unilateral change was irrevocable and change in Ees' jury duty rights, mandatory subject of bargaining, was not so insignificant as to not undermine authority of U)

Presto Casting Company 262 NLRB No. 047
(refusing to implement provisions of contract relating to dues checkoff and Ee grievances, violative)

John Geer Chevrolet Co., Inc., d/b/a Parkwood Chevrolet 262 NLRB No. 034

P. J. Gear & Sons, Inc. 252 NLRB No. 028
(utilizing non-U subcontractors for carpentry work in violation of contract, discharging and failing to recall all bargaining unit Ees, and assigning their work to nonbargaining unit Ees w/o negotiating with U violative)

The Nestle Company, Inc. 251 NLRB No. 142
(violation where E failed to apply pension minimum retroactively, as negotiated, and unilaterally imposed changes in contractual pension plan w/o consent of U)

Newspaper Printing Corporation 250 NLRB No. 132
(additional unilateral changes after impasse in existing terms and conditions of employment held violative)

Arizona Electric Power Cooperative, Inc. 250 NLRB No. 110
(E's withdrawal of recognition from U as representative for E's load dispatchers and lead load dispatcher, alleged to be supervisor, during mid-term contract negotiations and E's contemporaneous unilateral change in lead load dispatcher's compensation violative, since E was not privileged in instant case to alter, unilaterally scope of unit during term of contract covering unit which included load dispatchers)

Franco Glass Company, Rolland Division 250 NLRB No. 144
(E's elimination of incentive pay system before contract term expired, violative, as E is statutorily required to wait until contract expires to implement changes in working conditions; moreover, fact that U had been willing to listen to E's proposal does not constitute waiver of its rights under Sec. 8(d))

Angelus Block Co., Inc., Amari, Inc. 250 NLRB No. 127
(unilaterally instituting classification and wage rates applicable to new equipment at wage rate lower than wage rates in contract, violative, since E repudiated obligation to honor contract executed by one of entities comprising single E)

Dial Tuxedos, Inc. 250 NLRB No. 064
(E unilaterally granting unit Ees Blue Cross and Blue Shield insurance benefits after contract containing provisions for E contributions to U's health plan and insurance fund had expired, held violative, where U had not waived its right to bargain on the health and insurance issue; no impasse had been reached; and change in benefits was not consistent with any previously rejected offer)

L.A.X. Medical Clinic, Inc.; et al. 248 NLRB No. 112
(violation, where successor E, who had hired majority of unit Ees of predecessor, unilaterally changed conditions of employment in contract between U and predecessor E, since at time of hiring it did not indicate any intent to change conditions; E's contention it did not employ full Ee complement at time commenced operations rejected, in view of fact complement did not increase)

Excavation-Construction, Inc. 248 NLRB No. 081
(where upon commencement of strike E unilaterally increased Ees pay by amount it had been contributing to U funds and discontinued its contribution to funds, it violated Act, notwithstanding cost to E remained same)

Independent Stave Company 248 NLRB No. 025
(E's refusal to remit checked-off dues to U held violative, since E failed to comply with checkoff provision in current contract; provision in E's authorization ptn that check-off dues be placed in escrow rather than be paid over to U deprived U of dues which Ees were obligated to pay)

KCW Furniture Company, Inc. 247 NLRB No. 079
(E's implementation of its last offer upon impasse, violative, since contract automatically renewed upon failure to give termination notice; contention that U's notice of opening of labor agreement to negotiate changes in wages, hours, and other forms and conditions of employment terminated contract by, in substance, asking for new agreement, rejected, where contract expressly provided w/o qualification that notice of opening does not terminate or forestall automatic renewal and imposed no limitation or restriction on extent or form which negotiations may take pursuant to such notice)

Wayne Asphalt and Construction Co., Inc. JD-311-82
(Congress rejected provision which would have made it ULP for E or U to violate bargaining agreement and Bd has frequently stated that mere breach of bargaining agreement does not, in itself, violate Act. However, because of Section 8(d) of Act, which defines duty to bargain collectively as including obligation to refrain from terminating or modifying bargaining agreement w/o meeting certain prescribed conditions, attempted modification of agreement can be violative of Section 8(a)(5). Where E effects change which has continuing impact on basic term or condition of employment, such change manifestly constitutes modification w/i Section 8(d))

Wayne Asphalt and Construction Co., Inc. JD-311-82
(E's breach of bargaining agreement by using supervisory and other non-unit personnel to perform unit work on construction sites, violative, since such breach had continuing impact on basic terms and conditions of employment where E had stated it would use non-unit personnel if necessary to relieve its financial distress and had no intention to replace supervisor on job until U complained)

Apex International Management Service JD-(ATL)-86-81

(Duration and Renewal provision in contract between E and U expressly authorized right to negotiate during term of automatically renewed contract; where U gave 60 day notice of opening, E's unilateral implementation of its final offer held unlawful since duration and renewal provision was neither ambiguous nor in violation of Act and bargaining agreement was never terminated)

N.L.R.B. v. Don Burgess Construction Corporation, d/b/a Burgess Construction 596 F.2d 378 (C.A. 9, 1979)

Arco Electric Company v. N.L.R.B. 618 F.2d 698 (C.A. 10, 1980)

asserted good faith doubt of majority U status, where E did not notify U of intent not to renew bargaining obligation as E's letter of assent to expired multi-E bargaining agreement had provided, but rather availed itself of U hiring hall for referral of Ees for 15 months after effective date of new contract and implemented terms of new contract until it encountered economic hardship)

(E's transfer of truck driving duties from one facility to another, violative notwithstanding U had opportunity to bargain about possibility f transfer of w ork where such opportunity was tainted by E's conduct violative of Sec. 8(a)(1), (2), and (3))

M & M Building and Electrical Contractors, Inc., d/b/a M & M Contractors 262 NLRB No. 101
(unilaterally implementing changes 5 days after U received E's written detailed contract proposal, not violative because of unusual circumstances whereby U refused for 7 months to give E bargaining date and then delayed setting date after it demanded immediate bargaining)

Champion Parts Rebuilders, Inc., Northeast Division 260 NLRB No. 098
(where E unilaterally implemented change in photocopying of doctor's excuses, it violated Act as U did not have sufficient notice of an intended charge prior to its implementation to have placed upon it the burden of demanding bargaining)

Huck Manufacturing Company 254 NLRB No. 088
(E which posted notice to Ees concerning proposed pay increase on day after it mailed same proposal to U, before opportunity to bargain, violated Act; finding of implementation is not necessary to finding violation)

M. A. Harrison Manufacturing Company, Inc. 253 NLRB No. 097
(defense of waiver not available to E where E granted unit Ees merit wage increases, percentage wage increases, and extra paid holiday w/o giving U sufficient opportunity to bargain over those unilateral changes which it wanted to do, E and U had made no attempt to bargain on any economic issue during initial negotiations, hence neither party could contend that impasse had been reached justifying unilateral action)

Albion Corporation d/b/a Brooks, Inc. 251 NLRB No. 104
(on ct remand, Bd affirmed ALJ's conclusion that E's treatment of new non-U Ees hired to replace strikers who had refused its offer of reinstatement did not indicate bad faith bargaining, where E applied to them wage provisions of existing contract; E's failure to reduce new Ees' wages, while having U agree to reduction in wages because of E's precarious financial condition, was not an unreasonable business decision and did not adversely reflect upon E's good faith in dealing with U since exclusion of new Ees from contracts fringe benefits gave strikers higher combined compensation rate)

6067-4001-6700 Unfavorable to employees

Peat Manufacturing Company 261 NLRB No. 026

Georgia Kraft Company, Woodcraft Division 258 NLRB No. 121

Electric Machinery Company v. N.L.R.B. 653 F.2d 958 (C.A. 5, Aug 1981)
(no impasse in bargaining negotiations where U at no time refused to bargain nor did U waive its right to bargain; facts did not begin to support defense of impasse because bargaining had only just begun and there appeared no reason which impelled E unilaterally to make changes in Ees' working conditions)

6067-4001-8700 Changes after impasse

Stone Boat Yard 264 NLRB No. 130
(unilaterally discontinuing payments to U's health and welfare and pension plan established by expired collective bargaining agreement and unilaterally implementing company-funded medical insurance plan, violative, where E never provided U any type of written or detailed proposal of changes in expired contract, and therefore, E did not implement changes which were consistent with any pareviously rejected offer, especially in light of fact that U and E had not reached bargaining impasse nor had U waived its right to bargain about changes which were implemented)

Southern Newspapers, Inc., d/b/a The Baytown Sun 255 NLRB No. 022
(Bd law does not require that any change in face of impasse must be exactly the same as a prior proposal or that change must have been subject of a specific proposal; rather, what is required is that change must have been reasonably comprehended by proposals previously offered)

Southern Newspapers, Inc., d/b/a The Baytown Sun 255 NLRB No. 022
(unilateral change in shift hours held not justified even if impasse had existed since it was not reasonably comprehended by E's original proposal which was directed to elimination of night shift and anticipated normal bargaining concerning shift work, whereas effected change was response to serious and real emergency situation, whereby E sought to avoid increased costs resulting from paying more than day shift rates; fact that emergency existed is not necessarily proper basis for unilateral change during negotiations)

(E's failure to bargain regarding its decision to cancel contract for cleaning and maintenance at third party, lawful; difficulty of E determining situation was of such economic necessity that would obviate duty to bargain, and on balance necessity for E to freely make economic decision outweighed benefit gained by bargaining over decision which was not likely to have been forestalled by U participation; ct rejected holding that 8(d) created presumption of mandatory bargaining over decision to close part of business which is rebuttable by showing duty to bargain wouldn't further harmonious relations between parties)

Monongahela Steel Company and Youngstown Steel Corporation 265 NLRB No. 081
(E's failing to meet and negotiate with U about one of its plants after initial negotiating session, and unilaterally closing plant w/o notifying or consulting with U about decision or its effects, unlawful where decision was discriminatorily rather than economically motivated as shown by evidence

Laredo Packing Company 254 NLRB No. 001
(E's failure to bargain regarding temporary discontinuance of operations and resulting layoff of Ees, not unlawful, since U waived right to bargain regarding termination of operation by virture of management rights clause which generally reserved to E right to abolish or change operations, determine extent to which plant will operate, layoff of Ees because of legitimate reasons, sell...terminate, discontinue, or transfer operations due to...economic factors, and E's obligations to bargain was further limited by agreement to permanent discontinuance of operations)

Brockway Motor Trucks, Division of Mack Trucks, Inc. 251 NLRB No. 023
(initial presumption exists that economically motivated partial closing is mandatory subject of bargaining; however, balancing test must be applied in each case to determine whether duty to bargain over decision to close exits and here though E's decision to close based on valid economic reasons, there were no compelling reasons which would have prohibited E from bargaining and its refusal violative, especially where closing not based on sudden or unanticipated situation requiring immediate action)

Boston Gas Company JD-(NY)-101-81
(E did not violate Act when it refused to bargain with U over its decision to terminate retail sale of appliances portion of its within ombit of First National Maintenance Corporation No. 80-548 (1981) U.S. ; moreover, it did bargain in good faith over effects of that decision)

(E's refusal to bargain with U over its decision to discontinue operations at one of its locations, violative since decision was based on economic considerations. Decisive factor is whether, regardless of origin of cost which precipitated management decision to terminate, bargaining could reasonably be expected to modify or reverse that decision, and here U could have made concessions which could possibly have enabled E to remain in operation)

N.L.R.B. v. First National Maintenance Corp. 627 F.2d 596 (C.A. 2, July 1980)
(there is presumption that E has obligation to bargain over decision to partially close business which may be rebutted by showing that purposes of statute would not be furthered by imposition of duty to bargain)

Brockway Motor Trucks, Division of Mack Trucks, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 656 F.2d 32 (C.A. 3, 1981)
(in view of SCt's decision in First National Maintenance Corp. holding that E is not required to bargain with U over its decision to shut down part of its business purely for economic reasons, ct ordered that Bd's consent to a decree denying enforcement of Bd's bargaining and backpay order shall be approved, that ptns for enforcement and review shall be dismissed, that Bd dismiss ULP charges, and that costs shall be imposed on Bd with question of amount reserved until appropriate motion is filed by E)

Road Sprinkler Fitters Local Union No. 669, Plumbers v. N.L.R.B. 676 F.2d 826
(fact that there is group of Ees legitimately outside bargaining unit does not change E's duty with regard to Ees in bargaining unit; non-U company of double-breasted operation is free both to function and to prosper as non-U company as long as its activity is not result of illegal transfer of work from U company)

(E violated duty to bargain where E presented U with fait accompli and prevented U from participation in closing because of delay in informing U of decision to do so, and E would not give U a time table or ask for suggestions)

Electrical Products Division of Midland-Ross Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 617 F.2d 977 (C.A. 3, 1980)
(SCt's emphasis on purpose and effect means inquiry may not stop with basis for valid economic decision to close plant but must also consider manner of its implementation which may constitute ULP, and valid economic decision may not shield E where it has additional motive, as shown by timing, of chilling unionism)

Electrical Products Division of Midland-Ross Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 617 F.2d 977 (C.A. 3, 1980)

6067-4011-7700 Relocation of operations

Lion Uniform, Janesville Apparel Division 259 NLRB No. 143
(E's announcement of tentative decision not to move relocated operation back to facility from which it was temporarily removed because of Ees' strike, not unlawful, where E did in fact offer to negotiate with U about its decision and amply demonstrated that its decision was based upon valid business reasons; contention that announcement presented U with a fait accompli, rejected, since announcement was made during strike when E had no reason to believe Ees would have returned to work regardless of whether work was available)

(unilateral grant of general wage increase, unlawful, despite fact that wages were discussed several times during negotiation meetings, where no impasse existed because of E's bad-faith bargaining; even if bona fide impasse on wages existed, unilateral wage increase was not consistent with E's previously rejected offers, and therefore was unlawful)

Arizona Electric Power Cooperative, Inc. 250 NLRB No. 110
(E's withdrawal of recognition from U as representative for E's load dispatchers and lead load dispatcher, alleged to be supervisor, during mid-term contract negotiations and E's contemporaneous unilateral change in lead load dispatcher's compensation violative, since E was not privileged in instant case to alter, unilaterally scope of unit during term of contract covering unit which included load dispatchers)

H. H Fredericksen Co. JD-(SF)-64-80
(unilateral granting, following impasse, of wage increases with retroactive date, not unlawful, notwithstanding that retroactive compensation had not been previously proffered to U during negotiations, and that E's condition precedent qualifying E's proposal on achievement of contract settlement was never satisfied; E's decision to grant retroactive wage increase did not disparage U's representative status nor constitute rejection of collective bargaining principles, and retroactive increases were reasonably comprehended w/i E's pre-impasse proposals)

Mather Federal Credit Union JD-(SF)-8-80
(unilateral change in E's last wage offer, unlawful, notwithstanding E's contention that impasse ensued because of failure to agree on other issues, where E's efforts to defeat Ees' statutory rights were not reconcilable with requirements of good faith bargaining)

(in summary judgment proceeding, Bd held E's unilateral reduction in wages and portion of its contribution to insurance premiums, cancellation of vacation, holiday, and sick pay and funeral leave, and discontinuance of contribution to Ee pension program, unlawful, since 8(d) prohibits party from unilaterally modifying terms of agreement during its term; inasmuch as no party need agree to modify terms of agreement in midterm, refusal of U to do so did not give E license to modify agreement; nor does E's distressing financial situation justify repudiation or modification of agreement)

Admiral Merchants Motor Freight, Inc. 264 NLRB No. 012
(E's going directly to Ees and coercing agreement to reduce their remuneration w/o notifying U of pending ERISA action requiring E to pay its debts to another U and unilaterally reducing Ees' wages, violative notwithstanding E's contention that inj under ERISA insulated it from Bd finding that Sec. 8(a)(5) and (1) were violated, since inj or any proposed order by Bd would not be in conflict either through asserted clashing of NLRA and ERISA or through principles of comity or judicial administration where inj could not be construed to have been in any way aimed at U represented Ees)

Remodeling By Oltmanns, Inc. 263 NLRB No. 169
(violation, where contractor unilaterally reduced wages of newly hired Ees, increased wages of incumbent Ees, and instituted new insurance and vacation plans, since contractor had obligation to bargain with U after expiration of agreement with U to continue to maintain existing working conditions established by most recent contract between U and contractors' association of which it was not member, U had obtained majority in unit of contractor's Ees after having been recognized under Section 8(f) agreement, contractor had never disavowed bargaining relationship and continued to adhere to contractual terms of employment)

(E's unilateral reduction of wage rates provided for in existing contracts with Us, unlawful; E's contention that it had no obligation to pay strike replacements wages set forth in contracts, rejected)

Southside Electric Cooperative, Inc. 247 NLRB No. 107
(E's unilateral recision of wage increases granted while ALJ's decision on ULP charges pending and after ct had issued injunction against unilateral actions by E, unlawful, notwithstanding E's contention withdrawal of increase resulted from U's objection and threat to refer matter to NLRB for possible contempt proceedings since U's objection was to E's failure to bargain regarding increases rather than to granting per se)

Ernst Construction, Div. of Ernst Steel Corporation JD-826-79
(violation, where E reinstated laid-off Ees at unilaterally established lower rates of pay; E and U had implemented practice of compensating Ees at rates higher than that called for in contract, subsequently E acquiescened in the continuing practice which survived prior instance of layoff and recall of Ees, and E took no steps before or during negotiations of current contract to abrogate, restrict, or alter continuing practice)

Southside Electric Cooperative, Inc. JD-880-79
(unilateral grant of wage increase to Ees and its rescission upon objections by U over lack of bargaining, violative)

N.L.R.B. v. Atlantic International Corporation and its wholly owned subsidiaries, Atlantic Manufacturing Corporation and Atlantic Marketing Corporation 664 F.2d 1231 (C.A. 4, Nov. 1981)

Jack Thompson Oldsmobile, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 684 F.2d 458 (C.A. 7, July 1982)
(Bd abused discretion by ruling that E's withholding of 50% of salesmen's commissions for violating its turnover rule unilaterally changed salesmen's wage structure w/o considering whether contract authorized E to require salesmen to observe turnover rule as condition precedent to receipt of sales commission and, if so, whether 50% commission reduction was excessive in light of E's injury due to loss of turnover customers)

N.L.R.B. v. World Evangelism, Inc. 656 F.2d (C.A. 9, 1981)
(successor E's paying wages to Ees which were lower than those prescribed by predecessor E's contract and discontinuing contributing to Ee's fringe benefit trusts, violative where successor E took these steps w/o prior notice or bargaining with U; it was perfectly clear successor E intended to retain Ees, had adopted predecessor's contract, and therefore was required to consult with U before altering terms of pre-existing contract)

(E's implementation of wage reduction in response to letter from U unlawful, notwithstanding that E's action was not motivated by bad faith but was apparently based on less than careful reading of U's letter which, as testified to by U officials, was a counter-proposal and not, as understood by E, an acceptance of E's earlier proposal)

6067-4033-4100 Cost of living raises

Strathers Wells Corporation 262 NLRB No. 136
(refusal to pay cost-of-living wage adjustment provided for in recently expired contract, unlawful, since cost-of-living adjustment was existing term and condition of employment as established by expired contract, such condition of employment survives expiration of contract and cannot be altered w/o bargaining, and E had duty to continue terms of expired contract unless, unlike here, U waived bargaining on issue or unilateral change was result of rejected E offer after impasse had been reached)

Strathers Wells Corporation 262 NLRB No. 136
(E's sudden withholding of cost-of-living adjustment, provided for in recently expired contract and which E had initially stated it would not eliminate but now stated it would use as leverage in bargaining, unlawful, since E's conduct is analogous to situation where E promises wage increase to Ees effective at later date but later unilaterally withholds it to use as leverage in bargaining)

Michigan Consolidated Gas Company 261 NLRB No. 080
(E's contention that its unilateral decision not to extend existing merit and COLA program covering non-unit Ees to Ees in newly certified bargaining unit was not unlawful on ground that decision was based solely on economics, rejected; even if E's explanation for not implementing program was accurate, it would merely provide reason for refusing to grant wage increases beyond the merit program; and E's explanation would not justify canceling Ees' participation in merit program and then depriving them permanently of canceled benefits throughout protracted negotiations)

Michigan Consolidated Gas Company 261 NLRB No. 080
(E's contention that its unilateral decision not to extend existing merit and COLA program covering non-unit Ees to Ees in newly certified bargaining unit was not unlawful on ground that inclusion of small unit of Ees in merit program could have serious consequences on overall non-unit Ees, rejected, since E thereby acknowledged its concern about non-unit Ees joining U and seeking higher wages and explained why E would be motivated to take reprisals against Ees in new bargaining unit, depriving them of wage increases they would otherwise have received as means of demonstrating that they would be better off w/o U representation)

Michigan Consolidated Gas Company 261 NLRB No. 080
(E's removal of newly certified unit Ees from existing merit and COLA program covering non-unit Ees, unlawful, where E, during Ees' organizational effort, repeatedly referred to adverse effects of unionization at another company; after U won election, E adopted secret strategy to consider merit program waived if U failed to demand its continuation, overruling prior promise not to change existing benefits; and E then withheld merit program benefits and did so with determination, not revealed to U for several months, of never reimbursing Ees for benefits lost during protracted negotiations)

Michigan Consolidated Gas Company 261 NLRB No. 080
(E's contention that U representing Ees in newly certified unit and Ees themselves were put on notice that existing merit and COLA program covering non-unit Ees would not be extended to them in absence of agreement on program, rejected, where no such notice was given during election campaign; failure by Ees to receive their merit reviews was insufficient to constitute notice to Ees or U; house organ news item was annual routine article which did not discuss withdrawal of merit program; and discussions between E and U representatives did not put U on notice)

Michigan Consolidated Gas Company 261 NLRB No. 080
(E's removal of newly certified unit Ees from existing merit and COLA program covering non-unit Ees, and unilateral cancellation of scheduled wage increases due unit Ees, unlawful, where neither U nor Ees received notice of E's proposed action, E's decision to take such action was not made until the last week before program was to go into effect, and E notified U when cancellation of program was an accomplished fact, as result of which meaningful bargaining was obstructed)

Landmark International Trucks, Inc. 257 NLRB No. 170
(Bd, rejecting E's defense of economic necessity in that it had filed for bankruptcy, granted partial summary judgment against E where E unilaterally modified terms of collective bargaining agreement by failing to pay dental insurance premiums pursuant to contract and allowing dental insurance policy to lapse, and by failing to pay cost-of-living increases)

(violation where, following U's certification and start of negotiations, E discontinued Ee first quarter wage supplement, two savings funds, and Christmas bonus w/o consulting with U and in retaliation for Ees' choice of U R)

N.L.R.B. v. Pepsi-Cola Distributing Company of Knoxville, Tennessee, Inc. 646 F.2d 1173 (C.A. 6, May 1981)
(successor E's unilateral cessation of payment of route salesmen's year-old bonuses, unlawful where successor E had assured Ees that it would continue to pay previously established compensation, bonuses were regularly calculated part of that wage compensation, and contract's general waiver clause, was not clear waiver of U's right to bargain)

N.L.R.B. v. Northeast Oklahoma City Manufacturing Company 631 F.2d 669 (C.A. 10, Sept. 1980)
(contention that E fulfilled its duty to bargain by meeting with U representatives and Ees when it was approached concerning late payments of monthly bonuses to Ees, rejected; meetings with U after E had, w/o notice, effected unilateral change of delaying monthly bonus payments, did not exuse its violation of duty to bargain; moreover, there was no U acquiescence in, or failure to protest, unilateral changes)

N.L.R.B. v. Northeast Oklahoma City Manufacturing Company 631 F.2d 669 (C.A. 10, Sept. 1980)
(Bd properly found that E's unilateral delays in making monthly bonus payments to Ees, w/o bargaining, amounted to serious ULP, where E's action affected most of its hourly Ees, repeated failure to pay bonus when due aggravated seriousness of E's offense, bonuses were substantial part of Ees' monthly wages, and E's conduct disparaged collective bargaining process itself, inflicting real injury to U's status as bargaining representative)

6067-4033-5500 Sick leave pay

Care Ambulance, Inc. and Care Ambulance, Inc. d/b/a American Ambulance 255 NLRB No. 064
(announcement and application, following U certification, of new rule for sick leave pay which departed substantially from past practice, unlawful)

Westwood Import Company, Inc. 251 NLRB No. 162
(violation, where successor E, who had hired all but two of predecessor's Ees and was obligated to bargain, unilaterally raised wages of some Ees, and cancelled all accrued seniority, sick leave and vacation rights, and reduced number of paid holidays)

Apex International Management Service JD-(ATL)-86-81
(failure of successor to pay vacation and sick benefits accrued under predecessor's contract, violative)

6067-4033-5700 Jury duty leave policy

Merrill & Ring, Inc. 262 NLRB No. 039
(E's unilaterally instituting policy of having day-shift Ees report for work before their jury duty w/o affording contractual U reasonable opportunity to bargain held violative, since E's refusal to cease its unlawful conduct provided evidence that unilateral change was irrevocable and change in Ees' jury duty rights, mandatory subject of bargaining, was not so insignificant as to not undermine authority of U)

6067-4033-5800 Funeral leave policy

Kay Fries, Inc. 265 NLRB No. 132
(E's unilateral institution of proof requirement for funeral leave, violative notwithstanding E's contention that U failed to timely request bargaining over rule where E instituted and began enforcing proof rule prior to notification to U and thus U was faced, not with mere change, but rather fait accompli; further, U did not acquiesce in unilateral change, for U protested rule, processed grievances regarding it, and when protesting rule to E, U president agreed to discuss alternative to rule at grievance meeting)

6067-4033-5900 Vacation scheduling and pay

Valley Mfg., Inc. 264 NLRB No. 171
(in summary judgment proceeding, Bd held E's unilateral reduction in wages and portion of its contribution to insurance premiums, cancellation of vacation, holiday, and sick pay and funeral leave, and discontinuance of contribution to Ee pension program, unlawful, since 8(d) prohibits party from unilaterally modifying terms of agreement during its term; inasmuch as no party need agree to modify terms of agreement in midterm, refusal of U to do so did not give E license to modify agreement; nor does E's distressing financial situation justify repudiation or modification of agreement)

Remodeling By Oltmanns, Inc. 263 NLRB No. 169
(violation, where contractor unilaterally reduced wages of newly hired Ees, increased wages of incumbent Ees, and instituted new insurance and vacation plans, since contractor had obligation to bargain with U after expiration of agreement with U to continue to maintain existing working conditions established by most recent contract between U and contractors' association of which it was not member, U had obtained majority in unit of contractor's Ees after having been recognized under Section 8(f) agreement, contractor had never disavowed bargaining relationship and continued to adhere to contractual terms of employment)

Robbins Door & Sash Company, Inc. 260 NLRB No. 088
(unilateral institution of new vacation policy after contract expired, violative)

Stokely-Van Camp, Inc. 259 NLRB No. 128
(unilaterally changing vacation pay policy by prohibiting paid vacations during strike held violation, where contract entitled Ees to paid vacations on request and E cancelled vacations before strike was definitely scheduled and past practice does not establish contrary pattern in strike situation)

Georgia Kraft Company, Woodcraft Division 258 NLRB No. 121
(failure to pay accrued vacation pay to strikers who had satisfied requisites for vacation pay under expired contract, violative)

Navajo Freight Lines, Inc. 254 NLRB No. 166
(E's unilateral reduction of Ees' vacation pay upon expiration of area practices agreement, while abiding by terms of multi-E agreement, unlawful; fact that former agreement was not signed by E association did not make it void abinitio since none of E signatories to multi-E agreement was authorized to bargain on behalf of E who did not sign but only accepted terms of multi-E agreement as matter of custom and practice, and over long period of time E led U to believe that area practices agreements were bonafide and continued to do so after agreeing to abide by terms of multi-E agreement)

Navajo Freight Lines, Inc. 254 NLRB No. 166
(E's unilateral reduction of Ees' vacation pay from 48 to 40 hours a week upon expiration of area practices agreement, while abiding by terms of multi-E agreement, unlawful; fact that latter agreement provided for 40 hours vacation pay did not make E's action permissible since intent of E and U, upon entering into area practices agreement, was that terms and conditions of employment were to be governed by area practices agreement as well as multi-E agreement, but if there was a difference between such agreements, area practices agreement would govern)

Navajo Freight Lines, Inc. 254 NLRB No. 166
(unilateral changes by E, as successor, in the way in which Ees' vacations were scheduled and paid, unlawful, where E retained all of predecessor's Ees but failed to tell them that their continued Ee status was conditioned upon their accepting new terms and conditions of employment or that E intended to make any changes, and some weeks after taking over business E, who had become obligated to bargain with U, informed Ees that it was changing vacation policy)

Navajo Freight Lines, Inc. 254 NLRB No. 166
(where E unlawfully changed vacation scheduling and pay, ALJ rejected E's contention that U waived its statutory right to bargain about vacation matters by virtue of E association agreement providing for designation of vacation periods by E with limitations; waiver must be expressed in clear and unmistakeable language, and applicable area practices agreement, which governed when conflict existed between the two agreements, required application of E's past practices which placed no limitations on vacation periods; fact that area practices agreement had terminated did not previlege E to unilaterally change terms and conditions of employment)

Deister Concentrator Company, Inc. 253 NLRB No. 040
(changing method of computing vacation pay)

Allen Materials, Inc. Debtor-In-Possession 252 NLRB No. 187
(E's nonpayment of vacation pay to Ees, unlawful notwithstanding E's inability to make such payments due to its bankruptcy where E's delay or refusal to pay vacation pay benefits constituted unilateral modification of its contractual obligation)

C. F. Martin & Co., Inc. 252 NLRB No. 167
(withholding accrued vacation benefits from striking Ees which affected Ees in bargaining unit w/o notification or bargaining with U, violative)

Bay Medical Center, Inc. 252 NLRB No. 159
(violation, where E unilaterally began computing vacation pay on hours worked rather than on hours paid, which was method provided in contract)

Talbert Manufacturing, Inc. 250 NLRB No. 026
(violation where E unilaterally discontinued semiannual bonus and substituted additional paid holidays and increased vacation pay for it)

Smyth Manufacturing Company, Inc.; Beacon Industries 247 NLRB No. 164
(unilateral recission of vacation pay of Ees laid off previous summer and refusal to negotiate as to reimbursement of such pay, unlawful)

Saks & Company d/b/a Saks Fifth Avenue 247 NLRB No. 128
(successor E's changes in pension plan, work week, and vacation, unlawful, where it retained all Ees in unit at predecessor E, except two Ees, where successor E was corporate subsidiary of predecessor, on predecessor's request gave these Ees hiring preference, and there was no indication employment conditioned on terms mentioned in interview; further, predecessor's longstanding, policy of extending joint pension plan to Ees transferred between companies)

Stratford Visiting Nurses Association JD-(NY)-86-82
(unilaterally denying banked vacation time to Ees, violative, notwithstanding change was made subsequent to expiration of bargaining agreement)

Brueckner Sand & Gravel, Inc. JD-(SF)-312-81
(granting wage increase w/o first consulting with U and unilaterally announcing that there would be future wage increases and additional paid vacations and holiday benefits, violative)

Apex International Management Service JD-(ATL)-86-81
(failure of successor to pay vacation and sick benefits accrued under predecessor's contract, violative)

6067-4033-6300 Savings funds

N.L.R.B. v. Laredo Coca Cola Bottling Company 613 F.2d 1338 (C.A. 5) (1980)
(violation where, following U's certification and start of negotiations, E discontinued Ee first quarter wage supplement, two savings funds, and Christmas bonus w/o consulting with U and in retaliation for Ees' choice of U R)

6067-4033-6700 Merit wage increase

Rochester Institute of Technology 264 NLRB No. 135
(E's unilateral withholding during negotiations with U of merit wage increases and discontinuance of annual merit reviews for unit Ees, while continuing such programs for nonunit Ees, unlawful; although U rejected specific wage proposals made by E, which were based in part on merit increase system, parties never discussed actual merit increases and annual review systems enjoyed by unit Ees as terms and conditions of employment prior to U's certification; and E's proposal and U's rejection of it did not satisfy E's obligation to bargain about terms and conditions of employment prior to discontinuing them)

Rochester Institute of Technology 264 NLRB No. 135
(in finding E's unilateral withholding during negotiations with U of merit wage increases and discontinuance of annual merit reviews while continuing such program for nonunit Ees, unlawful, Bd held that terms and conditions of employment cannot be changed for U-represented Ees w/o affording U an opportunity to request bargaining about the change, and that the violation is the change in the status quo w/o notice to or bargaining with U; here, since merit increases and merit review programs were existing terms and conditions of employment, E was not free to change them w/o bargaining with U)

Rochester Institute of Technology 264 NLRB No. 135
(in finding E's unilateral withholding during negotiations with U of merit wage increases and discontinuance of annual merit reviews while continuing such program for nonunit Ees, unlawful, Bd held that, while allowing such raises unrestricted by established pattern is tantamount to licensing E to grant Ees unilateral wage increases, facts here are quite different since E's merit system is term and condition of employment and, thus, holding herein is not that E must give increases in benefits granted nonunit Ees to unit Ees as well, but only that E cannot change terms and conditions of employment w/o bargaining with U)

Roper Corporation 263 NLRB No. 151
(E who unilaterally discontinued merit wage increases and Ee job performance reviews at time when E was negotiating with U violated Act)

Michigan Consolidated Gas Company 261 NLRB No. 080
(E's contention that its unilateral decision not to extend existing merit and COLA program covering non-unit Ees to Ees in newly certified bargaining unit was not unlawful on ground that decision was based solely on economics, rejected; even if E's explanation for not implementing program was accurate, it would merely provide reason for refusing to grant wage increases beyond the merit program; and E's explanation would not justify canceling Ees' participation in merit program and then depriving them permanently of canceled benefits throughout protracted negotiations)

Michigan Consolidated Gas Company 261 NLRB No. 080
(E's contention that its unilateral decision not to extend existing merit and COLA program covering non-unit Ees to Ees in newly certified bargaining unit was not unlawful on ground that inclusion of small unit of Ees in merit program could have serious consequences on overall non-unit Ees, rejected, since E thereby acknowledged its concern about non-unit Ees joining U and seeking higher wages and explained why E would be motivated to take reprisals against Ees in new bargaining unit, depriving them of wage increases they would otherwise have received as means of demonstrating that they would be better off w/o U representation)

Michigan Consolidated Gas Company 261 NLRB No. 080
(E's removal of newly certified unit Ees from existing merit and COLA program covering non-unit Ees, unlawful, where E, during Ees' organizational effort, repeatedly referred to adverse effects of unionization at another company; after U won election, E adopted secret strategy to consider merit program waived if U failed to demand its continuation, overruling prior promise not to change existing benefits; and E then withheld merit program benefits and did so with determination, not revealed to U for several months, of never reimbursing Ees for benefits lost during protracted negotiations)

Michigan Consolidated Gas Company 261 NLRB No. 080
(E's contention that U representing Ees in newly certified unit and Ees themselves were put on notice that existing merit and COLA program covering non-unit Ees would not be extended to them in absence of agreement on program, rejected, where no such notice was given during election campaign; failure by Ees to receive their merit reviews was insufficient to constitute notice to Ees or U; house organ news item was annual routine article which did not discuss withdrawal of merit program; and discussions between E and U representatives did not put U on notice)

Michigan Consolidated Gas Company 261 NLRB No. 080
(E's removal of newly certified unit Ees from existing merit and COLA program covering non-unit Ees, and unilateral cancellation of scheduled wage increases due unit Ees, unlawful, where neither U nor Ees received notice of E's proposed action, E's decision to take such action was not made until the last week before program was to go into effect, and E notified U when cancellation of program was an accomplished fact, as result of which meaningful bargaining was obstructed)

Furr's Cafeterias, Inc. 251 NLRB No. 125
(unilateral grant of merit increases prior to U certification, violative, where merit increases were not automatic, involved much discretion on part of E, and given at unpredictable time intervals; moreover, U did not waive its right to notice about each increase when it agreed during negotiations not to oppose such merit increases as long as increases were granted in accordance with certain specified time procedures)

Pease Company 251 NLRB No. 090
(each unilateral grant of merit increases given to Ees pursuant to new pay system program, unlawful)

N.L.R.B. v. Laredo Coca Cola Bottling Company 613 F.2d 1338 (C.A. 5) (1980)
(violation where, following U's certification and start of negotiations, E discontinued Ee first quarter wage supplement, two savings funds, and Christmas bonus w/o consulting with U and in retaliation for Ees' choice of U R)

6067-4033-7100 Incentive wage plans

B & B Gallo Pest Control Services, Inc. 265 NLRB No. 075
(unilaterally instituting and maintaining incentive plan, not unlawful, where E relied on steward's assent to institution of plan on behalf of U; E and U steward usually settled between themselves problems that arose in workplace; moreover U did not maintain communication with E or its Ees except through U steward)

Hedison Manufacturing Company 260 NLRB No. 076
(E violated Act when it unilaterally eliminated incentive payment of piece rate wages and also by unilaterally instituting new reporting time procedure for its Ees by making them leave cafeteria 5 minutes earlier)

K & K Transportation Corp., Inc. 254 NLRB No. 087

Fourco Glass Company, Rolland Division 250 NLRB No. 144
(E's elimination of incentive pay system before contract term expired, violative, as E is statutorily required to wait until contract expires to implement changes in working conditions; moreover, fact that U had been willing to listen to E's proposal does not constitute waiver of its rights under Sec. 8(d))

Hedison Manufacturing Company 249 NLRB No. 096

N.L.R.B. v. Fourco Glass Company, Rolland Division 646 F.2d 863 (C.A. 4, Apr 1981)
(although E violated Act by unilaterally terminating incentive pay program and implementing new wage plan with new hourly rate, Bd order was moot as E and U renegotiated their contract in light of E's economic difficulties)

Southern States Distribution, Inc. 264 NLRB No. 091
(E's unilateral discontinuance of its practice of giving Ees Christmas bonus and Thanksgiving turkeys which it had given for past 6 years before U got in, unlawful; substantial loss of its property by Ee theft did not justify E's refusal to bargain)

Presto Casting Company 262 NLRB No. 047
(unilaterally discontinuing past practice of giving Ees annual Xmas gifts of turkeys, violative; E's subsequent correction of violation by giving turkeys to Ees later in February did not relieve E of the violation, and, contrary to contention, remedial order was warranted)

Lima Register Company 260 NLRB No. 171
(unilateral discontinuance of established practice of giving each Ee a ham before Christmas, violative)

6067-4033-9100 Witness fees

Consolidated Aluminum Corporation 258 NLRB No. 033
(E's refusal to compensate Ee for wages lost while testifying in his capacity as U officer in Bd case to which E was not party, not unlawful, absent express contractual commitment and where not in retaliation for U activity or testifying; fact E had previously paid compensation to same officer in similar situation as result of grievance settlement did not establish precedent or law of the shop, nor did contract provision providing for compensation for loss due to jury duty or as witness subpoenaed by ct of law require payment)

Consolidated Aluminum Corporation 258 NLRB No. 033
(notwithstanding E's previous payment pursuant to grievance settlement of compensation for wages lost while testifying at Bd hearing, E's subsequent refusal to pay compensation in similar circumstances not unlawful, absent express contractual commitment and where not in retaliation for U activity or testifying; contract provision stating circumstances in which grievance settlement shall not be deemed precedent did not manifest intent that all other grievance resolutions were to become precedent)

Consolidated Aluminum Corporation 258 NLRB No. 033
(E's refusal to pay witness fees to compensate for lost wages to Ees subpoenaed for Bd hearing by oppositions not unlawful)

6067-4033-8600 Dues

Independent Stave Company 248 NLRB No. 025
(E's failure and refusal to comply with U security provision of current contract in response to U demand that some 46 Ees be discharged for failure to be U members in good standing held violative, since E had thereby unilaterally modified terms and conditions of parties' contract which called for investigation of named Ees and determination that they were delinquent and would not become members, notwithstanding U's alleged failure to fulfil its fiduciary obligation of notification to Ees)

6067-4033-8800 Free food, beverages

6067-4033-9100 Pensions and group benefits

GAF Corporation 265 NLRB No. 176
(no violation where E refused to submit claim that it changed retirees benefits w/o explanation to grievance procedure of collective bargaining agreement, but rather elected to go under claims procedures provided under separate ERISA Pension Agreement executed by U and E, as latter procedure specifically designed to handle such disputes, required to be utilized by ERISA and E willing to have grievance's merits resolved under its provisions)

Admiral Merchants Motor Freight, Inc. 265 NLRB No. 016
(E's dealing directly with Ees to secure their agreement that it reduce their contractual benefits in order to meet its court-ordered payments to U pension and health and welfare funds, and its unilateral implementation of these reductions, unlawful)

(Ee's unilaterally notifying owners and drivers of trucks of discontinuation of payment of personal income tax, social security assessments and U dues for drivers found Ees rather than independent contractors, unlawful)

Stone Boat Yard 264 NLRB No. 130
(unilaterally discontinuing payments to U's health and welfare and pension plan established by expired collective bargaining agreement and unilaterally implementing company-funded medical insurance plan, violative, where E never provided U any type of written or detailed proposal of changes in expired contract, and therefore, E did not implement changes which were consistent with any pareviously rejected cffer, especially in light of fact that U and E had not reached bargaining impasse nor had U waived its right to bargain about changes which were implemented)

Bob's Big Boy Family Restaurants, A Division of Marriott Corporation 264 NLRB No. 063
(unilaterally increasing health and life insurance benefits and wages for unit Ees, violative)

American Distributing Company, Inc. 264 NLRB No. 183
(E who discontinued contributions to Teamsters Pension Trust Fund w/o prior notice or bargaining violated Act)

Valley Mfg., Inc. 264 NLRB No. 171
(in summary judgment proceeding, Bd held E's unilateral reduction in wages and portion of its contribution to insurance premiums, cancellation of vacation, holiday, and sick pay and funeral leave, and discontinuance of contribution to Ee pension program, unlawful, since 8(d) prohibits party from unilaterally modifying terms of agreement during its term; inasmuch as no party need agree to modify terms of agreement in midterm, refusal of U to do so did not give E license to modify agreement; nor does E's distressing financial situation justify repudiation or modification of agreement)

Abbey Medical/Abbey Rents, Inc. 264 NLRB No. 129
(midterm contract modification can only be implemented if other party's consent is first obtained; thus, where E unilaterally ceased to make contractually mandated fringe benefits, it violated Act where it notified U 10 months after the fact; U was presented with fact accompli and did not acquiesce)

Abbey Medical/Abbey Rents, Inc. 264 NLRB No. 129
(strike replacements are considered Ees, and E's failure to comply with contract to make required fringe benefit payments to contractual trust funds on their behalf is violative)

Remodeling By Oltmanns, Inc. 263 NLRB No. 169
(violation, where contractor unilaterally reduced wages of newly hired Ees, increased wages of incumbent Ees, and instituted new insurance and vacation plans, since contractor had obligation to bargain with U after expiration of agreement with U to continue to maintain existing working conditions established by most recent contract between U and contractors' association of which it was not member, U had obtained majority in unit of contractor's Ees after having been recognized under Section 8(f) agreement, contractor had never disavowed bargaining relationship and continued to adhere to contractual terms of employment)

Capitol City Lumber Company 263 NLRB No. 102
(where parties had negotiated 1-year contract with year-to-year extensions unless either party gave notice of cancellation but because U welfare and pension funds required 3-year commitment, they had included articles providing for 3-year contributions with yearly step-increases, E's failure to increase 2nd year amount and to make 3rd-year contributions after contract was terminated at end of 2nd year held unlawful, since contribution commitment survived contract, and parties' letter of understanding reiterated 3-year commitment and, although it seemed to contradict step-increase requirements, had to be construed consistently with contract)

Diplomat Envelope Corporation 263 NLRB No. 075
(unilaterally ceasing payments into U's pension, welfare and annuity funds, violative in view of finding meeting of minds as to new contract which E had unlawfully refused to execute)

Turnbull Enterprises, Inc. 259 NLRB No. 122
(U did not acquiesce in E's refusal to make contributions to U's health and welfare fund, where U continued to negotiate toward restoration of fund until it finally capitulated to E's demand that fund be replaced with insurance company plan; moreover, there was nothing in either U's or E's conduct which cured the violation)

Turnbull Enterprises, Inc. 259 NLRB No. 122
(fact that Ees engaged in strike against E did not establish basis for terminating E's obligation to make health and welfare fund contributions at that time; even if impasse existed on date of strike, E took no action which was consistent with its rejected offers to U, and record failed to prove E instituted plan with insurance company replacing plan until subsequent date on which it reached agreement with U)

(unilaterally ceasing payments into U's health and welfare, and pension trust funds upon expiration of contract which E had not signed but to terms of which E had bound itself by signing interim agreement and implementing significant portion of contract held violative, since; (1) change was not made subsequent to bargaining impasse, (2) E did not, in good faith, doubt U's majority status, and (3) U did not waive right to bargain regarding alterations; health and welfare fund trust agreements did not contain language which might limit E's obligation to bargain regarding cessation of payments into fund)

Great Western Coca-Cola Bottling Company, d/b/a Houston Coca-Cola Bottling Company 265 NLRB No. 106
(E's defense to unilateral change in U access rules on ground that broad managements rights clause and its common law property rights permitted it to establish any access rules it desired so long as they were not specifically limited by contract's access provision, rejected, since such argument ignores bargaining history concerning such provision)

Great Western Coca-Cola Bottling Company, d/b/a Houston Coca-Cola Bottling Company 265 NLRB No. 106
(U access provision of contract held to have survived expiration of contract, since past practice of permitting access by non-Ee U agents for purpose of policing agreement rose to level of term of employment not subject to unilateral change; as such, access provision must be considered w/i terms related to E-Ee, as opposed to Ee-U, relationship which Bd regularly finds to survive term of contract)

Great Western Coca-Cola Bottling Company, d/b/a Houston Coca-Cola Bottling Company 265 NLRB No. 106
(type of action engaged in by incumbent U's agents during pendency of decertification ptn held not to constitute overt campaigning E could permissibly prohibit by unilaterally changing access rules; it is only in indirect sense that it can be said that U agents were campaigning; indeed, absent decertification ptn, it appeared that U representatives were performing normal bargaining agent function, rather than type of overt organizational activities E could permissibly prohibit; and evidence failed to establish that U was engaged in such overt campaigning)

Georgia Kraft Company, Woodkraft Division 238 NLRB No. 121

(E's refusal to arbitrate grievance after expiration of contract, unlawful, notwithstanding E's assertion of U's loss of majority and that qcr existed in view of RM ptn, since duty to arbitrate survives contract where grievant was discharged for conduct occurring in part prior to contract's expiration; basis for grievance was contract, and further, at time E asserted expiration of contract as basis for refusing to arbitrate, election had confirmed continued support of U and U certified)

(publication and distribution of Ee handbook containing contractual grievance procedure which eliminated any reference to U's role in grievance processing unlawful, notwithstanding contention that handbook was drafted having in mind distribution at E's other plants which were unrepresented by Us and that E had not actually by-passed U and bargained directly with unit Ees, since intention for handbook to have primary application at E's other plants would not lessen its impact on unit Ees and U, and whether there was actual direct dealing with Ees during time handbook remained uncorrected is immaterial)

Long Manufacturing, N.C., Inc. JD-483-80
(E's unilateral changes in established past practices associated with grievance procedures which it enforced with terminations and suspensions in retaliations for U's treatment of time limit on grievances and for radical increase in grievances filed, unlawful)

Independent Stave Company 248 NLRB No. 025

(E's failure and refusal to comply with U security provision of current contract in response to U demand that some 46 Ees be discharged for failure to be U members in good standing held violative, since E had thereby unilaterally modified terms and conditions of parties' contract which called for investigation of named Ees and determination that they were delinquent and would not become members, notwithstanding U's alleged failure to fulfil its fiduciary obligation of notification to Ees)

J. F. Swick Insulation Co., Inc. 247 NLRB No. 086

(under certain narrow circumstances E may be excused from providing requested information presumed or shown to be relevant when E has good faith claim of undue burden, legitimate business need for confidentiality or justifiable fear of harassment of Ees, disclosure generally will not be required; in such cases, ct will weigh competing interests of E and U in requested information and type and extent of disclosure required will depend on circumstances of particular case)

Soule Glass and Glazing Co., et al. v. N.L.R.B. 652 F.2d 1055 (C.A. 1, May 1981)
(E may defend against disclosure by demonstrating that there is clear and present danger that U will use information to incite violence or harassment of Ees. In general, this defense is likely to be sustained where E articulates reasonable good faith fear of harm to striker replacements, offers to explore alternative forms of disclosure acceptable to both parties (third party verification) and U refuses to accept any such alternatives)

Colgate-Palmolive Company 261 NLRB No. 007
(defense that request was overly broad in that it was not limited to a particular controversy--which reply appears to comport with plant safety clause--rejected; since that is not basis for U's statutory right; moreover E's reply left U w/o guideline for limiting it's demand)

Fremont Manufacturing Division, The Oil Gear Company, Inc. 259 NLRB No. 038

Designcraft Jewel Industries, Inc. 254 NLRB No. 094

(health and safety information relevant to U's representational functions as terms and conditions of employment)

(E's refusal to produce its general ledger pursuant to U's request for comprehensive audit of its financial records which U claims necessary to determine whether E was in breach of its bargaining obligation to make contributions to benefit funds unlawful, notwithstanding E provided other financial records, since U had cause to believe E was in violation of contract where Ees had been issued side checks not from payroll funds, and only through general ledger could U ascertain if E issuing checks to Ees not from payroll accounts which would indicate violation of contract and ledger thus relevant to U's obligation to police contract)

L.M. Sattler Construction Co., Inc. 259 NLRB No. 087
(test of U's need for such information is simply showing of probability that desired information was relevant and that it would be of use to U in carrying out its statutory responsibility. New Jersey Bell Telephone Company 265 NLRB No. 180
(E's failure to supply U with three Ees' absence and tardiness records until Ees signed written releases violative, since records were relevant and necessary for U's performance of its bargaining obligation in possible grievance action, type of information sought was not of nature to cloak it with confidentiality and, notwithstanding obtaining releases might have been relatively simple, it was not gamesmanship for U to insist upon receiving information to which it was entitled under the Act)

Realty Maintenance Inc., d/b/a National Cleaning Company 265 NLRB No. 173
(respondent's refusal to provide requested information about its relationship with two other companies so as to resolve grievance about contractual violations, particularly subcontracting, unlawful, where respondent's Ees had complained to U official that they were being paid less than contractual wage rate and that U had told them that respondent was not covering them for health and welfare benefits, one Ee hired by respondent showed U official a check stub indicating he was being paid by one of the two companies, and Ees, in their complaints, made reference to the other company)

Realty Maintenance Inc., d/b/a National Cleaning Company 265 NLRB No. 173
(specific items of information requested by U as to E's relationship with other companies held relevant as to its grievance regarding contractual violations, since evidence establishing commonality of officers, directors, supervisors and the like could show that respondent had power to transfer Ees and work to other Es to escape contractual wage and benefit requirements, and evidence that other Es were using respondent's equipement and supplies or performing work it had previously performed would lend credence to contentions of subcontracting violations)

Realty Maintenance Inc., d/b/a National Cleaning Company 265 NLRB No. 173
(GC's evidence reasonably relevant to U's requesting information about E's relationship to other companies so as to resolve grievance about contractual violations and subcontracting although, U did not make request until 5-13 months after U official received C from E's Ee who was paid by one of the other companies; since U official received all Cs during contract term and was not time-barred from filing grievances about them, his testimony about them was not irrelevant; and U was entitled to delay asserting rights to determine whether Cs were due to error or showed pattern of subcontracting unit work)

Wintz Motor Freight, Inc./Wintz Transportation Company/U.S. Trustee William Westphal 265 NLRB No. 121
(violation where purchasing E, found herein alter ego of predecessor E, refused to furnish information requested by Us representing predecessor E's Ees; information was relevant to Us representative obligations and to processing grievance relating to discharge of unit Ees)

Conrock Company 263 NLRB No. 183
E's refusal to furnish records of repair work performed on E's trucks and estimated costs of repair, violative since information sought by U was clearly relevant to grievance it had filed where E maintained at initial grievance meeting and again before joint panel that trucks were retired from service because they were too costly to operate, E's promise not to raise operating costs of its trucks as defense did not render information irrelevant since costs could nevertheless be at issue in arbitration proceeding)

Leland Stanford Junior University 262 NLRB No. 017
(E's refusal to furnish U number of persons working as temporary Ees in certain classification in connection with grievance regarding E's refusal to grant Ee medical leave and use temporary rather than replacing Ee with permanent Ee while Ee on leave, not unlawful, since not presumptively relevant for bargaining where information sought was about nonbargaining unit personnel; nor was information relevant to processing of grievance by enabling U to determine whether E was able to employ temporary Ee since E concluded efficiency rather than ability to hire temporary Ee dictated permanently replacing grievant)

Leland Stanford Junior University 262 NLRB No. 017
(E's refusal to furnish U seniority list of Ees in certain job classification requested in connection with grievance filed regarding retention of less senior Ees in classification after layoff where all Ees in classification on one shift laid off rather than considering seniority of all Ees in classification, not unlawful, since U had requested information where pursuant to bargaining contract, E had each month furnished U names of all unit personnel with dates of hire and classification)

Leland Stanford Junior University 262 NLRB No. 017
(E's refusal to furnish job discription for research assistant, a job series outside unit, to help U process grievances filed by research technicians, job series w/i unit, who were alleging that assistants were doing their work, violative, notwithstanding E offered to furnish classification specifications which provide in general terms characteristic tasks, responsibilities, and qualifications of jobs so classified but does not set forth all duties, responsibilities or qualifications for individual jobs so classified which are contained in job discriptions)

(E's refusal to furnish U with names of Ees who volunteered information that stewards told them to disobey orders by not taking earlier lunch break while production line halted and names of Ees who allegedly were told to disobey orders held not violative as such names will not enable U to defend stewards' grievance more effectively as E told U substance of statements, E will not call such Ees as witnesses or refer to statements and U has interviewed every Ee involved in incident)

Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company 259 NLRB No. 030
(where Ee grieved his suspension for improper tone of voice when speaking to one of E's customers and U filed demand for arbitration, E's failure to produce at U's request prior to arbitration, name of each employee fired, suspended, or given final warning solely for improper tone of voice toward a customer during last five years, violative since requested information was necessary for U to make judgment whether to proceed to formal arbitration hearing and to prepare for that arbitration)

(denial of U request for records relating to a grievance, unlawful)

Safeway Stores, Inc. 255 NLRB No. 066
(E did not refuse to furnish information concerning Ees discharge to U prior to arbitration concerning discharge where it had supplied U with reasons for and details of Ees' suspension and discharge and only other information it possessed was unconfirmed and disclosure would constitute type of discovery Bd finds unnecessary and undesireable in ULP cases)

Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Company 261 NLRB No. 002
(E's proposal that U's request for medical information would have to be secured from Ees themselves did not relieve E of obligation to meet U's request, since E's obligation to provide relevant information imposed on E obligation to make reasonable effort to secure requested information, and, if unavailable, explain or document reasons for asserted unavailability)

Leland Stanford Junior University 262 NLRB No. 017

(E's refusal to furnish U number of persons working as temporary Ees in certain classification in connection with grievance regarding E's refusal to grant Ee medical leave and use temporary rather than replacing Ee with permanent Ee while Ee on leave, not unlawful, since not presumptively relevant for bargaining where information sought was about nonbargaining unit personnel; nor was information relevant to processing of grievance by enabling U to determine whether E was able to employ temporary Ee since E concluded efficiency rather than ability to hire temporary Ee dictated permanently replacing grievant)

New Jersey Bell Telephone Company 265 NLRB No. 180

(E's failure to supply U with three Ees' absence and tardiness records until Ees signed written releases violative, since records were relevant and necessary for U's performance of its bargaining obligation in possible grievance action, type of information sought was not of nature to cloak it with confidentiality and, notwithstanding obtaining releases might have been relatively simple, it was not gamesmanship for U to insist upon receiving information to which it was entitled under the Act)

Plough, Inc. 262 NLRB No. 141

(E violated Act when it refused to supply U with results of Ee physicals, however information must not include individual medical records from which identifying data has not been removed)

Colgate-Palmolive Company 261 NLRB No. 007
(failure to provide requested health and safety information contained in medical records with identification removed, unlawful, since supplying records is not overwhelmingly burdensome, and removal of identifying data, though expensive, protects individual Ee's privacy and physician-patient relationship, and where Ee's identity is revealed in spite of precautions, minimal intrusions on Ee privacy is outweighed by U's need for medical data showing effect of workplace environment on Ees)

Colgate-Palmolive Company 261 NLRB No. 007
(where E claimed that disclosure of generic names of certain ingredients used at its plant would impinge on its proprietary interests by revealing its trade secrets or would improperly disclose proprietary ingredients of its suppliers, Bd found that such claims of confidentiality, as substantiated by record evidence, might justify failure to furnish health and safety information)

Amphlett Printing Company 258 NLRB No. 019
(on remand for explication of its remedy that E should disclose to newspaper guild only aggregate amounts paid independent correspondents for editorial product on basis of confidentiality, Bd explained that its order was based on recognition of nonunit writers' right to keep financial arrangements private from U not representing them; guild showed no need to know sums paid individuals where they were not translatable to unit Ees' compensation and not necessary for unit Ees to achieve parity or determine how large their slice of the pie was)

N.L.R.B. v. Jaggars-Chiles-Stovall, Inc. 639 F.2d 1344 (C.A. 5, 1981)

6067-6067-7100 Employee misconduct

Safeway Stores, Inc. 253 NLRB No. 066
(E did not refuse to furnish information concerning Ees discharge to U prior to arbitration concerning discharge where it had supplied U with reasons for and details of Ees' suspension and discharge and only other information it possessed was uncofirmed and disclosure would constitute type of discovery Bd finds unnecessary and undesireable in ULP cases)

(Bd abused its discretion in ordering E to turn over, in compliance with U's request, employment aptitude tests and ans sheets directly to U, where Bd cited no principle of national labor policy to warrant remedy that would unnecessarily disserve E's concern for test secrecy, Bd's order did not adequately protect secrecy of tests, there is substantial doubt whether U would be subject to contempt citation were it to ignore Bd's restrictions, other effective Bd sanctions are similarly problematic, and U would not be accountable in either contempt or ULP proceedings for inadvertent leaks)

(E's willingness to disclose, at U's request, scores of employment aptitude tests upon receipt of consents from examinees satisfied E's statutory obligation; ct declined to adopt rule that U's interests in arguably relevant information always predominate over all other interests, no matter how legitimate; in view of sensitive nature of information, minimal burden E's offer placed on U, and absence of evidence that E acted to frustrate U in discharge of its statutory responsibilities, ct rejected Bd's conclusion that E violated Act)

(E's failure to supply U with requested Ee health and medical information to extent that information does not include individual medical records from which identifying data have not been removed, held violative, since U's need for medical data potentially revealing past effects of work place environment upon unit Ees outweighs intrusion upon Ee privacy implicit in supplying of aggregate data such as that sought)

(U's request for names of Ees whose medical files E had red-tagged because its doctors had diagnosed them as being partially disabled by lung disease, properly refused by E where, although the information may be relevant because contract awarded them additional seniority rights, U's showing of need did not clearly outweigh confidentiality claimed by E)

(E did not comply with U's demand for list of Ees notwithstanding it furnished U with monthly computerized list of checkoff deductions as no addresses were included, high turnover rate, and list did not reflect names of Ees who were sick, on vacation, laid off or otherwise not on payroll because they weren't paid that month)

Edward Z. Holmes Detective Bureau, Inc. 256 NLRB No. 102

(E's refusal to supply U with Ees' names, addresses, social security numbers, dates of hire and termination, employment location, and pay rate, unlawful where information was relevant to U's policing of contract, particularly as to payments of initiation fees, dues, and welfare fund contributions for new hires; U's contributions for new hires; U's misconduct held not to make test of E's good faith impossible or free E from obligation to supply information)

Armstrong World Industries, Inc. 254 NLRB No. 160

(refusing to provide U with copies of policies concerning wages and methods of payment, and names and addresses of Ees in bargaining unit, violative)

K & K Transportation Corp., Inc. 254 NLRB No. 087

James F. Stanford, Inc. d/b/a Ace Machine Co. 249 NLRB No. 073

(E's refusal to furnish U names and addresses of all unit Ees almost year after U's certification held violative, since they were necessary for U to perform its role as bargaining representative of E's Ees)

Hecla Mining Company 248 NLRB No. 182

(where furnishing list of unit Ees names places no unreasonable burden on E, refusal to furnish even w/o showing of need is violative)

Wellman Industries, Inc. 248 NLRB No. 029

(refusal to supply list of Ees affected by E's unilateral actions in earlier case, unlawful)

Patio Lodge, Inc., and Fountain Lodge, Inc. JD-(ATL)-40-82

(failure to supply U's requested information concerning names and addresses of new Ees at one of its stores which it franchised to individual in sham transaction for purpose of evading its bargaining obligations with Us but was found to constitute a single-E with franchisee, unlawful)

6067-6067-8100 Information about grievances

Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company 259 NLRB No. 030

(where Ee grieved his suspension for improper tone of voice when speaking to one of E's customers and U filed demand for arbitration, E's failure to produce at U's request prior to arbitration, name of each employee fired, suspended, or given final warning solely for improper tone of voice toward a customer during last five years, violative since requested information was necessary for U to make judgment whether to proceed to formal arbitration hearing and to prepare for that arbitration)

Safeway Stores, Inc. 265 NLRB No. 066

(E did not refuse to furnish information concerning Ees discharge to U prior to arbitration concerning discharge where it had supplied U with reasons for and details of Ees' suspension and discharge and only other information it possesed was uncofirmed and disclosure would constitute type of discovery Bd finds unnecessary and undesireable in ULP cases)

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company v. N.L.R.B. 687 F.2d 633 (C.A. 2, Aug. 1982)

(refusal of U requested information regarding grievance resulting from Ee's suspension for improper conduct and pertaining to names of Ees previously similarly disciplined, unlawful, since E's duty to produce information survives U's demand for arbitration; reasonable discovery of material relevant to grievance prior to arbitration hearing may eliminate delay and expense that might otherwise be incurred; reasonable delay for obtaining evidence in order for U to decide how to proceed is justifiable; and dischoure of prior disciplinary action may lead to arbitration withdrawal on grievance settlement)

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company v. N.L.R.B. 687 F.2d 633 (C.A. 2, Aug. 1982)

(E's contention that U, having invoked arbitration of grievance, waived any statutory right to request information relating to grievance, rejected; national labor policy disfavors waivers of statutory rights, and U's intention to waive right must be clear before claim of waiver can succeed; contract language will effect waiver only if it is clear and unmistakable in waiving statutory right; and conduct of parties, whether alone or in combination with contractual language, can effectuate waiver only if U's intent to waive is clear and unmistakable from evidence presented)

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company v. N.L.R.B. 687 F.2d 633 (C.A. 2, Aug. 1982)

(in finding E's failure to produce U requested information relating to arbitration of grievance unlawful, ct rejected E's defense for its refusal to produce information on ground contract provided that arbitration hearings shall be conducted in accordance with rules of American Arbitration Association, and such rules do not provide for prehearing discovery; fact that U agreed that arbitration hearings would be governed by such rules hardly proves that it has waived its statutory right to discovery before hearing takes place, especially under clear and unmistakable standard for waiver to be effective)

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company v. N.L.R.B. 687 F.2d 633 (C.A. 2, Aug. 1982)

(in finding E's failure to produce U requested information relating to arbitration of grievance unlawful, ct found previous treatment by arbitrator, in declining to consider U request for documents until arbitration hearing, of no probative value where, in doing so, arbitrator stated he was acting on belief that arbitration board was not empowered to pass upon any issue until it had convened; however, such statement did not relate to U's statutory right to discovery, which is basis of present proceeding)

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company v. N.L.R.B. 687 F.2d 633 (C.A. 2, Aug. 1982)

(in finding E's failure to produce U requested information relating to arbitration of grievance unlawful, ct rejected E's attempts to prove that parties' past practice had been not to allow pre-arbitration discovery; at best, E showed that on some occasions it had refused to produce information, and fact that U did not file ULP charges on such few occasions hardly establishes clear and unmistakable waiver, especially since on other occasions E had produced requested information)

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company v. N.L.R.B. 687 F.2d 633 (C.A. 2, Aug. 1982)

(E's defense to refusal to furnish information requested by U for arbitration of grievance resulting from suspension of Ee on ground U had alternate means of obtaining information by polling its members, rejected, since polling of U membership would be poor substitute, both in accuracy and completeness, for records kept by E)

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company v. N.L.R.B. 687 F.2d 633 (C.A. 2, Aug. 1982)

(E's defense to refusal to furnish information requested by U for arbitration of grievance resulting from suspension of Ee on ground U's request was made in bad faith, rejected, since E failed to prove lack of sincerity on U's part, and prospective costs of hearing demonstrated reasonableness of U's desire to postpone it until after receiving information; U did not believe E would have any objection to postponement; and to convene hearing before production of information would have been pointless and wasteful since arbitrator undoubtedly would have recessed until information had been produced)

International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, AFL-CIO-CLC v. N.L.R.B. 648 F.2d 18 (C.A.D.C., Nov. 1980)
(information pertaining to type and frequency of discrimination complaints filed by Ees is relevant to U's role as bargaining agent, however, actual copies of complaints need not be provided (even with complainants' name deleted) as this would affect Ee's privacy rights)

(E's Affirmative Action Plans (AAPs) are not presumptively relevant (to bargaining) except for certain statistics contained in Work Force Analysis portion of E's AAPs, and as to those U must indicate with appropriate specificity relevant information sought; U must demonstrate relevance to be entitled to entire plan; E not required to produce its AAPs or specified portions of plans where U had not demonstrated their relevance)

Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Company 261 NLRB No. 002

(E's refusal to furnish U seniority list of Ees in certain job classification requested in connection with grievance filed regarding retention of less senior Ees in classification after layoff where all Ees in classification on one shift laid off rather than considering seniority of all Ees in classification, not unlawful, since U had requested information where pursuant to bargaining contract, E had each month furnished U names of all unit personnel with dates of hire and classification)

Teamsters Local Union No. 574, a/w Teamsters (Lola Wheeler, an Individual) 239 NLRB No. 037

Carrothers Construction Company, Inc. 258 NLRB No. 015

Pacific Intercom Co. 256 NLRB No. 061
(violation, where E, which had had succession of previous agreements with U entered into 8(f) agreement with U which matured into full bargaining relationship when majority of Ees in unit joined U, embarked on long journey of unlawful conduct aimed at deceiving U and depriving Ees of fruits of collective bargaining by entering into private arrangement with Ees to pay them less than contractual wage rate, and avoided use of U hiring hall; contention that majority of Ees were coerced by E to join U and E paid U dues, rejected, as such conduct 8(a)(2) violation; therefore E estopped from asserting its own unlawful conduct as defense to U's majority status)

Beaumont Graphics, Ltd. 254 NLRB No. 044
(E not bound by strike settlement between multiE association and U, nor was E required to furnish information relevant to grievance brought by U alleging violations of association contract and strike agreement, since E had lawfully withdrawn from multiE association; E was not party to association contract and had not consented, to be bound by association's strike agreement with U)

(repudiation and failure to abide by terms of bargaining agreement between multi-E association and U, violative)

Construction Erectors, Inc. 252 NLRB No. 045
(repudiating multisite contract, violative, notwithstanding E's contention that it was unenforceable as pre-hire agreement, where, although first contract between E and U fell into category of Sec. 8(f) agreement, at least by time of the contract here in question, U had achieved majority status in stable unit of E's Ees)

Pullman Building Company 251 NLRB No. 145
(violation, where E refused to abide by state homebuilder-Es' association contract; E's claims that it was not bound because it was operating as developer rather than homebuilder and that it had separate agreement with U, rejected where work was typical homebuilders' work and, as association member, E had invested exclusive bargaining authority in association and could not enter into separate agreement)

SFS Painting and Drywall, Inc.; James Sesch d/b/a J. Sesch Painting and Drywall 249 NLRB No. 069
(E's announcement that it was withdrawing its application to be bound by master labor agreement shortly after renewal thereof and refusal thereafter to abide by provisions of master labor agreement, unlawful)

Land Equipment Inc. 248 NLRB No. 098
(violation where E failed to pay contractually required wages or make required benefit trust fund contributions in repudiation of U's contract with one of two companies found single E herein since Ees of both companies constituted E-wide unit herein, were found stable complement moving from job to job and majority were found to support U at time of repudiation)

D'Angelo & Khan, Inc. 248 NLRB No. 062
(where E entered into 8(f) prehire agreement with local when it first worked at jobsite w/i local's jurisdiction, its refusal to apply agreement to Ees at succeeding jobsite held not unlawful, since prehire agreement did not give rise to presumption of local's majority status at original jobsite; furthermore, regardless of local's majority status at original site, provisions of 8(a)(5) do not apply unless U can demonstrate its majority status at succeeding sites, record here showed Local did not have majority support at the succeeding site)

McMillian Cartage, Inc. JD-(ATL)-48-81
(E repudiated association contract by refusing to allow Ees to work under contract and by insisting that they sign E's proposed contract or there would be no work, telling U representative that there was no contract, refusing to execute contract, and refusing to comply with contractual grievance procedure)

(failing and refusing to give effect to certain obligations that accrued under contract, such as payment to Ees of wage increases and payment to U of Ee dues under checkoff provisions, violative)

N.L.R.B. v. Haberman Construction Company 641 F.2d 351 (C.A. 5, Apr. 1981)
(even though construction contractor never formally executed bargaining agreement with U and was not member of E association, contractor who adopted association's 8(f) prehire contract by enjoying its benefits and abiding by its provisions was not free to repudiate contract and, consequently, its actions, taken when U was majority representative and consisting of unilateral conduct, of announcing intention to go open shop, and constructively discharging Ees were unlawful)

N.L.R.B. v. Haberman Construction Company 641 F.2d 351 (C.A. 5, Apr. 1981)
(E's announcement of its intention to go open shop, unlawful, since Bd found announcement conveyed E's intention to repudiate its bargaining obligation; even if ct disagreed with Bd, it cannot reverse such finding since it is not ct's province to substitute its judgment for that of Bd when Bd has drawn plausible inference from competent evidence; and Bd's inference is quite plausible since announcement was made simultaneously with E's repudiation of its obligation to pay Ees' contractual benefits)

Tobey Fine Papers of Kansas City, Division of Distribix, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 639 F.2d 841 (C.A. 8, Apr. 1981)
(Es' refusal to honor bargaining contract negotiated by multi-E association violative, notwithstanding Es' contention that they had effectively withdrawn from the multi-E association, where actual reason for each company's withdrawal was not based on impasse or fragmentation as contended, but on fact that Ees of the individual companies express doubt as to U's representation of majority of each company's Ees'. It is well settled that this constitutes an impermissible reason for company's withdrawal from multi-E bargaining)

Precision Striping, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 643 F.2d 1344 (C.A. 9, Mar 23, 1981)
(ct denied enforcement of Bd's bargaining order where, during term of lawful Sec. 8(f) U security contract, E, after lawfully polling its Ees majority of whom voted against U representation, repudiated contract with U; it is irrational to hold that majority U membership obtained pursuant to a U security clause creates an irrebuttable presumption of majority U support, since U security clause operates to compel Ees to join U because U membership is price for obtaining a job, and it is well established that U membership is not always an accurate barometer of U support)

N.L.R.B. v. Circle T Corporation and Meat Men Inc. d/b/a Royal T Meat 614 F.2d 777 (C.A. 9) (1980)
(E who ceased operations at plant for 6 weeks and then resumed operations under different name violated Act by withdrawing recognition from U and repudiating contract since new business was disguised continuance of original and that they both constituted single E and purpose of shutdown and resumption was to evade bargaining obligation)

6083 REQUIREMENTS FOR TERMINATION OR MODIFICATION OF CONTRACTS - 8(d) PROVISO

6083-0100 Generally

Wayne Asphalt and Construction Co., Inc. JD-311-82

(Congress rejected provision which would have made it ULP for E or U to violate bargaining agreement and Bd has frequently stated that mere breach of bargaining agreement does not, in itself, violate Act. However, because of Section 8(d) of Act, which defines duty to bargain collectively as including obligation to refrain from terminating or modifying bargaining agreement w/o meeting certain prescribed conditions, attempted modification of agreement can be violative of Section 8(a)(5). Where E effects change which has continuing impact on basic term or condition of employment, such change manifestly constitutes modification w/i Section 8(d))

6083-0125 No obligation to discuss or agree to modification during fixed contract term

Valley Mfg., Inc. 264 NLRB No. 171

GTE Automatic Electric Inc. 261 NLRB No. 196

(E not obligated to bargain in midterm regarding implementation of new savings and investment plan granted to nonunit Ees since E may rely on waiver in contractual zipper clause which clearly and unequivocally covered U's request to bargain concerning implementation of new benefit, notwithstanding clause included w/o discussion, where E merely seeking to maintain status quo and has not made unilateral changes that directly or adversely affected unit Ees with accompaning effect of undermining and derogating U)

Jones Motor Co., Inc. 260 NLRB No. 015

6083-0150 Obligation to refrain from termination or modification without notice and bargaining

Gordon L. Rayner and Frank H. Clark, d/b/a Bay Area Sealers 251 NLRB No. 017

(E's belated termination notice and offer to bargain two years after repudiation of contract and unilateral changes, no defense)

N.L.R.B. v. Northeast Oklahoma City Manufacturing Company 631 F.2d 669 (C.A. 10, Sept. 1980)

(Bd properly found material breach of contract by E in its unilateral persistent delays in making monthly bonus payments, thereby excusing Ees' breach of no-strike agreement)

6083-0150-5000 Modification of terms without bargaining

Milwaukee Spring Division of Illinois Coil Spring Company 265 NLRB No. 028

(E's decision to relocate work from U to non-U plant, to layoff Ees as consequence during term of agreement solely because of higher labor costs, absent U's consent, is midterm repudiation of agreement in violation of Sec. 8(d), Sec. 8(a)(1), (3), (5); moreover, U did not waive right to bargain notwithstanding managements rights clause; such clause reserves for E right to decide whether and how products will be manufactured; it does not grant E right to transfer its operation. Thus, absent explicit language, U has not waived its right to object to E's decision)

Mar-Len Cabinets, Inc. 262 NLRB No. 172

(E's unilaterally implementing its bargaining proposals for Ees in outside unit w/o providing to mediation services timely notice of its dispute with U, violative; E's obligations under Sec. (d)(3) and 8(d)(4) remained unaffected by U's notice informing mediation services only of dispute involving parties to master labor agreement where E had initiated bargaining with U on individual basis and thereby created separate dispute)

The Dow Chemical Company 261 NLRB No. 031

(E's actions in transferring or loaning out for other than their regular work unit Ees for periods of time in excess of those specified in collective agreements to which E was party and its continuing insistence that it had right to do so, violative, notwithstanding E's contentions that U waived contractual requirements in question before execution of current contract and bound itself to contrary understanding antedating execution of current contract where E knowledgeably entered into contract containing provision which, if unintended could readily have been stricken from contract or changed before signing)

Bedford Farmers Cooperative 259 NLRB No. 165

Intermountain Rural Electric Association 253 NLRB No. 164

(E's abrogating article in current bargaining agreement, concerning allocation of pension-plan dividends, held violative, since U consent to such obligation was misleadingly induced and perpetuated; E's taking over Ee contributions to plan was quid pro quo for U's consent which ceased to exist when U petitioned for election in another unit; E failed to continue in full force and effect...all terms and conditions of the existing contract and, so failing, violated Section 8(a)(5) and (1))

Exxon Company, U.S.A. 253 NLRB No. [illegible]

(8(d) provides that U's failure to discuss E's unilateral modification of contractual terms or conditions of employment is not defense to ULP)

Heat Transfer Group, Gulf and Western Mfg. Co. JD-381-81

(E's repudiating agreement by announcing its intention to and by commencing to relocate portion of unit work to another location for performance by non-unit Ees represented by another U with contract providing for less costly wages and benefits held violative, as E's purpose was to evade obligations and to frustrate Ees' right to refuse to make mid-term concessions)

Wayne Asphalt and Construction Co., Inc. JD-311-82

(E's breach of bargaining agreement by using supervisory and other non-unit personnel to perform unit work on construction sites, violative, since such breach had continuing impact on basic terms and conditions of employment where E had stated it would use non-unit personnel if necessary to relieve its financial distress and had no intention to replace supervisor on job until U complained)

Rockingham Machine-Lunex Company v. N.L.R.B. 665 F.2d 303 (C.A. 8, Dec. 1981)

(E unlawfully refused to bargain where it rescinded or modified over a dozen provisions, offered only minimal concessions to U, and had predetermined intention not to reach agreement on mandatory subject of dues checkoff)

6083-0150-6700 Cancellation of contract

The Dow Chemical Company v. N.L.R.B. 636 F.2d 1352 (C.A. 3, 1980)

(E's cancellation of contract after U struck in protest over E's unilateral change in work schedule, before exhausting grievance procedures and thereby breaching contract's no-strike clause, not unlawful, where Boys Markets injunctive relief was not available to E because arbitration provision was not coextensive with no-strike clause and E's remaining option of operating plant with permanent new hires would be seriously undermined if E were unable to bargain with new Ees, and Marathon Electric rule, that material breach of contract by U warrants E's concellation thereof, is applicable)

6083-1000 8(f) contracts

6083-1050 Unilateral termination

Construction Erectors, Inc. 265 NLRB No. [illegible]

(E's repudiation of collective bargaining agreement with U would be unlawful if E employed permanent and stable workforce under agreement before repudiation and U enjoyed majority support; analysis of permanent and stable workforce goes beyond numbers and dates, and focuses upon issue of whether Ee complement possesses sufficient continuity as to merit continued reliance on showing of majority support for U made at any point during effective term of applicable bergaining agreement)

6083-2000 Notice requirements

6083-2001 Generally

W. G. Best Homes Corporation 253 NLRB No. 123

(burden of requesting bargaining about a change or proposed change in business operations shifts to U upon notification by E that such change is imminent; although conjecture and rumor are not adequate substitute for a formal notice, notice less than formal may be sufficient where more formal notice would have been futile in view of U's insistence on bargaining through association unit from which E had properly withdrawn and U is not interested in bargaining with E on individual basis)

N.L.R.B. v. Mar-Len Cabinets, Inc. 659 F.2d 995 (C.A. 9, Oct. 1981)

(while initiating party must bear consequences in case of lack of or untimely notice, purpose of act would not be served by initiating party to give notice after other party had done so)

6083-2033 Sixty-day notice to other party

6083-2033-6000 Effect of notice given prior to 60-days before contract reopening or termination date

KCW Furniture, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 634 F.2d 436 (C.A. 9, 1980)

(Duration and Renewal provision in contract between E and U expressly authorized right to negotiate during term of automatically renewed contract; where U gave 60 day notice of opening, E's unilateral implementation of its final offer held unlawful since duration and renewal provision was neither ambiguous nor in violation of Act and bargaining agreement was never terminated)

6083-2067 Thirty-day notice to mediation services

Mar-Len Cabinets, Inc. 262 NLRB No. 172

(E's unilaterally implementing its bargaining proposals for Ees in outside unit w/o providing to mediation services timely notice of its dispute with U, violative; E's obligations under Sec. (d)(3) and 8(d)(4) remained unaffected by U's notice informing mediation services only of dispute involving parties to master labor agreement where E had initiated bargaining with U on individual basis and thereby created separate dispute)

6083-2067-0100 Generally

6083-2067-0150 Purpose to provide opportunity for government mediation

N.L.R.B. v. Mar-Len Cabinets, Inc. 659 F.2d 995 (C.A. 9, Oct. 1981)
(notice provision is not concerned with good faith, it is designed to give mediation services time to intervene before disruptive economic action is taken by one of parties; unilateral departure during 60 day waiting period from terms of contract prohibited whether or not strike or lockout follows)

N.L.R.B. v. Mar-Len Cabinets, Inc. 659 F.2d 995 (C.A. 9, Oct. 1981)
(ct remanded to Bd to determine whether U's notice to Mediation Services was sufficient to appraise Services of potenial dispute which might relieve E of duty to notify Services, notwithstanding E was initiating party and, thus, render permissible E's failure to abide by terms of contract, where E timely informed U it did not wish to be bound by master outside agreement but not Mediation Service, later U notified E association and Mediation Services it wished to reopen agreement; after new agreement negotiated, U took position E bound by new agreement because E's notice ineffective since not sent to Mediation Services)

6083-4000 Obligation to meet and confer with other party on proposals

Merrill & Ring, Inc. 262 NLRB No. 039
(good faith bargaining requires that parties meet and negotiate prior to any modification of working conditions)

Intermountain Rural Electric Association 253 NLRB No. 164
(E's abrogating article in current bargaining agreement, concerning allocation of pension-plan dividends, held violative, since U consent to such obligation was misleadingly induced and perpetuated; E's taking over Ee contributions to plan was quid pro quo for U's consent which ceased to exist when U petitioned for election in another unit; E failed to continue in full force and effect...all terms and conditions of the existing contract and, so failing, violated Section 8(a)(5) and (1))

W. G. Best Homes Corporation 253 NLRB No. 123
(obligation to bargain regarding subcontracting requires E to notify U involved of proposed subcontracting agreement and give U opportunity to discuss decision and consider alternative proposals; normally, U must be notified of proposed subcontract eliminating unit jobs before execution of agreement, nor is mere statement of general intent to subcontract in future sufficient prior notice where subsequent bargaining occurs in context of fait acompli; where, however, U is given full opportunity to bargain about executory contract, which may be rescinded, proma facie showing of violation because of failure to give U prior notice excused)

Heat Transfer Group, Gulf and Western Mfg. Co. JD-381-82
(E's repudiating agreement by announcing its intention to and by commencing to relocate portion of unit work to another location for performance by non-unit Ees represented by another U with contract providing for less costly wages and benefits held violative, as E's purpose was to evade obligations and to frustrate Ees' right to refuse to make mid-term concessions)

6083-6000 Obligation to continue contract in effect until later of 60 days after notice or contract expiration date

N.L.R.B. v. Mar-Len Cabinets, Inc. 659 F.2d 995 (C.A. 9, Oct. 1981)
(ct remanded to Bd to determine whether U's notice to Mediation Services was sufficient to appraise Services of potenial dispute which might relieve E of duty to notify Services, notwithstanding E was initiating party and, thus, render permissible E's failure to abide by terms of contract, where E timely informed U it did not wish to be bound by master outside agreement but not Mediation Service, later U notified E association and Mediation Services it wished to reopen agreement; after new agreement negotiated, U took position E bound by new agreement because E's notice ineffective since not sent to Mediation Services)

8000 AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES

8004 SUBSEQUENT PERFORMANCE OF OBLIGATION

Jefferson Electric Co., Inc. 251 NLRB No. 129
(E's subsequent recognition of U, occuring after its initial, unlawful refusal to bargain, insufficient to withstand Motion for Summary Judgment, since Ees' statutory rights had been violated)

Anaconda Ericsson Inc. JD-720-80
(E's failure to notify or consult with U concerning layoffs of some unit Ees due to its unintentional neglect, held violative notwithstanding E did consult with U as to subsequent layoffs of unit Ees)

8005 DOUBT OF BOARD'S JURISDICTION

Children's Receiving Home of Sacramento 248 NLRB No. 053
(Bd had properly asserted jurisdiction over children's home where governmental department was connected with home but not joint E with it)

8005-5000 No defense where Board has jurisdiction

Franklin Art Glass Studios, Inc. 250 NLRB No. 095
(in summary judgment proceeding, E's denial of allegation that it is E engaged in commerce w/i meaning of Act, on ground such allegation states legal conclusion, held w/o merit, where E's admission of facts of commerce in effect admitted both statutory and discretionary jurisdiction of Bd, and E stipulated to jurisdiction in prior R case; moreover, E has presented no newly discovered or previously unavailable evidence or asserted any circumstance which would require Bd to allow relitigation of jurisdiction issue)

8006 BOARD DEFFERENCE TO ARBITRATION

Maine Yankee Atomic Power Company 258 NLRB No. 112
(contrary to ALJ who deferred issue as to disputed position, unilaterally created by E outside unit, to arbitration because E's contention that matter of E's obligation to bargain should be decided under binding grievance-arbitration procedure if position is found to be w/i unit, Bd held deferral was inappropriate where, because of E's failure to raise issue at hearing or in its pleadings, record evidence before Bd was insufficient for finding that deferral was appropriate)

Bay Shipbuilding Corporation 231 NLRB No. 114
(mtn for summary judgment granted and C dismissed where Bd deferred to arbitration award finding that E did not violate contract by changing insurance carrier since coverage which could only be changed by mutual consent under contract did not include carrier, and level of benefits remained the same; arbitrator stated he would not decide Sec. 8(a)(5) violation, but made factual findings, in course of resolving contractual issue, which resolved ULP issues)

Vesuvius Crucible Company v. N.L.R.B. 668 F.2d 162 (C.A. 3, Nov. 1981)
(whether Bd correct in refusing to defer to arbitration question of E's refusal to grant accrued vacation pay under expired contract, mooted, since parties informed ct that accrued vacation benefits for time period in question eventually were awarded under new contract; so arbitrable dispute remained)

Caterpillar Tractor Co. v. N.L.R.B. 638 F.2d 140 (C.A. 7, Sept. 1981)
(violation, where E unilaterally discontinued allowing Ees to request transfers which involved demotions, notwithstanding E's contention it gave three weeks notice of change and met with U numerous times where at initial meeting E merely informed U that it had changed its policy, at subsequent meetings did little more than explain reasons for change and informed U if U did not like it U should file grievance, and over U's objections proceeded to hire from street for position for which many Ees had applied requesting downgrading)

Caterpillar Tractor Co. v. N.L.R.B. 638 F.2d 140 (C.A. 7, Sept. 1981)
(arbitration concerning propriety or fairness of E's policy after it has been put into effect was not substitute for bargaining between E and U as to whether policy should be adopted in first instance)

Caterpillar Tractor Co. v. N.L.R.B. 638 F.2d 140 (C.A. 7, Sept. 1981)
(Bd did not abuse its discretion by refusing to defer to grievance-arbitration procedure alleged unlawful discontinuance of Ees' right to request transfers involving down-grading, since Bd's determination that determinative issue required interpretation of Act rather mere contract interpretation, not unreasonable)

8007 LACK OF KNOWLEDGE OF UNION'S MAJORITY STATUS

Medical Investors Association 260 NLRB No. 124
(E's refusal to accept U letter which contained request for bargaining device to avoid bargaining demand and U letter found to constitute valid demand for bargaining)

8009 DOUBT AS TO UNION'S MAJORITY STATUS (SEE ALSO 530-4030-5000)

Comet Corporation 261 NLRB No. 188
(E's contention that U did not have majority since authorization cards invalid inasmuch as Ees believed signed cards only for election, rejected, where cards unambiguously stating singer designated U as his/her bargaining representative)

Patio Lodge, Inc., and Fountain Lodge, Inc. JD-(ATL)-40-82
(neither statement of Ee that she was glad to be out of U, decertification ptn filed when E predecessor's was operating facilities nor 7 revocation dues checkoff authorizations out of 57 Ees basis for good faith doubt of U's majority that justify E's refusal to bargain, furnish information or discontinuing payment to U of withheld U dues)

Walla Walla Union-Bulletin, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 631 F.2d 669 (C.A. 9, Oct. 1980)
(newspaper's refusal to bargain violative, notwithstanding contention that U was improperly certified because certain editors should have been excluded from unit as managerial or supervisory Ees, where removal of contested editors would not have affected outcome of election)

8009-0100 Generally

Puerto Rico Hotel Association 259 NLRB No. 058

(E association's contention musicians' U did not represent uncoerced majority of unit Ees, rejected, where throughout course of negotiations for renewed contract are musicians in unit were members of U and not until after strike did some members resign from U, notwithstanding U had never been certified by Bd as bargaining representative and many had joined because they felt no musician would work with them if they did not join U and that U membership enhanced their status as musicians)

Westwood Import Company, Inc. 251 NLRB No. 162

(after the expiration of valid collective bargaining agreement, U enjoys a rebuttable presumption that its majority representative status continues; such presumption may be effectively rebutted if E affirmatively establishes either (1) that at time of refusal to recognize U, U in fact no longer enjoyed majority support of unit Ees; or (2) that E's refusal was predicated on good faith doubt based on objective considerations; however, burden of rebutting presumption rests on party who would do so)

Pick-Mt Laurel Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 625 F.2d 476 (C.A. 3, 1980)

(where E proferred defense of good faith doubt of U's majority status, ct held E could reasonably consider pre-10(b) circumstances because sweetheart relationship evidenced by unlawful prehire contract entered into by predecessor E sheds light on its commission of independent ULP in assisting U w/i 10(b) period; however, since successor E did not make clear the relationship, if any, between unlawful assistance during 10(b) period and its claim of good faith doubt, ct deemed it best left to Bd, which had not previously considered issue, to consider it in the first instance)

Bellwood General Hospital, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 627 F.2d 98 (C.A. 7, 1980)

(sum total of: 70% turnover in personnel, statements of Ees regarding dissatisfaction with U, extremely low attendance at U meetings, lack of any grievance activity, during first contract term or of visits by U to E's facility, cumulatively was sufficient to shift burden to GC to establish U's majority; ct refused to place burden on E of possibly committing ULP of bargaining with minority)

N.L.R.B. v. Silver Spur Casino 623 F.2d 571 (C.A. 9, 1980)

(Es' contention that E's good faith belief that U no longer had majority support is all that is required to withdraw recognition, rejected; E's good faith doubt of U's majority status must be reasonable and supported by objective considerations and Bd's determination of whether defense is established will be upheld if supported by substantial evidence on the record)

8009-1100 Good-faith doubt of majority status justifies refusal to recognize

Stratford Visiting Nurses Association 264 NLRB No. 136

(presumption of continuation of certified U's majority status upon expiration of its contract with E not rebutted by facts that: only 2 of 6 unit Ees were U members; only 2 of 6 unit Ees were on dues checkoff; and 2, or 3, of 6 unit Ees testified at Bd hearing that they did not want U to represent them as of refusal-to-bargain date. None of above facts established lack of majority support for U. As to last reason, none of Ees had communicated to U their desire not to be represented and such testimony is highly unreliable for it requests Ee to relate several months old uncommunicated states of mind, knowing that E's defense rests on reply)

I T Services, Division of I T Corporation 263 NLRB No. 186

(E had adequate objective basis to support good faith doubt of U majority after contract expired and during strike where majority in unit were strike replacements and told supervisor that they did not want U, picket line violence had been directed against them, and they knew of U demands that they be discharged)

Pick-Mt. Laurel Corporation 259 NLRB No. 034

(expression of dissatisfaction with U made to supervisors by at least 29 out of 103 Ees; and notwithstanding occurred outside Section 10(b) period, predecessor E's illegal practice of requiring Ees to join U and sign dues checkoff on first day of work and continuing this practice into 10(b) period, and its recognition of U and negotiation of agreement w/o designation by any member of unit, sufficient to support successor E's good faith doubt justifying its withdrawal of recognition)

Henry Cauthorne, an individual, t/a Cauthorne Trucking 236 NLRB No. 118

(unilaterally ceasing payments into U's health and welfare, and pension trust funds upon expiration of contract which E had not signed but to terms of which E had bound itself by signing interim agreement and implementing significant portion of contract held violative, since; (1) change was not made subsequent to bargaining impasse, (2) E did not, in good faith, doubt U's majority status, and (3) U did not waive right to bargain regarding alterations; health and welfare fund trust agreements did not contain language which might limit E's obligation to bargain regarding cessation of payments into fund)

Warehouse Groceries Management, Inc. 254 NLRB No. 081

(no violation where U lacked majority status at time it requested bargaining and demand was not continuing demand)

Roza Watch Corp. 249 NLRB No. 086

(refusal to recognize and bargain with certified U after expiration of contract, violative where E failed to rebut presumption or sustain good faith doubt of U's continued majority support following expiration of contract)

N.L.R.B. v. Koenig Iron Works, Inc.; et al. 681 F.2d 130 (C.A. 2, June 1982)

(in considering evidence of support for U, court will look at Es attitudes before E's refusal to bargain occurred and was E aware of this)

N.L.R.B. v. Pennco, Inc. 684 F.2d 340 (C.A. 6, Mar. 1982)

(ct held E had not demonstrated good faith doubt that U represented majority of Ees when it withdrew recognition from U, and expressly declined to adopt both Bd's presumption that new hires support U in same percentage as strikers they replaced and E's presumption that new hires do not support U when violence occurs on picket line as herein; ct found E's evidence was sufficient only to put parties in equipoise and not enough to demonstrate E's good faith doubt of U's majority status)

N.L.R.B. v. Half-Century, Inc. d/b/a Holiday Inn of Niles, Michigan 644 F.2d 685(T) (C.A. 6, Jan 21, 1981)

(ct denied enforcement of bargaining order, reversing Bd finding of bad faith bargaining, where successor-E had met with U but did not reach agreement and during course of negotiations ptn signed by 2/3's of Ees was presented to E indicating they no longer wished U representation and E refused to bargain further)

8009-1500 Good-faith doubt of majority status justifies refusal to bargain after certification year

Dresser Industries, Inc. 264 NLRB No. 145

(overruling Telautograph rule, Bd held that mere filing of decertification ptn, like mere filing of rival U's ptn, would not require or permit E to withdraw from bargaining or executing contract with incumbent U, since such rule does not give due weight to incumbent U's continuing presumption of majority status and is not best way to achieve E neutrality in the election; E with good faith doubt based on objective evidence, e.g. decertification ptn supported by unit majority, may still withdraw; E's actions herein held not unlawful since E relied on then applicable Bd law of Telautograph)

Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc. 261 NLRB No. 087

(defense that E withdrew recognition because certification year had expired and E allegedly believed U had lost its majority status because unit Ees did not support strike vote, rejected where E offered no evidence of lack of such support; moreover E had undermined U support with its ULPs)

N.L.R.B. v. Pre-Engineered Building Products, Inc. 603 F.2d 134 (C.A. 10, 1979)

(where predecessor business had essentially collapsed at time of E's take over and E of necessity had to rebuild both production demand and work force, ct held Bd was arbitrary in denying E's mtn to reopen record for purpose of adducing evidence to determine whether E had acquired full complement of Ees at time E refused to bargain with predecessor's U)

N.L.R.B. v. Maywood Plant of Grede Plastics 628 F.2d 1 (C.A.D.C.)

8009-2200 Doubt not defense if in fact refusal otherwise motivated

Elias Mallouk Realty Corp. 263 NLRB No. 156

(E unilaterally granting wage increases after expiration of contract, unlawful, absent impasse and objective considerations to rebut U's presumption of continuing majority status, and in view of E's ULPs including bargaining in bad faith, criticisms to Ees concerning U with which it had had contract, and suggesting to Ees that they choose new bargaining agent)

Doug Hartley, Inc. 255 NLRB No. 097

(E's refusal to bargain with U which had card majority not justified by ascertion of doubt of majority, where E had unlawfully discharged all members of unit)

Scott Printing Corporation 249 NLRB No. 134

(Bd, in affirming its prior D/O, found E and its alter ego may not now allege that at time of refusal to bargain, they had good-faith doubt as to U's continuing majority support, since defense was based on events induced by sham sale to E's alter ego; purpose of sale was to enable E to avoid its duty to bargain with U)

8009-2700 Doubt no defense where employer has knowledge of union majority

Digmor Equipment and Engineering Company, Inc. 261 NLRB No. 176

(E's refusal to arbitrate grievance after expiration of contract, unlawful, notwithstanding E's assertion of U's loss of majority and that qcr existed in view of RM ptn, since duty to arbitrate survives contract where grievant was discharged for conduct occurring in part prior to contract's expiration; basis for grievance was contract, and further, at time E asserted expiration of contract as basis for refusing to arbitrate, election had confirmed continued support of U and U certified)

Premium Foods, Inc. 260 NLRB No. 092
(successor E's refusal to bargain with predecessor's incumbent U, unlawful, notwithstanding E's claim of good faith doubt of U's majority based on information that some Ees sought to withdraw from U, since E's claim was exercise in subjective interpretation in view of E's lack of action to determine whether segment of Ees desired no representation and lack of reliable information as to desires of Ee complement as a whole; and E knew that Ees had been previously represented by U and therefore had basis for assuming that U had colorable claim to recognition)

Gregory Chevrolet, Inc. 258 NLRB No. 034
(where E examined cards indicating U majority and with U's consent held Ee meeting to satisfy himself that Ees had not been conned into signing cards, E's refusal to bargain w/o election held violative as E may not disclaim results of that meeting)

8009-4400 Filing of representation or decertification petition

Great Western Coca-Cola Bottling Company, d/b/a Houston Coca-Cola Bottling Company 265 NLRB No. 106
(Bd applied rule announced in Dresser Industries prohibiting withdrawal from bargaining while decertification ptn is pending, on a prospective basis only, and held E's unilateral changes in access requirements for U representatives unlawful, since E is not licensed to interfere with U's representative functions during pendency of decertification ptn; U remains Ees' bargaining representative until and unless it is decertified; consequently, Bd distinguished unilateral changes affecting U's dealings with Ees whom it represents from those relating to wages and benefits)

Forester Beverage Corporation 265 NLRB No. 035
(E violated Act when it granted unilateral wage increases, created new driver sales routes, altered existing routes, and abolished helper position for 4 of its 5 package sales delivery routes after expiration of contract covering unit which was subject of decertification ptn, because E engaged in other unlawful conduct prior to filing ptn. See Autoprod, Inc. 223 NLRB 773 (1976))

Signal Transformer Co., Inc. 265 NLRB No. 033
(no violation where E withdrew recognition from U after expiration of contracts and made unilateral changes in working conditions where 124 Ees out of unit of 130 Ees signed ptn stating they no longer desired U to represent them, since withdrawal of recognition based on objective considerations to support good faith doubt of U's continuing majority; good faith doubt justified withdrawal notwithstanding another U had filed R ptn since these circumstances constitute exception to Bd's modification of Midwest Piping, in RCA del Caribe that normally E must continue to bargain with incumbent U during processing of ptn by outside U)

Taurus Waste Disposal, Inc. 263 NLRB No. 028
(filing of decertification ptn, three months after expiration of contract and E's cessation of payments to benefit funds, not objective basis for good faith doubt since mere filing of decertification ptn does not destroy presumption of continued majority)

RCA del Caribe, Inc. 262 NLRB No. 116
(E violates Sec. 8(a)(5) by withdrawing from bargaining with incumbent U based solely on fact that ptn has been filed by outside U; however, may still withdraw recognition if its good faith doubt based on other objective considerations)

Abraham Grossman d/b/a Bruckner Nursing Home 262 NLRB No. 115
(Bd will no longer find Sec. 8(a)(2) violations in rival U, initial organizing situations when an E recognizes U which alone represents uncoerced, unassisted majority, before valid ptn for election has been filed with Bd; however, once notified of valid ptn, E must refrain from recognizing any of rival Us)

Abraham Grossman d/b/a Bruckner Nursing Home 262 NLRB No. 115
(duty of struct E neutrality and necessarily for Bd conducted election attaches only when properly supported ptn has been filed by 1 or more of competing Us; where no ptn has been filed, E free to grant recognition to labor organization with uncoerced majority, so long as it does not render assistance which would otherwise violate Sec. 8(a)(2) of Act)

Pittsburgh and New England Trucking Co. v. N.L.R.B. 643 F.2d 174 (C.A. 4, 1981)
(ct denied enforcement of Bd bargaining order in view of distinct possibility that ALJ could have concluded that causal connection between E's ULPs and U disaffection was lacking had ALJ not improperly declined to receive proffered testimony of Ee who had headed decertification campaign to the effect that ULPs had not affected her or other signers, that nothing had interfered with them nor had E interfered or discriminated against them in any way; barring such testimony as to E's state of mind was denying E most direct proof available on controverted issue)

Walker Die Casting, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 682 F.2d 592 (C.A. 6, July 1982)
(the mere filing of decertification ptn is of itself insufficient justification to support refusal to bargain)

N.L.R.B. v. M. A. Harrison Manufacturing Company, Inc. 682 F.2d 580 (C.A. 6, June 1982)
(E's refusal to bargain with U assertedly because of loss of majority on basis of decertification ptn, violative in view of E's history of ULPs)

N.T. Enloe Memorial Hospital v. N.L.R.B. 682 F.2d 790 (C.A. 9, July 1982)
(filing of RM ptn by E does not in itself suspend E's duty to bargain; moreover, duty to bargain not suspended when RD schedules hearing based on E's ptn alone; for RM ptn to provide basis it must ultimately be found to be based on sufficient objective grounds to establish good faith doubt as to U's majority status)

N.L.R.B. v. Antonino Carilli, d/b/a Antonino's Restaurant 648 F.2d 1206 (C.A. 9, June 1981)
(decertification ptn signed by 16 out of unit alleged in ptn to contain 26 Ees not basis for good faith doubt justifying E's termination of payments to pension and health funds, where payments terminated prior to circulation of ptn, GC never offered ptn into evidence to establish number of Ees in unit, and E did not attempt to establish accuracy of number, since E was not prevented from litigating majority status issue notwithstanding precluded from litigating administrative matter of whether showing of interest sufficient to support decertification ptn)

Sahara-Tahoe Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 648 F.2d 553 (C.A. 9, Nov 1980)
(E's refusal to bargain held unlawful, notwithstanding E's contention of good faith doubt of U majority, since ptn for decertification, of which E had knowledge, although it was not filed, did not by itself or together with other evidence unequivocally indicate U support had declined to minority; however, this decision did not imply that a ptn which unambiguously indicated desire not to be represented by U and signed by substantial number of Ees could not be considered in arriving at good faith doubt if that ptn had not been filed)

N.L.R.B. v. Maywood Plant of Grede Plastics 628 F.2d 1 (C.A.D.C.)

Volcan-Hart Corporation (St. Louis Division) 262 NLRB No. 017
(rejection of U induced by E is opposite of what is called objective consideration for questioning majority)

Mark Twain Marine Industries, Inc. 254 NLRB No. 144
(withdrawal of recognition and refusal to bargain based on contention that U lost support of majority, violative, since any loss of majority was result of E's ULPs)

Mark Twain Marine Industries, Inc. 254 NLRB No. 144
(refusal to execute previously agreed-upon contract because contention that U lost support of majority of Ees, violative, since any loss of majority was result of E's ULPs)

Furr's Cafeterias, Inc. 251 NLRB No. 125
(withdrawal of recognition from U, violative, where E cannot base good faith doubt of U's majority status upon anti-U petitions or Ees subsequent filing of decertification petition since such Ee defections resulted from E's own misconduct)

Nordstrom, Inc. JD-(SF)-143-82
(E's refusal to execute contract based on decertification ptn violative where decertification ptn is invalid as result of E's improper promises of benefits to Ees)

(E's good faith doubt must not have been raised in context of illegal anti-U activities, or other conduct by E aimed at causing disaffection from U or indicating that in raising loss of majority issue E was merely seeking to gain time in which to undermine U; existence of ULP prior to refusal to bargain interjects element of uncertainty about whether E thus caused possible loss of majority; if it is shown that ULP did not significantly contribute to loss of majority, E may avoid bargaining order)

Robertshaw Controls Company 263 NLRB No. 128
(notwithstanding E found not responsible for distribution of anti-U ptn, its withdrawal of recognition from U based on ptn, violative, where E was in process of remedying a Sec. 8(a)(5) violation, and that during 60-day posting period unwholesome effects of E's previous unlawful conduct have not been expunged; therefore, signatures obtained during that time are not reliable barometer of Ee sentiment)

(decertification ptn signed by 16 out of unit alleged in ptn to contain 26 Ees not basis for good faith doubt justifying E's termination of payments to pension and health funds, where payments terminated prior to circulation of ptn, GC never offered ptn into evidence to establish number of Ees in unit, and E did not attempt to establish accuracy of number, since E was not prevented from litigating majority status issue notwithstanding precluded from litigating administrative matter of whether showing of interest sufficient to support decertification ptn)

N.L.R.B. v. Antonino Carilli, d/b/a Antoninino's Restaurant 648 F.2d 1206 (C.A. 9, June 1981)
(E's contention it was not required to give U opportunity to bargain regarding changes in insurance plan since futile where U had erroneously asserted E bound by extension of multi-E bargaining agreement and had not requested bargaining once it learned of changes, since E was motivated by desire to undermine U where it had expressed intention to drop U and institute new insurance plan before U expressed belief E bound by bargaining agreement extension, and E refused invitation to meet with U and discuss its position, and U not so intransigent as to relieve E of duty to bargain)

(enforcement granted where substantial evidence supported Bd's finding that none of factors relied upon by E justified withdrawal or recognition from U; E had relied upon U's alleged loss of majority status where (1) 10 of 23 Ees were new Ees, (2) lack of Ee requests for dues checkoffs—a voluntary action, and (3) several unidentified Ees had expressed dissatisfaction with U—, not objective factor in determining majority status)

8009-9400 Employee withdrawal from U or lack of interest

Premium Foods, Inc. 260 NLRB No. 092
(successor E's refusal to bargain with predecessor's incumbent U, unlawful, notwithstanding E's claim of good faith doubt of U's majority based on information that some Ees sought to withdraw from U, since E's claim was exercise in subjective interpretation in view of E's lack of action to determine whether segment of Ees desired no representation and lack of reliable information as to desires of Ee complement as a whole; and E knew that Ees had been previously represented by U and therefore had basis for assuming that U had colorable claim to recognition)

International Medication Systems, Ltd. 253 NLRB No. 120

8009-9800 Following withdrawal from multiemployer bargaining unit

Wm. Chalson & Co., Inc. 252 NLRB No. 0[illegible]
(E's withdrawal from multi-E bargaining unit during negotiations because of doubt as to U's majority support among its Ees, held untimely and unwarranted and E's subsequent refusal to execute or abide by association wide contract held unlawful; prior withdrawal and signing of separate contract with U by large E that belonged to other of 2 multi-E bargaining units bargaining with U not unusual circumstances justifying withdrawal of respondent as each association separate appropriate unit and contract negotiations continued after E signed individual contract; there integrity of bargaining unit not undermined by separate agreement)

8018 DOUBT AS TO APPROPRIATENESS OF UNIT

Walla Walla Union-Bulletin, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 631 F.2d 609 (C.A. 9, Oct. 1980)

Osteopathic Hospital Founders Association, d/b/a Oklahoma Osteopathic Hospital v. N.L.R.B. 618 F.2d 633 (C.A. 10, 1980)
(E's withdrawal of recognition from U assertedly because certified unit was inappropriate, violative, even if Bd certification was improper; E is deemed to have consented to Bd's unit determination by acquiescing in the unit determination until after ALJ found E guilty of 8(a)(5) violations over two years later, by executing one-year bargaining agreement with U following date when unit was certified, and by subsequently specifically admitting appropriateness of unit in its ans to GC's C)

8018-1200 Nonrepresentative unit

Jeffries Lithograph Company, A Subsidiary of The Ticor Printing Group, Inc. 265 NLRB No. 1[illegible]
(successor E's refusal to bargain with U which had represented predecessor's Ees, violative where at time of demand predecessor's Ees constituted majority of successor's Ees, successor's projections of Ee complement was too indefinite and speculative to warrant finding Ee complement not representative or insubstantial, and there was no showing that increased staff would have different job classifications or duties)

Construction Erectors, Inc. 265 NLRB No. 0[illegible]
(on remand from U.S. Court of Appeals, Bd found E's repudiation of collective bargaining agreement before its termination date, unlawful, since workforce in bargaining unit had become permanent and stable and U obtained majority support w/i unit of Ironworkers during period w/i effective term of applicable contract; E moved its Ees from job to job and did not regularly assign Ees to single jobs and then to no subsequent jobs; 10 of 15 Ees in core group were U members and worked 75% of total days on which Ironworkers were employed)

8018-2800 Changed circumstances

Ah Chu Company 259 NLRB No. 0[illegible]
(where E sold discount store but retained operation of sundry department as lessee and lessee negotiated new contract with U bringing leased sundry department Ees into unit of sundry Ees of another store owned by lessee, Bd held that when lessee afterwards sold lease to Respondent who also leased pharmacy department at store, Ees of leased sundry department formed appropriate unit in and of themselves at store since pharmacy Ees and sundry Ees were always represented by separate locals though latter in larger unit at time of sale)

8018-2513 Relocated operations

Marine Optical, Inc. 255 NLRB No. 158
(E's refusal to bargain with U at relocated operation on ground unit was limited to old operation, unlawful, where existing contract remained in effect at new location, operations and equipment at new location were substantially same as at old location, substantial percentage of Ees transferred to new location, and at time of move qcr would not appropriately be raised under existing contract)

Westwood Import Company, Inc. 251 NLRB No. 162
(withdrawal of recognition and failure to honor contract at relocated plant 35 miles from old site during period contract served as bar and no qcr present, violative, otherwise, E could unilaterally eliminate or change representative at time when Bd would refuse to allow change; relocation, providing operations and equipment remain substantially same at new location and substantial percentage of Ees (though less than 50) at old plant transfer to new location, has little effect on bargaining obligation)

Westwood Import Company, Inc. 251 NLRB No. 162
(where E committs ULP by transferring only few Ees to relocated plant, Bd will then examine question of whether majority of unit Ees at new facility would have been comprised of Ees from old facility had it not been for E's unlawful activity)

Universal Security Instruments, Inc. 250 NLRB No. 092
(where Ees at new plant are accretion to unit at old plant, refusal to extend contract covering old Ees to Ees at new plant violative)

N.L.R.B. v. United Optical Workers Union Local 408, Electrical Workers (Marine Optical, Inc.) 671 F.2d 11 (C.A. 1, Feb. 1982)
(E's withdrawal of recognition, refusal to bargain on demand, and unilateral changes after relocating operations violated 8(a)(5) and 8(d); contract's description of unit as consisting of Ees employed at address of E's old facility was not shown to be intended as geographical limitation, as contended, and continuity was sufficient for Bd to apply modified contract-bar doctrine and find contract effective at new facility where there was substantial continuity of operations and in bargaining unit after relocation, and new facility was near old facility and in same state)

Air Express International Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 659 F.2d 610 (C.A. 5, Oct. 1981)
(restructuring district from single plant unit where U certified into 2 plant district to include plant in another state and having labor management policy formed to cover expanded district is not kind of change that amounts to unusual circumstances that would make certification invalid because it does not cover aggregate Ees in expanded district).

8018-2525 New operation not accretion

Gould, Inc., Electrical Components Division 263 NLRB No. 035
(E's refusal to recognize U as bargaining representative of Ees at relocated operation not violative since Ees were not accretion to certified unit)

Weatherite Company, Inc. 261 NLRB No. 095
(refusal to recognize U as representative of urethane foam roofing Ees, and refusal to apply agreement with U representing built-up roofing Ees, not unlawful, where foam roofers do not share sufficient community of interest with built-up roofers so as to constitute an accretion to latter unit)

DMR Corp. and Harrill Electric Contractors, Inc. 258 NLRB No. 139
(where single E relationship found, new operation held to be accretion to unit in first company and E wide unit is appropriate since Ees at both locations possess similar skills, perform same kinds of work, operations of two companies are closely intertwined, E retains significant control over labor relations of both operations)

Cannon Air Conditioning and Heating Co., Inc. and Yor-Tex, Inc. 252 NLRB No. 091
(where E, whose sheet metal workers were represented by U, entered into arrangement with another company by which the latter would hire its own Ees and do bin repair work contracted for by E, E's refusal to apply its U contract to the bin repair Ees not violative absent finding bin repair Ees accretion to sheet metal workers unit)

Westwood Import Company, Inc. 251 NLRB No. 162
(where relevant considerations are not free from doubt as to whether or not Ees are accretion to existing unit, Bd and cts are in agreement that best way to resolve close question is through election process because accretion doctrine applied restrictively since it deprives Ees of opportunity to express their desires)

A-1 Fire Protection, Inc., and Corcoran Automatic Sprinkler, Inc. 250 NLRB No. 034
(E's refusal to extend collective-bargaining agreement which describes scope of unit represented by U to Ees in its non-U company not violative as parties voluntarily entered into agreement with full knowledge of double breasted operation of E; therefore use of clear and unmistakable waiver standard is not applicable as parties never intended to include Ees of non-U company in bargaining unit)

Local 627, Operating Engineers v. N.L.R.B. 595 F.2d 844 (C.A.D.C., 1979)
(ct held that workers employed by E's newly acquired non-U subsidiary formed a separate bargaining unit from Ees of existing unionized subsidiary, and E's failure to apply existing U contract to non-U subsidiary was not unlawful, even though subsidiaries constituted a single E, where Bd in its discretion found an appropriate unit of non-U Ees separate from those of unionized subsidiary, and it was not ct's duty to determine whether other units would be appropriate inasmuch as Bd's decision was rational, in accord with past precedent, and unit chosen was appropriate)

Local 627, Operating Engineers v. N.L.R.B. 595 F.2d 844 (C.A.D.C., 1979)
(in finding that E's operation of unionized subsidiary and newly acquired non-U subsidiary constituted separate appropriate Ee units, ct rejected U's contention that fact that subsidiaries comprised a single E necessarily established that single unit of Ees of both subsidiaries was appropriate; a single E determination does not necessarily establish that E-wide unit is appropriate)

Local 627, Operating Engineers v. N.L.R.B. 595 F.2d 844 (C.A.D.C., 1979)
(in finding that E's operation of unionized subsidiary and newly acquired non-U subsidiary constituted separate appropriate Ee units, ct rejected U's contention that Bd's decision that Ees of both subsidiaries constituted separate units was inconsistent with Bd precedent, where Bd found subsidiaries functioned as substantially separate operations and that two groups of Ees had distinct interests)

Local 627, Operating Engineers v. N.L.R.B. 595 F.2d 844 (C.A.D.C., 1979)
(in finding that E's operation of unionized subsidiary and newly acquired non-U subsidiary constituted separate appropriate Ee units, ct rejected U's contention that Bd's decision was not in accord with past precedent; cases relied on by U contain factual differences that justify different outcome herein, Bd's decision is supported by its accretion decisions, and ct with its limited scope of review cannot say that Bd's determination is erroneous)

8018-2550 Accretion does not render existing unit inappropriate

Safety Electric Corporation and San Joaquin Pacific Corporation 620 F.2d 311(T) (C.A. 9, 1980)
(Ees of two corporations found to be single E shared same type of skills and duties and should be included in same bargaining unit as accretion to original bargaining unit)

8018-2562 Accretion of appropriate unit into larger unit

Ah Chu Company 259 NLRB No. 025
(where E sold discount store but retained operation of sundry department as lessee and lessee negotiated new contract with U bringing leased sundry department Ees into unit of sundry Ees of another store owned by lessee, Bd held that when lessee afterwards sold lease to Respondent who also leased pharmacy department at store, Ees of leased sundry department formed appropriate unit in and of themselves at store since pharmacy Ees and sundry Ees were always represented by separate locals though latter in larger unit at time of sale)

DMR Corp. and Harrill Electric Contractors, Inc. 258 NLRB No. 139

Universal Security Instruments, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 649 F.2d 247 (C.A. 4, May 1981)
(refusal to recognize U as bargaining representative of Ees of new plant violative where Ees at new plant were accretion to existing unit represented by U at E's other plants, in light of similarity of skills required at all plants, similarity of product produced, geographical proximity of facilities when metropolitan area is viewed as a whole, and centralized management and Ee relations)

8018-2569 Merger of multi-location units

Air Express International Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 659 F.2d 610 (C.A. 5, Oct. 1981)
(restructuring district from single plant unit where U certified into 2 plant district to include plant in another state and having labor management policy formed to cover expanded district is not kind of change that amounts to unusual circumstances that would make certification invalid because it does not cover aggregate Ees in expanded district)

Palo Alto Medical Clinic JD-(SF)-282-80

N.L.R.B. v. Samuel P. Katz, d/b/a American Mailers (Plant #2) 622 F.2d 242 (C.A. 6, 1980)
(refusal to bargain with local which had merged with incumbent violative, notwithstanding contention of procedurally defective merger vote and no continuity of R; (1) election procedures were adequate in view of timely and adequate election notice and there was absence of evidence of invasion of Ee privacy, prejudice to any Ee, achievement of different outcome by more formal methods or significant effect on E's bargaining obligation, and (2) this ct has not adopted continuity of R as a standard — as long as choice of representative has been freely made, Ees' preference should be recognized)

8018-7800 Doubt no defense if in fact unit appropriate

Penetone Corporation 260 NLRB No. 188
(E, in C case, cannot challenge appropriateness of unit, since E had stipulated to unit's appropriateness in R proceeding and U was certified as bargaining representation for E's Ees in unit)

Puerto Rico Hotel Association 259 NLRB No. 058
(contention of hotel E Association that unit of all Ee musicians of hotels, excluding bandleaders, not appropriate, because some hotels had attempted to withdraw from multi-E bargaining and bandleaders had historically been included in unit, rejected, since E hotels signatories to mutual aid and protection pact and participated in negotiating through E association; attempted withdrawal from multi-E bargaining was untimely where after U had presented demands, and placement of leaders in unit never issue in negotiations and inclusion of supervisors in unit does not render it inappropriate)

Contract Carrier, Inc. 258 NLRB No. 043
(E's contention it had no obligation to recognize and bargain with U since scope of unit had substantially changed making only appropriate unit multi-facility rather than single plant, rejected, since E did not rebut presumption of appropriateness of single plant unit, where facilities 130 miles apart, little interchange of Ees, separate day-to-day supervision, and bargaining history of single plant unit)

B. P. Oil, Inc. 256 NLRB No. 171
(withdrawal of recognition and refusal to bargain with U in regard to unit of dispatchers because of contention that these Ees were supervisors, violative; dispatchers did not exercise independent judgment in handling Ees' minor complaints and in fact functioned only as conduits for information)

J. C. Penney Company 252 NLRB No. 047
(E's failure and refusal to recognize U as representative of Ees in new catalog sales department and failure and refusal to apply terms and conditions of existing E-U contract covering unit of floor sales department Ees, violative, where the new catalog sales department was found herein to be accretion to the unit floor sales department Ees)

Stanley M. Feil, Inc. 250 NLRB No. 065
(contention of E that manufactured garments that appropriate unit should encompass its factory and warehouse Ees rather than be limited to warehouse Ees, rejected, in view of differences in skills, working conditions and wages of Ees)

Ortiz Funeral Home Corp. (Local 1034, Teamsters, 259 NLRB No. 190
(violation where E failed to apply contract to all Ees in appropriate unit and failed after contract's expiration to continue to maintain provisions of contract or to bargain for a new contract covering all unit Ees while erroneously insisting that a large number of Ees were not included in unit; although failure to apply existing contract to all unit Ees was not alleged as violation, matter was fully litigated, since it and later violation both turned on question of who was in appropriate unit)

United States Steel Corporation 248 NLRB No. 090
(violation where E refused to bargain concerning wages and working conditions of students attending E-sponsored school on basis that they were no longer unit members where Bd found that they remained in unit as Ees while in school)

N.L.R.B. v. Holly's, Inc., d/b/a Holiday Inn South 644 F.2d 885(T) (C.A. 6, Jan 5, 1981)
(exclusion of front desk porters and yardmen from unit of housekeeping Ees at motel w/i discretion of Bd since facts similar to other cases where unit composed of only housekeeping Ees held appropriate)

Alaska Statebank v. N.L.R.B. 653 F.2d 1285 (C.A. 9, Aug 1981)

8019 Rival union claim to recognition

Signal Transformer Co., Inc. 265 NLRB No. [illegible]
(no violation where E withdrew recognition from U after expiration of contracts and made unilateral changes in working conditions where 124 Ees out of unit of 130 Ees signed ptn stating they no longer desired U to represent them, since withdrawal of recognition based on objective considerations to support good faith doubt of U's continuing majority; good faith doubt justified withdrawal notwithstanding another U had filed R ptn since these circumstances constitute exception to Bd's modification of Midwest Piping, in RCA del Caribe that normally E must continue to bargain with incumbent U during processing of ptn by outside U)

Anderson Sand & Gravel Company JD-[illegible]
(E which was engaged in manufacture of prefabricated structural concrete signing contract with Laborers in regard to representation of Ees in new wet concrete operation, unlawful, since E had obligation to bargain with Teamsters where Ees in new operation part of existing unit represented by Teamsters; inasmuch as work was performed in same plant with same tools, basically same wages, under same general supervision and working conditions; nor was operation result of establishment of new division where operation neither physically nor functionally distinct, and E's proposal for new division during bargaining had been withdrawn)

8020 DEMAND FOR BARGAINING IN INAPPROPRIATE OR NONEXISTING UNIT

Penn Color, Inc. 261 NLRB No. [illegible]
(where unit requested herein was previously found inappropriate, but Bd now found such unit appropriate, Bd rejected E's contention that it had right to refuse U's bargaining demand because of prior finding of unit inappropriateness; question whether unit is or is not appropriate is completely irrelevant to question of whether E has committed ULPs; E may lawfully withhold recognition for number of reasons but only so long as it does not coerce and intimidate Ees, making fair election impossible, which is what complaint herein alleges)

Puerto Rico Hotel Association 259 NLRB No. [illegible]
(contention of hotel E Association that unit of all Ee musicians of hotels, excluding bandleaders, not appropriate, because some hotels had attempted to withdraw from multi-E bargaining and bandleaders had historically been included in unit, rejected, since E hotels signatories to mutual aid and protection pact and participated in negotiating through E association; attempted withdrawal from multi-E bargaining was untimely where after U had presented demands, and placement of leaders in unit never issue in negotiations and inclusion of supervisors in unit does not render it inappropriate)

Cardox Division of Chemetron Corporation 258 NLRB No. [illegible]
(violation where E withdrew recognition and refused to bargain with voluntarily recognized representative. Reasonable period of time did not pass where U and E met only once during 3-1/2 months of recognition despite efforts by U to have more meetings. Furthermore, whether unit is appropriate or not is of no consequence where E voluntarily recognized bargaining representative of unit)

Burns Electronic Security Services, Inc. 256 NLRB No. [illegible]
(E's refusal to bargain not violative where unit had been improperly certified because it contained both guard and nonguard Ees)

Home Insulation Service, A Division of Sunstate Wholesalers 255 NLRB No. [illegible]
(E's refusal to recognize and bargain with U, not unlawful, where U demanded recognition for production and maintenance Ees at single branch of E's operations rather than for production and maintenance Ees at all [illegible] branches of E's business which Bd found to be the appropriate unit)

Southern Newspapers, Inc., d/b/a The Baytown Sun 255 NLRB No. [illegible]
(E's defense to its refusal of U's request to bargain over unilateral change in Ees' working conditions, on ground unit was not appropriate, rejected, where parties had successive agreements for approximately 35 years, were negotiating for successor agreement upon expiration of most recent agreement, and there was no change in unit over past 35 years; consequently, presumption is that U, during term of expired contract, and currently is, representative of Ees in appropriate unit)

The Arundel Corporation 252 NLRB No. [illegible]
(E's refusal of charging U's request to recognize it as representative of portion of unit at new operation at which E had recognized another U held not unlawful, where Ees sought by U were located substantial distance from other Ees covered by charging U's contract, they had no contact with such Ees, were employed in work situation in which their supervisor had considerable control over day-to-day personnel policies and employment, and they never expressed preference to be recognized by charging U rather than recognized U)

Chester Valley, Inc. 251 NLRB No. [illegible]
(U's demand held not proper request to bargain where there was substantial deviation between appropriate three-facility unit and demand specifying unit limited to E's two-facility unit, and demand was not cured by U's amendment of its R ptn so as to add third facility; note taken of E's letter to Ees, bearing same date as date of U's addition of third facility to petitioned-for unit, that he would not recognize U w/o an election)

8020—Cont.

Howard Johnson Company 250 NLRB No. 161
(E's contention that unit of motel housekeeping Ees was inappropriate because it excluded, among others, front desk clerks, rejected, where case relied on by E is hereby overruled in view of later decisions cited by RD in his D/O directing election which fully supported his determination; Howard Johnson Co., 201 NLRB 376, overruled)

Nevada Resort Association; Summa Corporation, d/b/a Castaways Hotel; et al. 250 NLRB No. 118
(multi-E association's counterproposal for contract renewal with unwavering demand that lounge musicians be excluded from bargaining unit despite their inclusion for past decade held unlawful withdrawal of recognition; belief that lounge musicians were independent contractors and U's agreement to defer lounge musicians issue does not justify or legitimaze E's withdrawal of recognition)

Valley Vista Hospital JD-(SF)-88-82
(refusal of successor E to bargain with U representing predecessor's Ees, not unlawful where operational structure and practice of successor E made unit no longer appropriate)

Gould, Inc. JD-489-81
(where E, pursuant to agreement with U, transferred unit Ees to U-contracting company engaged in joint venture with E, and subsequently reemployed some of the transferred Ees, E's contention that bargaining unit no longer existed, rejected, since reemployed Ees' jobs bore a sufficient relationship and content to those previously performed so as to bring them w/i scope of appropriate unit, and Ees' added responsibilities did not make them supervisory or managerial)

N.L.R.B. v. Midvalley Steel Fabricators, Inc. 621 F.2d 49 (C.A. 2, 1980)
(E's contention its refusal to bargain justified as U represented inappropriate unit, rejected, since not clear unit would have been inappropriate absent stipulation; further, E had not raised issue previously and had agreed to E's request for desired exclusion)

United Oil Manufacturing Co., Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 672 F.2d 1208 (C.A. 3, Feb. 1982)
(fact that E rejected the U's demand for recognition at time when it had no knowledge that unit sought was inappropriate did not affect finding violation where subsequent ptn described unit differently)

St. Anthony Hospital Systems v. N.L.R.B. 655 F.2d 1028 (C.A. 10, Aug 1981)
(remand for determination of appropriate unit and its effect on E's duty to bargain in view of Bd's holding that had improperly relieved GC of burden of establishing ULP occured by holding unit of registered nurses at hospital presumptively appropriate and E had duty of rebutting presumption)

W & W Steel Company v. N.L.R.B. 599 F.2d 934 (C.A. 10, 1979)
(where U certified for company-wide unit of P&M Ees employed in predecessor's 7 plants and new E purchases one of these plants, latter E held not successor and its refusal to bargain with certified U not violative, where certification over 2 years old; only 8 of 49 presently employed revealed themselves to be U adherents, 13 had worked for predecessor but did not participate in strike and rest hired by predecessor after strike or new E; no ULPs or U animus by new E, all of which gave rise to good faith doubt of majority status in changed bargaining unit)

8023 NOT BOUND BY MULTIEMPLOYER BARGAINING

H & D, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 670 F.2d 120 (C.A. 9, Feb. 1982)
(ct upheld Bd's finding violation in E's unilateral withdrawal from and refusal to bargain as part of multi-E group where bargaining to impasse and mass resignation of E's Ees from U were not unusual circumstances justifying withdrawal from multi-E bargaining unit; test is not whether majority of Ees of one E resign from U but whether majority of all Ees represented in contract negotiations resign)

8023-0100 Generally

Carlson Roofing Co., Inc. 255 NLRB No. 067
(where E is member of E association which had collective bargaining agreement with U, E not bound by contract as E never signed written consent required by E-association bylaws to bind E to that contract, never paid Ees contract wages, or checked off dues on their behalf, notwithstanding E did recruit 2 Ees to join U and paid their initiation fee, 3 months dues, and made health, welfare and pension fund contributions for them; furthermore, manner in which memberships were obtained precludes reliance upon them as evidence of U's majority)

Beaumont Graphics, Ltd. 254 NLRB No. 044
(E not bound by strike settlement between multiE association and U, nor was E required to furnish information relevant to grievance brought by U alleging violations of association contract and strike agreement, since E had lawfully withdrawn from multiE association; E was not party to association contract and had not consented, to be bound by association's strike agreement with U)

Pullman Building Company 251 NLRB No. 148
(violation, where E refused to abide by state homebuilder-Es' association contract; E's claims that it was not bound because it was operating as developer rather than homebuilder and that it had separate agreement with U, rejected where work was typical homebuilders' work and, as association member, E had invested exclusive bargaining authourity in association and could not enter into separate agreement)

8023-1200 Never became member

Remodeling By Oltmanns, Inc. 263 NLRB No. 169
(refusal of E who was not member of multi-E association to abide by current contract between association and U, not unlawful, notwithstanding agreement with U in which E had agreed to abide by expired association bargaining agreement and to be bound by terms of negotiated agreements with association during terms of agreement since agreement was only meant to be temprorary interim agreement with intent to bind E only for duration of next agreement with association and this agreement with association and this agreement expired)

Jefferson Stores, Inc. 253 NLRB No. 048
(refusal to sign 1978-82 master agreement held not violative where agent who signed memorandum agreement of 1976-79 contract expressly limited contract to one jobsite and, therefore, did not become signatory to master contract and no obligation to sign new agreement; E's compliance with master agreement at additional jobsites does not establish adoption or ratification of agreement for those jobsites)

Local #197, Electrical Workers, AFL-CIO (McLean County Electrical Contractors Association, Inc.) JD-(SF)-369-80
(U's insistence that certain members of predecessor multi-E association who did not consent to substitution of new multi-E association as bargaining representative must bargain only as part of new multi-E association, violative, as U had notice that these members had opposed such substitution; therefore, no consensual tripartite relationship between U, association and individual members of association existed; furthermore, continued observance of contract negotiated by new association w/o more, did not render these nonconsenting Es part of multi-E bargaining unit)

Crane Sheet Metal, Inc. and Hartley Sheet Metal Company, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 675 F.2d 256 (C.A. 10, Apr. 1982)
(while association membership raises inference of association authority to execute agreement binding E, membership alone insufficient to establish necessary unequivocal intention to be bound in face of evidence here clearly to contrary where contractors told U before start of negotiations that contractors retained final approval for themselves)

8023-2500 Withdrawal timely

Schaetzel Trucking, Inc. 250 NLRB No. 044
(E's withdrawal held timely, inasmuch as it was undisputed that no negotiations had begun for successor to expired multi-E bargaining agreement at time E withdrew from multi-E unit)

8023-5000 Withdrawal untimely

Beaumont Graphics, Ltd. 254 NLRB No. 044
(impasse is not, of itself, unusual circumstance warranting unilateral withdrawal from existing multiE bargaining relationship, but amounts to no more than temporary deadlock or hiatus which is usually resolved by actions of parties)

McCormick-Boyett Plumbing Company JD-(ATL)-93-82
(E's refusal sign and honor negotiated multi-E contract when it had not given required notice of withdrawal from multi-E bargaining prior to commencement of neogitations, unlawful; E's failure to respond to U's request for bargaining not timely withdrawal, nor did E's financial situation constitute unusual circumstances that would justify its withdrawal where its financial reports did not substantiate required dire straits; further, E's contention that change in character of business (more repair work than service or maintenance) made agreement inapplicable, rejected)

N.L.R.B. v. Thomas Hoover and Dennis Loy, d/b/a The Players Restaurant 629 F.2d 789(T) (C.A. 9, 1981)
(where E notified U 6 weeks prior to expiration of contract that it desired to terminate contract when it expired but made no mention of withdrawal from multi-E unit nor gave any indication of willingness to bargain on individual basis, E never effectively furnished adequate written notice to U that evinces unambiguous intent to withdraw from unit and is bound by provisions of successor contract)

8023-6600 Association exceeded its authority

Crane Sheet Metal, Inc. 248 NLRB No. 015
(E's failure to honor contract executed by E-association of which it was member violative notwithstanding E believed association had no power to bind it to contract with U because it had reserved to itself right to reject contract since such reservation not communicated to U until after contract reached)

Crane Sheet Metal, Inc. and Hartley Sheet Metal Company, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 675 F.2d 256 (C.A. 10, Apr. 1982)

(apparent authority sufficient to determine whether multi-E bargaining unit is acting as agent of Es so as to bind individual E by bargaining unit's acts; whether specific acts were actually authorized or subsequently ratified not controlling)

8023-6700 Unusual circumstances in untimely withdrawal

N.L.R.B. v. Charles D. Bonanno Linen Service, Inc. 630 F.2d 25 (C.A. 1, 1980)

N.L.R.B. v. Custom Sheet Metal & Service Co., Inc. 666 F.2d 454 (C.A. 10, Dec. 1981)

N.L.R.B. v. Custom Sheet Metal & Service Co., Inc. 666 F.2d 454 (C.A. 10, Dec. 1981)

(E's withdrawal from construction industry multi-E association after bargaining for new contract started justified by economic considerations where because of strike over progress in contract negotiations E was faced with imminent loss customer which purchased 75% of its production and having lost other customers its very existence as viable enterprise was threatened; furthermore, no showing of any anti-U sentiment)

8023-6800 No unit employees employed

Miscellaneous Drivers and Helpers Union, Local No. 610 v. N.L.R.B. 624 F.2d 831 (C.A. 8, 1980)

(no violation where funeral home operator refused to sign funeral directors association's contract with U representing funeral vehicle drivers, since funeral home operator, though member of association, did not employ drivers but contracted with other Es for drivers' services notwithstanding he had signed contract in past)

8023-7500 Union's acquiescence in untimely withdrawal

Beaumont Graphics, Ltd. 254 NLRB No. 044

(refusal of E to give effect to, or enter into, contract negotiated on its behalf by multiE association, not unlawful where notwithstanding that E's withdrawal was untimely, association did not object to E's withdrawal and acquiesced thereto as demonstrated by its entire course of conduct; U never protested E's withdrawal nor insisted that E was bound by association contract and negotiated separately with E)

N.L.R.B. v. Charles D. Bonanno Linen Service, Inc. 630 F.2d 25 (C.A. 1, 1980)

Harding Glass Industries, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 672 F.2d 1330 (C.A. 10, Feb. 1982)

(while U's consent to E's withdrawal from multi-E unit may be inferred where U accepts benefits of withdrawal or proceeds to bargain individually w/o protest, ct held U did not consent as result of U negotiator's angry remarks during bargaining session that it might be possible to reach settlement if E was not part of negotiations; such remarks ought not to be treated as offer establishing binding contract if accepted before withdrawal; U negotiator subsequently indicated possibility that U would not consent; and when E actually attempted to withdraw, U expressed its unequivocal protest)

8023-9000 Individual member variance in negotiations

Crane Sheet Metal, Inc. and Hartley Sheet Metal Company, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 675 F.2d 256 (C.A. 10, Apr. 1982)

(evidence in instant case indicated that Es considered themselves to be segment of multi-E Association, retaining for themselves final authority to approve any contract negotiated by Association and U; U official had assured instant Es of separate negotiations and contracts for Es represented by multi-E Association)

8023-9700 Effect of Section 10(b) 6-month limitation

McCormick-Bryant Plumbing Company JD-(ATL)-93-82

(Section 10(b) period for charge alleging unlawful refusal to sign and honor multi-E bargaining agreement began running when E specifically informed U it was not going to sign agreement which was w/i 10(b) period, rather than from U's letter asking E to sign new agreement which was outside 10(b) period, since E's failure to reply to or comply with request to sign agreement did not put U on notice of act committing ULP)

N.L.R.B. v. Preston H. Haskell Company 616 F.2d 136 (C.A. 5, 1980)

(in finding C based on E's refusal to execute and apply E association's contract with U barred by Sec. 10(b), even though E's conduct occurred w/i 10(b) period, inasmuch as C based upon E's alleged unlawful withdrawal from group bargaining was barred by 10(b) limitation, ct relied on authoritative precedent, legislative purpose, Act's goal of stabilizing existing bargaining relationships, and fact that application of 10(b) bar does not work undue hardship on U)

N.L.R.B. v. Preston H. Haskell Company 616 F.2d 136 (C.A. 5, 1980)

(in finding C based on E's refusal to execute and apply E association's contract with U barred by Sec. 10(b), even though E's conduct occurred w/i 10(b) period, inasmuch as C based upon E's alleged unlawful withdrawal from goup bargaining was barred by 10(b) limitation, ct relied on authoritative precedent, legislative purpose, Act's goal of stabilizing existing bargaining relationships, and fact that application of 10(b) bar does not work undue hardship on U)

8027 LOSS OF MAJORITY (SEE ALSO 530-4080-5000)

8027-0400 No defense where raised after commission of ULP

Forester Beverage Corporation 265 NLRB No. 035

(E violated Act when it granted unilateral wage increases, created new driver sales routes, altered existing routes, and abolished helper position for 4 of its 5 package sales delivery routes after expiration of contract covering unit which was subject of decertification ptn, because E engaged in other unlawful conduct prior to filing ptn. See Autoprod, Inc. 223 NLRB 773 (1976))

Plymouth Locomotive Works, Inc. 261 NLRB No. 087

(defense that E withdrew recognition because certification year had expired and E allegedly believed U had lost its majority status because unit Ees did not support strike vote, rejected where E offered no evidence of lack of such support; moreover E had undermined U support with its ULPs)

United States Gypsum Company 259 NLRB No. 145

(Ees ptns signed by majority not basis for doubting U's continuing majority status where E's unlawful refusal to bargain continued w/o interruption in serious ULP and tainted ptns)

Colson Equipment, Inc. 257 NLRB No. 015

Scioto Coca-Cola Bottling Company 251 NLRB No. 105

James F. Stanford, Inc. d/b/a Ace Machine Co. 249 NLRB No. 073

Martinsburg Concrete Products Co. 248 NLRB No. 172

(E's refusal to continue recognition of U assertedly on ground that Ees had decided they no longer wished to be represented by U violative where E induced defection of U members by ULPs)

N.L.R.B. v. Mar-Len Cabinets, Inc. 659 F.2d 995 (C.A. 9, Oct. 1981)

(not sustained as defense where resignations from U on which E relied as basis for belief in loss of majority were direct result of E's failure to bargain in good faith)

8027-0700 Unfavorable employee comments

Crestline Memorial Hospital Association, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 668 F.2d 243 (C.A. 6, Jan. 1982)

(letter from non-U Ees to hospital protesting U ratification procedures which denied them vote not enough to support good faith doubt of majority status of certified bargaining representative which is conclusively presumed for 1 year, especially where letter silent on question of continued support of U itself)

N.L.R.B. v. Mar-Len Cabinets, Inc. 659 F.2d 995 (C.A. 9, Oct. 1981)

(Ees expressions of dissatisfaction with U's failure to report bargaining developments and respond to questions not sustained as defense where, taken in context, did not indicate repudiation of U, but only displeasure with U's handling of bargaining negotiations)

8027-0900 Employee turnover

Construction Erectors, Inc. 265 NLRB No. 098

(E's repudiation of collective bargaining agreement with U would be unlawful if E employed permanent and stable workforce under agreement before repudiation and U enjoyed majority support; analysis of permanent and stable workforce goes beyond numbers and dates, and focuses upon issue of whether Es complement possesses sufficient continuity as to merit continued reliance on showing of majority support for U made at any point during effective term of applicable bargaining agreement)

Boston Insulated Wire & Cable Co. 264 NLRB No. 044

(contention that summary judgment finding that E's refusal to bargain violated Act should be denied on grounds that E has experienced substantial Ee turnover in period following election held w/o merit, since such turnover is

Silverman's Men's Wear, Inc. 263 NLRB No. 023
(Bd upheld ALJ's refusal to allow testimony to demonstrate post-election changes in bargaining unit on ground that any issue of change in unit was beyond scope of hearing; furthermore, absent special circumstances, there is irrebuttable presumption that majority status of certified U continues for 1 year from date of certification; as E's refusal to bargain occurred during certification year, presumption was clearly applicable; moreover, even if E's refusal to bargain had not occurred during certification year, factor of Ee turnover did not establish that U had lost majority status)

Colson Equipment, Inc. 257 NLRB No. 015
(statistical evidence of high unit Ee turnover, no defense, since, absent evidence to contrary, new Ees are presumed to support incumbent U in same ratio as their predecessors)

International Medication Systems, Ltd. 253 NLRB No. 120

Taylor Hospital 249 NLRB No. 031
(Ee turnover, no defense where no evidence was adduced to rebut presumption that new Ees would support U in same ratio as Ees they replaced)

Glomac Plastics, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 600 F.2d 3 (C.A. 2, 1979)
(ct entered judgment enforcing bargaining order where ct had remanded cause to Bd for reconsideration of propriety of bargaining order and, pursuant to that remand, Bd had reassessed remedial order and, notwithstanding its assumption of the accuracy of the E's principal claims of substantial Ee turnover in unit and/or abandonment of unit by U, nevertheless entered supplemental order affirming that the original relief granted remained appropriate)

Bandag, Incorporated v. N.L.R.B. 583 F.2d 765 (C.A. 5)
(Ee turnover between ULPs and Bd order is relevant in determining whether Gissel order should be used but Bd not required to reopen record to determine whether fair election could be held regardless of turnover since time of hearing where other evidence, such as, card majority, past union activity, and E responses to such activity support such finding)

Fotomat Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 634 F.2d 320 (C.A. 6, 1980)
(contention that U lacked support of majority of Ees because of high turnover and 50% increase in E locations, rejected, where new locations not included in certified unit and E presented no evidence that new Ees did not support U)

Bellwood General Hospital, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 627 F.2d 98 (C.A. 7, 1980)
(refusal to allow E to introduce into evidence U's membership list obtained after withdrawal of recognition improper, notwithstanding membership not correlative with U support, since low membership is clearly probative to issue of U's continued majority and admissibility is not determined solely by what evidence E could have relied on upon in making decision to withdraw recognition)

8027-1000 Packing the unit

Suburban Ford, Inc. 248 NLRB No. 051
(E's sudden and unprecedented attempt to pack bargaining units of salesmen and clerks with new Ees prior to election in two appropriate units held violative, since action was attempt to dilute, emasculate and destroy Us' majority status)

8027-1600 Return of striking employees during strike

Victor Marsh, A Division of TCB, Inc. JD-272-82

N.L.R.B. v. Mar-Len Cabinets, Inc. 659 F.2d 995 (C.A. 9, Oct. 1981)
(fact no Ee joined in picket line not sustained as defense where refusal to join was for economic reasons)

8027-1800 Failure of employees to join strike

Victor Marsh, A Division of TCB, Inc. JD-272-82

8027-3200 No election held

Bellwood General Hospital, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 627 F.2d 98 (C.A. 7, 1980)
(refusal to allow E to introduce into evidence U's membership list obtained after withdrawal of recognition improper, notwithstanding membership not correlative with U support, since low membership is clearly probative to issue of U's continued majority and admissibility is not determined solely by what evidence E could have relied on upon in making decision to withdraw recognition)

8027-3400 Not defense where employer is responsible for loss

Bel-Air Bowl, Inc. 247 NLRB No. 003
(inducement of Ees to abandon support for U, unlawful)

N.L.R.B. v. Mar-Len Cabinets, Inc. 659 F.2d 995 (C.A. 9, Oct. 1981)
(not sustained as defense where resignations from U on which E relied as basis for belief in loss of majority were direct result of E's failure to bargain in good faith)

8027-5400 Plant relocation

Marine Optical, Inc. 255 NLRB No. 158
(Ees, who constituted a majority at both old and new locations during relocation of operations during contract term, are presumed by reason of contract to continue their designation of U as their bargaining representative; and although Ees from former location no longer constituted majority at new location after old facility was completely closed, it is assumed that new hires in unit desired U representation in same proportion as Ees they replaced)

Westwood Import Company, Inc. 251 NLRB No. 162
(withdrawal of recognition and failure to honor contract at relocated plant 35 miles from old site during period contract served as bar and no qcr present, violative, otherwise, E could unilaterally eliminate or change representative at time when Bd would refuse to allow change; relocation, providing operations and equipment remain substantially same at new location and substantial percentage of Ees (though less than 50) at old plant transfer to new location, has little effect on bargaining obligation)

Westwood Import Company, Inc. 251 NLRB No. 162
(where E committs ULP by transferring only few Ees to relocated plant, Bd will then examine question of whether majority of unit Ees at new facility would have been comprised of Ees from old facility had it not been for E's unlawful activity)

N.L.R.B. v. United Optical Workers Union Local 408, Electrical Workers (Marine Optical, Inc.) 671 F.2d 11 (C.A. 1, Feb. 1982)
(E's withdrawal of recognition, refusal to bargain on demand, and unilateral changes after relocating operations violated 8(a)(5) and 8(d); contract's description of unit as consisting of Ees employed at address of E's old facility was not shown to be intended as geographical limitation, as contended, and continuity was sufficient for Bd to apply modified contract-bar doctrine and find contract effective at new facility where there was substantial continuity of operations and in bargaining unit after relocation, and new facility was near old facility and in same state)

8027-7200 Replacement of non-ULP strikers

I T Services, Division of I T Corporation 263 NLRB No. 186
(E had adequate objective basis to support good faith doubt of U majority after contract expired and during strike where majority in unit were strike replacements and told supervisor that they did not want U, picket line violence had been directed against them, and they knew of U demands that they be discharged)

Pennco, Inc. 250 NLRB No. 093
(new Ees, including replacements for strikers, are presumed to support incumbent U in same ratio as those they replaced, notwithstanding crossed picket line on which violence had occured; Bd refused to presume U would not be able to accomodate interests of striking and non-striking Ees)

Victor Marsh, A Division of TCB, Inc. JD-272-82
(E had objective basis for good faith doubt of U's majority that justified withdrawal of recognition, in totality of circumstances, where strike replacements crossed picket line and there were conflicts on picket line between pickets and replacements, and in view of 12 resignations from U during strike out of unit of 105 and expression of applicants for positions replacing strikers that they prefered to work w/o U representation)

Garrett Railroad Car & Equipment, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 683 F.2d 731 (C.A. 3, June 1982)
(no good faith doubt exists that U lost majority notwithstanding strike replacements plus number of Ees not on strike exceeds number of strikers, as Ees' refusal to cross or join picket line does not create such presumption)

8027-7500 Lack of activity on part of bargaining representative

Bellwood General Hospital, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 627 F.2d 98 (C.A. 7, 1980)
(sum total of: 70% turnover in personnel, statements of Ees regarding dissatisfaction with U, extremely low attendance at U meetings, lack of any grievance activity, during first contract term or of visits by U to E's facility, comulatively was sufficient to shift burden to GC to establish U's majority; ct refused to place burden on E of possibly committing ULP of bargaining with minority)

8027-7800-8000 Grievances

Bellwood General Hospital, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 627 F.2d 98 (C.A. 7, 1980)
(sum total of: 70% turnover in personnel, statements of Ees regarding dissatisfaction with U, extremely low attendance at U meetings, lack of any grievance activity, during first contract term or of visits by U to E's facility, comulatively was sufficient to shift burden to GC to establish U's majority; ct refused to place burden on E of possibly committing ULP of bargaining with minority)

8027-8300 Disinterest of unit members

International Total Services, Inc. JD-66-81
(successor E's refusal to recognize and bargain with U, not unlawful, where E could reasonably doubt that U was representative of majority of its Ees in light of U's waiting several months after successor took over facility before demanding recognition and by that time complement of current Ees no longer comprised majority of predecessor's Ees; moreover, there were no ULPs and majority of Ees interviewed by E stated they did not want U)

Bellwood General Hospital, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 627 F.2d 98 (C.A. 7, 1980)
(sum total of: 70% turnover in personnel, statements of Ees regarding dissatisfaction with U, extremely low attendance at U meetings, lack of any grievance activity, during first contract term or of visits by U to E's facility, comulatively was sufficient to shift burden to GC to establish U's majority; ct refused to place burden on E of possibly committing ULP of bargaining with minority)

8027-9000 Employee petition repudiating certified union

Signal Transformer Co., Inc. 265 NLRB No. 033
(no violation where E withdrew recognition from U after expiration of contracts and made unilateral changes in working conditions where 124 Ees out of unit of 130 Ees signed ptn stating they no longer desired U to represent them, since withdrawal of recognition based on objective considerations to support good faith doubt of U's continuing majority; good faith doubt justified withdrawal notwithstanding another U had filed R ptn since these circumstances constitute exception to Bd's modification of Midwest Piping, in RCA del Caribe that normally E must continue to bargain with incumbent U during processing of ptn by outside U)

Dresser Industries, Inc. 264 NLRB No. 145
(overruling Telautograph rule, Bd held that mere filing of decertification ptn, like mere filing of rival U's ptn, would not require or permit E to withdraw from bargaining or executing contract with incumbent U, since such rule does not give due weight to incumbent U's continuing presumption of majority status and is not best way to achieve E neutrality in the election; E with good faith doubt based on objective evidence, e.g. decertification ptn supported by unit majority, may still withdraw; E's actions herein held not unlawful since E relied on then applicable Bd law of Telautograph)

Wagner Distribution Services, Inc. d/b/a Distribution Services West 262 NLRB No. 096
(decertification ptn not basis for good faith doubt where form letters renouncing U were prepared by E and circulated by supervisors)

Hemet Casting Company 260 NLRB No. 060

United States Gypsum Company 259 NLRB No. 145
(Ees ptns signed by majority not basis for doubting U's continuing majority status where E's unlawful refusal to bargain continued w/o interruption is serious ULP and tainted ptns)

United States Gypsum Company 259 NLRB No. 145
(withdrawal of recognition violative where Ees ptns to E stating that they no longer wished U to represent them were tainted by E's refusal to disregard requests by U and mediator to set dates for bargaining)

Lexington Cartage Company, Inc. 259 NLRB No. 005
(ptn signed by all members of unit stating that they wished to renounce U not unusual circumstance that would justify E's refusal to bargain during certification year; further, ptn signed after E's discharge of leading U adherent and where E had made no counterproposals to U contract proposals during two and a half months and several bargaining sessions)

Chicago Magnesium Castings Company 256 NLRB No. 105
(E precluded by prior unremedied ULPs from raising asserted doubt of U's majority status on basis of decertification ptn as defense to withdrawal of recognition and refusal to negotiate new contract)

Hydro Conduit Corporation 254 NLRB No. 049
(circulation of anti-U ptn signed by 34 out of 38 Ees in unit and withdrawal of recognition of U based on ptn, not unlawful, since not attributable to E even if individual who circulated ptn held supervisor where individual was member of U and bargaining unit, was acting in concert with fellow Ees and not as representative of management in circulating ptn)

P. A. Incorporated 248 NLRB No. 077
(E's breaking off negotiations for new contract and withdrawing recognition of U allegedly on basis of U's loss of majority status, unlawful since E failed to rebut presumption of continued majority representation after 1 year of certification where its doubt of majority status was based on decertification ptn by bare majority which it had promoted by promise to pay higher wages w/o U)

Strite-Anderson Mfg. JD-175-82
(E's changes in working hours and punching in and disregard of old contract's seniority requirements regarding recall from layoff, not unlawful in absence of new contract or renewal of expired contract where E had reasonable doubt of U's majority status based on U shop steward's circulation of decertification ptn and Ees' revocation of checkoff authorizations)

Master Slack, Ltd. JD-(ATL)-8-81
(filing decertification ptn raises qcr only where there is objective evidence creating doubt of U's majority status which in ULP proceeding would justify company in refusing to bargain)

C. Langenfelder & Sons, Inc. JD-822-79
(E's refusal to take any action regarding executing contract until qcr resolved justified by decertification ptn signed by majority of unit Ees, absent evidence E or its representatives assisted in obtaining signatures or unlawfully enmeshed itself in decertification movement)

Connecticut Distributors, Inc. v. N.L.R.B 681 F.2d 127 (C.A. 2, June 1982)
(E not responsible for actions of Ee who circulated decertification ptn, notwithstanding E supplied Ee with names of 4 attorneys to contact for information about decertification where such referral not improper; moreover, fact that E filed decertification ptn immediately after receipt of Ee's anti-U ptn may show condonation but it does not prove E played any role in securing Ee signatures)

Connecticut Distributors, Inc. v. N.L.R.B 681 F.2d 127 (C.A. 2, June 1982)
(if Ee found supervisor and is also member of U, E is responsible for his circulation of anti-U petitions only if it encouraged, authorized, or ratified supervisor's activities)

N.L.R.B. v. Half-Century, Inc. d/b/a Holiday Inn of Niles, Michigan 644 F.2d 885(T) (C.A. 6, Jan 21, 1981)
(ct denied enforcement of bargaining order, reversing Bd finding of bad faith bargaining, where successor-E had met with U but did not reach agreement and during course of negotiations ptn signed by 2/3's of Ees was presented to E indicating they no longer wished U representation and E refused to bargain further)

8027-9500 Checkoff authorizations

Strite-Anderson Mfg. JD-175-82
(E's changes in working hours and punching in and disregard of old contract's seniority requirements regarding recall from layoff, not unlawful in absence of new contract or renewal of expired contract where E had reasonable doubt of U's majority status based on U shop steward's circulation of decertification ptn. and Ees' revocation of checkoff authorizations)

The Workshop, Inc. JD-230-80
(E's failure to ans U's letter requesting meeting to negotiate new, modified contract, unlawful where presumption of majority status continued, and evidence did not support E's claim of doubt of U's majority status; E's poll of Ees was unlawful, decline in Ees' checkoff authorizations resulted from decline in unit size, Ees' decertification ptn was filed 3 month's after E's refusal to bargain, and failure to fill U office at E's facility did not support E's claim when Ees there were still represented by U)

8033 UNION POSITION INCONSISTENT WITH ITS OBLIGATION TO REPRESENT EMPLOYEES

A & T Manufacturing Company 265 NLRB No. 201
(withdrawal of recognition by E from certified U which also represented Ees of another E which contracted out work to E, lawful, where U in negotiations with contractor-E obtained side agreement to cease contracting out work and presented agreement during negotiations for standard agreement with subcontractor-E, since substantial conflict with cts duty to represent subcontractor-E's Ees)

Edward Z. Holmes Detective Bureau, Inc. 256 NLRB No. 102
(U's misconduct held not to make test of E's good faith impossible or free E from bargaining obligations where E flagrantly disregarded U contract and status; although U president had stated he would put E out of business, statement was unaccompanied by increased bargaining demands, conflicting interest or attempt to destroy E; his bigoted reference to Ees was made while he was vociferously defending their economic interest; his abrupt leaving of bargaining session was provoked by E; and his fabricated contractual provision submitted to arbitrator neither related to E's obligations nor impacted on E's violations)

N.L.R.B. v. Sumner Home For The Aged 293 F.2d 754 (C.A. 6, 1979)
(where U agreed in advance to accept whatever proposals E submitted covering certain mandatory subjects of bargaining that remained unresolved, R/O requiring E to propose contract terms covering these unresolved issues and to execute contract if U agreed to proposals, denied enforcement, since it is doubtful U representative has legal authority to make any such commitment or that Bd or ct has authority to enforce such contract; furthermore, since U free to reject contract there was no contract agreed to by both parties)

8034 ABANDONMENT OF EMPLOYEES BY UNION

Post Manufacturing Company 261 NLRB No. 026
(U not estopped from singling out layoff of one Ee when Ee was laid off in middle of series of layoffs and U had never requested that E bargain about previous layoffs, since legality of other layoffs was not at issue in instant case; E has generally refused to recognize or bargain with U until ct of appeals enforced prior Bd Order directing E to do so)

Colson Equipment, Inc. 257 NLRB No. 015
(U held not to have abandoned or lost its representative status in view of fact that presumption of majority status continued during period of initial contract regardless of degree of U's deficiency in administering contract, that contract contained automatic renewal clause, and that U supported members filing grievance and fulfilled its representative duties, particularly at time its status was called into question, by holding membership meetings, submitting dues deduction cards and designating a shop committeeman)

Martinsburg Concrete Products Co. 248 NLRB No. 172
(E's refusal to continue recognition of U assertedly on ground that Ees had decided they no longer wished to be represented by U violative where E induced defection of U members by ULPs)

Glomac Plastics, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 600 F.2d 3 (C.A. 2, 1979)
(ct entered judgment enforcing bargaining order where ct had remanded cause to Bd for reconsideration of propriety of bargaining order and, pursuant to that remand, Bd had reassessed remedial order and, notwithstanding its assumption of the accuracy of the E's principal claims of substantial Ee turnover in unit and/or abandonment of unit by U, nevertheless entered supplemental order affirming that the original relief granted remained appropriate)

N.L.R.B. v. A.W. Thompson, Inc. 651 F.2d 1141 (C.A. 5, July 1981)
(lack of Ee participation in U affairs, Ee turnover, U's failure to process grievances, post notices on bulletin boards, appoint stewards, absence of Ee conversations about U and change in ownership of company are insufficient factors to support a good faith doubt in majority status as, unlike in industrial setting, nature of oil-drilling industry and wide dispersion of Ees did not lead to conclusion of lack of U support on part of Ees)

8034-6700 Failure to process grievances

St. Joseph Hospital Corporation 260 NLRB No. 089
(E's refusal to process, pursuant to contract's grievance-arbitration provision, Ee's grievance concerning her suspension, assertedly for filing charge with Bd, not unlawful, where in refusing to do so E was merely enforcing contract provision barring any further processing once grievant elects to pursue any legal or statutory remedy that might be available to resolve grievance; such provision, which seeks to prevent duplicative adjudication by election of remedies, is not impermissible especially where limitation being imposed is a contractual rather than a legal or statutory right)

Cardinal Systems, A Division of Hospitality Motor Inns, Inc., d/b/a Cummins Component Plant 259 NLRB No. 065
(record does not support finding of U inactivity to question U's majority status where: U's showing of interest was tainted by E's ULPs; U had notified E of dues increase for checkoff purposes; several Ee grievances had been processed by U during terms of its contract with E; and U had active shop steward who quit her job because of too many complaints)

8036 CONDUCT OF UNION REPRESENTATIVE DURING BARGAINING

U.S. Contractors, Inc., and The Dow Chemical Company, U.S.A., Texas Division 257 NLRB No. 152
(alleged failure and refusal of E to bargain with certified U over E's decision to cease operating its janitorial division and lay off all janitorial Ees held not violative where E was advised by its counsel of necessity of bargaining concerning cancelling custodial contract and its effect on janitorial Ees and where U abruptly ended negotiating meeting with comment that there was nothing left to discuss; U did not avail itself of opportunity to discuss E's decision after E had requested response from U)

8036-0100 Generally

International Medication Systems, Ltd. 253 NLRB No. 120
(failure of U to present final offer of E to unit members can not be used as evidence of E's good faith doubt of majority status since any inference drawn for U's behavior is merely speculative)

8036-1900 Hostility towards employer

Harold Boire, RD v. SAS Ambulance Service, Inc. dba Florida Ambulance Service et al. No. 80-1112, Oct. 20, 1980, DC M.D. FL (unreported)
(10(j) inj granted and E restrained from refusing to bargain with U notwithstanding that 2 members of U bargaining committee had been unlawfully discharged by E prior to attempted negotiations; circumstances did not suggest species of ill-will between parties that would justify E's refusal to bargain; circumstances were not permissible exception to rule under criteria of General Elecric Company v. NLRB, 412 F.2d 512 (2d Cir. 1969) where negotiator's hostility toward E was held to be sufficient to sustain finding that E's refusal to bargain was not ULP)

8036-2000 Attempts to harrass employer

Edward Z. Holmes Detective Bureau, Inc. 256 NLRB No. 102
(U's misconduct held not to make test of E's good faith impossible or free E from bargaining obligations where E flagrantly disregarded U contract and status; although U president had stated he would put E out of business, statement was unaccompanied by increased bargaining demands, conflicting interest or attempt to destroy E; his bigoted reference to Ees was made while he was vociferously defending their economic interest; his abrupt leaving of bargaining session was provoked by E; and his fabricated contractual provision submitted to arbitrator neither related to E's obligations nor impacted on E's violations)

8036-3000 Disruptive conduct

Harry Sann, Jr. and Winton R. Wagner, Partners d/b/a Briarcliff Pavilion For Specialized Care 260 NLRB No. 104
(no violation by increasing wages pursuant to last offer in view of impasse resulting from U's bad faith in failing to provide another negotiator to meet with E after U president engaged in physical altercation with E's negotiators and negotiations had to be carried out with mediator and with parties in separate rooms; U claimed that mediator did not relay E's message that E needed to hire strike replacements and then wages would be increased)

Edward Z. Holmes Detective Bureau, Inc. 256 NLRB No. 102
(U's misconduct held not to make test of E's good faith impossible or free E from bargaining obligations where E flagrantly disregarded U contract and status; although U president had stated he would put E out of business, statement was unaccompanied by increased bargaining demands, conflicting interest or attempt to destroy E; his bigoted reference to Ees was made while he was vociferously defending their economic interest; his abrupt leaving of bargaining session was provoked by E; and his fabricated contractual provision submitted to arbitrator neither related to E's obligations nor impacted on E's violations)

Dilene Answering Service, Inc. JD-(NY)-102-81
(E's conditioning further collective bargaining negotiation meetings upon non-presence and non-participation of U's chief negotiator, not unlawful, where such negotiator's verbal and physical threats of violence towards E's representative during previous meetings made continued good-faith collective bargaining impossible)

8036-4000 Walking out of meeting

Edward Z. Holmes Detective Bureau, Inc. 256 NLRB No. 102
(U's misconduct held not to make test of E's good faith impossible or free E from bargaining obligations where E flagrantly disregarded U contract and status; although U president had stated he would put E out of business, statement was unaccompanied by increased bargaining demands, conflicting interest or attempt to destroy E; his bigoted reference to Ees was made while he was vociferously defending their economic interest; his abrupt leaving of bargaining session was provoked by E; and his fabricated contractual provision submitted to arbitrator neither related to E's obligations nor impacted on E's violations)

8036-5500 Attacking preconditions to bargaining

Local 777, Democratic Union Organizing Committee v. N.L.R.B. 603 F.2d 862 (C.A.D.C.)
(even if cab companies' decision to lease their cabs was mandatory subject of bargaining, their unilateral action was not ULP because U itself made negotiation impossible by imposing improper condition (recognition of U as bargaining representative of leased-drivers) as prerequisite to bargaining)

8036-6000 Lack of diligence in pursuing bargaining objectives

Cobb Theatres, Inc. 260 NLRB No. 111
(gap of 2 months where U failed to contact E to arange for negotiations is too brief a period to give rise to good faith doubt of U's interest in representing its membership)

Mercury Marine Division of Brunswick Corporation 259 NLRB No. 110
(E where UC ptn filed to determine exclusion or inclusion of job classification in bargaining unit opposing party on notice that petitioner intended to resolve unit issue through Bd's procedures rather than through negotiations; therefore, failure of U to insist that these Ees be included in unit during contract negotiations is not abandonment of its position)

Tri-State Carpenters & Joiners District Council 259 NLRB No. 125
(notwithstanding over year passed after contract expired where U wrote E proposing to initiate bargaining on new contract and during this interim Ees negotiated wage increases by themselves, U still representative of Ees since it had processed grievance through arbitration, had written Ees it would negotiate on their behalf, and E knew that Ees considered U as its bargaining agent)

8036-6300 Failure to make timely response to proposal

Wagner Distribution Services, Inc. d/b/a Distribution Services West 262 NLRB No. 096
(E unilaterally changing hours of swing shift which was paid shift differential to hours substantially overlapping hours of first shift which was not paid wage differential, unlawful, notwithstanding E's contention U had actual knowledge of E's intended change through communication by shop steward to U official and U waived its rights by its failure to request bargaining, since change was mandatory subject of bargaining and E failed to show U

received sufficiently reliable notice of change to trigger obligation to demand bargaining)

W. G. Best Homes Corporation 253 NLRB No. 123
(E's failure to bargain regarding subcontracting its transportation department, not unlawful, where U failed to request bargaining regarding subcontracting, notwithstanding U was apprised of E's economic problems and on notice of its intent to subcontract its transportation department to cut costs)

8036-7000 Repudiation of previous progress and tentative agreements

Pittsburgh-Des Moines Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 663 F.2d 956 (C.A. 9, Dec. 1981)
(ct rejected proposition implicit in Bd's conclusion that in face of U's unequivocal rejection of E's offer, E was somehow committed to all portions of the proposal as to which tentative agreement had been reached; that U could hold E to what U liked while rejecting that which it disapproved. Party may retract proposal before other side has accepted it)

8040 CONDUCT OF EMPLOYER DURING BARGAINING

Parkview Nursing Center II Corp. 260 NLRB No. 037
(in context of totality of E's conduct, E's bad-faith bargaining was indicated by its chief negotiator's statement away from bargaining table that E had not made up its mind whether it would sign contract with U)

8040-3300 Employer gave adequate notice

Jones Motor Co., Inc. 250 NLRB No. 015
(common carrier holding meetings with Ees and unilaterally implementing change in rental payments to owner-operators (Ees) for lease of tractor-trailers in contravention of terms of multi E contract (FNMA), not violative, notwithstanding E did not discuss changes with local Us that represented Ees since E did consult with Teamsters National Freight Industry Negotiating Committee who had represented locals in contract negotiations and was agent for purposes of negotiations. See Spector Freight Systems, Inc., Viking Division, 260 NLRB No. 14 (1982))

W. G. Best Homes Corporation 253 NLRB No. 123
(E's failure to bargain regarding subcontracting its transportation department, not unlawful, where U failed to request bargaining regarding subcontracting, notwithstanding U was apprised of E's economic problems and on notice of its intent to subcontract its transportation department to cut costs)

8042 EXISTENCE OF BINDING AGREEMENT

F.M.L. Supply, Inc. 258 NLRB No. 083
(notwithstanding that E did not have signed contract with U, E was estopped from denying it was bound by residential and commercial agreements between multiE group, of which E was not member, and U, since E held itself out to its Ees under U contract by hiring through U hiring hall and making payments into various U trust funds; E's conduct was consciously deceptive (to its Ees and U) over long period and manifest desire to take advantage of U's miscalculation concerning existence of contract)

Georgia Kraft Company, Woodkraft Division 258 NLRB No. 121
(E's refusal to execute contract held violative where, after 5 meetings between E and U to modify and renegotiate current contract, U, by telegram, advised E that (E's) last offer had been accepted as final and binding contract and that contacted strikers would return to work notwithstanding U did not intend to accept E's proposal on discipline of strikers who allegedly had committed acts of misconduct during strike)

Associated Grocers 253 NLRB No. 005
(no violation where E gave U adequate notice that it planned to discontinue job of packaging potatoes in unit and agreed to bargain over)

Franklin Art Glass Studios, Inc. 250 NLRB No. 095
(even assuming parties' private settlement agreement had been executed, whereby E had withdrawn its exceptions to RD's report on challenged ballots and U had agreed to withdraw ULP charges, terms of settlement agreement had no bearing on E's obligation to recognize and bargain with U, where U received majority vote in election; E's allegation that U breached agreement held immaterial to issues involved in instant summary judgment proceeding and did not justify E's refusal to bargain)

Farmingdale Iron Works, Inc., and Jerry Cardullo Iron Works, Inc. 249 NLRB No. 098
(contract not void for uncertainty, where E signed extension stipulating that E would be bound by whatever terms and conditions were negotiated with multi-E association since there was no evidence of coercion or duress and E and U actually continued their collective bargaining relationship beyond one year provided by extension stipulation and in accordance with past practice)

Suburban Transit Corporation JD-198-82
(E's refusal to bargain anew with U chairmen over contract for unit Ees, not violative, where contract had already been ratified by unit Ees and executed by U's committeemen and E's representative though not by U chairmen, as this procedure was in accord with past practices in reaching binding agreement; U chairman's signature to contract was ministerial act only; U chairman knew of contract negotiations and did not raise any objections until after contract executed by parties)

8045 DEFENSES BASED UPON CONTRACT CONSIDERATIONS

8045-1200 Actions permissible in absence of contract

Diplomat Envelope Corporation 263 NLRB No. 079
(refusing to arbitrate Ee's discharge on grounds that no contract was in existence violative, in view of finding that signed memorandum agreement was binding and that E had unlawfully refused to execute new contract)

Taurus Waste Disposal, Inc. 263 NLRB No. 028
(E's failure to make fringe benefit payments pursuant to contract after contract expired, unlawful, since fringe benefits constitute term and condition of employment which survive expiration of contract, and may not be unilaterally altered by E absent waiver by U, impasse, or U's loss of majority)

United States Postal Service 261 NLRB No. 068
(E's not informing certified U of E's decision not to pay, and not paying, certain wage increases to bargaining unit Ees while granting random wage increases to its unorganized Ees held not violative, since, once U was certified, bargaining unit Ees could not expect to receive all random wage increases while U was bargaining with E over new contract; absent evidence of animus or of contemporaneous unlawful conduct, E had no duty to notify U of wage increases to nonbargaining unit Ees, or to bargain with U about, or grant, wage increases to unit Ees)

F.M.L. Supply, Inc. 258 NLRB No. 083
(notwithstanding that E did not have signed contract with U, E was estopped from denying it was bound by residential and commercial agreements between multiE group, of which E was not member, and U, since E held itself out to its Ees under U contract by hiring through U hiring hall and making payments into various U trust funds; E's conduct was consciously deceptive (to its Ees and U) over long period and manifest desire to take advantage of U's miscalculation concerning existence of contract)

Island Typographers, Inc. 252 NLRB No. 063
(E bound by unsigned collective bargaining agreement where it complied with all its terms for 1st year of contract term and gave U no reason to believe it repudiated contract terms already agreed upon)

Westwood Import Company, Inc. 251 NLRB No. 162
(while successor E is ordinarily free to set initial terms on which it will hire Ees of predecessor, where successor E did not mention changes in conditions of employment in interviews with Ees of predecessor, unilateral changes instituted after hiring Ees cannot be considered as initial conditions of employment under Burns and thus violative)

Strite-Anderson Mfg. JD-178-82
(E's changes in working hours and punching in and disregard of old contract's seniority requirements regarding recall from layoff, not unlawful in absence of new contract or renewal of expired contract where E had reasonable doubt of U's majority status based on U shop steward's circulation of decertification ptn and Ees' revocation of checkoff authorization)

Potters' Medical Center, Inc. JD-605-81
(unilaterally changing wage scale and pay classification system violative notwithstanding impasse, as such changes were not those reasonably comprehended by the bargaining proposals; i.e., general wage increase granted though bargaining proposals covered merit pay increase on Ee's anniversary date)

Excavation-Construction, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 660 F.2d 1015 (C.A. 4, Oct. 1981)
(no unlawful unilateral wage increase where E switched from paying $8.30 plus $.84 per hour in pension and hospitalization benefits contributions to paying striaght $9.14 per hour to replacements and offering same to non striking Ees; alternatively, as impasse had occurred, E free to make unilateral changes in terms and conditions of employment)

Cartwright Hardware Company, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 600 F.2d 268 (C.A. 10, 1979)
(bargaining order appropriate notwithstanding voluntary quit of three U members since presumption of continuing majority after expiration of contract justifies enforcement of order)

8045-2500 Actions permissible during hiatus between contract

Elias Mallouk Realty Corp. 265 NLRB No. 156
(E unilaterally granting wage increases after expiration of contract, unlawful, absent impasse and objective considerations to rebut U's presumption of continuing majority status, and in view of E's ULPs including bargaining in bad faith, criticisms to Ees concerning U with which it had had contract, and suggesting to Ees that they choose new bargaining agent)

Vesuvius Crucible Company v. N.L.R.B. 668 F.2d 162 (C.A. 3, Nov. 1981)

vacation pay was to be determined under new collective bargaining contract if and when contract executed. Such conduct, unlike offering non-strikers benefits, or threatening strikers with loss of benefits if they did not return to work, is not inherently destructive of Ee rights so as to obviate need to show prohibited motive; furthermore, here E's good faith belief does not show anti-U motivation on part of E)

8045-3300 Incomplete contract

James F. Stanford, Inc. d/b/a Ace Machine Co. 249 NLRB No. 073
(two inadvertent errors in written agreement submitted by U to E did not excuse E's complete refusal to execute agreement previously reached by U and E)

Farmingdale Iron Works, Inc., and Jerry Cardullo Iron Works, Inc. 249 NLRB No. 003
(contract not void for uncertainty, where E signed extension stipulating that E would be bound by whatever terms and conditions were negotiated with multi-E association since there was no evidence of coercion or duress and E and U actually continued their collective bargaining relationship beyond one year provided by extension stipulation and in accordance with past practice)

Crane Sheet Metal, Inc. 248 NLRB No. 015
(where E association and U had reached agreement on terms of contract fact that another separate agreement covering wage rates for other types of jobs still needed to be negotiated does not affect legal status of first contract)

N.L.R.B. v. Sumner Home For The Aged 293 F.2d 754 (C.A. 6, 1979)
(where U agreed in advance to accept whatever proposals E submitted covering certain mandatory subjects of bargaining that remained unresolved, R/O requiring E to propose contract terms covering these unresolved issues and to execute contract if U agreed to proposals, denied enforcement, since it is doubtful U representative has legal authority to make any such commitment or that Bd or ct has authority to enforce such contract; furthermore, since U free to reject contract there was no contract agreed to by both parties)

8045-3600 Contract provision prohibits action

Navajo Freight Lines, Inc. 254 NLRB No. 166
(E's refusal to negotiate area practices agreement on gound that provision in applicable E association agreement prohibited it from doing so, unlawful, where area practices agreement was sanctioned by another provision of E association agreement, and reading its provisions in conjunction with each other, when viewed in light of past history of negotiations of area practices agreements, indicates that E has not proved clear and unmistakeable case of statutory waiver)

8045-3700 Contract provisions expressly authorize actions

Debolt Transfer Company 259 NLRB No. 116
(E's cancelling of lease agreement with its owner-operators not violative where such cancelling was not unilateral change but was contemplated by contract and E's motives were purely economic)

8045-3725 Management rights clause

Bay Shipbuilding Corp. 263 NLRB No. 166
(bargaining contract which gave E right to establish new department did not give E right to designate department as non-U and remove Ees transferred to new department from unit; rather, E has burden of showing that group is sufficiently dissimilar from remainder of unit so as to warrant its removal)

Capital Parcel Delivery Company 256 NLRB No. 050
(E violated Act when it laid off all its unit Ees and subcontracted work notwithstanding contract gave E right to subcontract work to independent contractors where new hires found to be Ees and not independent contractors under right to control test)

Laredo Packing Company 254 NLRB No. 001
(E's failure to bargain regarding temporary discontinuance of operations and resulting layoff of Ees, not unlawful, since U waived right to bargain regarding termination of operation by virture of management rights clause which generally reserved to E right to abolish or change operations, determine extent to which plant will operate, layoff of Ees because of legitimate reasons, sell...terminate, discontinue, or transfer operations due to...economic factors, and E's obligations to bargain was further limited by agreement to permanent discontinuance of operations)

Universal Security Instruments, Inc. 250 NLRB No. 092
(collective-bargaining agreement containing management rights clause allowing E to relocate plant w/o bargaining, does not constitute waiver of U's right to bargain over opening of new plant and subsequent transfer of Ees to that plant as term relocate does not cover this situation; clear and unequivocal waiver by U of its right to bargain with E over closing of plant and transfer of its Ees is necessary to constitute such waiver)

Lever Brothers Company JD-301-80
(E's promulgation of new, more stringent absentee rule during contract term not violative because U by its agreement to management rights clause, which by past agreements covered absenteeism, waived its right to be consulted and bargain thereon, at that time)

8045-5000 Contract provisions impliedly authorizes action

U.S. Utilities Corporation 254 NLRB No. 055
(refusing to apply contract to work outside U's jurisdiction and unilaterally establishing new terms for these operations, violative as contract by its terms applied to work wherever company works)

8045-5600 Contract terms affected by government policy or regulations

GAF Corporation 265 NLRB No. 176
(no violation where E refused to submit claim that it changed retirees benefits w/o explanation to grievance procedure of collective bargaining agreement, but rather elected to go under claims procedures provided under separate ERISA Pension Agreement executed by U and E, as latter procedure specifically designed to handle such disputes, required to be utilized by ERISA and E willing to have grievance's merits resolved under its provisions)

E. I. Du Pont De Nemours and Company 259 NLRB No. 161
(held unilateral mid-term contract modification where, though U and E agreed that Ees would have additional holiday, no agreement reached on what day would be observed as holiday so E selected date. All other holidays in contract are specified as to date celebrated)

8045-5900 Contract as bar to election

N.L.R.B. v. Circle A & W Products Company 647 F.2d 924 (C.A. 9, June 1981)
(where U disclaimed representation of unit during contract term and, in the meantime, Ees elected new U with whom E refused to bargain on grounds that Bd's contract bar rules were applicable, ct enforced Bd's bargaining order, where E did not allege that election ptn was pretext, or that collusion or significant motivation existed for purpose of avoiding agreement, but stated that dispute over U security clause was sole reason for changing bargaining agents; and fair inference is that there was legitimate disagreement between Ees and their U over fundamental matter of policy)

8045-6000 Illegal execution of contract

Pick-Mt. Laurel Corporation 259 NLRB No. 034
(expression of dissatisfaction with U made to supervisors by at least 29 out of 103 Ees; and notwithstanding occurred outside Section 10(b) period, predecessor E's illegal practice of requiring Ees to join U and sign dues checkoff on first day of work and continuing this practice into 10(b) period, and its recognition of U and negotiation of agreement w/o designation by any member of unit, sufficient to support successor E's good faith doubt justifying its withdrawal of recognition)

Pick-Mt Laurel Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 625 F.2d 476 (C.A. 3, 1980)
(where E proferred defense of good faith doubt of U's majority status, ct held E could reasonably consider pre-10(b) circumstances because sweetheart relationship evidenced by unlawful prehire contract entered into by predecessor E sheds light on its commission of independent ULP in assisting U w/i 10(b) period; however, since successor E did not make clear the relationship, if any, between unlawful assistance during 10(b) period and its claim of good faith doubt, ct deemed it best left to Bd, which had not previously considered issue, to consider it in the first instance)

8045-6200 Breach of contract

Baker Marine Corporation 258 NLRB No. 091
(failure to install extra spider baskets during construction of drilling rig by certain date, not unlawful, where although E queried Ees about willingness to work on rig with extra spider baskets, evidence failed to establish there was contracted-for commitment)

8045-6220 No-strike provisions

The Dow Chemical Company v. N.L.R.B. 636 F.2d 1352 (C.A. 3, 1980)
(E's unilateral announcement and implementation of a shift change from a 7 to 5 day work week held not to justify strike protesting E's action, since U breached contract's no-strike clause w/o exhausting grievance procedures; strike was over conflicting interpretations of contract, and it would be unrealistic to suggest that no-strike clause was not intended to apply to dispute over meaning of contract; consequently, Bd's finding that strike was not breach of contract cannot be sustained as an application of rule of contract interpretation as to coverage of no-strike provision announced in SCt's Mastro Plastics decision)

N.L.R.B. v. Northeast Oklahoma City Manufacturing Company 631 F.2d 669 (C.A. 10, Sept. 1980)
(Bd properly found material breach of contract by E in its unilateral persistent delays in making monthly bonus payments, thereby excusing Ees' breach of no-strike agreement)

8045-6240 Grievance and arbitration provisions

GAF Corporation 265 NLRB No. 176
(no violation where E refused to submit claim that it changed retirees benefits w/o explanation to grievance procedure of collective bargaining

agreement, but rather elected to go under claims procedures provided under separate ERISA Pension Agreement executed by U and E, as latter procedure specifically designed to handle such disputes, required to be utilized by ERISA and E willing to have grievance's merits resolved under its provisions)

St. Joseph Hospital Corporation 260 NLRB No. 089

(right of party to pursue grievance to arbitration is contractual right and does not arise by operation of law; thus, while contract may or may not, depending on wishes of parties, contain a grievance-arbitration clause, it is clear that in absence of such clause a party cannot be compelled to arbitrate a grievance)

Indiana Bell Telephone Company, Inc. 252 NLRB No. 085

(no violation where E at first would only arbitrate contractual grievances at its location but later offered to alternate with U in choosing site; moreover, E has no obligation to conduct all arbitrations at plant location, U's choice)

United States Postal Service 251 NLRB No. 033

(E meeting with grievant w/o U representative, not unlawful, where U contractually waived any mandatory right to be present during first step grievance meetings and where E merely restated contract to Ee w/o discussing merits of grievance or dissuading Ee from filing formal grievance)

Caterpillar Tractor Co. v. N.L.R.B. 638 F.2d 140 (C.A. 7, Sept. 1981)

(strike not protected, notwithstanding contention strike ULP and no waiver under contract to strike regarding ULP since contract provided that there would be no strikes until grievance procedure exhausted and grievance on underlying dispute was pending; nor was E's unlawful unilateral changes regarding transfers serious labor dispute w/i Mastro Plastics so as to preclude waiver of right to strike regarding ULPs)

8045-6280 Condonation of prior breach

N.L.R.B. v. Silver Spur Casino 623 F.2d 571 (C.A. 9, 1980)

(U's condonation of E's unilateral implementation of new insurance plan wipes the slate clean; Bd's order which required E to c/d from unilaterally changing terms of agreement reversed since there was no ULP upon which to base charge)

8045-6700 Unlawful provision

Taurus Waste Disposal, Inc. 263 NLRB No. 028

(E's contention that expired contract contained subcontracting provision unlawful under Section 8(e) of Act, thus no obligation to bargain for new contract, rejected, since provision was in two prior agreements and had never been held unlawful, and it was only after E filed charge alleging unlawfulness of provision that it sought to avoid its bargaining obligation; further, pursuant to settlement of charge provision had been modified, and in view of its separability clause agreement as whole was not rendered invalid)

Local 777, Democratic Union Organizing Committee v. N.L.R.B. 603 F.2d 862 (C.A.D.C.)

(even if cab companies' decision to lease their cabs was mandatory subject of bargaining, their unilateral action was not ULP because U itself made negotiation impossible by imposing improper condition (recognition of U as bargaining representative of leased-drivers) as prerequisite to bargaining)

8045-8300 Automatic Renewal of Contract

Taft Broadcasting Company, WBRC–TV 268 NLRB No. 028

(contract not automatically renewed notwithstanding U's notice to E that it wished to reopen negotiations was not timely received, where U sent notice in sufficient time to be timely delivered by post office)

KCW Furniture Company, Inc. 247 NLRB No. 079

(E's implementation of its last offer upon impasse, violative, since contract automatically renewed upon failure to give termination notice; contention that U's notice of opening of labor agreement to negotiate changes in wages, hours, and other forms and conditions of employment terminated contract by, in substance, asking for new agreement, rejected, where contract expressly provided w/o qualification that notice of opening does not terminate or forestall automatic renewal and imposed no limitation or restriction on extent or form which negotiations may take pursuant to such notice)

8045-9100 Execution of contract clause illegal under state or federal law

Kaiser Steel Corp. v. Mullins et al. 455 U.S. 72 (U.S. SCt. Jan. 1981)

(anyone sued upon a contract may set up as a defense that it is a violation of Act of Congress, and if found to be so, that fact will constitute a good defense to the action—; a defendent proferring defense of illegal contract seeks only to be relieved of an illegal obligation and does not ask any affirmative remedy based on antitrust or labor laws)

Kaiser Steel Corp. v. Mullins et al. 455 U.S. 72 (U.S. SCt. Jan. 1981)

(third party beneficiaries, like Trustees of benefit funds, are subject to contract defenses of nonperforming promisors; pension fund trustees have no special status which exempts them from general rule that cts do not enforce illegal contracts)

N.L.R.B. v. Custom Sheet Metal & Service Co., Inc. 666 F.2d 484 (C.A. 10, Dec. 1981)

(Bd's R/O, which required E to execute 8(f) contract but not give effect to those provisions (8 day U security and qualification for employment clause) which would be unlawful if applied to E who was no longer engaged in construction work but was manufacturing concern, set aside, where, especially latter clause, is so basic to contract and so interwoven with all its terms that it must stand or fall as an entirety; furthermore, no savings and severability clause in contract)

8045-9500 Termination of contract

Remodeling By Oltmanns, Inc. 263 NLRB No. 10

(refusal of E who was not member of multi-E association to abide by current contract between association and U, not unlawful, notwithstanding agreement with U in which E had agreed to abide by expired association bargaining agreement and to be bound by terms of negotiated agreements with association during terms of agreement since agreement was only meant to be temproary interim agreement with intent to bind E only for duration of next agreement with association and this agreement expired)

Capitol City Lumber Company 263 NLRB No. 10

(where parties had negotiated 1-year contract with year-to-year extensions unless either party gave notice of cancellation but because U welfare and pension funds required 3-year commitment, they had included articles providing for 3-year contributions with yearly step-increases, E's failure to increase 2nd year amount and to make 3rd-year contributions after contract was terminated at end of 2nd year held unlawful, since contribution commitment survived contract, and parties' letter of understanding reiterated 3-year commitment and, although it seemed to contradict step-increase requirements, had to be construed consistently with contract)

KCW Furniture Company, Inc. 247 NLRB No. 079

(E's implementation of its last offer upon impasse, violative, since contract automatically renewed upon failure to give termination notice; contention that U's notice of opening of labor agreement to negotiate changes in wages, hours, and other forms and conditions of employment terminated contract by, in substance, asking for new agreement, rejected, where contract expressly provided w/o qualification that notice of opening does not terminate or forestall automatic renewal and imposed no limitation or restriction on extent or form which negotiations may take pursuant to such notice)

Potomac Iron Works, Inc.

(JD-264-82

(contract held not terminated, as claimed by E, after its meeting with U representatives concerning E's financial inability to honor contract, absent clear and unmistakable evidence of mutual intent to terminate; E was not entitled, as matter of law, to conclude from U's silence at meeting that U agreed to terminate contract in toto, and E, itself, may have felt contract was not terminated in view of U pressure for payment of fringe benefits and its filing of grievance with demand for arbitration, and E's continued honoring of checkoff provision, granting of wage increase, and subsequent attempt to amend contract)

KCW Furniture, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 634 F.2d 436 (C.A. 9, 1980)

(Duration and Renewal provision in contract between E and U expressly authorized right to negotiate during term of automatically renewed contract; where U gave 60 day notice of opening. E's unilateral implementation of its final offer held unlawful since duration and renewal provision was neither ambiguous nor in violation of Act and bargaining agreement was never terminated)

8045-9700 Rescission of contract

Lincoln Technical Institute, Inc. 256 NLRB No. 03

(rescission of collective-bargaining agreement containing no-strike clause after U materially breached contract not violative, where U engaged in strike rather than utilizing grievance-arbitration procedures after E expressed willingness to submit matters to arbitration)

8049 DEFENSES BASED UPON PAST PRACTICES

The Sacramento Union 258 NLRB No. 141

(E's duty to bargain not relieved by expiration of bargaining agreement. Although expiration of contract may permit E to negotiate new and different terms, it may not, absent impasse or waiver by U, unilaterally change established practices with respect to mandatory subject of bargaining even if these practices may have constituted deviation from letters of parties expired agreement)

Louisiana-Pacific Corporation 256 NLRB No. 13

(E not obligated to bargain with U concerning undecking of logs at its mill and piling them preparatory to logs being loaded by subcontractor's Ees, since, subcontracting of work was consistent with E's past practice; work was only occasionally done by E's Ees; no bargaining history that E's Ees and subcontractor's Ees worked as composite crew; subcontracting was economically justified; and U, in past, had unsuccessfully sought contract language limiting established subcontracting)

8049—Cont.

Associated Grocers 253 NLRB No. 065

(administering industrial vehicle tests to returning strikers not violative where tests were a prestrike practice)

The Arundel Corporation 252 NLRB No. 089

(E's establishment of corporate subsidiary held legitimate attempt to establish part of its business as non-U operation where E took advantage of past practices under which Us did not seek to apply their agreements to E's other subsidiaries, and new operation was not merely device for draining off work from existing unit work but was a parallel and simultaneous one, and E managed to create separate appropriate unit at new location)

8050 DEFENSE BASED UPON STATUTORY PROSCRIPTION

M. A. Harrison Manufacturing Company, Inc. 253 NLRB No. 097

(contention that unilateral wage increase was justified by imminence of anticipated Presidential wage freeze rejected, since anticipated wage freeze was not such special circumstance that would justify remedial action under N.L.R.B. v. Benne Katz, etc., d/b/a Williamsburg Steel Products Co., 369 U.S. 736, 743 (1962))

8052 DEFENSE OF ECONOMIC HARDSHIP

Valley Mfg., Inc. 264 NLRB No. 171

(E's distressing financial situation held not to justify its repudiation or modification of contract)

Glenmar Cinestate, Inc. 264 NLRB No. 035

(E did not bargain in bad faith and valid impasse was reached, although under normal circumstances magnitude of wage decrease proposed along with proposed sharp curtailment of other benefits would be strong evidence of such, where evidence that E was experiencing severe financial difficulties stood uncontroverted; moreover, U never requested to see E's financial books or records, and in fact, U representative stated during negotiations that both sides were bargaining in good faith, that U did not question E's integrity, and that it was not demanding to see E's books)

C & D Battery Division—Eltra Corporation 263 NLRB No. 106

(fact that layoff of Ees may have been economically motivated does not justify E's unilateral action in doing so; while E may properly decide that economic layoff is required, once such decision is made E must nevertheless notify U and, upon request, bargain with it concerning layoff)

Bedford Farmers Cooperative 259 NLRB No. 165

(claim of economic necessity, even if sustained, does not excuse E's unilateral actions concerning terms and conditions of employment)

F.M.L. Supply, Inc. 258 NLRB No. 083

(financial hardship no justification for (unilateral) repudiation or modification of collective-bargaining agreement or any of its terms)

Schauer Construction Company 258 NLRB No. 173

(E's failure to make payments into fringe benefit fund as required by bargaining agreement, unlawful; E's defense that its failure to do so was caused by financial conditions beyond its control and was not intentional evasion, rejected; It is well established that economic necessity is not cognizable as defense to unilateral repudiation of monetary provisions in bargaining agreement)

University of Vermont/Vermont Educational Television 258 NLRB No. 001

(refusal of nonprofit E which was funded largely by legislative appropriation to agree to immediate wage increase held hard bargaining and not unlawful in view of E's claim of inability to pay increase -- due to lack of funds and uncertainty as to amount of appropriation -- and other substantial reasons where E exhibited overall subjective good faith in bargaining and no intention to use same strategy in future to delay negotiations until it received funding)

U.S. Contractors, Inc., and The Dow Chemical Company, U.S.A., Texas Division 257 NLRB No. 152

(when economic reasons compel E to decide whether or not to shut down part of its business, E's need to operate freely outweighs any incremental benefit that might be gained through U's participation in decision-making)

Care Ambulance, Inc. and Care Ambulance, Inc. d/b/a American Ambulance 255 NLRB No. 064

(contention that unilateral changes in payroll period, paydays and overtime rates was privileged because of urgent economic necessity, rejected where there was time to bargain before making changes and reduction in overtime rate would have little impact and could have been made temporary rather than permanent)

Albion Corporation d/b/a Brooks, Inc. 251 NLRB No. 104

(on ct remand requiring Bd to admit newly discovered evidence pertaining to post-hearing agreements reached by parties, Bd affirmed ALJ's conclusion that new evidence established that, in negotiating with U resulting in agreement for substantially lower economic package than was had previsouly, E did not maintain its bargaining strategy for other than legitimate business considerations occasioned by its severe financial condition)

Lorard Industries, Limited JD-290-82

(unilateral changes in terms and conditions of employment, including discharge and layoff, between election and certification held violative where there were no compelling economic considerations for discharges and/or layoffs)

D. M. Barber, Inc. JD-(SF)-102-81

(economic necessity no defense to unilateral discontinuation contractually required payments to pension, health and welfare, and training funds)

Clifford Cook, d/b/a Pinnacle Company and Pinnacle Roofing Co., Inc. JD-(SF)-196-79

(repudiation of contract with Us for economic reason based upon E's desire to be more competitive in order to perform work for E's primary customer held violative, since economic desire to become more competitive would not legally justify E's abrogation of contract with Us)

N.L.R.B. v. Inland Cities, Inc. 618 F.2d 117(T) (C.A. 9, 1980)

(E who signed interim agreement which bound him to outcome of negotiations by E-association violated Act when it refused to comply with contract; repudiation is not excused because E was motivated by economic necessity)

Arco Electric Company v. N.L.R.B. 618 F.2d 698 (C.A. 10, 1980)

(E's stopping compliance with new bargaining agreement between U and multi-E association because of financial hardship, violative notwithstanding asserted good faith doubt of majority U status, where E did not notify U of intent not to renew bargaining obligation as E's letter of assent to expired multi-E bargaining agreement had provided, but rather availed itself of U hiring hall for referral of Ees for 15 months after effective date of new contract and implemented terms of new contract until it encountered economic hardship)

8054 WAIVER (SEE ALSO 775-0000)

Rockwell International Corporation 260 NLRB No. 153

(duty to bargain continues during existence of bargaining agreement concerning any mandatory subject of bargaining which has not been specifically covered in the contract and regarding which U has not clearly and unmistakably waived its right to bargain)

Navajo Freight Lines, Inc. 254 NLRB No. 166

(E's refusal to negotiate renewal of area practice agreement, unlawful; U did not waive its right to demand bargaining about such agreement because it agreed to be governed by existing E-association agreement since, upon signing preceding area practices agreements, it was E's and U's intention that, where there was a difference between area practices and E-association agreements, area practices agreement would govern, and such intent was sanctioned by E-association agreement; fact that E-association did not sign area practices agreement did not invalidate such agreement nor excuse E's refusal to negotiate its refusal)

Laredo Packing Company 254 NLRB No. 001

(E's failure to bargain regarding temporary discontinuance of operations and resulting layoff of Ees, not unlawful, since U waived right to bargain regarding termination of operation by virture of management rights clause which generally reserved to E right to abolish or change operations, determine extent to which plant will operate, layoff of Ees because of legitimate reasons, sell...terminate, discontinue, or transfer operations due to...economic factors, and E's obligations to bargain was further limited by agreement to permanent discontinuance of operations)

Furr's Cafeterias, Inc. 251 NLRB No. 125

(unilateral grant of merit increases prior to U certification, violative, where merit increases were not automatic, involved much discretion on part of E, and given at unpredictable time intervals; moreover, U did not waive its right to notice about each increase when it agreed during negotiations not to oppose such merit increases as long as increases were granted in accordance with certain specified time procedures)

8054-0100 Generally

The Dow Chemical Company 261 NLRB No. 031

(E's actions in transferring or loaning out for other than their regular work unit Ees for periods of time in excess of those specified in collective agreements to which E was party and its continuing insistence that it had right to do so, violative, notwithstanding E's contentions that U waived contractual requirements in question before execution of current contract and bound itself to contrary understanding antedating execution of current contract where E knowledgeably entered into contract containing provision which, if unintended could readily have been stricken from contract or changed before signing)

Hassett Maintenance Corporation 260 NLRB No. 135

(E who ignored U's letter requesting bargaining over new agreement for more than 6 weeks after it received letter and ignored U's efforts to contact him by telephone violated Act notwithstanding old contract contained clause requiring notice of intent to renegotiate more than 60 days prior to expiration of contract and U demand fell within 60 days, as E never refused to bargain on ground that request was untimely and thus waived its right to do so)

Navajo Freight Lines, Inc. 254 NLRB No. 166

(E's refusal to negotiate area practices agreement on ground that U's acceptance of E association agreement constituted waiver of negotiations for area practices agreement and was bar to and estopped ULP charges, unlawful, in view of circumstances herein, which included fact that U members voted to accept E association's negotiated settlement agreement rather than enter into separate negotiations with E, which was option contained in settlement agreement, and such agreement did not support argument that U waived right to negotiate for area practices agreement or to file ULP charges regarding E's refusal to do so)

Transportation Manpower Services of Ohio, Inc. JD-(SF)-192-82

(E's refusal to bargain with U, not violative, notwithstanding E was successor to predecessor E where U waived its right to bargain with any successor of predecessor)

Lever Brothers Company JD-301-80

(E's refusal to bargain over absentee rule violative notwithstanding prior contracts contained management rights clause covering absenteeism because U's waiver expired with contract and E must bargain over mandatory subject)

N.L.R.B. v. National Car Rental System, Inc. 672 F.2d 1182 (C.A. 3, Feb. 1982)

(E's failure to bargain over effects of its decision to close its facility, assertedly because of economic reasons, and to terminate U members, and its decision to open new non-U facility, unlawful, where U did not waive its right to bargain about effects of relocation, since U's prior knowledge of E's relocation decision based on plant gossip, conjecture and rumor was not legally sufficient notice; and U official's failure to request bargaining was due to E's announcement of decision as fait accompli, indicating that request to bargain would be futile)

8054-0133 Waiver must be explicit

RAHCO, Inc. 265 NLRB No. 030

Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Company 261 NLRB No. 002

(U did not waive its right to request health and safety information, since right was derived from Section 8(d) of Act and contract between E and U contained no such waiver either in clear and unmistakable language, or even impliedly)

Colgate-Palmolive Company 261 NLRB No. 007

(contention that by agreeing to a health and safety clause in the contract U waived right to receive health and safety information on request, rejected; neither contract language nor record as a whole showed requisite clear and unmistakable waiver of right to such information)

The Mead Corporation 256 NLRB No. 108

(fact that contract article concerning wage rate adjustments specifies legal effect of agreement or lack of agreement by parties during mid-term (contract) negotiations, held not waiver of Ee rights and may not be equated with express relinquishment by U of its rights to demand bargaining especially in view of U's vigorous assertion of its position during negotiations, and its demand that E promise to make wage adjustments rather than merely discuss them)

PPG Industries, Inc. 255 NLRB No. 041

(refusal to furnish U work evaluation reports and related documents concerning grievant who was temporary summer Ee, violative, where information was relevant to underlying grievance and U's capacity as bargaining agent, and U did not clearly and unmistakably waive its right to grieve over termination of temporary Ees or to obtain information relevant to such grievant)

Navajo Freight Lines, Inc. 254 NLRB No. 166

(where E unlawfully changed vacation scheduling and pay, ALJ rejected E's contention that U waived its statutory right to bargain about vacation matters by virtue of E association agreement providing for designation of vacation periods by E with limitations; waiver must be expressed in clear and unmistakeable language, and applicable area practices agreement, which governed when conflict existed between the two agreements, required application of E's past practices which placed no limitations on vacation periods; fact that area practices agreement had terminated did not previlege E to unilaterally change terms and conditions of employment)

Navajo Freight Lines, Inc. 254 NLRB No. 166

(E's refusal to negotiate area practices agreement on gound that provision in applicable E association agreement prohibited it from doing so, unlawful, where area practices agreement was sanctioned by another provision of E association agreement, and reading its provisions in conjunction with each other, when viewed in light of past history of negotiations of area practices agreements, indicates that E has not proved clear and unmistakeable case of statutory waiver)

Armour Oil Company 253 NLRB No. 148

(contract language that —closing of plant or any department or single operation—shall not be deemed a lockout, by itself, did not constitute clear and unmistakeable waiver of U's right to be consulted about change in E's operations)

National Car Rental System, Inc. 252 NLRB No. [illegible]

(contract's zipper clause waiving parties' bargaining rights over subject matter not included, or referred to, in contract or w/i contemplation or knowledge of parties when they negotiated agreement held not waiver of effects of E decision to sell and relocate operations, since general zipper clause did not amount to clear specific and unmistakable waiver by U of right to be consulted regarding effects of elimination of all unit positions)

Angelus Block Co., Inc., Amari, Inc. 250 NLRB No. 127

(zipper clause not waiver where record did not establish what, if any, specific proposals were considered during contract negotiations nor even whether parties were agreed on precisely what provisions they were agreeing to exclude)

Universal Security Instruments, Inc. 250 NLRB No. [illegible]

(collective-bargaining agreement containing management rights clause allowing E to relocate plant w/o bargaining, does not constitute waiver of U's right to bargain over opening of new plant and subsequent transfer of Ees to that plant as term relocate does not cover this situation; clear and unequivocal waiver by U of its right to bargain with E over closing of plant and transfer of its Ees is necessary to constitute such waiver)

Tenneco Chemicals, Inc. 249 NLRB No. 171

Arizona Public Service Company 247 NLRB No. [illegible]

(U held not to have waived its statutory right to bargain over E's subcontracting practices after existing subcontracting clause was declared invalid; contract reopener clause clearly and unmistakably manifested intention to preserve, rather than to forfeit, right to bargain about subject covered by any clause which had been invalidated, and management rights and zipper clauses contained no language which clearly and unmistakably committed U to forfeiture of right to bargain with E over subcontracting issue)

Lever Brothers Company JD-301-80

(E's promulgation of new, more stringent absentee rule during contract term not violative because U by its agreement to management rights clause, which by past agreements covered absenteeism, waived its right to be consulted and bargain thereon, at that time)

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company v. N.L.R.B. 687 F.2d 633 (C.A. 2, Aug. 1982)

(E's contention that U, having invoked arbitration of grievance, waived any statutory right to request information relating to grievance, rejected; national labor policy disfavors waivers of statutory rights, and U's intention to waive right must be clear before claim of waiver can succeed; contract language will effect waiver only if it is clear and unmistakable in waiving statutory right; and conduct of parties, whether alone or in combination with contractual language, can effectuate waiver only if U's intent to waive is clear and unmistakable from evidence presented)

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company v. N.L.R.B. 687 F.2d 633 (C.A. 2, Aug. 1982)

(in finding E's failure to produce U requested information relating to arbitration of grievance unlawful, ct rejected E's defense for its refusal to produce information on ground contract provided that arbitration hearings shall be conducted in accordance with rules of American Arbitration Association, and such rules do not provide for prehearing discovery; fact that U agreed that arbitration hearings would be governed by such rules hardly proves that it has waived its statutory right to discovery before hearing takes place, especially under clear and unmistakable standard for waiver to be effective)

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company v. N.L.R.B. 687 F.2d 633 (C.A. 2, Aug. 1982)

(in finding E's failure to produce U requested information relating to arbitration of grievance unlawful, ct rejected E's attempts to prove that parties' past practice had been not to allow pre-arbitration discovery; at best, E showed that on some occasions it had refused to produce information, and fact that U did not file ULP charges on such few occasions hardly establishes clear and unmistakable waiver, especially since on other occasions E had produced requested information)

N.L.R.B. v. M. A. Harrison Manufacturing Company, Inc. 682 F.2d 580 (C.A. 6, June 1982)

(no plausible argument can be made that U waived right to bargain on issues of wage increases, holidays, or insurance plans where such subjects were not subjects of bargaining before E submitted unilateral decisions on the matters; here U did not have opportunity to bargain on issues, let alone clearly waive its interest in the matters)

N.L.R.B. v. Pepsi-Cola Distributing Company of Knoxville, Tennessee, Inc. 646 F.2d 1173 (C.A. 6, May 1981)

(general waiver clause which does not refer specifically to waiver of a portion of compensation, not clear and unmistable waiver of U's right to bargain over that portion of compensation)

Keystone Steel & Wire, Division of Keystone Consolidated Industries, Inc. 606 F.2d 171 (C.A. 7, 1979)
(lack of prohibition against change in administrator in contract, not waiver where administrator was specified and no change expressly authorized)

Road Sprinkler Fitters Local Union No. 669, Plumbers v. N.L.R.B. 676 F.2d 826
(modification of practices established by consistent pattern of conduct may constitute change in terms and conditions of employment whether or not it is also breach of contract; in face of such established practice, contract is only relevant to extent that it may indicate U's waiver of its right to bargain; moreover, any waiver of U's statutory rights under Act, by contract or otherwise, must be clear and unmistakable)

8054-0167 Waiver will not be implied

Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Company 261 NLRB No. 002
(U did not waive its right to request health and safety information, since right was derived from Section 8(d) of Act and contract between E and U contained no such waiver either in clear and unmistakable language, or even impliedly)

Borden Chemical, A Division of Borden, Inc. 261 NLRB No. 006
(no waiver of U's right to request list of materials and chemicals purchased, stored, or processed at E's chemical manufacturing facility where U never proposed contractual provision which would have committed E to provide requested list, when in presenting health and safety proposal E did not state it should be dispositive of prior request for list, U negotiators never consciously relinquished list request and mere silence when confronted with presentation of counter proposal cannot be construed as relinquishment)

The Mead Corporation 256 NLRB No. 108
(fact that contract article concerning wage rate adjustments specifies legal effect of agreement or lack of agreement by parties during mid-term (contract) negotiations, held not waiver of Ee rights and may not be equated with express relinquishment by U of its rights to demand bargaining especially in view of U's vigorous assertion of its position during negotiations, and its demand that E promise to make wage adjustments rather than merely discuss them)

Armour Oil Company 253 NLRB No. 148
(contract language that —closing of plant or any department or single operation—shall not be deemed a lockout, by itself, did not constitute clear and unmistakeable waiver of U's right to be consulted about change in E's operations)

8054-2000 Omission from contract of matters subject to collective bargaining does not constitute waiver

Borden Chemical, A Division of Borden, Inc. 261 NLRB No. 006
(no waiver of U's right to request list of materials and chemicals purchased, stored, or processed at E's chemical manufacturing facility where U never proposed contractual provision which would have committed E to provide requested list, when in presenting health and safety proposal E did not state it should be dispositive of prior request for list, U negotiators never consciously relinquished list request and mere silence when confronted with presentation of counter proposal cannot be construed as relinquishment)

Marine Optical, Inc. 255 NLRB No. 158
(U's failure to insist on redefining unit description during bargaining on new contract in event of relocation of operations held not to constitute acquiescence in limitation of unit to old location and not waiver of U's claim to represent Ees at new location, where E and U were faced with speculative possibility of change in condition of employment during contract term and decided to deal with problem when and if it occurred; to hold such action a commitment on dealing with problem would establish rule disruptive of bargaining and of stability promoted by Act)

Angelus Block Co., Inc., Amari, Inc. 250 NLRB No. 127
(zipper clause not waiver where record did not establish what, if any, specific proposals were considered during contract negotiations nor even whether parties were agreed on precisely what provisions they were agreeing to exclude)

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company 247 NLRB No. 027
(contention that U had waived its right to requested information because requirement was not in contract with E, rejected, since failure to incorporate statutory right in collective agreement does not justify inference of waiver thereof)

N.L.R.B. v. United Optical Workers Union Local 408, Electrical Workers (Marine Optical, Inc.) 671 F.2d 11 (C.A. 1, Feb. 1982)
(contention that U waived its claim to continued representation of E's Ees after E's plant relocation by its conduct during contract negotiations, rejected notwithstanding contract did not mention coverage at new location, since U's assertion that there would be no problem in taking contract along and its insistence on 3-year contract manifested intention not to waive continued representation)

N.L.R.B. v. Pepsi-Cola Distributing Company of Knoxville, Tennessee, Inc. 646 F.2d 1173 (C.A. 6, May 1981)
(general waiver clause which does not refer specifically to waiver of a portion of compensation, not clear and unmistable waiver of U's right to bargain over that portion of compensation)

N.L.R.B. v. Southern California Edison Company 646 F.2d 1352 (C.A. 9, Jun 1981)
(U does not necessarily waive right by failing to negotiate contractual confirmation and silence in bargaining agreement cannot be considered to be waiver even in light of bargaining history; failure to obtain contractual confirmation of right is evidence of waiver only if it shows that U thought right had been waived by other provisions of contract and sought to regain right)

8054-2050 Effect of 'zipper' or wrap-up clause

GTE Automatic Electric Inc. 261 NLRB No. 196
(E not obligated to bargain in midterm regarding implementation of new savings and investment plan granted to nonunit Ees since E may rely on waiver in contractual zipper clause which clearly and unequivocally covered U's request to bargain concerning implementation of new benefit, notwithstanding clause included w/o discussion, where E merely seeking to maintain status quo and has not made unilateral changes that directly or adversely affected unit Ees with accompaning effect of undermining and derogating U)

Aeronca, Inc. 253 NLRB No. 026
(Christmas bonus paid Ees over number of years was considered component of wages or terms of employment, even though not expressly provided for by contract, which cannot be discontinued by E before U has been given notice and opportunity to bargain)

National Car Rental System, Inc. 252 NLRB No. 027
(contract's zipper clause waiving parties' bargaining rights over subject matter not included, or referred to, in contract or w/i contemplation or knowledge of parties when they negotiated agreement held not waiver of effects of E decision to sell and relocate operations, since general zipper clause did not amount to clear specific and unmistakable waiver by U of right to be consulted regarding effects of elimination of all unit positions)

8054-4000 Abandonment of demands does not constitute waiver

Saint Marys Hospital 260 NLRB No. 175
(Us waived right to reopen contract and bargain over dental plan by discussion of formal proposal concerning dental care during negotiations though specifics of plan later adopted for nonbargaining unit Ees were not discussed, and elimination of this proposal from final agreement as this was conscious relinquishment of proposal for dental plan in contracts)

The Mead Corporation 256 NLRB No. 108
(fact that contract article concerning wage rate adjustments specifies legal effect of agreement or lack of agreement by parties during mid-term (contract) negotiations, held not waiver of Ee rights and may not be equated with express relinquishment by U of its rights to demand bargaining especially in view of U's vigorous assertion of its position during negotiations, and its demand that E promise to make wage adjustments rather than merely discuss them)

Eastern Maine Medical Center 253 NLRB No. 024
(E's contention that because U tentatively accepted some of its proposals, it is absolved of bad faith bargaining charge, rejected; U does not waive refusal to bargain charges by signing up for best deal it can obtain and continuing to make effort to reach agreement)

National Car Rental System, Inc. 252 NLRB No. 027
(U's failure to specifically request effects bargaining when it learned of sale and relocation of segments of E's rental operations not waiver of U's right to effects bargaining where E's announcement that entire unit was being terminated precluded U request to bargain; E had indicated that any attempt at bargaining would have been futile)

American Telephone and Telegraph Company—Long Lines Department 250 NLRB No. 008
(U's statutory right to photocopies of requested documents, not waived regardless of contention that E rejected U's demand for photocopies during contract negotiations and that bargaining agreement contained zipper clause; waiver of statutory right, unlike waiver of rates of pay, wages, hours of employment, or other conditions of employment, requires conscious relinquishment by U)

8054-5000 Effect of zipper clause

Angelus Block Co., Inc., Amari, Inc. 250 NLRB No. 127
(zipper clause not waiver where record did not establish what, if any, specific proposals were considered during contract negotiations nor even whether parties were agreed on precisely what provisions they were agreeing to exclude)

*American Telephone and Telegraph Company—
Long Lines Department* 250 NLRB No. 088
(U's statutory right to photocopies of requested documents, not waived regardless of contention that E rejected U's demand for photocopies during contract negotiations and that bargaining agreement contained zipper clause; waiver of statutory right, unlike waiver of rates of pay, wages, hours of employment, or other conditions of employment, requires conscious relinquishment by U)

Arizona Public Service Company 247 NLRB No. 054
(U held not to have waived its statutory right to bargain over E's subcontracting practices after existing subcontracting clause was declared invalid; contract reopener clause clearly and unmistakably manifested intention to preserve, rather than to forfeit, right to bargain about subject covered by any clause which had been invalidated, and management rights and zipper clauses contained no language which clearly and unmistakably commited U to forfeiture of right to bargain with E over subcontracting issue)

Rochester Methodist Hospital JD-505-81
(E's refusal to bargain for dental plan during contract term held not violative where such proposals were discussed and eliminated as part of final agreement which was settlement of all issues and waiver was clearly intended and clearly expressed)

8054-6500 Waiver to represent employees

C. Elton Johnson, d/b/a Print-Quic 261 NLRB No. 109
(where E announced to U his intention to sell business and U failed to ask for further details concerning impact on Ees, it its right to bargain with E)

C. Elton Johnson, d/b/a Print-Quic 262 NLRB No. 109
(where E announced to U his intention to sell business and U failed to ask for further details concerning impact on Ees, it waived its right to bargain with E)

Gould, Inc. JD-489-81
(U's agreement with E, engaged in joint venture with U-contracting company, whereby unit Ees at E's plant were transferred to latter company held not to constitute waiver to represent some of the transferred Ees upon their reemployment by E, where asserted waiver was ambiguous and there was no intention on part of U to surrender its representation of such Ees; agreement's statement that U would no longer represent any of E's Ees meant only that unit Ees would no longer be working for E)

Gould, Inc. JD-489-81
(U official's statements, made during final stages of reaching agreement whereby unit Ees were transferred to U-contracting company engaged in joint venture with E, that E had gotten rid of U for which E's negotiators would be rewarded by E held not to constitute waiver to represent transferred Ees upon their reemployment by E, since statements, made in atmosphere of having solved difficult problem under stress, were merely relieved acknowledgements of successful conclusion of negotiations for Ee transfer)

Gould, Inc. JD-489-81
(U's actions, after entering agreement to transfer unit Ees to U-contracting company engaged in joint venture with E, in having unit Ees to report for work at latter company held not to constitute waiver to represent transferred Ees upon their reemployment by E, where U asked E for right to represent Ees which request E refused, and E's action in informing U concerning probable reemployment of Ees indicated E was concerned that U might assert its rights as Ee representative pursuant to Bd certification)

8054-7000 Agreeing to management rights clause does not constitute waiver

Milwaukee Spring Division of Illinois Coil Spring Company 265 NLRB No. 028
(E's decision to relocate work from U to non-U plant, to layoff Ees as consequence during term of agreement solely because of higher labor costs, absent U's consent, is midterm repudiation of agreement in violation of Sec. 8(d), Sec. 8(a)(1), (3), (5); moreover, U did not waive right to bargain notwithstanding managements rights clause; such clause reserves for E right to decide whether and how products will be manufactured; it does not grant E right to transfer its operation. Thus, absent explicit language, U has not waived its right to object to E's decision)

8054-9000 Failure to request that employer bargain over impact of changed conditions

Ciba-Geigy Pharmaceuticals Division 266 NLRB No. 134
(U did not waive right to bargain over new Attendance Control Program by its failure in past not to request bargaining when E unilaterally implemented new rules and regulations since right once waived is not lost forever, and each time bargainable incident occurs-each time new rules are issued-U has option to request bargaining or not. Nor by its failure to request bargaining at meeting in which E gave U copy of new program, as U was presented with fait accompli since E told U on same day Ees were notified that program would be effective in ten days yet E had been studying matter over many months w/o notice to U)

Talbert Manufacturing, Inc. 264 NLRB No. [illegible]
(orally informing U representative of reduction in hours to be worked 4 d before implementing change, and indirect notice via member of in-plant committee notifying U of further reduction in hours 2 days before implementing this change held sufficient notice to allow U to request bargaining, and by U's failure to make request it waived its right to complain about E's failure to bargain)

*Wagner Distribution Services, Inc. d/b/a
Distribution Services West* 262 NLRB No. 096
(E unilaterally changing hours of swing shift which was paid shift differential to hours substantially overlapping hours of first shift which was not paid wage differential, unlawful, notwithstanding E's contention U had actual knowledge of E's intended change through communication by shop steward to U official and U waived its rights by its failure to request bargaining, since shenage was mandatory subject of bargaining and E failed to show U received sufficiently reliable notice of change to trigger obligation to demand bargaining)

*Wagner Distribution Services, Inc. d/b/a
Distribution Services West* 262 NLRB No. 096
(no waiver of right to bargain over change in shift hours since waiver must be clear and unmistakable and mere conversation of shop steward with U official regarding E's intent to change hours of shift not sufficiently reliable notice to trigger U's obligation to request bargaining)

*Wagner Distribution Services, Inc. d/b/a
Distribution Services West* 262 NLRB No. 096
(E's contention U had knowledge of proposed change in shift hours and did not request bargaining justified its unilateral change, rejected, where E failed to show U received sufficiently reliable notice of change and E had taken position it would not bargain with U at time U received information on propose change)

Peat Manufacturing Company 261 NLRB No. 026
(U not estopped from singling out layoff of one Ee when Ee was laid off in middle of series of layoffs and U had never requested that E bargain about previous layoffs, since legality of other layoffs was not at issue in instant case; E has generally refused to recognize or bargain with U until ct of appeals enforced prior Bd Order directing E to do so)

*Cardinal Systems, A Division of Hospitality Motor
Inns, Inc., d/b/a Cummins Component Plant* 259 NLRB No. 065
(E's unilaterally changing Ees' pay days from weekly to bi-weekly basis, not violative where E notified U of change approximately six weeks in advance of proposed change; record showed that U never responded to E's notice either to object or request meeting with E; U acquiesced in E's action)

Morco, Inc. d/b/a Towne Plaza Hotel 258 NLRB No. 016
(unilateral pay raise not violative where U never demanded bargaining over unilateral pay raise itself while engaging in bargaining over issue of wages; in such circumstances, U must be held to have waived its right to bargain over pay raise)

Armour Oil Company 253 NLRB No. 168
(U did not waive its right to be afforded opportunity to bargain about subsequent wholesale reassignment of trucks which adversely effected unit Ees' working conditions when it acquiesced in isolated wholesale reassignment of trucks which did not adversely effect unit Ees' working conditions)

M. A. Harrison Manufacturing Company, Inc. 253 NLRB No. 097
(defense of waiver not available to E where E granted unit Ees merit wage increases, percentage wage increases, and extra paid holiday w/o giving U sufficient opportunity to bargain over those unilateral changes which it wanted to do, E and U had made no attempt to bargain on any economic issue during initial negotiations, hence neither party could contend that impasse had been reached justifying unilateral action)

Exxon Company, U.S.A. 253 NLRB No. 027
(8(d) provides that U's failure to discuss E's unilateral modification of contractual terms or conditions of employment is not defense to ULP)

National Car Rental System, Inc. 252 NLRB No. [illegible]
(U's failure to specifically request effects bargaining when it learned of sale and relocation of segments of E's rental operations not waiver of U's right to effects bargaining where E's announcement that entire unit was being terminated precluded U request to bargain; E had indicated that any attempt at bargaining would have been futile)

Island Typographers, Inc. 252 NLRB No. 083
(where E, more than 6 months prior to charge being filed, unilaterally and openly introduced cold type process operated by non-U Ees without U's timely objection, no violation and E's action effectively changed terms of unsigned contract so as to exclude cold-type work from jurisdiction of U)

Fourco Glass Company, Rolland Division 250 NLRB No. 144
(E's elimination of incentive pay system before contract term expired, violative, as E is statutorily required to wait until contract expires to implement changes in working conditions; moreover, fact that U had been willing to listen to E's proposal does not constitute waiver of its rights under Sec. 8(d))

Biel Tuxedos, Inc. 250 NLRB No. 064

(E unilaterally granting unit Ees Blue Cross and Blue Shield insurance benefits after contract containing provisions for E contributions to U's health plan and insurance fund had expired, held violative, where U had not waived its right to bargain on the health and insurance issue; no impasse had been reached; and change in benefits was not consistent with any previously rejected offer)

Charmer Industries, Inc. 250 NLRB No. 031

(U did not waive its right to contest Es' unilateral change in work procedures where U did make request for bargaining over such procedures)

Vanity Fair Mills, Inc. JD-(ATL)-35-82

(E unilaterally requiring Ees to work 3 nine hour and one 5 hour day during week before holiday rather than 4 eight hour days as required by agreement, not unlawful, notwithstanding U not formally consulted about change, where U had actual notice about change and voiced no objections prior to working changed schedule)

California Pacific National JD-(SF)-260-81

(where E posted new rules concerning Ees taking home company vehicles (mandatory subject of bargaining) on bulletin board and U failed to protest change, it waived its right to do so and E's failure to negotiate not violative)

N.L.R.B. v. Carbonex Coal Company 679 F.2d 200 (C.A. 10, May 1982)

(whether U has waived its right to bargain over layoff by failing to raise issue or by agreeing to E's action is question of fact to be determined by Bd and to be upheld (by ct) if supported by substantial evidence)

8059 DEFENSE OF CURRENT BARGAINING DEVELOPMENTS AND INDUSTRY PRACTICE

M. A. Harrison Manufacturing Company, Inc. 253 NLRB No. 097

(contention that unilateral wage increase was justified by imminence of anticipated Presidential wage freeze rejected, since anticipated wage freeze was not such special circumstance that would justify remedial action under N.L.R.B. v. Benne Katz, etc., d/b/a Williamsburg Steel Products Co., 369 U.S. 736, 743 (1962))

8063 STRIKES

8063-0100 Generally

8063-0150 Obligation to bargain during strike

M. A. Harrison Manufacturing Company, Inc. 253 NLRB No. 097

N.L.R.B. v. Mar-Len Cabinets, Inc. 659 F.2d 995 (C.A. 9, Oct. 1981)

(end of strike did not end E's bargaining obligation where it cancelled last bargaining session claiming U had lost majority support, and if negotiations became truncated depriving E of opportunity to bargain over non-economic matters, it was primarily E fault)

8063-1400 Effect on impasse

Turnbull Enterprises, Inc. 259 NLRB No. 122

(fact that Ees engaged in strike against E did not establish basis for terminating E's obligation to make health and welfare fund contributions at that time; even if impasse existed on date of strike, E took no action which was consistent with its rejected offers to U, and record failed to prove E instituted plan with insurance company replacing plan until subsequent date on which it reached agreement with U)

8063-8400 Fear of strike endangering operations

Blue Grass Provision Co., Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 636 F.2d 1127 (C.A. 6, 1980)

(E's contention that its subcontracting of its delivery operations and layoff of E is performing this work was in affect legal lockout rejected absent impasse or threat of imminent strike or absent evidence that E's business interests were so legitimate and substantial as to justify impact that lockout would have on Ees' rights)

8063-9000 Violence during strike

Georgia Kraft Company, Woodcraft Division 258 NLRB No. 121

(E's refusal to execute contract held violative where, after 5 meetings between E and U to modify and renegotiate current contract, U, by telegram, advised E that (E's) last offer had been accepted as final and binding contract and that contacted strikers would return to work notwithstanding U did not intend to accept E's proposal on discipline of strikers who allegedly had committed acts of misconduct during strike)

8068 GRIEVANCE/ARBITRATION PROCEEDINGS AND/OR AWARD

Georgia Kraft Company, Woodcraft Division 258 NLRB No. 121

(plant manager's telling Ees they had no formal grievance procedure after contract containing such procedure had expired held violative, since E was required to process grievances in accordance with provisions of expired contract absent impasse on that subject)

Caterpillar Tractor Co. v. N.L.R.B. 658 F.2d 140 (C.A. 7, Sept. 1981)

(strike protesting E's unlawful discontinuance of allowing Ees to request transfers which involved demotions, not ULP strike, since contract waived right to strike where underlying dispute being processed through grievance procedure and herein grievance pending; further, unlawful unilateral change was not serious labor dispute (destructive of foundation on which bargaining must rest) w/i Mastro Plastics so as to preclude waiver of right to strike regarding ULP since E in good faith relied on management rights clause, and U neither called nor ratified strike)

8072 PENDENCY OF BOARD PROCEEDINGS

8072-2000 Filing of decertification petition

Great Western Coca-Cola Bottling Company, d/b/a Houston Coca-Cola Bottling Company 265 NLRB No. 106

(Bd applied rule announced in Dresser Industries, prohibiting withdrawal from bargaining while decertification ptn is pending, on a prospective basis only, and held E's unilateral changes in access requirements for U representatives unlawful, since E is not licensed to interfere with U's representative functions during pendency of decertification ptn; U remains Ees' bargaining representative until and unless it is decertified; consequently, Bd distinguished unilateral changes affecting U's dealings with Ees whom it represents from those relating to wages and benefits)

Taurus Waste Disposal, Inc. 263 NLRB No. 028

(violation, where following evasive and dilatory tactics to avoid bargaining for new contract, E stated it would not meet with U, that it would decertify U, refused to bargain with U pending resolution of decertification ptn, and withdrew recognition from U where U still had presumption of majority)

Pease Company 251 NLRB No. 090

(E's refusal to meet and bargain with U, and failure to arrange another meeting, unlawful; E's failure to timely notify U of its intention to suspend negotiations casts doubt on its position that it had obligation to suspend negotiations because of pending decertification ptn which assertedly raised qcr, and was wrong as matter of law; Bd's prior order to bargain had not been complied with at time of ptn, and existence of unremedied unlawful refusal to bargain prohibits finding qcr exists)

Master Slack, Ltd. JD-(ATL)-8-81

(filing decertification ptn raises qcr only where there is objective evidence creating doubt of U's majority status which in ULP proceeding would justify company in refusing to bargain)

N.L.R.B. v. Antonino Carilli, d/b/a Antoninino's Restaurant 648 F.2d 1206 (C.A. 9, June 1981)

(E's contention it was not required to bargain with U since it had learned decertification ptn was pending, rejected, notwithstanding filing of ptn was not caused by action of E, where E had committed ULPs precluding fair election, absent showing majority of Ees supported decertification before learning of E's prior ULPs or being exposed to E's subsequent ULPs; underlying issue is reasonable doubt of U's majority which may not be raised in context of ULPs)

8072-4200 Pendency of ULP charges

Bob's Big Boy Family Restaurants, A Division of Marriott Corporation 264 NLRB No. 063

(refusing to recognize and bargain with newly elected U, violative; Bd rejected E's contention that its duties under Act are suspended because of litigation pending before ct of appeals or before Bd on remand from such ct)

Chester Valley, Inc. 251 NLRB No. 191

(E's letter to Ees asking them to discuss problems and setting up of joint E-Ee committee, unlawful, since E thereby dealt directly with Ees in contravention of duty to bargain with U; E's contention that its conduct was not unlawful, since at time of letter its obligation to bargain was subject of litigation in pending cases, rejected, where Bd's decision issued this date found that E's obligation to bargain commenced on date on which E embarked on clear course of unlawful conduct which undermined U's majority status and subverted Bd's election process)

Hilton International Company d/b/a Caribe Hilton Hotel v. N.L.R.B. 690 F.2d 318 (C.A. 2, Sept. 1982)

(enforcement denied and suspension of bargaining because of U's filing of charges found not unlawful, where charges asserted that steady engagement musicians playing at association hotels were hotel Ees but they were found Ees of band leaders found independent contractors herein)

Kitchen Fresh, Inc. 259 NLRB No. 074

Advertisers Manufacturing Company v. N.L.R.B. 677 F.2d 544 (C.A. 7, Apr. 1982)

(E acts at its peril in making unilateral changes in conditions of employment following U victory in initial representation election and before Bd renders decision of E's election objections where Bd's rejection of objections and certification of U would make E's actions automatic violations of Sec. 8(a)(5))

8072-7000 Rival union's RC petition

RCA del Caribe, Inc. 262 NLRB No. 116

(E violates Sec. 8(a)(5) by withdrawing from bargaining with incumbent U based solely on fact that ptn has been filed by outside U; however, may still withdraw recognition if its good faith doubt based on other objective considerations)

8072-9200 Pendency of collateral litigation

Bob's Big Boy Family Restaurants, A Division of Marriott Corporation 264 NLRB No. 063

(collateral litigation does not suspend duty to bargain under Sec. 8(a)(5))

8075 REGIONAL DIRECTOR'S RULING

Navajo Freight Lines, Inc. 254 NLRB No. 166

(E's refusal to negotiate area practices agreement on gound RD dismissed charge to that effect, unlawful, where RD deferred ruling upon such allegation until outcome of U's grievance pending for decision before arbitrator; thereafter, upon considering arbitrator's decision, RD decided to issue instant complaint)

8076 PENDENCY OF COURT PROCEEDINGS

Peabody Coal Company 265 NLRB No. 013

(unilateral withholding from newly certified unit Ees wage and benefit increases granted nonU Ees, unlawful; pending challenge to certification in ct, no defense)

8076-3300 Review of Board Order of Certification

Post Manufacturing Company 261 NLRB No. 026

(claim that E had no obligation to bargain with U until Ninth Circuit (ct of appeals) acts on Bd's request for enforcement of its order in prior case (involving same parties) rejected, since collaterial litigation does not suspend duty to bargain under Act)

Fremont Manufacturing Division, The Oil Gear Company, Inc. JD-(SF)-235-82

(collateral litigation including ct review of Bd order to recognize and bargain does not suspend duty to bargain under Sec. 8(a)(5), therefore E's request for stay of proceedings denied and unilateral changes in benefits violative)

8076-6700 Review of Board Finding of ULP

Bob's Big Boy Family Restaurants, A Division of Marriott Corporation 264 NLRB No. 063

(refusing to recognize and bargain with newly elected U, violative; Bd rejected E's contention that its duties under Act are suspended because of litigation pending before ct of appeals or before Bd on remand from such ct)

Jeffrey Manufacturing Division, Dresser Industries, Inc. 252 NLRB No. 084

(refusal to bargain violative, notwithstanding contention that E need not bargain with U until it has obtained complete review of previous ULP proceeding, since it is well established that collateral litigation does not suspend duty to bargain)

8079 ULP's BY OTHER PARTY

North Shore University Hospital 259 NLRB No. 121

(E's defense to refusal to bargain with nurses' association on ground that its demand for bargaining and execution of contract violated 8(b)(1)(A) and (2), rejected, where association was found to be labor organization and qualified to represent nurses despite admission of supervisors to membership, and E failed to sustain considerable burden to show clear and present danger of conflict of interest due to influence, domination, or control of association by its supervisory or managerial members)

Independent Stave Company 248 NLRB No. 025

(E's failure and refusal to comply with U security provision of current contract in response to U demand that some 46 Ees be discharged for failure to be U members in good standing held violative, since E had thereby unilaterally modified terms and conditions of parties' contract which called for investigation of named Ees and determination that they were delinquent and would not become members, notwithstanding U's alleged failure to fulfill its fiduciary obligation of notification to Ees)

N.L.R.B. v. Fox Striders, Inc. 667 F.2d 171(T) (C.A. 9, Mar 1981)

(Bd's summary judgment proper, notwithstanding E's contention that political party campaigning for U created conditions sufficient to preclude summary judgment; setting aside of election is justified only when third party misconduct, attributable to neither party to election, creates atmosphere of fear or reprisal rendering free expression of Ees' choice impossible; and third party conduct can be attributed to U only where instigated, authorized, solicited, ratified, condoned or adopted by U; however, facts herein did not require hearing on either issue, and ct did not accord controlling weight to issue of U responsibility)

8080 DISCRIMINATION

8080-5800 Race

Steelworkers v. Weber, et al. 443 U.S. 193 (June 1979)

(Title VII does not prohibit race conscious affirmative action plans; private E and U voluntarily agreed upon affirmative action plan that accorded preference to Black trainees in order to eliminate conspicuous racial imbalance segregated job categories upheld)

Colonial Manor 1977, Inc. 253 NLRB No. 181

(E's allegations that U has engaged in and is engaging in prohibited discrimination on basis of race and sex held inappropriately raised as defense in 8(a)(5) summary judgment proceeding for reasons set forth in Handy Andy and similar cases)

(E's refusal of U's request to discharge Ees who had refused to pay U dues required by valid U-security clause, not unlawful, where Ees were members of and adhere to traditional tenets or teachings of bona fide religions which have historically held conscientious objections to joining or financially supporting labor organizations, and recently enacted Sec. 19 of Act, exempting such conscientious objectors form joining or financially supporting labor organizations, is applicable)

8081 INVALIDITY OF CERTIFICATION OR RECOGNITION

8081-1200 Denial of fair hearing

Franklin Art Glass Studios, Inc. 250 NLRB No. [illegible]

N.L.R.B. v. South Mississippi Electric Power Association 616 F.2d 837 (C.A. 5, 1980)

(E held to have unlawfully refused to bargain with nurses' association, where it failed to sustain its considerable burden to show clear and present danger of conflict of interest due to influence, domination, or control of association by its supervisory or managerial members)

N.T. Enloe Memorial Hospital 250 NLRB No. 078
(in unit of Ees represented by association which admitted supervisors to membership, there is no conflict of interest which would disqualify association as bargaining representative where one unit member is supervisor but is not engaged in collective bargaining)

N.L.R.B. v. Pinkerton's, Inc. 621 F.2d 1322 (C.A. 6, June 1980)
(no conflict of interest that would relieve E of bargaining obligation where in exchange for not organizing subsidiary of E's competitor for 9 months, competitor's supervisor gave U organizer names of E's Ees and clients, since agreement not to organize Ees of competitor-subsidiary not inconsistent with representing Ees inasmuch as U had no financial stake in continued existence of competitor or E except insofar as continued existence in interest of Ees; in short, if U has nothing to gain by not asserting Ees' best interests, there is no conflict of interest)

8081-5000 Fairness of election

Pursell's Pride, Inc. 265 NLRB No. 146
(E's refusal to bargain, violative, since alleged misrepresentations did not warrant setting election aside)

(where Bd found, contrary to contention, that U's campaign material was not objectionable and that U was properly certified, E's refusal to brgain with U, violative)

Sonoma Vineyards, Inc. 264 NLRB No. 085
(E's cross-mtn for withdrawal of order transferring proceeding to Bd and Notice to Show Cause denied since Bd rejected alleged newly discovered evidence showing bias on part of Bd agent who conducted election where agent's comments at polls regarding U's ability to overcome challenges to ballots were not, if stated, overheard by voters as to have impact on election, and furthermore, agent's subsequent employment with U 3 years after election is not evidence of bias nor contravenes R/R 102.119 inasmuch as there is no evidence that former agent is representing U in any capacity before Bd in this proceeding accordingly Bd granted mtn for summary judgment)

The Pape, Inc. 263 NLRB No. 170
(on remand Bd set aside election and held E not obligated to bargain where captains in its restaurant promised waiters and bus boys that, if U won election, captains, who had sole authority over tip division, would change division of tips to increase shares of waiters and busboys, since offer would have impaired election whether or not captains supervisors)

Clinton Manufacturing Co., Inc. 258 NLRB No. 056
(election set aside and new election directed where U stated to Ees during election campaign that Ees who signed U cards before election would not be subject to initiation fees but that the Ees could determine whether to impose initiation fees on those Ees who signed U cards after election since suggestion that initiation fees might be imposed after election linked such waiver of fees to support of U before election)

Divine Providence Hospital of Pittsburgh 248 NLRB No. 078
(E's refusal to bargain with U representing unit of plant operations department Ees at hospital on ground U's certification was invalid because unit was inappropriate as matter of law unlawful, where E did not raise any issue which is properly litigable in ULP proceeding herein, and ct decisions relied on by E for its position in opposition to GC's mtn for summary judgment are not controlling)

Valley Rock Products, Inc. JD-(SF)-285-79
(defense sustained in view of threats and assaults by U representative against E's officers, and failure to count ballot of Ee on leave of absence at time of election)

N.L.R.B. v. Granite State Minerals, Inc. 674 F.2d 101 (C.A. 1, Mar. 1982)
(E held not obligated to bargain in view of Bd's unilateral departure from stipulated election agreement in allowing one Ee to vote at different time and place from that set in agreement with transportation assistance from U, and Bd's failure to adequately investigate and/or hold hearing on allegation of U coercion of E)

N.L.R.B. v. Granite State Minerals, Inc. 674 F.2d 101 (C.A. 1, Mar. 1982)
(E's objection to election upheld and E held not obligated to bargain since Bd's investigation of alleged threat to Ee by U held inadequate. Importance of single threat likely in view of closeness of vote and small number in unit)

N.L.R.B. v. Morgan Health Care Center, Inc. 618 F.2d 127 (C.A. 1, 1980)
(E's contention its refusal to bargain justified by alleged misrepresentations of Ee who was active in U campaign, rejected, since remarks not attributable to U where U neither authorized nor condoned them, and remarks did not create atmosphere of fear and violence but rather had no effect on Ees' votes)

The Catholic Medical Center of Brooklyn and Queens, Inc., et al. v. N.L.R.B. 620 F.2d 20 (C.A. 2, 1980)
(8(a)(5) violation upheld where on remand Bd inferred that supervisors' pro-U activities did not impair Ees' free choice in election, and ct found that Bd's inference did not transgress bounds of reason)

Trexler Lutheran Home For Children, t/a Frostburg Village of Allegany County Nursing Home v. N.L.R.B. 677 F.2d 302 (C.A. 3, Apr. 1982)
(E who operated nursing home obligated to bargain since Bd did not abuse discretion when overruled objections to election concluding material sent to Ees by U 2 days before election allegedly containing misrepresentations did not exceed allowable bounds of campaigning, nor was hearing on objections required; inclusion in unit of LPN held not to be supervisors in unit, proper)

Wells Fargo Guard Services, A Division of Baker Protective Services, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 659 F.2d 363 (C.A. 3, Sep. 1981)
(ct must consider validity of certification where Bd's decision that E was guilty of ULP (in refusing to bargain) was premised on certification of election)

N.L.R.B. v. South Mississippi Electric Power Association 616 F.2d 837 (C.A. 5, 1980)

N.L.R.B. v. Production Plated Plastics, Inc. 663 F.2d 709 (C.A. 6, Nov. 1981)
(E ordered to bargain with Intervenor U since whether or not Ees acting as agents of U while making threats to fellow Ees during U campaign, laboratory conditions for election not destroyed in view of limited nature of their conduct, subsequent apologies by Ees, absence of violence in campaign and sizable U majority)

N.L.R.B. v. Osterlen Services For Youth, Inc. 649 F.2d 399 (C.A. 6, May 1981)
(refusal to bargain notwithstanding E's contention that integrity of election had not been maintained when Bd agent absented himself from polling area for ten minutes and took with him unused ballots, where both U's and E's observers constantly watched the unsealed ballot box, and Ees known to have been in polling area during Bd agent's absence cast their ballots upon Bd agent's return)

N.L.R.B. v. Osterlen Services For Youth, Inc. 649 F.2d 399 (C.A. 6, May 1981)
(refusal to bargain based on objection to election that U's observer allegedly engaged in unlawful electioneering, violative, where observer's conversations with voters at polling area were nothing more than innocuous conversation that did not constitute electioneering)

Randall, Burkart/Randall Division of Textron, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 638 F.2d 951 (C.A. 6, 1981)
(ct affd Bd's findings of unlawful refusal to bargain with certified U where Bd properly overruled E's objections to representation election; U agents did not engage in improper campaign activities, innocuous and isolated events of misconduct during critical period were not sufficient to vacate election nor significant to admit pre-pin events of misconduct, and there was no evidence proffered to demonstrate that these occurances interfered with voters' choice or impugned integrity of election)

Six Flags Over Mid-America, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 638 F.2d 59 (C.A. 8, 1981)
(refusal to bargain with certified U, violative, where Bd rejected E's objections to stipulated rerun election in that two U adherents made statements prior to election to the effect that E's letter to Ees concerning stipulation to set aside first election was admission of guilt in light of U objections to first election under investigation; Bd found that U adherents' statements were not attributable to U and were clearly expressions of personal opinion)

N.L.R.B. v. Fun Striders, Inc. 647 F.2d 171(T) (C.A. 9, Mar 1981)
(Bd's summary judgment proper, notwithstanding E's contention that political party campaigning for U created conditions sufficient to preclude summary judgment; setting aside of election is justified only when third party misconduct, attributalbe to neither party to election, creates atmosphere of fear or reprisal rendering free expression of Ees' choice impossible; and third party conduct can be attributed to U only where instigated, authorized, solicited, ratified, condoned or adopted by U; however, facts herein did not require hearing on either issue, and ct did not accord controlling weight to issue of U responsibility)

N.L.R.B. v. Vista Hill Foundation d/b/a Vista Hill 639 F.2d 479 (C.A. 9, 1980)
(ct affd Bd's overruling E's objection to election that E should not have beencertified because of alleged election irregularities and, accordingly, affd Bd's finding that E's refusal to bargain violated Act)

N.L.R.B. v. Olivera Egg Ranch 636 F.2d 1227(T) (C.A. 9, 1980)
(E's contention that election was invalid because of conversations between voters and alleged U agent near polling place rejected, where E failed to present evidence that conduct was attributable to U)

8081-6200 Appropriateness of unit

Purnell's Pride, Inc. 255 NLRB No. 146
(petitioned for unit held appropriate, election not set aside and E's refusal to bargain thus violative)

Penetone Corporation 260 NLRB No. 158
(E, in C case, cannot challenge appropriateness of unit, since E had stipulated to unit's appropriateness in R proceeding and U was certified as bargaining representation for E's Ees in unit)

Supreme Sugar Company, Inc. 258 NLRB No. 039
(E's refusal to adhere to terms of collective-bargaining agreement regarding pay and benefits of watchman (found to be guard) not violative, notwithstanding E voluntarily agreed to include watchmen in unit, in view of express prohibition of Sec. 9(b)(3) that Bd shall not decide that any unit is appropriate for (purposes of collective bargaining) if it includes, together with other Ees, any individual employed as guard)

Burns Electronic Security Services, Inc. 256 NLRB No. 139
(E's refusal to bargain not violative where unit had been improperly certified because it contained both guard and nonguard Ees)

Goldim, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 628 F.2d 706 (C.A. 1, 1980)
(contention that certified bargaining unit was improper because it included four persons who were supervisors rejected, where such persons were found nonsupervisory Ees)

Burns Electronic Security Services, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 624 F.2d 403 (C.A. 2, 1980)
(ct remanded to Bd for reconsideration of its finding that E violated Act by unilaterally altering job requirements of Ees in light of ct's opinion that Bd had improperly made finding as to inclusion in unit of Ees affected by such unilateral change)

N.L.R.B. v. Midvalley Steel Fabricators, Inc. 621 F.2d 49 (C.A. 2, 1980)
(E's contention its refusal to bargain justified as U represented inappropriate unit, rejected, since not clear unit would have been inappropriate absent stipulation; further, E had not raised issue previously and had agreed to E's request for desired exclusion)

The Union Savings and Trust Company v. N.L.R.B. 643 F.2d 1249 (C.A. 6, 1981)
(E's defense to unilateral change based on contention that facts compelled certification of multi-location unit rather than operation center unit at savings and trust company rejected, where work of operations center departments was functionally integrated and operations of center's work were unique to it, its Ees had little contact with or transfer to E's other facilities, and its management was sufficiently autonomous for separate unit)

N.L.R.B. v. Mr. B. IGA, Inc. 677 F.2d 32 (C.A. 8, Apr. 1982)
(E's contention that it had no obligation to bargain because of changed circumstances resulting from 3-year delay between election and certification, i.e., reduction in size of unit from 19 to 3 Ees and complete turnover in composition of unit, rejected, since Bd carefully considered changes in unit and concluded that changes were insufficient to override Sec. 9(c)(1) and ct recognized that administrative delay and Ee turnover are not adequate reasons to set aside certified election)

N.L.R.B. v. HMO International/California Medical Group Health Plan, Inc. 678 F.2d 806 (C.A. 9, June 1982)
(where E refused to bargain on ground that Bd certified RN unit should have included LVNs, Bd on remand must state why Ees' tasks and E's personnel policies mandated that RNs be classified as professional Ees and LVNs as technical Ees, why RNs should not be preliminarily certified in same unit with LVNs with proviso of a Sonotone election, and how precisely it proposed to modify its traditional community of interest standard so as to implement herein the congressional nonproliferation mandate)

Safety Electric Corporation and San Joaquin Pacific Corporation 620 F.2d 311(T) (C.A. 9, 1980)
(Ees of two corporations found to be single E shared same type of skills and duties and should be included in same bargaining unit as accretion to original bargaining unit)

8081-6900 Union merger or affiliation

Seattle-First National Bank 265 NLRB No. 055
(upon sua sponte reconsideration Bd dismissed C of refusal to bargain with newly affiliated U certified by amendment, since certification was revoked and affiliation found improper where election did not meet due process standards due to fact nonU members of unit were not permitted)

State Bank of India 262NLRB No. 143
(refusal to bargain with outside local not violative where attempted merger of incumbent local into outside local was invalid; merger held invalid since incumbent local failed to adhere to minimal standards of due process in ascertaining whether Ees it represented desired to merge incumbent local into outside local by, inter alia, failing to provide sufficient opportunity for discussion of merger agreement)

Colonial Manor 1977, Inc. 253 NLRB No. 181
(E's contention that two merged Us cannot assume certification issued to one of them prior to merger, w/o affording E opportunity to litigate whether alleged merger created a labor organization with which E is obligated to bargain, rejected, since Bd had previously found that merged U merely represented change of name from that of originally certified U; and E's refusal to bargain did not arise out of any concern with respect to merger in view of fact that it did not answer originally certified U's demands for bargaining for which it gave no explanation)

8081-7500 Validity of ballots

Valley Rock Products, Inc. JD-(SF)-205-79
(defense sustained in view of threats and assaults by U representative against E's officers, and failure to count ballot of Ee on leave of absence at time of election)

N.L.R.B. v. A. G. Parrott Company 630 F.2d 212 (C.A. 4, 1980)
(Bd's order to bargain denied where ballot, decisive of election, was signed, and ballot, having substantial arguments for and against counting it, was placed in an anomalous position and relegated to a position in limbo and, therefore, certification of U was error and E had no duty to bargain)

Childers Products Company v. N.L.R.B. 653 F.2d 242 (C.A. 6, Feb 1981)
(refusal to bargain with certified U unlawful where U won election, eight votes to six, and evidence supported Bd finding that two additional Ees were ineligible to vote in the election on ground they were supervisors)

8081-8100 Validity of authorization cards

Southern Moldings, Inc. 255 NLRB No. 115
(cards valid where Ees were not told that cards would be used only or just for election and signers' own testimony showed that no statement was made to them which canceled clear, unambiguous meaning of card as designation of U)

Pulby Lingerie, Inc. and Argus Lingerie Corp. 252 NLRB No. 032
(objection to receipt in evidence of Ee's card on ground that it was dated one month prior to date shown in U organizer's notes, overruled in view of U organizer's credited testimony that her writing of the date on her notes was in nature of clerical error, fact that date marked on card itself was date on which organizational activities were conducted, and absence of evidence that signature on card was other than authentic)

EMR Photoelectric, A Division of Sangamo Weston Inc. 251 NLRB No. 214
(authorization cards signed at U meeting held not invalidated by presence of assertedly supervisory Ees, where they were not considered by Ees to be supervisors, none of them exerted any influence over Ees' U activities, and they were minor supervisors at most)

Mid-East Consolidation Warehouse, A Division of Ethan Allen, Inc. 247 NLRB No. 090
(card valid, where objective facts, as evidenced by events contemporaneous with signing, did not show that alleged misrepresentations made to signer that everybody had signed was decisive factor causing him to sign)

Red Oaks Nursing Home, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 633 F.2d 503 (C.A. 7, 1980)
(card held valid notwithstanding E's contention that card signer was misinformed by U representative as to purpose of cards, where terms of card were unambiguous and it was not established that the signer heard deliberate misstatement about purpose of cards or that her impression of purpose of cards was attributable directly to any U agent)

8081-9000 Recognition coerced by supervisory pressure

N.L.R.B. v. Manufacturer's Packaging Co., Inc. 645 F.2d 223 (C.A. 4, Apr 1, 1981)
(E cannot defend its refusal to bargain on grounds that election was tainted by sub-supervisors where their activities were minimal, occurred prior to their exclusion from unit, were made principally in response to Ee inquiry and E knew of activity prior to and subsequent to date they were designated supervisors, yet E did not disavow conduct)

8081-9500 Union lacked majority when recognized

Mingtree Restaurant, Inc. d/b/a Forbidden City Restaurant 265 NLRB No. 082
(after expiration of contract, withdrawal of recognition from voluntarily recognized U, unlawful; contention that U originally was unlawfully recognized and maintenance of contract with minority U constitutes continuing violation and any subsequent acquisition of majority status is attributable to earlier improper recognition, rejected, as E may not withdraw recognition unlawfully obtained outside Sec. 10(b) period)

Pick-Mt. Laurel Corporation 259 NLRB No. 034

(expression of dissatisfaction with U made to supervisors by at least 29 out of 103 Ees; and notwithstanding occurred outside Section 10(b) period, predecessor E's illegal practice of requiring Ees to join U and sign dues checkoff on first day of work and continuing this practice into 10(b) period, and its recognition of U and negotiation of agreement w/o designation by any member of unit, sufficient to support successor E's good faith doubt justifying its withdrawal of recognition)

Franklin Art Glass Studios, Inc. 250 NLRB No. 095

(in summary judgment proceeding, E's denial that U was Ee representative held w/o merit, where Bd, in prior decision certifying U as Ee representative, disposed of such issue, and it therefore cannot be relitigated herein)

Machine Tool and Gear, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 633 F.2d 216(T) (C.A. 6, 1980)

(contention that Bd was in error in finding E unlawfully failed to recognize and bargain with U because alleged misrepresentations by U organizers to non-English speaking and illiterate workers prevented acquisition of actual majority support for U rejected, since Bd's finding that there were no misrepresentations outside standard set out in N.L.R.B. v. Gissel is supported by substantial evidence)

8082 ELIMINATION OF UNIT OR JOB CLASSIFICATION FROM UNIT

Finger Lakes Plumbing & Heating Co., Inc. 253 NLRB NO. 049

(E's contention that bargaining unit ceased and thus E's obligation to bargain ceased when last active Ee in unit ceased work, rejected, since in unit involving normal fluctuating demand for Ees, work force was deemed to consist of Ees on layoff with reasonable expectancy of further employment as well as Ees actively working, and therefore unit continued to exist and with it E's obligation to bargain; before contract expired, E continued to seek work of type normally performed by unit Ees and, after contract expired, obtained such work and employed Ees to perform it)

Associated Grocers 253 NLRB No. 005

(unilaterally establishing, and setting wage rate for bargaining unit's new cashier position and offering to bargain after change effected, violative)

Arizona Electric Power Cooperative, Inc. 250 NLRB No. 110

(E's withdrawal of recognition from U as representative for E's load dispatchers and lead load dispatcher, alleged to be supervisor, during mid-term contract negotiations and E's contemporaneous unilateral change in lead load dispatcher's compensation violative, since E was not privileged in instant case to alter, unilaterally scope of unit during term of contract covering unit which included load dispatchers)

Arizona Electric Power Cooperative, Inc. 250 NLRB No. 110

(integrity of bargaining unit cannot be unilaterally attacked; once unit is certified, it may be changed only by mutual agreement of parties or by Bd action)

Farmingdale Iron Works, Inc., and Jerry Cardullo Iron Works, Inc. 249 NLRB No. 003

(transfer of Ees from E to E's alter ego, unlawful, since E's purpose for transfer was to avoid its collective bargaining obligation to Ees represented by U)

N.L.R.B. v. R & H Masonry Supply, Inc. 627 F.2d 1013 (C.A. 9, Sept. 1980)

(E's refusal to bargain not justified on basis of that all unit Ees had been terminated or elevated to managerial position where E had unlawfully sold its trucks, discharged drivers and contracted out hauling after drivers had signed authorization cards)

Local 777, Democratic Union Organizing Committee v. N.L.R.B. 603 F.2d 862 (C.A.D.C.)

(even if cab companies' decision to lease their cabs was mandatory subject of bargaining, their unilateral action was not ULP because U itself made negotiation impossible by imposing improper condition (recognition of U as bargaining representative of leased-drivers) as prerequisite to bargaining)

8083 LACK OR LOSS OF STANDING OF REPRESENTATIVE

Cardinal Systems, A Division of Hospitality Motor Inns, Inc., d/b/a Cummins Component Plant 259 NLRB No. 065

(record does not support finding of U inactivity to question U's majority status where: U's showing of interest was tainted by E's ULPs; U had notified E of dues increase for checkoff purposes; several Ee grievances had been processed by U during term of its contract with E; and U had active shop steward who quit her job because of too many complaints)

8084 OTHER MATTERS PERTAINING TO PRIOR REPRESENTATION CASE

Howard Johnson Company 250 NLRB No. 161

(although E did not receive Bd's telegrams notifying it of Bd's rulings on E's requests for review of RD's D/O directing election, E had indirectly received notice of Bd's denial of requests for review, and E's assertion that its technical right to receive notice from Bd itself negated its duty to bargain held not supported by law; Bd is not required to place consequences of its own delay, even if inordinate, upon wronged Ees to benefit of wrongdoing E)

Wells Fargo Guard Services, A Division of Baker Protective Services, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 659 F.2d 363 (C.A. 3, Sep. 1981)

(determination of truth of party's allegation in objecting to conduct of election requires evidentiary hearing, since allegation that past president did not remove himself from operation of U, if true, would lead to setting election aside)

8084-2500 Foreign employer's labor relations policies in own country

Honda of America Mfg., Inc. 259 NLRB No. 055

(E's contention that its application of Japanese approach to labor relations should be considered held w/o merit and not special circumstance warranting further consideration by Bd)

8085 STATE CERTIFICATION

Taylor Hospital 249 NLRB No. 031

(refusal to bargain, unlawful where certification by state labor board met Bd's standards for granting comity and there was no newly discovered evidence presented or lack of due process or other grounds found for refusing comity, and long passage of time since certification due to E's exhausting its remedies, does not warrant relieving E of its bargaining obligation)

8090 CHANGE IN EMPLOYER'S OPERATIONS

8090-0100 Generally

Local 777, Democratic Union Organizing Committee v. N.L.R.B. 603 F.2d 862 (C.A.D.C.)

(unilateral actions effecting major shifts in capital investment or corporate strategy of E are not mandatory subjects of bargaining when motivated by economic considerations and not U animus even though they may have had profound effects on conditions of employment)

8090-0167 Pressing economic necessity

Van Dorn Plastic Machinery Co., Division of Van Dorn Company 265 NLRB No. 036

(E's stipulation of business necessity w/o more, no defense, since it was insufficient to allow Bd to evaluate E's reasons for unilateral change in light of its standard of compelling economic considerations)

Walker Die Casting, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 682 F.2d 592 (C.A. 6, July 1982)

(no ULP where E's withdrawal of final offer during contract negotiations with U, but after economic strike started; E's action was legitimate bargaining tactic reflecting changed economic background)

8090-1000 Closing of plant

Universal Security Instruments, Inc. 253 NLRB No. 019

(E's refusal to recognize U as representative of P&M Ees at its new plant after it closed existing plant, moved its production lines to new location and transferred those Ees who accepted offer of transfer to new facility, violative)

N.L.R.B. v. Schmutz Foundry and Machine Company 678 F.2d 655 (C.A. 6, May 1982)

(where, during negotiations for renewal of contract and 6 months after impasse had been reached, E closed its plant but then, approximately 1 year later, began limited production at plant, its refusal to bargain on U's demand at that time held unlawful, since E's closure, which E claimed constituted going out of business, was a lockout for purpose of getting rid of U, and operations were resumed only when E concluded it would no longer have to recognize U)

8090-2000 Closing or sale of department, division, or operation

Fugazy Continental Corp.; Elite Services, Inc. 265 NLRB No. 165

(purchaser of part of E's operations as alter ego of E, obligated to recognize and bargain with victorious U in election, and both purchaser and E violated 8(a)(5) by engaging in bad faith effort to avoid bargaining with U, in view of sham purchase transaction herein intended to continue E's operations in disguised form to avoid its statutory obligations and to thwart Ees' successful organizational efforts; E's extensive and ferocious anti-U campaign up to and beyond time of alleged sale; and subsequent unlawful termination of Ees, refusal to reinstate them, and denial of accrued vacation pay)

U.S. Contractors, Inc., and The Dow Chemical Company, U.S.A., Texas Division 257 NLRB No. 182

(when economic reasons compel E to decide whether or not to shut down part of its business, E's need to operate freely outweighs any incremental benefit that might be gained through U's participation in decision-making)

Scott Printing Corporation 249 NLRB No. 134

(Bd, in affirming its prior D/O, found E and its alter ego may not now allege that at time of refusal to bargain, they had good-faith doubt as to U's continuing majority support, since defense was based on events induced by sham sale to E's alter ego; purpose of sale was to enable E to avoid its duty to bargain with U)

N.L.R.B. v. A.W. Thompson, Inc. 651 F.2d 1141 (C.A. 5, July 1981)

(where all of E's stock was acquired by another company, this does not provide basis for good faith doubt in U majority absent objective evidence that change in ownership of stock changed Ees' attitude about U)

N.L.R.B. v. R & H Masonry Supply, Inc. 627 F.2d 1013 (C.A. 9, Sept. 1980)

(E's refusal to bargain not justified on basis of that all unit Ees had been terminated or elevated to managerial position where E had unlawfully sold its trucks, discharged drivers and contracted out hauling after drivers had signed authorization cards)

8090-4000 Transfer of operations to another location

Marine Optical, Inc. 255 NLRB No. 158

(E's refusal to recognize U and to apply existing contract, together with unilateral changes in working conditions, at new location after transfering operations there during contract term, unlawful, where Ees at new location constituted appropriate unit; existing contract remained in effect following relocation; by reason of contract Ees are presumed to have continued designating U as their representative; and although U's majority status did not continue at new location, new hires are assumed to have desired U representation in same proportion as Ees they had replaced)

U.S. Utilities Corporation 254 NLRB No. 055

(refusing to apply contract to work outside U's jurisdiction and unilaterally establishing new terms for these operations, violative as contract by its terms applied to work wherever company works)

Universal Security Instruments, Inc. 253 NLRB No. 019

(E's refusal to recognize U as representative of P&M Ees at its new plant after it closed existing plant, moved its production lines to new location and transferred those Ees who accepted offer of transfer to new facility, violative)

Westwood Import Company, Inc. 251 NLRB No. 162

(withdrawal of recognition and failure to honor contract at relocated plant 35 miles from old site during period contract served as bar and no qcr present, violative, otherwise, E could unilaterally eliminate or change representative at time when Bd would refuse to allow change; relocation, providing operations and equipment remain substantially same at new location and substantial percentage of Ees (though less than 50) at old plant transfer to new location, has little effect on bargaining obligation)

Campo Slacks, Inc. and J & E Sportswear, Inc. 250 NLRB No. 057

(withdrawal of recognition of U as bargaining agent for Ees transferred from subsidiary to parent organization in same building, unlawful, as they still remained part of bargaining unit)

Monongahela Valley Hospital, Inc. 249 NLRB No. 013

(where E built new facility 3 miles away and transferred all patients, equipment, and Ees from old facility except 4 boiler firemen who remained behind at old structure which enjoyed limited use in support of new facility; these 4 boiler firemen remained in unit at new facility because of common supervision and community of interest; U did not waive any rights to their representation by waiting 3 months after move before filing charges)

Van-Note Harvey Associates and Nassau Surveying 247 NLRB NO. 139

(bargaining with no intention of reaching agreement with U, evidenced by E's transferring unit work to its alter ego, held violative, since reactivation of alter ego was subterfuge to avoid bargaining with U)

N.L.R.B. v. United Optical Workers Union Local 408, Electrical Workers (Marine Optical, Inc.) 671 F.2d 11 (C.A. 1, Feb. 1982)

(E's withdrawal of recognition, refusal to bargain on demand, and unilateral changes after relocating operations violated 8(a)(5) and 8(d); contract's description of unit as consisting of Ees employed at address of E's old facility was not shown to be intended as geographical limitation, as contended, and continuity was sufficient for Bd to apply modified contract-bar doctrine and find contract effective at new facility where there was substantial continuity of operations and in bargaining unit after relocation, and new facility was near old facility and in same state)

Air Express International Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 659 F.2d 610 (C.A. 5, Oct. 1981)

(in relocation non-Gissel case, composition of bargaining unit is determined at time of relocation (or after reasonable shakedown period) otherwise, situation would create undisirable incentive to delay through litigation)

8090-4100 Transfer of work outside of unit

Bay Shipbuilding Corp. 263 NLRB No. 166

Maine Yankee Atomic Power Company JD-59-82

(signing of contract by E and incumbent U not violative, notwithstanding GC's contention that question concerning representation existed, since, in RCA del Caribe, Inc., Bd recently reexamined law applicable to situations where incumbent U is challenged by outside U and held that raising of question concerning representation will no longer require or permit an E to withdraw from bargaining, nor will an E be privileged to refuse to execute a contract with incumbent U; thus by executing contract, E did not violate 8(a)(2) and it necessarily follows that incumbent U did not violate 8(b)(1)(A))

Henry J. Kaiser Company 259 NLRB No. 001

(U steward's statement, upon being asked for a grievance form by discharged Ee, that if Ee didn't like it he should hit the road, unlawful, since steward, as representative of U, thereby summarily rejected request for representation w/o investigation; fact that Ee asked for grievance form rather than stated he desired to file grievance is of no moment since steward knew exactly what Ee was asking of him)

Henry J. Kaiser Company 259 NLRB No. 001

(contention that U representative, upon being advised of Ee's discharge grievance, immediately investigated discharge, found that discharge was proper, and that no futher grievance procedure was warranted, rejected, where evidence showed that U representative was much more concerned with ULP charge Ee had filed against U; nor did U representatives rely on contract provision that terminations were at sole discretion of E so as to warrant dismissal of instant allegation)

Henry J. Kaiser Company 259 NLRB No. 001

(failure to prosecute discharge grievance and deliberate attempt to ignore grievance, violative of its fiduciary duty to deal fairly, where U agent's conduct (E consulted with him prior to discharge) contributed to discharge and U's failure to prosecute grievance was caused by U agent's hostility toward member for enforcing contract and personal animus for Ee's opposition to U leadership)

General Teamsters Local 162, Teamsters (American Steel, Inc.) 255 NLRB No. 159

(U's alleged threat not to process grievance because grievant had filed ULP charges against E and U, not unlawful, where U representative's statement that he felt dutybound to inform E about U charges did not support finding of violation absent other probative evidence of threats to grievant; no adverse inference is drawn from fact U representative intended to inform E concerning filing of charges which was public and not confidential information; and, although unhappy over ULP charges, U was prepared, after considerable preparation, to timely process grievance no matter what grievant did with charges)

(U's failure to notify Ees that it was willing to process their apparently meritorious grievances, or its unsuccessful perfunctory attempt to notify one of the Ees, unlawful; U agent's asking Ee whether he had grievance forms did not constitute adequate communication to Ee, and it was not sufficient for U, after filing of charges, to have its lawyer request E to reinstate Ees)

Truck Drivers Union Local No. 407 (Wenham Transportation, Inc.) 249 NLRB No. 007

(allegation that U business agent failed and refused to prosecute in good faith Ee's grievance as to elimination of driver preference in E's dispatch procedure upon adoption of new dispatch rules, dismissed, where Ee had already been well represented by another business agent officially in charge of grievance presentation, merits of grievance had already been passed upon at time of agent's remark, and his candor about his own confusion with respect to preference practice must have seemed to him of little moment in the given situation)

Truck Drivers Union Local No. 407 (Wenham Transportation, Inc.) 249 NLRB No. 007

(U's efforts on Ee's behalf in grievance procedure, though not optimal, rose above perfunctory and unjustified treatment of Ee's problem and thereby comported with duty of fair representation)

Truck Drivers Union Local No. 407 (Wenham Transportation, Inc.) 249 NLRB No. 007

United Steelworkers of America, AFL-CIO-CLC, District No. 38 (American Bridge Division of United States Steel Corporation) JD-(SF)-326-81

(U's refusal to process Ee's grievance to arbitration concerning his demotion, not unlawful, where U representative's failure to do so was based not on racial factors, personal animosity, or preference for another Ee who would have been affected by Ee's winning his grievance, rather at all times U representative acted in utmost good faith; and Ee's grievance was frivolous in all aspects of his arguments in support of grievance)

General Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Helpers and Yardmen, Local No. 470, a/w Teamsters (Connelly Containers, Inc.) JD-469-81

(U's refusal to process members' grievance regarding superseniority of steward for job bidding, not unlawful notwithstanding lack of investigation and fact U was mistaken as to the legality of this type of superseniority, since U's handling of grievance resulted from its position that superseniority for steward was allowable and not from any ill will or invidious considerations)

General Grocer Company JD-891-80

(U's alleged refusal to process grievance of member adversely affected by change in E's seniority truckdriver bidding system for city run deliveries, not unlawful, since there was no bad faith on U's part inasmuch as U considered that member's grievance was disposed of by disposition of another member's converse grievance; any discrimination toward member arose as a side effect of U action based upon relevant considerations and not upon capricious or arbitrary factors, since U had restoration of contract rights as its goal and had objective justification for its conduct)

(U's imposition of suspension from job referral list of U member who had filed charges with Bd against U over his prior suspension, unlawful, where, after lifting first suspension of member, U reimposed it following service of Bd charge, and the only reasonable explanation for U's action is that it learned that member had filed charges with Bd)

(U official's statement to applicant for job referral, in response to latter's inquiry into availability of work, that applicant had filed charges, written grievances, and screwed up on last job he was sent to, unlawful, since statement plainly implied that applicant's filing of charges, among other things, had a direct impact on work U would make available to him, which amounted to a threat to withhold referral services because of applicant's protected activity)

(U president's direction to U's office and agents that they insist upon presence of attorney during Bd's inquiry of charges against it before responding to any interrogatories, not unlawful, since it is established law that respondent labor organization has legitimate interest in ordering its agents not to speak with Bd agent w/o presence of its counsel concerning ULP charges filed against it)

Local No. 1367, International Longshoremen's Association, AFL-CIO JD-(NY)-48-80

(U president's order to rank-and-file members of U not to talk to Bd agents concerning charges against U except on advice of counsel, unlawful where this amounted to coercive intrusion upon member's freedom to assist Bd and beyond legitimate interests of U)

2599 OTHER FORMS OF COERCIVE CONDUCT

Local 345, Utility Workers of New England, Inc. (New England Power Service Company) 261 NLRB No. 073
(no violation, where U provided health benefits to sympathy strikers and forgave their dues during strike, and increased all members' dues to pay for health benefit premiums during strike; contention U thereby condoned strikers' activity which violated no-strike provision, and punished members who continued to work, rejected, since latter were in exactly same position that they would have been in had there been no strike; and remote and exiguous impact of having costs ultimately borne by general membership is insufficient basis for Bd's intrusion into U's internal affairs)

Local 345, Utility Workers of New England, Inc. (New England Power Service Company) 261 NLRB No. 073
(U's conduct in providing health benefits to sympathy strikers through payment of their premiums and in forgiving their dues during strike, whereas employment status of members who crossed picket line remained the same, not unlawful, since U's conduct did not constitute direct action, as would a fine for example, to interfere with employment status of members who chose to cross picket line and return to work; nor were such members indirectly penalized since they received full benefits, including health benefits, and continued to pay dues under checkoff authorizations)

Local 345, Utility Workers of New England, Inc. (New England Power Service Company) 261 NLRB No. 073
(in finding no violation because of insufficient basis for Bd's intrusion into U's internal affairs involving alleged condonation by U of members engaged in sympathy strike in violation of no-strike provision, and U's punishment of members who crossed picket line, Bd held that not all U members will be satisfied with every U action, but their dissatisfaction does not of itself establish violation; Bd did not pass on question whether U's conduct may have violated some provision of state or Federal law under which aggrieved members may have redress)

American Postal Workers Union, AFL-CIO, Memphis Local (U.S. Postal Service) 250 NLRB No. 108
(violation where, because of two unit Ees' nonmembership in U, U threatened not to approve their requests for change in schedule to attend military drills so that one of them joined and paid dues to U (although he was and wished to remain member of another U), and U itself unlawfully disapproved and attempted to cause E to disapprove the other Ee's requested change in schedule)

5025 SCOPE OF EXEMPTION

5025-0100 Generally

Local 345, Utility Workers of New England, Inc. (New England Power Service Company) 261 NLRB No. 073
(as noted by SCt with regard to 8(b)(1)(A) proviso, Congress did not propose any limitations with respect to internal affairs of Us, aside from barring enforcement of U's regulations to affect a member's employment status)

Local 345, Utility Workers of New England, Inc. (New England Power Service Company) 261 NLRB No. 073
(under proviso to 8(b)(1)(A), Us may pass, and operate under, a myriad of rules governing internal affairs as long as those rules encompass a legitimate U interest, impair no policy imbedded in labor laws, and are reasonably enforced against members who can leave the U and thus escape the effect of the rule)

5025-1300 Rules respecting acquisition or retention of membership

Pattern Makers' League of North America, AFL-CIO, and Its Rockford and Beloit Associations (Rockford-Beloit Pattern Jobbers Association) 265 NLRB No. 170

(imposition of fines on members who tendered resignations and returned to work during course of strike in apparent contravention of U's rule prohibiting resignations during strike or lockout or when one appeared imminent, violative, where U's rule was neither valid nor enforceable since it unreasonably restricted members' Sec. 7 right to resign under Delmo Victor)

Broadcast Employees, Local 531 (Skateboard Productions, Inc.) 265 NLRB No. 213

(U can impose reasonable time restrictions on its members' right to resign and thereby effectively preclude members from returning to work during strike for specified period; such situation requires balancing of two fundamentally conflicting principles; namely, Ee's right to resign, pursuant to Ee's Sec. 7 right to refrain from concerted activities, as against right of U in preserving strike solidarity in order to protect striking members, as well as U's need to achieve responsible operational effectiveness by imposing rules governing acquisition and retention of membership pursuant to 8(b)(1)(A) proviso)

Machinists Local 1327, Machinists, District Lodge 115 (Delmo Victor) 263 NLRB No. 141

(U's constitution permitting members to resign if resignations submitted 14 days prior to strike is impermissible as fails to protect Ee rights. Balancing Ee's right against interest of U and members, restrictions on members must apply to strike/nonstrike situations; U entitled to reasonable notice of resignation and Bd finds rule restricting member's right for period not to exceed 30 days after notice is reasonable; therefore, U's enforcement of 14-day rule violative and fining members for resigning during strike and returning to work w/o following 14-day proscription violative)

Electrical Workers, Local Union No. 66 (Houston Lighting and Power Company) 262 NLRB No. 061

(U's refusal to accept U member's resignation from U, unlawful, where, as result of equating resignation with revocation of checkoff authorization, U required Ee to revoke his checkoff authorization for his resignation to become effective and told member it was too late for him to cancel his membership because he had failed to sign dues-deduction cancellation form during prescribed escape period; and, since there were no impediments to member's resignation under U's constitution and bylaws, and he clearly communicated to U his desire to sever all ties with it, his resignation was effectively made)

Local 345, Utility Workers of New England, Inc. (New England Power Service Company) 261 NLRB No. 073

(as noted by SCt with regard to 8(b)(1)(A) proviso, Congress did not propose any limitations with respect to internal affairs of Us, aside from barring enforcement of U's regulations to affect a member's employment status)

Graphic Arts International Union, Local No. 32B, AFL-CIO-CLC (Banta Division of George Banta Company, Inc.) 250 NLRB No. 130

(as U's constitution and by-laws does not permit voluntary resignation while member is Ee in industry this has effect of allowing members to resign at will, and thus resignations were effective when received; however, U's refusal to accept resignations is not violative as it may prescribe its own rules with respect to membership)

Machinists, Lodge 727 (Lockheed-California Company, A Division of Lockheed Corporation) 250 NLRB No. 032

(U's refusal to give effect to member's resignation violative where member willing to meet financial core membership obligation, no provision in U's constitution which restrains membership resignation, and effect of membership is to deprive member from accepting employment wherever U is involved in strike as such conduct prohibited by constitution)

International Union of Petroleum and Industrial Workers, AFL-CIO (Chevron U.S.A. Inc.) JD-(SF)-172-81

(U's failure to inform members that it had changed method for resigning from U violative as it must be shown that members either knew of or had consented to any limitation on their right to resign)

Glaziers, Architectural Metal and Glass Workers Union, Local 767, Painters JD-(SF)-370-80

(violation by fining former member for post-resignation conduct of working during strike where fine was based upon invalid rule which restricts resignations to Ees who have left trade and Ee's letter of resignation was accepted by U w/o comment before authorized sympathy strike and notwithstanding Ee continued to pay dues thereafter and accepted strike benefits for period before resignation became effective)

N.L.R.B. v. Machinists Local 1327, District Lodge 115 608 F.2d 1219 (C.A. 9, 1979)

Charles E. Helton v. N.L.R.B. 656 F.2d 883 (C.A.D.C., Jun 1981)

(U's conduct in removing Ee's materials critical of U from U's bulletin board was not insulated by internal U affairs proviso, since it did not serve legitimate U interest and would have frustrated free speech rights guaranteed by LMRDA)

5025-8300 Rules governing internal procedures

Howland Hook Marine Terminal Corporation 263 NLRB No. 040

(designation of agent of Ees' collective bargaining representative (appointment of interim steward) is purely internal U affair and resolution of dispute, regarding who would be interim steward rested with U and not Bd; Section 8(a)(5) of Act not applicable to internal U dispute concerning who had authority to conduct business of local U and E not required to determine which of 2 representatives was the validly designated one)

James Dycus v. N.L.R.B. (Joint Council of Teamsters No. 42) 615 F.2d 820 (C.A. 9) (1980)

(international U's attempt to transfer jurisdiction over Ee's bargaining unit from certified local to its sister local, not violative, notwithstanding that the attempt was made w/o consent of unit Ees; transfer was executed for legitimate reasons and constituted, therefore, both a valid disclaimer by certified local of further interest in representation of Ee's unit, and a noncoercive offer by sister local to assume role of representative)

5025-8350 Cannot be prescribed to change employer hiring policy or affect employment status

AMF Wheel Goods Division, a Division of AMF Incorporated 247 NLRB No. 045

(U which had internal policy requiring payment of dues by check or money order violated Act when it requested Ee's discharge for lack of membership when Ee tendered dues in cash; U had right to deny Ee membership but did not have right to deny him job and E violated Act when it acquiesced in U's demand; moreover, fact that Ee had alternative method of payment; namely, executing checkoff card immaterial since under Sec. 7 Ee has right to refuse such method of payment)

5050-3300 Regulation within proviso

Broadcast Employees, Local 531 (Skateboard Productions, Inc.) 265 NLRB No. 213

(imposition and attempt to enforce fines against U members for returning to work during U's boycott of E, unlawful, where members, when informed of boycott, submitted written resignations and did not return to work until after resignations had been delivered to U; and U's constitutional provision for 60-day waiting period before resignations become effective was unreasonable and unenforceable because of its excessive duration of twice the 30-day period Bd has determined is appropriate; and neither objectives sought to be achieved by U's rule nor any extraordinary circumstances justify 60-day restriction)

Broadcast Employees, Local 531 (Skateboard Productions, Inc.) 265 NLRB No. 213

(Bd rejected U's contention that, even if 60-day waiting period before resignations from U membership could become effective is found unreasonable because of period's excessive duration, fines imposed against resigned U members for returning to work at U-boycotted E should be upheld to extent that fines cover action taken w/i 30-day period which Bd has found reasonable for restricting resignations; here, no reasonable time limitation on right to resign was present to outweigh Ees' right to do so because rule went beyond Bd's permissible 30-day period, and U's rule is invalid as too broadly drawn)

Machinists Local 1327, Machinists, District Lodge 115 (Dalmo Victor) 263 NLRB No. 141

(U's constitution permitting members to resign if resignations submitted 14 days prior to strike is impermissible as fails to protect Ee rights. District Union 227, United Food (The Kroger Co.) 247 NLRB No. 023

(U lawfully expelled U member for having filed charges with EEOC in his official capacity as grievance chairman w/o proper authorization; moreover, fine U imposed on member not violative where not established that fine was related to dues which would be foregone by his expulsion from U; furthermore, Bd will not otherwise inquire into reasonableness of fine as this is internal U matter protected by 8(b)(1)(A) proviso)

5050-6755 Prohibition against testifying adverse to union's position

United Steelworkers of America, AFL-CIO, CLC, Local 1981 (Major Safe Company, Inc.) 259 NLRB No. 067

5050-6759 Prohibition against overtime work

GAIU Local 13-B, Graphic Arts International Union (Western Publishing Co., Inc.) 252 NLRB No. 130

(rule instituted by U as bargaining tactic against mandatory overtime which was lawfully imposed constituted unprotected partial strike and U's disciplining of its members who refused to engage in such unprotected activity, violative; Bd did not decide legality of rule if instituted to protest ULPs committed by E rather than as bargaining tactic, since no ULPs found against E, U waited 2 months after overtime ban implemented to file ULP charges and U's announcement of overtime ban contained no mention of ULPs)

Graphic Arts International Union, Local 261 (Sale-Niagara, Inc.) JD-202-82

(enforcing overtime ban that prohibited U members from performing mandatory assigned overtime work by imposing internal U discipline of charges and fines, unlawful notwithstanding contract provided that overtime be voluntary, since overtime was term of employment for members in question who as working foremen were regularly scheduled a nine hour day and in their case was outside ambit of contractual overtime provisions, for them to refuse to perform overtime would consitute unprotected recurring and intermittent partial strike)

N.L.R.B. v. GAIU Local 13-B, Graphic Arts International Union 682 F.2d 304 (C.A. 2, June 1982)

(violation where, pursuant to its overtime ban, U fined members for working overtime; refusal by Ees to work overtime was unprotected activity since overtime was mandatory, and rule was imposed as bargaining tactic rather than in response to E's ULP as contended)

Machine Stone Workers, Rubbers, Sawyers and Helpers Local 89, a/w Tile, Marble and Terrazzo Finishers and Shopmen International Union, AFL-CIO (Bybee Stone Company, Inc.) 265 NLRB No. 069

(in answer to legal question as to whether U's fining and expulsion of members who voted, in Bd-conducted R election, against R by the U is violative of the Act where the affected U members failed to exhaust U's internal appellate procedures available to them, it would appear that the right of U members to seek redress under the Act from their allegedly improper discipline by U may not be subordinated by internal U requirements)

5075-0125 May not be enforced through employment relationship

Longshoremen's Association, Local 1180 (Kenneth E. Mason, an Individual) 263 NLRB No. 134

(local U requesting that sister local not refer one of its members until he had paid fine which it had imposed, unlawful)

AMF Wheel Goods Division, a Division of AMF Incorporated 247 NLRB No. 045

(U which had internal policy requiring payment of dues by check or money order violated Act when it requested Ee's discharge for lack of membership when Ee tendered dues in cash; U had right to deny Ee membership but did not have right to deny him job and E violated Act when it acquiesced in U's demand; moreover, fact that Ee had alternative method of payment; namely, executing checkoff card immaterial since under Sec. 7 Ee has right to refuse such method of payment)

5075-0137 Board not authorized to evaluate fairness of union discipline

The Buffalo Newspaper Guild, Local 26, and The Newspaper Guild, AFL-CIO-CLC (Buffalo Courier Express, Inc.) 265 NLRB No. 048

5075-0150 Membership status of employees at time of conduct

International Brotherhood of Pottery & Allied Workers, AFL-CIO (Colton Manufacturing, Inc.) 234 NLRB No. 035

(U's refusal to pay accrued strike benefits to strikers who resigned from U and returned to work for E prior to end of strike, not unlawful since not punitive where U's constitution limited strike benefits to those in actual need using earnings as criteria rather than considering benefits renumeration for services during strike, and absent evidence U would have construed its disbursement rules more generously if Ees had obtained positions elsewhere than at struck E)

American Nurses' Association 230 NLRB No. 175

Miscellaneous Drivers and Helpers, Local Union no. 610 a/w Teamsters (Browning-Ferris Industries) 264 NLRB No. 121

(fining Ees for working behind picket line after U had received their resignations, but w/i 30-day waiting period, violative, where, even assuming U had given timely and adequate notice of amount of dues owed (dues obligation continued through waiting period) and existence of 30-day waiting period, any legitimate U interest served by 30-day period, found overly vague

(threatening Ees with loss of employment for nonpayment of dues after they effectively had resigned from U violative)

Glaziers, Architectural Metal and Glass Workers Union, Local 767, Painters JD-(SF)-370-80
(violation by fining former member for post-resignation conduct of working during strike where fine was based upon invalid rule which restricts resignations to Ees who have left trade and Ee's letter of resignation was accepted by U w/o comment before authorized sympathy strike and notwithstanding Ee continued to pay dues thereafter and accepted strike benefits for period before resignation became effective)

N.L.R.B. v. Oil Workers, Local 6-578 619 F.2d 708 (C.A. 8, 1980)
(ct upheld Bd in finding that U's activities in filing charges and sending letters stating penalties to Ees for post resignation conduct of crossing picket line were coercive and restrictive; however, ct believed that direct threats to Ees of such penalties could also have been properly considered by ALJ)

5075-0150-6000 Duty to provide notice of restrictions on resignation

Miscellaneous Drivers and Helpers, Local Union no. 610 a/w Teamsters (Browning-Ferris Industries) 264 NLRB No. 121
(Ee's resignation from U found effective, notwithstanding nonconforming resignation letter, where Ee was unaware of governing constitutional requirements, and, upon receipt of such resignation, U failed to take reasonably prompt steps to tell Ee about constitutional restrictions on resignation; existence of constitutional provision setting forth restrictions on resigning from U is not substitute for proper notice)

(imposition of fines on members who tendered resignations and returned to work during course of strike in apparent contravention of U's rule prohibiting resignations during strike or lockout or when one appeared imminent, violative, where U's rule was neither valid nor enforceable since it unreasonably restricted members' Sec. 7 right to resign under Dalmo Victor)

5075-0150-7500 Unless union rule or bylaw states otherwise

International Union of Petroleum and Industrial Workers, AFL-CIO (Chevron U.S.A. Inc.) JD-(SF)-172-81
(U's failure to inform members that it had changed method for resigning from U violative as it must be shown that members either knew of or had consented to any limitation on their right to resign)

Glass Workers' Local Union No. 740, Painters (Auto Glass Service Co.) JD-(SF)-371-80
(contention that because Ee-members were not current in their dues payments when they tendered their resignations there was no dissolution of U-membership relationship under U's constitutional provisions governing resignations and therefore U could not fine members for conduct which U rules proscribe rejected, since U had failed to timely notify Ees of constitutional restrictions on resignation and hence their resignations were effective at will)

National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians, Local 531, AFL-CIO, CLC 634 F.2d 638(T) (C.A. 9, 1980)
(ct denied Bd order and remanded case back to Bd where it had not addressed question of reasonableness of U's constitutional rule making resignations ineffective for at least 60 days which Bd incorrectly found to be unenforceable for vagueness and ambiguity against members who submitted resignations and subsequently were fined for violating U boycott)

N.L.R.B. v. Machinists Local 1327, District Lodge 115 608 F.2d 1219 (C.A. 9, 1979)
(U member has right to resign from U but U can proscribe rule which limits right to resign during strike to protect its members and U during that critical period)

5075-0150-7875 Unduly restrictive resignation procedure

District Lodge 160, Machinists, and Its Affiliated Local Lodge 1028 (Gray Motors, Inc.) 265 NLRB No. 123
(U's post resignation fine pursuant to U constitution which prohibited resignation during entire course of strike or w/i 14 days preceding commencement of strike, after member resigned from U subsequent to strike vote against E and returned to work for E, held violative, since provision in U constitution was unreasonable restriction on members' resignation (allowing resignations only during nonstrike periods); See Machinists Local 1327, International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, AFL-CIO, District Lodge 115 (Dalmo Victor) 263 NLRB No. 141 (1982))

Broadcast Employees, Local 531 (Skateboard Productions, Inc.) 265 NLRB No. 213
(imposition and attempt to enforce fines against U members for returning to work during U's boycott of E, unlawful, where members, when informed of boycott, submitted written resignations and did not return to work until after resignations had been delivered to U; and U's constitutional provision for 60-day waiting period before resignations become effective was unreasonable and unenforceable because of its excessive duration of twice the 30-day period Bd has determined is appropriate; and neither objectives sought to be achieved by U's rule nor any extraordinary circumstances justify 60-day restriction)

Broadcast Employees, Local 531 (Skateboard Productions, Inc.) 265 NLRB No. 213
(in case involving imposition of fines against resigned U members for returning to work at U-boycotted E pursuant to U's constitutional rule for 60-day waiting period before resignations become effective, Bd noted it is not Bd's practice to rewrite an invalid rule and then apply it to facts at hand; rather, in cases where Bd has found rule governing resignations to be unreasonable, as here, Bd has concluded that Ees' resignations were effective upon receipt by U)

Miscellaneous Drivers and Helpers, Local Union no. 610 a/w Teamsters (Browning-Ferris Industries) 264 NLRB No. 121
(30-day waiting period before procedurally proper resignation can be effective found overly vague where U interpreted purpose of waiting period was to enable U to determine whether Ee's resignation had complied with all U requirements and that an Ee would be required to abide by U rules for maximum of 30 days, rather than invariably for full 30 days after submission of procedurally proper resignation)

Machinists Local 1327, Machinists, District Lodge 115 (Dalmo Victor) 263 NLRB No. 141
(U's constitution permitting members to resign if resignations submitted 14 days prior to strike is impermissible as fails to protect Ee rights. Balancing Ee's right against interest of U and members, restrictions on members must apply to strike/nonstrike situations; U entitled to reasonable notice of resignation and Bd finds rule restricting member's right for period not to exceed 30 days after notice is reasonable; therefore, U's enforcement of 14-day rule violative and fining members for resigning during strike and returning to work w/o following 14-day proscription violative)

(U members' resignation letters delivered to rank-and-file pickets and picket captains found ineffective since receipt of such resignations was not w/i apparent scope of such pickets' authority nor picket-captains' authority which was limited to conduct of picketing; moreover, apparent authority of negotiating-committee members, stewards, and chief steward did not include receipt of resignations)

Miscellaneous Drivers and Helpers, Local Union no. 610 a/w Teamsters (Browning-Ferris Industries) 264 NLRB No. 121

(fining Ees who effectively resigned from U for crossing picket line and working, violative, where Ees mailed letters of resignation to U and such letters were presumed to have been received day after date of mailing and at an hour before Ees crossed picket line)

Graphic Arts International Union, Local No. 32B, AFL-CIO-CLC (Banta Division of George Banta Company, Inc.) 250 NLRB No. 130

(as U's constitution and by-laws does not permit voluntary resignation while member is Ee in industry this has effect of allowing members to resign at will, and thus resignations were effective when received; however, U's refusal to accept resignations is not violative as it may prescribe its own rules with respect to membership)

Glaziers, Architectural Metal and Glass Workers Union, Local 767, Painters JD-(SF)-370-80

(violation by fining former member for post-resignation conduct of working during strike where fine was based upon invalid rule which restricts resignations to Ees who have left trade and Ee's letter of resignation was accepted by U w/o comment before authorized sympathy strike and notwithstanding Ee continued to pay dues thereafter and accepted strike benefits for period before resignation became effective)

5075-0162 Rules consistent with collective bargaining agreement may be enforced

Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company 253 NLRB No. 096

(U's maintaining and enforcing provision in bargaining agreement which required checkoff authorization revocations be on forms provided by U which were only available at U headquarters and refusing to accept Ees' revocations by letter, and informing E it would be in violation of bargaining agreement if E honored revocations violated revocation rights of Ees conferred in Sec. 302(c)(4))

5075-0169 Discipline inconsistent with amnesty or settlement agreement

Old Pueblo Lodge No. 933, Machinists (Hughes Aircraft Company) JD-(SF)-122-80

(fines, expulsions, and charges against Ees for crossing picket line during strike in contravention of strike amnesty agreement, unlawful and not protected by Sec. 8(b)(1)(A) proviso notwithstanding discipline was undertaken before U signed agreement, since agreement was not solely prospective but intended to cover action during strike, and U, by signing it, waived right to discipline Ees for action during strike and bound its individual members as well as itself to abide by agreement)

5075-0800 Forms of enforcement

5075-0817 Fine

United Steelworkers of America, Local 8831 (Chapin & Bangs Steel Company, Inc.) JD-(NY)-97-80

(U violates Act if it disciplines member because he filed ULP charge against U, and unlawful disciplining covers fining as well as expulsion; although U does not violate Act when it expels from membership U member who files either a decertification or deauthorization ptn with Bd, it does violate Sec. 8(b)(1)(A) when it fines U member for filing such ptns)

United Steelworkers of America, Local 8831 (Chapin & Bangs Steel Company, Inc.) JD-(NY)-97-80

(U's contention, based on interpretation of its committee's report, to make it appear that expulsion and not fining of U member was discipline imposed on him because he had filed deauthorization ptn against U, rejected, where language in report was quite clear in stating that if U member did not pay fine he would be expelled)

5075-0817-0100 Generally

Broadcast Employees, Local 531 (Skateboard Productions, Inc.) 265 NLRB No. 213

(Bd rejected U's contention that, even if 60-day waiting period before resignations from U membership could become effective is found unreasonable because of period's excessive duration, fines imposed against resigned U members for returning to work at U-boycotted E should be upheld to extent that fines cover action taken w/i 30-day period which Bd has found reasonable for restricting resignations; here, no reasonable time limitation on right to resign was present to outweigh Ees' right to do so because rule went beyond Bd's permissible 30-day period, and U's rule is invalid as too broadly drawn)

Broadcast Employees, Local 531 (Skateboard Productions, Inc.) 265 NLRB No. 213

(in case involving imposition of fines against resigned U members for returning to work at U-boycotted E pursuant to U's constitutional rule for 60-day waiting period before resignations become effective, Bd held that where rule, which impinges on Sec. 7 rights of Ees is too broadly drawn, it is generally invalid and cannot be relied on to justify fines against U members)

Machinists Local 1327, Machinists, District Lodge 115 (Dalmo Victor) 263 NLRB No. 141

(U's constitution permitting members to resign if resignations submitted 14 days prior to strike is impermissible as fails to protect Ee rights. Balancing Ee's right against interest of U and members, restrictions on members must apply to strike/nonstrike situations; U entitled to reasonable notice of resignation and Bd finds rule restricting member's right for period not to exceed 30 days after notice is reasonable; therefore, U's enforcement of 14-day rule violative and fining members for resigning during strike and returning to work w/o following 14-day proscription violative)

General Truck Drivers, Warehousemen & Helpers Union, Local 980, et al. (Neilson Freight Lines, Inc., et al.) 249 NLRB No. 006

General Truck Drivers, Warehousemen & Helpers Union, Local 980, et al. (Neilson Freight Lines, Inc., et al.) 249 NLRB No. 006

Hospital and Institutional Workers' Union Local 250 (Dameron Hospital Association) 248 NLRB No. 187

(where U and E entered into strike settlement agreement containing amnesty clause and U filed charges and imposed fines against members for strike breaking, it violated Act as its action impairs congressional policy embedded in the labor laws)

United Steelworkers of America, Local 8831 (Chapin & Bangs Steel Company, Inc.) JD-(NY)-97-80

(GC met burden of proof and established that U, by fining member for filing deauthorization ptn. violated Act, where discipline meted out to U member can only be attributed to fact that he had filed such ptn)

United Steelworkers of America, Local 8831 (Chapin & Bangs Steel Company, Inc.) JD-(NY)-97-80

(U's contention that fine levied against U member for filing deauthorization ptn was not unlawful because fine never became operative, rejected, where disciplinary action still exists, although it has not been enforced; until such unlawful action has been eradicated, threat of enforcement is sufficient to warrant finding of violation)

United Steelworkers of America, Local 8831 (Chapin & Bangs Steel Company, Inc.) JD-(NY)-97-80

(U's contention that failure of U member, fined by U for filing deauthorization ptn, to appeal U's guilty verdict, should make U blameless, rejected, since U member, who chose not to appeal or seek remedy elsewhere, is not to be faulted for doing so; rather, affirmative action to erase violation had to be forthcoming from U, not U member)

Elevator Constructors Local Union No. 8 v. N.L.R.B. 665 F.2d 376 (C.A.D.C., Sep. 1981)

(U's maintenance of fines payable provision of its constitution and bylaws, requiring members to pay fines before dues, in conjunction with valid U security clause, unlawful, notwithstanding U's contention that fines payable bylaw was merely a valid U rule w/i 8(b)(1)(A) proviso; while bylaw has legitimate purpose of encouraging members to pay fines and, considered independently, would be protected by 8(b)(1)(A) proviso, U juxtaposed bylaw with U security clause and thereby crossed the line from valid bylaw to impermissible external coercion)

Miscellaneous Drivers and Helpers, Local Union no. 610 a/w Teamsters (Browning-Ferris Industries) 264 NLRB No. 121
(violation where U fined Ees who proffered letters of resignation to U for working behind picket line during 30-day waiting period before resignations would take effect since, even assuming that 30-day waiting period found in U by-laws was valid, U failed to give adequate and timely notice thereof)

Miscellaneous Drivers and Helpers, Local Union no. 610 a/w Teamsters (Browning-Ferris Industries) 264 NLRB No. 121
(fining Ees who worked behind picket line, despite their proffered letters of resignation, violative, where, contrary to contention, resignations were effective because U failed to advise Ees how much they owed in dues and failed to advise of 30-day waiting period before resignations could become effective and during which time Ees were still obligated to pay dues)

Miscellaneous Drivers and Helpers, Local Union no. 610 a/w Teamsters (Browning-Ferris Industries) 264 NLRB No. 121
(fining Ees for working behind picket line after U had received their resignations, but w/i 30-day waiting period, violative, where, even assuming U had given timely and adequate notice of amount of dues owed (dues obligation continued through waiting period) and existence of 30-day waiting period, any legitimate U interest served by 30-day period, found overly vague herein, was outwidghed by its curtailment of Ees' statutory right to work behind picket line)

Machinists Local 1327, Machinists, District Lodge 115 (Dalmo Victor) 263 NLRB No. 141
(U's constitution permitting members to resign if resignations submitted 14 days prior to strike is impermissible as fails to protect Ee rights. Balancing Ee's right against interest of U and members, restrictions on members must apply to strike/nonstrike situations; U entitled to reasonable notice of resignation and Bd finds rule restricting member's right for period not to exceed 30 days after notice is reasonable; therefore, U's enforcement of 14-day rule violative and fining members for resigning during strike and returning to work w/o following 14-day proscription violative)

Local 345, Utility Workers of New England, Inc. (New England Power Service Company) 261 NLRB No. 073
(in absence of exceptions, Bd held U's fining of members, because they crossed picket line during sympathy strike, unlawful; but see Operating Engineers Local 18, 238 NLRB 652)

Ventura County District Council of Carpenters (Commercial Industrial Constructors, Inc.) 239 NLRB No. 028
(U's fining of its members who worked behind its picket line for neutral E at construction site at which U had labor dispute with another E, violative of 8(b)(1)(A), since such discipline induced or encouraged neutral Ees to refuse to perform services, w/i meaning of 8(b)(4)(i)(B), with object of causing neutral E to c/d/b with primary E; fact that neutral Ees failed to use gate reserved for them was not crucial or determinative fact, since area used by them for entering and leaving jobsite was not part of gate reserved for primary E and suppliers)

Graphic Arts International Union, Local No. 32B, AFL-CIO-CLC (Banta Division of George Banta Company, Inc.) 250 NLRB No. 130

Glaziers, Architectural Metal and Glass Workers Union, Local 767, Painters JD-(SF)-370-80
(violation by fining former member for post-resignation conduct of working during strike where fine was based upon invalid rule which restricts resignations to Ees who have left trade and Ee's letter of resignation was accepted by U w/o comment before authorized sympathy strike and notwithstanding Ee continued to pay dues thereafter and accepted strike benefits for period before resignation became effective)

Old Pueblo Lodge No. 933, Machinists (Hughes Aircraft Company) JD-(SF)-123-80

(fines, expulsions, and charges against Ees for crossing picket line during strike in contravention of strike amnesty agreement, unlawful and not protected by Sec. 8(b)(1)(A) proviso notwithstanding discipline was undertaken before U signed agreement, since agreement was not solely prospective but intended to cover action during strike, and U, by signing it, waived right to discipline Ees for action during strike and bound its individual members as well as itself to abide by agreement)

N.L.R.B. v. Laborer's International Union of North America, Local No. 721 640 F.2d 33 (C.A. 1, May 1981)

(fining U members for refusing to participate in strike unwarranted by E's ULP, unlawful, where E's refusal to hire U-designated steward was not sufficiently serious ULP to justify strike in violation of no-strike provision inasmuch as E's conduct was result of simple dispute as to identity of steward and did not constitute refusal to honor U's contractual right to have steward on jobsite)

N.L.R.B. v. Glaziers and Glassworkers Local Union No. 1621 632 F.2d 89 (C.A. 9, 1980)

5075-5025 Filing intra-union charges

The Buffalo Newspaper Guild, Local 26, and The Newspaper Guild, AFL-CIO-CLC (Buffalo Courier Express, Inc.) 265 NLRB No. 048

(U violated Act by conducting intra-U proceedings against member in retaliation for his having filed UC ptn with Bd, notwithstanding individual member is precluded from filing such ptn by Sec. 102.60(b) which provides that such ptn may be filed by labor organization or by an E because Bd's overriding policy is not to prevent or limit access to its processes and filing of UC ptn is more analogous to filing of ULP charge than decertification ptn)

Miscellaneous Drivers and Helpers, Local Union no. 610 a/w Teamsters (Browning-Ferris Industries) 264 NLRB No. 121

Local No. 121, Plasterers (Associated Building Contractors of Lafayette, Inc.) 264 NLRB No. 029

(violation, where filing of intra-U charge against Ee was found to be in retaliation for filing of charge with Bd against U by Ee's son, rather than for Ee's not performing in workmanlike manner as required by U constitution, in view of fact intra-U charges were filed some time after stated offense but soon after Bd charge was filed, offense was minor, and intra-U charges were rarely filed)

H. H. Robertson Company 263 NLRB No. 173

(U's filing internal charges against supervisor, fining and removing him from U office for hiring his son and friend off street in violation of oath to secure employment for U members, violative, where supervisor had requested Ees through hiring hall but there being no applicants in hall, relied on E's contractual right to hire directly under those circumstances and on rights of individuals not registered to be hired and since U's actions amounted to demand supervisor prefer U job applicants over non-members, and proceedings reasonably tended to make individuals present at hearing, in believing it wise to apply for membership and use hiring hall)

Hospital and Institutional Workers Union, Local 250, SEIU, AFL-CIO (Associated Hospitals of The East Bay) 264 NLRB No. 103

(where pursuant to strike settlement agreement which provided for binding arbitration, U, in contravention of arbitrator's decision providing for complete amnesty and no retaliation by anyone against Ees for activities during strike, subjected members to intro-U trial for such activities, and thereby unlawfully coerced Ees notwithstanding no penalties imposed)

(U official did not violate Act when he filed intra-U charges against traveler member who falsely accused him of passing over member when referring to job as this claim could have impact on U officials reputation and is entitled to be answered through official procedures; it also did not violate Act when it filed charges against same member for allegedly releasing confidential U information to his attorney as this was part of same incident)

N.L.R.B. v. Oil Workers, Local 6-578 619 F.2d 708 (C.A. 8, 1980)

United Steelworkers of America, Local 8831

(U's contention, based on interpretation of its committee's report, to make it appear that expulsion and not fining of U member was discipline imposed on him because he had filed deauthorization ptn against U, rejected, where language in report was quite clear in stating that if U member did not pay fine he would be expelled)

(E-selected trustees of trust fund created under Sec. 302(c)(5) held not Sec. 8(b)(1)(B) E representatives for purposes of bargaining or adjusting grievances, since their duties are not consistent with E-agent's duties but rather are duties of loyalty to trust's beneficiaries under established equity principles and Sec. 302(c)(5) language and legislative history; Congress codified strict fiduciary standards in ERISA with intent to prevent dual loyalty; it passed Sec. 8(b)(1)(B) to prevent Us from pressuring Es about choosing representatives U wanted, not about contributing to multi-E funds as here)

(U's contention that its picketing, threatening strike or work stoppage and related conduct were not aimed at removal of E's representative but solely at his resort to violence, and therefore U's actions constituted protected activity since his presence on job threatened Ee safety, rejected; in labor dispute Act allows Ees to engage in any concerted activity unless it falls, as herein, w/i proscription of 8(b)(1)(B) which is not conditioned upon perfect conduct by representative and places some limitation on Ees' right to strike)

Amax Coal Company, a Division of Amax, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. (Mine Workers, Local No. 1854) 614 F.2d 872 (C.A. 3) (1980)

(U's insisting to impasse for establishment of committee to develop adequate safety training programs for Ees, not violative, since function of training committee was merely advisory, with training representative limited to no more power than to advise and recommend, and all programs are such that E was in control with power to put them into effect or not)

N.L.R.B. v. Electrical Workers, Local Union No. 73 621 F.2d 1035 (C.A. 9, June 1980)

(major concern of Congress in enacting 8(b)(1)(B) of NLRA, was to prevent Us from forcing Es into or out of multi-E bargaining units and to guarantee that E's bargaining representative would be completely faithful to E's desires)

(all supervisors w/i meaning of Sec. 2(11) are representatives w/i intent of Sec. 8(b)(1)(B) notwithstanding absence of evidence that individual in question is specifically vested with authority to act for E in collective bargaining or adjustment of grievance; this is reservoir doctrine)

6750-3300 Supervisors

Teamsters Local 296, Sales Delivery Drivers, Warehousemen and Helpers Union w/o Teamsters (Northwest Publications, Inc.) 263 NLRB No. 184

(U violated Act when it fined supervisor/member for performing certain pre-start job tasks as required by E for his supervisory position; U claimed pre-start activities violated collective-bargaining agreement but E had established practice of having supervisors perform such tasks; thus U sought to interfere with supervisory functions and was disputing applicability and interpretation of collective-bargaining agreement by disciplining supervisor/member rather than invoking grievance machinery for determination of contract provision)

Teamsters Local 296, Sales Delivery Drivers, Warehousemen and Helpers Union w/o Teamsters (Northwest Publications, Inc.) 263 NLRB No. 184

Painters District Council No. 36 259 NLRB No. 106

(restraining or coercing E in selection of representative for adjusting grievances by preferring charges against, holding trial of, and fining supervisor to discipline him for working for nonaffiliated contractor, unlawful where prior to contract's expiration U expressed intent to bargain with E, informed E telephonically that it would not dispatch workers until E signed new contract and presented no evidence that it subsequently abandoned its intent to continue to represent E's Ees)

Union Independiente De Empleados De Servicios Legales De Puerto Rico (Corporation de Servicios Legales De Puerto Rico, Inc.) 249 NLRB NO. 147

(personnel relations officer held E's representative for purposes of collective bargaining and adjustment of grievances, notwithstanding U's contention that officer ceased to be such representative when he assertedly was relieved of his duties, where subsequent thereto officer continued to consider and recommend grievance dispositions, and E's offer to him of different managerial position was conditional and never effectuated)

Union Independiente De Empleados De Servicios Legales De Puerto Rico (Corporation de Servicios Legales De Puerto Rico, Inc.) 249 NLRB NO. 147

(violation, where U demanded and obtained discharge of E's personnel relations officer through means of picketing, threats of work stoppage or strike, violent acts and confrontations, and actual confrontations, therebyrestraining and coercing E in selection [illegible] his representative for purposes of collective bargaining or adjustment [illegible] grievances)

Operating Engineers, Local No. 428 (C.S. McCrossan, Inc.) (JD-(SF)-196-82

(intra-U charges against and discipline of supervisor for operating, when E was shorthanded, equipment normally operated by Ee-members of U unlawful in that U's action tended to deprive E of his 8(b)(1)(B) representative's undivided loyalty in matters of grievance adjustments or collective bargaining, where there was genuine dispute between supervisor and U over interpretation of contractual language allowing foremen to perform bargaining unit work in emergency or absence of operator, and U was attempting to impose its interpretation on supervisor by use of intra-U discipline in dispute not involving internal U matter)

Steelworkers, Local 1256, and Local 1397 (United States Steel Corporation) JD-275-80

(imposition of monetary fine upon U member for his decisive role in the discharge of a Union Brother through his written testimony, violative, where his decisive role and written testimony were what he did in his supervisory capacity)

Steelworkers, Local 1256, and Local 1397 (United States Steel Corporation) JD-275-80

(violation where local's president removed U member from golf team for reason that as supervisor he had issued disciplinary notice to rank-and-file member of U)

International Union of Elevator Constructors, Local No. 16 (Otis Elevator Company) JD-183-80

(U's conduct in bringing charges against supervisor who was E's representative for purpose of resolving grievances, subjecting him to trials, and fining him on one charge for violating U's constitution, unlawful; to hold otherwise would permit U to ensure contracts would be interpreted as it sees fit by, first, seeking arbitration of grievances which could not be resolved and, second, ensuring that no disputes arise by pressuring supervisors by means of internal discipline, thereby inhibiting supervisor from disagreeing with U's interpretation of contract and working conditions)

Local Union #446, Electrical Workers (Bayou Electric Co. and Twin City Electric Co.) JD-818-79
(U business manager's preferring charges against supervisor-member of U for crossing picket line and performing bargaining unit work during strike, violative, where supervisor-member spent only minimal amount of time performing the work)

Local Union #446, Electrical Workers (Bayou Electric Co. and Twin City Electric Co.) JD-818-79
(U's fining supervisor-member for failing to perform scheduled picket duty during strike against E, violative, since supervisor-member was E's only Section 8(b)(1)(B) representative and his compliance with U's order would have deprived E of supervisor-member's services as job superintendent)

6750-6700 Low level supervisors

Pacific Northwest Chapter of The Associated Builders & Contractors, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 638 F.2d 73 (C.A. 9, Apr 17, 1981)

N.L.R.B. v. Amax Coal Co., A Division of Amax, Inc., et al. 101 U.S. 2789 (U.S. SCt, June 1981)
(E-selected trustees of trust fund created under Sec. 302(c)(5) held not Sec. 8(b)(1)(B) E representatives for purposes of bargaining or adjusting grievances, since their duties are not consistent with E-agent's duties but rather are duties of loyalty to trust's beneficiaries under established equity principles and Sec. 302(c)(5) language and legislative history; Congress codified strict fiduciary standards in ERISA with intent to prevent dual loyalty; it passed Sec. 8(b)(1)(B) to prevent Us from pressuring Es about choosing representatives U wanted, not about contributing to multi-E funds as here)

Central Florida Sheet Metal Contractors Association, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 664 F.2d 489 (C.A. 5, Dec. 1981)
(contention that by striking to have trust fund provision included in contract U was coercing E association in its choice of bargaining agent, rejected, since supreme ct has held that trust fund trustee acts solely as fiduciary, not in interest of party that appointed him; facts which E association alleged rendered trustee selection process not valid did not cause trustees to function as bargaining agents, and remedy for allegedly invalid process lay with district ct, which has authority to enforce Sec. 302 of LMRA governing trust funds)

Central Florida Sheet Metal Contractors Association, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 664 F.2d 489 (C.A. 5, Dec. 1981)
(Bd's interpretation of Sec. 8(d) of NLRA as permitting U to participate in selection of E-appointed trustee did not fail to accommodate Sec. 302 of LMRA since Sec. 8(b)(1)(B) of NLRA does not limit U's freedom to induce E to select a particular trustee because NLRA and LMRA have different purposes and standards to enforce, and to prevent U from striking to obtain E's participation in multi-E trust fund when E objects to trustee selection mechanism would hinder congressional policy favoring multi-E trust funds)

New York Newspaper Printing Pressman's Union No. 2 (New York News, Inc.) 249 NLRB No. 182
(placing supervisor, who had been lawfully suspended from membership year ago for nonpayment of dues, on list of members suspended and only other name on list was supervisor suspended for working behind picket line, violative, since placement of former on list created impression he, too, was suspended for refusing to honor picket line and thereby interfering with ability of E to obtain supervisors from among U members)

6787 FUND TRUSTEES

Abestos Workers Local Union No. 27, (Master Insulators Association, Inc.) 263 NLRB No. 118

U's actions coerced and restrained E-assoc. in its choice of rep.)

Amax Coal Company, a Division of Amax, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. (Mine Workers, Local No. 1854) 614 F.2d 872 (C.A. 3) (1980)
(U'insisting to impasse and striking to obtain E's participation in U's Section 302(c)(5) pension and welfare trust funds whose management trustee was not selected by E, violative, since trust fund's management trustees are collective bargaining representatives w/i meaning of Section 8(b)(1)(B); See Associated Contractors, 559 F.2d 222)

(U's fining of supervisor for performing off-the-clock activities for no pay, unlawful, since U contention that supervisor was entitled to overtime under contract for only one of his off-the-clock activities, U was in effect deciding unilaterally which of his acts covered under bargaining agreement and which supervisory, thus avoiding established grievance procedures and possibly affecting manner in which supervisor might fulfill grievance adjustor or collective bargaining function)

Actors' Equity Association 247 NLRB No. 172

(U's maintenance of disparate dues requirement for non-resident aliens, in conjunction with its U security agreements, held not per se unlawful; however, such disparate dues structure is presumptively invalid since discrimination based on alienage is inherently suspect, and burden is on those seeking to justify it to show that reasons for such discrimination overcome policy against it)

4020-6000 Dues and initiation fee requirements

International Brotherhood of Security Personnel Officers and Guards, formerly known as L. Joseph Overton & Associates JD-(NY)-44-82

(attempting to cause, and causing, removal of apprentice bricklayer from employment on fire brick job for E who did not sponsor his apprenticeship pursuant to contract between E association and U held violative, since U prohibited all apprentices from working on fire brick jobs for Es who did not sponsor apprentice regardless of skill or ability of apprentice to perform work; basis for U's action was status of Ee in U as apprentice rather than journeyman, clearly arbitrary and capricious conduct)

(where E delegates hiring to U under U referral system it is responsible if U operates system discriminatorily, even if E has no knowledge of U's discrimination, and thus U and E are normally jointly and severally liable for any back pay due, but here where even if E had investigated it would have been unable to discover discriminatory practices of U, U will be held primarily liable and E secondarily liable)

Musicians' Association of Hawaii, Local 677, a/w AFM JD-(SF)-33-82

(U operating hiring hall w/o objective criteria but rather leaving operation w/i discretion of few U officials including factor that written records not kept, unlawful; while failure to keep records not violative per se, considered as one of several factors, nor does use of subjective criteria in referral such as financial need necessarily reflect discriminatory motive and violative per se, provided such criteria subordinated to overall established objective system)

Millwright Local Union No. 1931 JD-381-81
(U's refusal to refer Ee from hiring hall to Ee's chosen E not violative where GC did not establish foundation for presumption of illegality; record showed no animus against longstanding member of local U and no departure from U's established (hiring hall) procedures which involved no deliberate effort to foreclose Ee from opting on referral)

(U's maintenance of closed shop provision which required that Ee or Ees chosen by E (after U is unable to refer member or members w/i 24 hours) make application and be accepted as member of U by duly authorized officer of U, violative since provision conditioned new Ee's job or U's willingness to accept Ee as U member)

International Photographers of The Motion Picture Industries, Local No. 644, etc. (King-Hitzig Productions) 259 NLRB No. 185
(U which tabled discriminatee's membership application, pressured E to seek its permission before hiring her; and also pressured E to hire another photographer in her place because she was not U member while simultaneously refusing to admit her to membership, violated Act as it caused E to discriminate against her with regard to her employment on ground other than her refusal to tender U dues or fees)

Townsend and Bottum, Inc. 259 NLRB No. 027
(question whether laid off Ees, who were discriminatorily not placed on referral lists because they were not U members, were qualified for positions U members were referred to, left to compliance stage of proceeding since, in any event, finding of violation does not turn on whether work was available at the time)

Teamsters, Local No. 17 (Universal Studios and Warner Brothers, Inc.) 251 NLRB No. 166
(causing Ee not to be hired, violative, where U which ran nonexclusive hiring hall told E not to hire members of rival Us)

(U which tabled discriminatee's membership application, pressured E to seek its permission before hiring her; and also pressured E to hire another photographer in her place because she was not U member while simultaneously refusing to admit her to membership, violated Act as it caused E to discriminate against her with regard to her employment on ground other than her refusal to tender U dues or fees)

Tri-City Electric Company, Inc. 244 NLRB No. 182
(discharge of traveler, assertedly at request of local U, not violative notwithstanding Ees had problems with traveler that created dissension and local U caused E to demote traveler prior to discharge, where problems which Ees had with traveler were not associated with his status as traveler, E did not let go because of his status as traveler but as part of reduction in force and demotion occurred outside 10(b) period and was neither alleged in C nor did ALJ find it to be violation)

Freight, Construction, General Drivers, Warehousemen and Helpers, Local Union 287, Teamsters (Container Corporation of America) 237 NLRB No. 103
(causing E to discharge Ee because he was not U member violative)

(causing E to discharge Ees because Ees had withdrawn their membership in U and had not been referred through U's nonexclusive hiring hall, violative, where such action created presumption that desired effect was to encourage U membership and was not shown to have been essential to effective performance of U's representation of its constituency)

(waiver required to be signed by casual Ees as condition of employment, which provided that casual Ees can be replaced by Ees with greater contract priority, not unlawful, since waiver did not in any way distinguish between U members and non-members nor did it provide for any preference based upon membership in U, moreover, purpose of waiver was not to encourage or discourage U membership, but rather to avoid disappointment and litigation by casuals in event they were displaced by Ees with greater contract priority)

New York Typographical Union No. 6 (Huber Typographers, Inc.) JD-(NY)-78-80
(application of waiver required to be signed by casual Ees as condition of employment, which provided that casuals can be replaced by Ees with greater contract priority, not unlawful, where GC failed to establish whether waivers were executed by U or non-U casuals and to introduce evidence establishing that U casuals were not required to sign waiver; even if all waivers had been executed by non-U casuals, it would not have established unlawful discrimination since U can not be faulted if U casuals failed to apply for work and only non-U casuals were hired)

New York Typographical Union No. 6 (Huber Typographers, Inc.) JD-(NY)-78-80
(where casual Ees were required to sign waiver as condition of employment, which provided that casual Ees can be replaced by Ees with greater contract priority, Bd rejected GC's contention that E unlawfully hired Ees through hiring hall w/o requiring them to sign waiver; all Ees hired were those with contract priority and were not required to sign waivers which was limited to casual Ees)

New York Typographical Union No. 6 (Huber Typographers, Inc.) JD-(NY)-78-80
(GC's contention that any requirement that casual Ees sign waiver as condition of employment, which provided that casuals can be replaced by Ees with greater contract priority, was unlawful, rejected; while Bd's decision in Royal Composing Room found hiring hall procedures unlawful because they inherently discriminated in favor of U members over non-members, hiring hall provisions were amended since then to conform to Bd's decision; although agreement to do so was not signed, amendment became effective after posting and publication, and parties are bound by terms agreed upon notwithstanding failure to sign agreement)

New York Typographical Union No. 6 (Huber Typographers, Inc.) JD-(NY)-78-80
(GC's contention that waiver required to be signed by casual Ees as condition of employment, which provided that casuals can be replaced by Ees with greater contract priority, was unlawful because waiver language did not specifically set forth that Ee could be displaced only by Ees with higher contract priority qualifications, rejected, where waiver contained reference to existing contract between parties which, read in conjunction therewith, made waiver lawful)

New York Typographical Union No. 6 (Huber Typographers, Inc.) JD-(NY)-78-80
(ALJ rejected GC's contention that, assuming hiring hall procedures provided by amendment of contract to conform to Bd's Royal Composing Room decision dealing with preferential hiring were followed, amendment still failed to correct unlawful provision because higher contract priority Ees may have obtained such priority through prior unlawful agreement and would continue to enjoy fruits gained thereby, thus tainting any hire of higher contract priority Ee entitling him to bump casual Ee; no such bumping occurred, and GC's contention failed to make valid comparison between U and non-U casuals)

United Electrical, Radio & Machine Workers of America, Local 262 (Hemisphere Broadcasting, Inc.) JD-437-80
(U unlawfully attempted to cause and did cause discharge of nonmember of U by threatening to continue engaging in strike unless E terminated him because he did not support U's strike; and subsequently, when Ee was ostensibly terminated but retained by E through another E who was cover for E herein, by threatening to resume strike unless Ee was terminated; U's defense, based on strike settlement agreement, that it was concerned with protecting jobs of Ees under former ownership before operation was acquired by E, rejected)

General Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Helpers and Yardmen, Local No. 470, a/w Teamsters (Connelly Containers, Inc.) JD-440-80
(U's maintaining and enforcing policy or practice whereby its steward was given superseniority for trip selection, unlawful, since w/o justification that would overcome presumption of invalidity under Dairylea of superseniority relating to job selection for stewards, where steward selected trips to take place during hours when most grievances arose and thus superseniority did not benefit unit members or labor relations)

Pipeline Local Union No. 38, (Hancock-Northwest, J.V.) 247 NLRB No. 139

(violation where local U's agent caused E to discharge steward for latter's failure to support business agent in U election)

Local 32B-32J, Service Employees International Union, AFL-CIO (Corporation of Trinity Church) JD-(NY)-19-82

(U's causing E to issue disciplinary warning to Ee and to dock him 2-1/2 hours pay because he filed ULP charges with Bd against U and because he participated in arbitration proceeding, violative)

N.L.R.B. v. Laborer's International Union of North America, Local No. 721 649 F.2d 33 (C.A. 1, May 1981)

(attempt to secure E's discharge of U members suspended for refusal to pay fines unlawfully imposed for refusing to participate in strike, violative; although Us are permitted to assess fines to maintain discipline, act prohibits Us from maintaining discipline by interfering with their members' employment, and U's imperative request for E's immediate implementation of contract's discharge provision supports finding of such interference)

N.L.R.B. v. Eldorado Manufacturing Corporation and United Steelworkers of America, AFL-CIO 660 F.2d 1207 (C.A. 7, Sep. 1981)

(where Ees were discharged assertedly at U's demand for misconduct at work in course of intra-U dispute, ct held that, while Ees are afforded considerable leeway in expression of disagreement with U or E policies, instant case did not present an isolated moment of intemperate conduct committed in course of internal U functions, but continuing disruptive acts beyond Act's protection; and test, by which prima facie case of discrimination is rebuttable by showing justification, was not met since, even assuming U requested discharges, discharges were justified)

N.L.R.B. v. Eldorado Manufacturing Corporation and United Steelworkers of America, AFL-CIO 660 F.2d 1207 (C.A. 7, Sep. 1981)

(where Ees were discharged assertedly at U's demand, for misconduct at work place in course of intra-U dispute, U held not to have misused its power since U representatives involved herein were proper vehicles for communicating Ee dissatisfaction over state of affairs, even concerning disruptive action of other Ees; and there was no ULP because complaints of U representatives were entirely legitimate)

N.L.R.B. v. Eldorado Manufacturing Corporation and United Steelworkers of America, AFL-CIO 660 F.2d 1207 (C.A. 7, Sep. 1981)

(discharge, assertedly at U's demand, of Ees engaged in misconduct at work as result of intra-U dispute, not unlawful, where E's failure to take action against Ees showed exceptional tolerance of intra-U disagreement; E believed he was faced with choice of losing valuable senior Ees or terminating dischargees; E is not required to tolerate blatant misconduct forever, and to ascribe any motive to discharge other than long overdue intolerance of dischargees' misconduct would be to indulge in unwarranted speculation which is no basis for deciding cases)

6090 DISCRIMINATORY ADMINISTRATION OF INSURANCE, PENSION, AND OTHER BENEFIT PLANS

Baltimore Rebuilders, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 611 F.2d 1372 (C.A. 4)

(Bd properly dismissed complaint alleging that maintenance and enforcement of cancellation provisions of pension plan unlawfully coerced Ees in exercise of right to vote to decertify U as Ee representative in that automatic cancellation rules effectively dictated Ees' choice to vote for continued representation by U; there was no evidence in the record or from the provisions themselves of intention to violate Act; provisions, on their face and as here applied, were not discriminatory or coercive; and their impact on Ee voting rights was indirect and served a legitimate business purpose of pension fund)

8000 AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES

8010 ACHIEVING RACIAL BALANCE

Steelworkers v. Weber, et al. 443 U.S. 193 (June 1979)

(Title VII does not prohibit race conscious affirmative action plans; private E and U voluntarily agreed upon affirmative action plan that accorded preference to Black trainees in order to eliminate conspicuous racial imbalance segregated job categories upheld)

8015 ACTING IN DEROGATION OF BARGAINING REPRESENTATIVE

Moser Brothers Welding, Inc. JD-(NY)-38-80

(no violation where U was found to have caused member's discharge, not to retaliate for member's relative's running against U business manager for his office as alleged, but to protect integrity of hiring procedure where member had disregarded business manager's instructions and gone behind his back to get good job)

8020 COMPLIANCE WITH CONTRACT

Operating Engineers Local 406 (Ford, Bacon & Davis Construction Corporation) 262 NLRB No. 006

(U's change in established hiring hall procedure from 5-day (out-of-work) rule to 6-day (out-of-work) rule before having applicant's name removed from out-of-work list held violative, since procedure, resulted in denial of employment to applicants, breaching U's duty of fair representation owed to all hiring hall users and U did not demonstrate that its interference with employment was pursuant to valid U-security clause or was necessary to effect performance of its representative function)

Pipefitters Union Local No. 120 (Schweizer Dipple, Inc.) 260 NLRB No. 045

(discharge of 2 Ees on recommendation of U for not attending pipefitting classes, violative, where agreement to attend classes was executed only by Ees and U but was not part of collective bargaining agreement between E and U, E did not require attendance at classes as condition of employment and Ees were performing satisfactorily on job)

Teamsters Local Union No. 515 (Cavalier Corporation) 259 NLRB No. 094

(where U relied unreasonably on contract clause and initiated grievance which resulted in removal of Ee from his overtime assignment, U's action violative as it was done in retaliation for Ee's resignation from U)

Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company 253 NLRB No. 094

(U's maintaining and enforcing provision in bargaining agreement which required checkoff authorization revocations be on forms provided by U which were only available at U headquarters and refusing to accept Ees' revocations by letter, and informing E it would be in violation of bargaining agreement if E honored revocations violated revocation rights of Ees conferred in Sec. 302(c)(4))

Pattern Makers' Association of Detroit and Vicinity, Pattern Makers' League of North America, AFL-CIO 253 NLRB No. 091
(on ct remand, Bd affirmed earlier decision stating that recently negotiated collective-bargaining agreement and letter of understanding which provided for mutually agreed upon method of operating U's out-of-work lists neither renders original order moot nor justifies its modifications; furthermore, compliance with order does not rule out necessity for an order to deter future unlawful conduct)

General Truck Drivers, Warehousemen & Helpers Union, Local 980, et al. (Neilsen Freight Lines, Inc., et al.) 249 NLRB No. 006
(no violation where U's business agent informed E who requested member by name that member did not qualify for dispatch by name because he did not have sufficient seniority under agreement to qualify for list from which such dispatches made)

General Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Helpers and Yardmen, Local No. 470, a/w Teamsters (Connelly Containers, Inc.) JD-449-81
(U's refusal to process members' grievance regarding superseniority of steward for job bidding, not unlawful notwithstanding lack of investigation and fact U was mistaken as to the legality of this type of superseniority, since U's handling of grievance resulted from its position that superseniority for steward was allowable and not from any will or invidious considerations)

Fort Wayne Area Local, American Postal Workers Union, AFL-CIO (Kim Smith) JD-575-80
(U's refusal to approve Ee's request to sign preferential overtime list, not unlawful reprisal for criticism of U officials, policy and conduct of internal elections, as alleged, or arbitrary or invidious where Ee failed to timely establish contractual eligibility or show necessity for dilatoriness, and U had legitimate interest in protecting those who acted timely and in avoiding setting undesirable precedent)

Peninsula Shipbuilders' Association v. N.L.R.B. 663 F.2d 488 (C.A. 4, Sep. 1981)
(ct enforced Bd order holding E and incumbent U jointly and severally liable to reimburse Ees who had effectively revoked their check-off authorizations although on non-U forms in contravention of provision in extended bargaining agreement, where substantial evidence showed that such provision which required use of U revocation forms was facially invalid under LMRA Sec. 302(c)(4) and revocation procedure as actually enforced was ULP, in view of Ees' lack of easy, general access to U forms, Ees were not sufficiently informed about revocation requirement, and Ees had to appear personally at U hall to sign forms)

8030 COMPLIANCE WITH COURT DECREE

Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company 253 NLRB No. 086

554 UNION OBLIGATION TO BARGAIN

0100 GENERALLY

Central Florida Sheet Metal Contractors Association, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 664 F.2d 489 (C.A. 5, Dec. 1981)

(burden of proof was not on U to show that trust fund was lawful under Sec. 302 of LMRA and not union war chest, but on GC to show that trust fund's providing for strike benefits changed it from mandatory to nonmandatory bargaining subject and made U's bargaining to impasse over it unlawful; potential surreptitious payments of strike benefits was sufficient basis for ct's finding fund violated Sec. 302, but not for GC's showing 8(b)(3) violation)

1400 NATURE AND EXTENT OF OBLIGATION AND DUTY TO BARGAIN

1401 GENERALLY

Mass & Feduska, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 632 F.2d 714 (C.A. 9, 1980)

(in reversing Bd's finding that U's threat to strike to compel payment by E of E's contribution to fringe-benefit trust funds on behalf two executives and sole owners of E was not unlawful refusal to bargain, ct held that the contribution was permissive subject of bargaining and bargaining agreement authorized U to strike over permissive subjects of bargaining; the two executives, although belonging to the U and performing same unit work and as such eligible for participation in the trust funds, were statutory supervisors and U could not compel E to treat them as Ees for collective bargaining purposes)

(violation, where U conditioned bargaining on physical withdrawal of E's counsel and threat implemented by picketing E which precipitated withdrawal of counsel resulting in disadvantage of counsel having to communicate with both U and company negotiators by telephone and E being able to consult with its counsel only during recesses)

1433-5000 Counterproposals

1433-5001 Generally

International Union of Operating Engineers, Local 302 (Commercial Excavating Co., Inc.) JD-(SF)-114-82

Local 1115, Joint Board, Nursing Home & Hospital Employees—Florida Division (B & K Investments, Inc., d/b/a Towne House convalescent Center) 248 NLRB No. 167

(impasse reached on successor and assigns clause, a mandatory subject of bargaining, where E made numerous statements that he planned to sell or lease his facilities as soon as possible, U desired to obtain immediate commitment to protect itself and Ees but E refused to make such commitment, and both sides were firmly committed to their positions)

Highway and City Freight Drivers, Dockmen and Helpers, Local Union No. 600, Teamsters JD-698-80

(U's refusal to execute contract because condition precedent that mandated Area Council approval of contract had not been satisfied, rejected, since no condition precedent existed because E never informed of this requirement; moreover, no requirement for Area Council ratification established where International U's constitution only calls for General Executive Board's ratification of contract and no mention made of requirement for Area Council's ratification)

1433-9100 Ratification by employees

Local Union No. 381, Teamsters (Federal Electric Corporation) JD-(SF)-204-79

(valid ratification of contract where two-thirds of Ees failed to vote against ratification as required by constitution, notwithstanding votes necessary for rejection obtained when combined with second ratification vote held only for Ees who had not previously voted, since first vote determinative; U's contentions that it is for it to determine if ratification has taken place and that ratification tainted by E's interference, rejected)

1433-9200 Ratification by higher governing bodies of union

United Paperworkers International Union and Its Local No. 795 (International Paper Company - Bagpak Division) 254 NLRB No. 170

(U's insisting to impasse for establishment of committee to develop adequate safety training programs for Ees, not violative, since function of training committee was merely advisory, with training representative limited to no more power than to advise and recommend, and all programs are such that E was in control with power to put them into effect or not)

Central Florida Sheet Metal Contractors Association, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 664 F.2d 489 (C.A. 5, Dec. 1981)

1467-1275 Multiemployer unit

Local #197, Electrical Workers, AFL-CIO (McLean County Electrical Contractors Association, Inc.) JD-(SF)-340-80
(U's insistence that certain members of predecessor multi-E association who did not consent to substitution of new multi-E association as bargaining representative must bargain only as part of new multi-E association, violative, as U had notice that these members had opposed such substitution; therefore, no consensual tripartite relationship between U, association and individual members of association existed; furthermore, continued observance of contract negotiated by new association w/o more, did not render these nonconsenting Es part of multi-E bargaining unit)

(U's offering proposal which would carry forward any agreement to which E was party and preserve prior agreements between U and various Es, not violative notwithstanding E's contention that such clause violates 8(b)(1)(B) because it requires E to accept as its bargaining representative persons representating other Es who negotiated or would negotiate changes in agreement to which E was not party; U did not bargain to impasse on proposed clause)

(U's insisting to impasse and striking to obtain E's agreement to clause providing that E could subcontract transportation of its product only to contractor employing members of U under parties' agreement, violative, since clause seeks to aid U members generally rather than those U members employed at E's plant; effect of clause is secondary)

(in case of a consumer boycott, picketing does not unlawfully threaten, coerce, or restrain neutral E if it confines itself to product, sale of which directly undermines U's interest; boycott that goes beyond legitimate primary dispute creates separate dispute with neutral, and since extra pressure U places on neutral causes more interference with latter's business than it would suffer as natural consequence of U's success in its primary dispute, it falls w/i congressional ban)

Soft Drink Workers Union Local 812, Teamsters v. N.L.R.B. 657 F.2d 1252 (C.A.D.C., Oct. 1980)

(contention by U, engaged in consumer picketing at neutral retail store against sale of nonlocal soft drinks, that under Tree Fruits case, product boycott is only illegal if it amounts to complete boycott of secondary's business, rejected; Tree Fruits did not address issue of boycott that posed harm to substantial part, but not all, of secondary E's business, and ct there had no occasion to decide legality of overbroad boycott that put excessive pressure on secondary but did not put his business in jeopardy)

Soft Drink Workers Union Local 812, Teamsters v. N.L.R.B. 657 F.2d 1252 (C.A.D.C., Oct. 1980)

(contention by U, engaged in consumer picketing at neutral retail store against sale of nonlocal soft drinks, that phrase threaten, coerce, or restrain creates empirical requirement for Bd, and that picketing was legal absent proof that neutral E suffered significant loss of income because of picketing, rejected; Bd is not required to produce actual empirical evidence and, while it is permitted to order cessation of boycotts that threaten ruin or substantial loss to neutral, an extremely costly boycott is not the only type proscribed by Act)

Soft Drink Workers Union Local 812, Teamsters v. N.L.R.B. 657 F.2d 1252 (C.A.D.C., Oct. 1980)

(contention by U, engaged in consumer picketing at neutral retail store against sale of nonlocal soft drinks, that Bd's application of 8(b)(4)(B) to find that U's conduct was unlawful so severely restricts U's power to appeal to public that it violates First Amendment, rejected; Bd carefully adhered to narrow construction of Act required by Tree Fruits case, and marshalled evidence demonstrating that picketing herein placed peculiarly severe burden on commerce by imposing on neutral E economic pressure disproportionate to U's legitimate campaign to protect its members' jobs)

2575-6767-2500 Consumer

Pet, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 641 F.2d 545 (C.A. 8, Jan 30, 1981)

(handbilling and newspaper advertisements (no picketing) urging consumer boycott of products produced by divisions of conglomirate other than only one that U represented Ees and was striking, held outside publicity proviso as struck division not producer as it didn't work on any products produced by other divisions; fact that struck division's profits inured to other divisions not reason enough to make other divisions primary along with struck division)

Soft Drink Workers Union Local 812, Teamsters v. N.L.R.B. 657 F.2d 1252 (C.A.D.C., Oct. 1980)

(where U, engaged in consumer picketing at neutral retail store against sale of nonlocal soft drinks, had no conventional labor dispute with store or nonlocal suppliers, ct rejected U's contention that Bd has no authority to resolve controversies that do not contain labor dispute as defined in Sec. 2(9); that section is not a jurisdictional requirement, and is construed as a definitional provision only, designed to ensure uniform meaning to important phrase statute)

2575-6779 Violence

Truck Drivers, Chauffeurs & Helpers Local No. 100; et al., (King Containers, Inc., etc.) 230 NLRB No. 157

(U steward threatening driver employed by neutral E with large rock and to report driver to U which he informed him would result in being thrown out of U and fined)

2575-6780 Work stoppage

Local 3, Electrical Workers (Northern Telecom, Inc.) 265 NLRB No. 029

(violation where U representing Ees of subcontractor E attempted to restrain subcontractor E with whom it had no dispute with object of forcing subcontractor E and principal E to c/d/b with another subcontractor E performing work at same jobsite)

Local Union No. 3, Electrical Workers (L. M. Ericsson Telecommunications, Inc., New York Division) 257 NLRB No. 167

(a complete work stoppage is not necessary to show unlawful restraint or a c/d/b object w/i meaning of Sec. 8(b)(4)(B))

2575-6784 Statements

Local 40, Ironworkers (Spancrete Northeast, Inc. 249 NLRB No. 112

(fact that E's representatives were not present at meeting between competing U and representatives of contracting entity does not change violative nature of Respondent U's threat to strike E because such threat unlawfully coerces not only person threatened but also E from whom work assignment is sought)

Local No. 12, Operating Engineers (Enterprise Aggregates Corp.; Jones, Jones, and Jones) JD-(SF)-284-82

(U's threat to picket neutral E unless it stopped using services of another neutral E engaged in truck hauling services because latter was patronizing primary E, unlawful, since, unlike in SCt's Servette decision holding that U can appeal to neutral E if not accompanied by unlawful threat, appeal here was accompanied by threat to picket jobsite where E did not conduct business to force neutral E not to utilize product of primary E; it is not necessary to show inducement resulted in work stoppage; and threat herein is included in 8(b)(4)(ii)(B) prohibition against economic sanctions)

Local #79, Plumbers (Jules Mallette Sheet Metal, Inc.) JD-799-79

(U business manager's statement to general contractor that none of his men were going to work for any contractor signatory to agreement with U that did business with non-U subcontractors, not violative of Sec. 8(b)(4)(i)(B) because there was no showing that threat to withhold men was effectuated or transmitted to Ees)

Local #79, Plumbers (Jules Mallette Sheet Metal, Inc.) JD-799-79

(though U may have lawfully proceeded to enforce contract through grievance procedure, threat of economic action to compel general contractor to contract sheet metal work to U subcontractor held violative of Sec. 8(b)(4)(ii)(B) of Act)

2583 UNION REPONSIBILITY FOR CONDUCT

Longshoremen's Association, and Local 799; etc.(Allied International, Inc.) 257 NLRB No. 151

(U's intent or purpose may be shown by nature of its conduct. Necessary and foreseeable consequences of U's activity are as much objective w/i Section 8(b)(4) as its stated objective)

2583-3000 Of trustees

Griffith Company; et al. v. N.L.R.B. 660 F.2d 406 (C.A. 9, Oct 1981)

(actions of neither trust fund administrator of joint E-Ee benefit trust nor his counsel attributable to U since none of the following situations present: (1) provisions of bargaining agreement remove discretionary of administrator to administer funds solely for benefit of Ees (2) where trustee's actions which are in question were directed by U officials (3) where trustees actions which are in question are undertaken in their capacity as U officials rather than as trustees)

5000 CONDUCT EXEMPTED FROM PROHIBITION

Longshoremen's Association, and Local 799; etc.(Allied International, Inc.) 257 NLRB No. 151

5067 PUBLICITY OTHER THAN PICKETING - (8(b)(4) PROVISO)

5067-0100 Generally

Hospital and Service Employees Union, Service Employees International Union, AFL-CIO, Local 399 (Delta Air Lines, Inc.) 263 NLRB No. 153

(in resolving differences between House and Senate versions of Act conference committee arrived at compromise bill in response to House version, which would have interfered with freedom of speech preventing Us from appealing to public for assistance in labor dispute, by including publicity proviso; while statements made in conference tend to support interpretation that proviso authorized all publicity short of picketing, proviso language itself does not permit Us to carry on all publicity, but only publicity which meets all requirements of proviso)

5067-2000 Forms of publicity

5067-2060 Handbilling

Hospital and Service Employees Union, Service Employees International Union, AFL-CIO, Local 399 (Delta Air Lines, Inc.) 263 NLRB No. 153

(in finding that U, having dispute with primary E, unlawfully distributed handbills at secondary E's facilities and unlawfully published them in U newspapers, Bd did not pass upon whether U's conduct was protected by first amendment to constitution, since Bd, as administrative agency, will presume constitutionality of Act it is charged with administering, absent binding contrary ct decisions; and since U's conduct was not saved by publicity proviso, Bd presumed constitutionality of its finding of violation)

Florida Gulf Coast Building Trades Council, AFL-CIO 252 NLRB No. 099

(U handbilling all entrances to shopping mall in orderly manner calling for total consumer boycott of all stores there because major department store was being constructed at mall by general contractor paying substandard wages, held protected by publicity proviso, because general contractor qualifies as producer by applying capital, enterprise and service to shopping mall in building store and because of interdependent relationships that exists between department store, all other stores (neutral Es) and shopping mall owner as shown by rental and lease arrangements)

Local 77, Service Employees International Union, AFL-CIO (Service By Medallion) JD-(SF)-110-81

(U's handbilling at entrance to bank which employed janitorial service with which U had dispute to inform recipients about nature of U's dispute with janitorial service and bank and asking bank's customers to boycott bank not w/i publicity proviso where accompanied by picketing, in view of interdependence between handbilling and picketing since handbilling must be considered as integral part of picketing and bank's customers would have considered message on handbill as part and parcel of picketing)

Local 77, Service Employees International Union, AFL-CIO (Service By Medallion) JD-(SF)-110-81

(no violation, where U picketed only at entrance reserved for Ees of janitorial service with which it had dispute, but continued to handbill at neutral entrance through which customers of bank which employed janitorial service entered, since handbills did not refer to picketing or did U otherwise engage in conduct calculated to cause recipients of handbills to reasonably believe that handbilling was merely extension of picket line at other entrance)

The Edward J. DeBartolo Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 662 F.2d 264 (C.A. 4, Oct 1981)

(ct denied ptn for review of Bd dismissal where Bd held that U handbilling all entrances to shopping mall in orderly manner calling for total consumer boycott of all stores including neutral Es because major department store was being constructed at mall by general contractor paying substandard wages fell w/i publicity proviso, and that general contractor was a producer, and shopping mall owner and its tenant stores were distributors w/i meaning of proviso due to rental and lease arrangements)

Pet, Inc. v. N.L.R.B. 641 F.2d 545 (C.A. 8, Jan 30, 1981)

(handbilling and newspaper advertisements (no picketing) urging consumer boycott of products produced by divisions of conglomirate other than only one that U represented Ees and was striking, held outside publicity proviso as struck division not producer as it didn't work on any products produced by other divisions; fact that struck division's profits inured to other divisions not reason enough to make other divisions primary along with struck division)

5067-2063 Newspaper advertising

Hospital and Service Employees Union, Service Employees International Union, AFL-CIO, Local 399 (Delta Air Lines, Inc.) 263 NLRB No. 153

(in finding that U, having dispute with primary E, unlawfully distributed handbills at secondary E's facilities urging total consumer boycott of secondary E, Bd held publication of handbills in U newspapers was also unlawful for similar reasons as distribution; view that, while publication of handbills was for proscribed object, such publication did not restrain or coerce secondary E, does not explain why message contained in unlawfully distributed handbills should be treated any differently when disseminated in form of advertisements in U's newspapers)

Hospital and Service Employees Union, Service Employees International Union, AFL-CIO, Local 399 (Delta Air Lines, Inc.) 263 NLRB No. 153

(in finding that U, having dispute with primary E, unlawfully distributed handbills at secondary-E airline's facilities urging total consumer boycott of airline, Bd held publication of handbills in U newspapers was also unlawful for similar reasons as distribution, where handbills contained message to airline customers that they should be concerned for their safety in light of airline's accident record; and in view of nature of airline's business and serious consequences of aircraft accidents, U's appeal in newspapers clearly coerced airline)

Hospital and Service Employees Union, Service Employees International Union, AFL-CIO, Local 399 (Delta Air Lines, Inc.) 263 NLRB No. 153

(in finding that U, having dispute with primary E, unlawfully distributed handbills at secondary-E airline's facilities urging total consumer boycott of airline, Bd held publication of handbills in U newspapers was also unlwful for similar reasons as distribution; publication of handbills was part of total consumer boycott bearing little resemplance to lawful secondary consumer picketing limited to struck product; here, published handbills failed to mention primary E at all and appealed for boycott unrelated to secondary E's connections with primary dispute)

Hospital and Service Employees Union, Service Employees International Union, AFL-CIO, Local 399 (Delta Air Lines, Inc.) 263 NLRB No. 153

(in finding that U, having dispute with primary E, unlawfully distributed handbills at secondary-E airline's facilities urging total consumer boycott of airline, Bd held publication of handbills in U newspapers was also unlawful for similar reasons as distribution; view that publication of boycott appeal resulted in trivial impact on secondary E's business and did not materially expand scope of primary dispute, apparently based on newspapers' limited audience and therefore not likely to injure secondary E, is contrary to both statute and reality)

Hospital and Service Employees Union, Service Employees International Union, AFL-CIO, Local 399 (Delta Air Lines, Inc.) 263 NLRB No. 153

(in finding that U, having dispute with primary E, unlawfully distributed handbills at secondary-E airline's facilities urging total consumer boycott of airline, Bd held publication of handbills in U newspapers was also unlawful for similar reasons as distribution; advvertisements were part of U's appeal for public assistance in primary dispute and proviso expressly provides that term public includes U members; moreover, by publishing handbills and carrying boycott appeal to broaden public segment, U expanded scope of primary dispute)

5067-4050 Purpose of truthfully advising public

Hospital and Service Employees Union, Service Employees International Union, AFL-CIO, Local 399 (Delta Air Lines, Inc.) 263 NLRB No. 153
(U's handbilling at secondary-E airline's facilities urging total consumer boycott of airline to force it to c/d/b with primary E, unlawful, where handbills included information regarding airline's accident and consumer complaint record totally unrelated to airline's connection with primary dispute and did not truthfully advise public of nature of primary dispute; in fact, information misleadingly implied U had independent dispute with airline over its flying record, whereas U's dispute with airline was over its subcontracting with primary E)

5067-4025 Public

Hospital and Service Employees Union, Service Employees International Union, AFL-CIO, Local 399 (Delta Air Lines, Inc.) 263 NLRB No. 153
(publicity proviso stating that nothing in 8(b)(4) shall prohibit publicity, other than picketing, for purpose of truthfully advising the public of nature of primary dispute requires, by reason of for the purpose phrase, that all coercive information contained in publicity must be included for the purpose of advising public of nature of primary dispute; information unrelated to secondary E's sole in primary dispute is not covered by proviso, which reading accords with meaning of for purpose phrase and congressional objectives)

Plumbers, Local 388 (Charles Featherly Construction Co.) 252 NLRB No. 062
(picketing held unlawful, notwithstanding contention of U and trades council that they engaged only in lawful informational picketing concerning non-U contractor's wages and working conditions, where U began picketing at time it knew nothing about contractor's wages and working conditions and Respondents never sought information regarding these matters; trades council's objectives went beyond seeking U wages and working conditions)

5067-4050 Consumers

Hospital and Service Employees Union, Service Employees International Union, AFL-CIO, Local 399 (Delta Air Lines, Inc.) 263 NLRB No. 153
(U's distribution, in course of dispute with primary E, of handbills at secondary E's facilities urging total consumer boycott of secondary E for purpose of forcing it to c/d/b with primary E, unlawful, since publicity proviso requires that publicity advise public of nature of primary dispute and the secondary E's relationship to it, but handbills herein failed to mention primary E at all, and thus, by failing to identify primary dispute, were not for the purpose of truthfully advising the public w/i meaning of proviso)

Florida Gulf Coast Building Trades Council, AFL-CIO 252 NLRB No. 099

The Edward J. DeBartolo Corporation v. N.L.R.B. 662 F.2d 264 (C.A. 4, Oct 1981)
(ct held that Bd correctly applied Lohman Sales standard of truthfulness where there was no evidence of intent to deceive or depart from fact by U's omission of general contractor's name in handbill urging total consumer boycott of shopping mall, and thus did not remove such handbill from protection of publicity proviso)

(U's contention that its consumer picketing at neutral retail store against sale of nonlocal soft drinks was legal because U did not intend complete boycott of store's business, rejected; Act does not require such broad intent and requires only that an object of picketing be to force neutral E to c/d/b with another person)

(U's attempt to get E to sign stipulation extending U-E association agreement, not unlawful, where E failed to give notice of withdrawal from E association before bargaining began and, while U took no action against E to enforce agreement, it was not under any obligation to take such action; consequently, there was no U consent to E's non-participation and U had right to rely on E's continued participation in E association)

Jaime Andino d/b/a Jaime Andino Trucking v. N.L.R.B. 619 F.2d 147 (C.A. 1, 1980)
(U's attempt to get E to sign stipulation extending U-E association agreement, not unlawful, where formation of new organization by representatives from E associations participating in bargaining with U, including E association herein, did not extinguish latter association and make it different entity; new organization was committee of convenience by which participating E associations tried unsuccessfully to coordinate their bargaining efforts, and Es' forms authorizing new organization to bargain for them did not create new association)

Jaime Andino d/b/a Jaime Andino Trucking v. N.L.R.B. 619 F.2d 147 (C.A. 1, 1980)
(U's attempt to get E to sign stipulation extending U-E association agreement, not unlawful, where there were no unusual circumstances that would have permitted E to withdraw from U association once negotiations began with U, since there was no impasse between association and U, and there was no dissolution of association)

(Bd need not identify a primary labor dispute to find a violation of Sec. 8(b)(4)(ii)(B); ct found ample authority for such view in ct decisions, including legislative history, and held that U's picketing of neutral retail store against sale of nonlocal soft drinks did not concern store's Es but was aimed at enhancing job opportunities of U members at local manufacturing plants; store was thus neutral E meriting protection of Sec. 8(b)(4)(ii)(B) regardless of whether U had conventional labor dispute with any other E)

Soft Drink Workers Union Local 812, Teamsters v. N.L.R.B. 657 F.2d 1252 (C.A.D.C., Oct. 1980)

N.L.R.B. v. Retail Store Employees, Local 1001 444 US 1011 (U.S. SCt. June 1981)

(Bd properly found that object of U's picketing was to force neutral retail store to cease selling nonlocal soft drinks and to c/d/b with nonlocal suppliers; while U's ultimate goal was to preserve job opportunities for its members, and not to harm store's business, such claim is irrelevant to Act's requirement that an object of picketing be one proscribed by statute, and legality of U's ultimate goal cannot immunize any otherwise illegal immediate objective)

Soft Drink Workers Union Local 812, Teamsters v. N.L.R.B. 657 F.2d 1252 (C.A.D.C., Oct. 1980)

Teamsters, Local Union No. 560 (Curtin Matheson Scientific, Inc.) 248 NLRB No. 156

(local's picketing at Missouri warehouse branch of national company in support of sister local's primary dispute at New Jersey warehouse branch, not unlawful, where E had corporate policy of cross-shipping, whereby other branches perform work of struck branch, and E's control over labor relations, though not on day-to-day basis, gives appearance of single-E by way of tactical advantage in dealing with labor disputes at local level)

The Kroger Company v. N.L.R.B. 645 F.2d 634 (C.A. 6, Oct 1980)

(ct set aside Bd's dismissal of compalint against U for picketing secondary E's grocery stores and remanded case for further proceedings where there was no substantial evidence in record to support Bd's finding that cessation of business of secondary E would not have been result of successful boycott of primary E's paper bags, since such bags were necessary for every purchase made at stores and thus lost their separate identity and merged into secondary E's operation of grocery stores)

Soft Drink Workers Union Local 812, Teamsters v. N.L.R.B. 657 F.2d 1252 (C.A.D.C., Oct. 1980)

(Bd need not identify a primary labor dispute to find a violation of Sec. 8(b)(4)(ii)(B); ct found ample authority for such view in ct decisions, including legislative history, and held that U's picketing of neutral retail store against sale of nonlocal soft drinks did not concern store's Ees but was aimed at enhancing job opportunities of U members at local manufacturing plants; store was thus neutral E meriting protection of Sec. 8(b)(4)(ii)(B) regardless of whether U had conventional labor dispute with any other E)

Soft Drink Workers Union Local 812, Teamsters v. N.L.R.B. 657 F.2d 1252 (C.A.D.C., Oct. 1980)

(Sec. 8(b)(4)(ii)(B) creates two separate requirements for Bd finding of ULP on part of U: (1) challenged U conduct must have as object forcing or requiring neutral business to c/d/b with another business; and (2) U must pursue its object by threatening, coercing, or restraining neutral business; fact that U here is a labor organization engaged in buy local picketing distinguishes it from that of general citizens group engaged in such campaign, and fact that conduct is labor picketing distinguishes instant case from others where government regulation might raise constitutional problems)

Soft Drink Workers Union Local 812, Teamsters v. N.L.R.B. 657 F.2d 1252 (C.A.D.C., Oct. 1980)

Soft Drink Workers Union Local 812, Teamsters v. N.L.R.B. 657 F.2d 1252 (C.A.D.C., Oct. 1980)

(Bd properly rejected argument by U, engaged in picketing at neutral retail store against selling of nonlocal soft drinks, that U's object was not proscribed by Act but was affirmative one of urging consumers to buy local soft drinks and thus to enhance store's business, in view of pickets' chanting and remarks to store's customers to cease buying nonlocal soft drinks, and fact that Bd was entitled to infer object of U's conduct from practical realities of situation, since an object of picketing must have been to cause consumers to stop buying nonlocal soft drinks)

Soft Drink Workers Union Local 812, Teamsters v. N.L.R.B. 657 F.2d 1252 (C.A.D.C., Oct. 1980)

(U engaged in picketing at neutral retail store against sale of nonlocal soft drinks cannot successfully argue that it was impractical to devise picket signs that would help consumers distinguish between local and nonlocal soft drinks; otherwise legal consumer boycotts of disfavored products threaten, coerce, or restrain neutral Es if they fail to distinguish favored from disfavored products with sufficient clarity; boycott that fails to isolate struck product is illegal even if circumstances make it practically impossible for well intentioned U to confine its campaigning to that product)

Soft Drink Workers Union Local 812, Teamsters v. N.L.R.B. 657 F.2d 1252 (C.A.D.C., Oct. 1980)

(in case of a consumer boycott, picketing does not unlawfully threaten, coerce, or restrain neutral E if it confines itself to product, sale of which directly undermines U's interest; boycott that goes beyond legitimate primary dispute creates separate dispute with neutral, and since extra pressure U places on neutral causes more interference with latter's business than it would suffer as natural consequence of U's success in its primary dispute, it falls w/i congressional ban)

Soft Drink Workers Union Local 812, Teamsters v. N.L.R.B. 657 F.2d 1252 (C.A.D.C., Oct. 1980)

Soft Drink Workers Union Local 812, Teamsters v. N.L.R.B. 657 F.2d 1252 (C.A.D.C., Oct. 1980)

(U's consumer-aimed boycott of neutral E will threaten, coerce, or restrain such E if U fails to limit itself to an appeal to boycott struck or disfavored product or creates danger of ruin or substantial loss to such E)

Soft Drink Workers Union Local 812, Teamsters v. N.L.R.B. 657 F.2d 1252 (C.A.D.C., Oct. 1980)

(contention by U, engaged in consumer picketing at neutral retail store against sale of nonlocal soft drinks, that phrase threaten, coerce, or restrain creates empirical requirement for Bd, and that picketing was legal absent proof that neutral E suffered significant loss of income because of picketing, rejected; Bd is not required to produce actual empirical evidence and, while it is permitted to order cessation of boycotts that threaten ruin or substantial loss to neutral, an extremely costly boycott is not the only type proscribed by Act)

Soft Drink Workers Union Local 812, Teamsters v. N.L.R.B. 657 F.2d 1253 (C.A.D.C., Oct. 1980)

(contention by U, engaged in consumer picketing at neutral retail store against sale of nonlocal soft drinks, that Bd's application of 8(b)(4)(B) to find that U's conduct was unlawful so severely restricts U's power to appeal to public that it violates First Amendment, rejected; Bd carefully adhered to narrow construction of Act required by Tree Fruits case, and marshalled

(U picketing air force research and testing center (not construction site) at gates reserved for neutral Ees, not unlawful where nonstruck Es' Ees carried on interrelated tasks necessary to normal operation of primary E. Fact that primary did not own land or buildings at site not decisive; Bd looks to duties of those Ees using picketed gates and determines whether or not these duties are connected with normal operations of the primary E)

Carpenters, Local Union No. 1622 (Specialty Building Company) 262 NLRB No. 162
(U's contention that relationship of primary general contractor with which it had dispute to its subcontractors warranted application of related work doctrine and justified picketing at reserved gate, rejected; fact contractor and subcontractor engaged on same project and contractor had some supervision over subcontractors work, did not eliminate status of each as independent contractor or make Ees of one Ees of other more importantly, Bd has refused to extend related work doctrine to construction industry)

General Drivers & Helpers Union, Local No. 554 (Prairie Ford Truck Sales) 253 NLRB No. 006

Teamsters Local No. 600, a/w Teamsters (Poplar Bluff Express) JD-226-82
(following primary E's trucks to various secondary and neutral Es' premises and picketing entrances there w/o seeking permission to enter their property to picket beside primary E's trucks or producing evidence to show such requests would have proved futile constituted ambulatory and common situs picketing not conforming to Moore Dry Dock criteria of picketing reasonably close to situs of dispute)

George Squillacote, RD v. Racine Building & Construction Trades Council, AFL-CIO 483 F.Supp. 1218 (D Ct WI, 1980)
(contention that U's conduct was unlawful secondary activity because picketing was notlimited to place reasonably close to gate which was reserved for primary E and its suppliers held of doubtful merit, in view of small size of site, small number of pickets, nearness of pickets to reserved gate, and improper initial marking of two gates by primary E as union and non-union)

7540-8060-5067 Availability of alternative places for picketing

Inland Steel Company 264 NLRB No. 015
(E's contention its discharge of Ee for refusal to cross picket line at its premises resulting from strike aginst another E performing work there lawful, since picketing violative of Section 8(b)(4) and Ee had assumed picketer's unlawful status inasmuch as picketing not reasonably close to situs and closer alternative sites vailalable, rejected, since reasonably close criteria does not mean pickets must be stationed at only one location absent evidence objectives of picketing aimed at coercing secondary Ees, nor must picketing situs designated by secondary E for its convenience be accepted)

Truck Drivers, Chauffeurs & Helpers Local No. 100; et al., (King Containers, Inc., etc.) 250 NLRB No. 157

7540-8070 Reserved gate picketing

Electrical Workers, Local 323 (Renel Construction, Inc.) 264 NLRB No. 081
(U's contention that its picketing at reserved gate, which extended to w/i 100 feet of neutral gate, was lawful because it was conducted at closest point, on public property, to work location of primary Ees, rejected, since Moore Dry Dock's third condition, requiring picketing to be reasonably close to location of situs, focuses on proximity of picketing to reserved gate rather than to primary Ees' work location; properly established system of separate gates requires U to confine its picketing to reserved gate, and picketing conducted away therefrom may indicate noncompliance with Moore Dry Dock)

Electrical Workers, Local 323 (Renel Construction, Inc.) 264 NLRB No. 081
(picketing not confined to reserved gate, unlawful, where reserved gate was properly establihed w/o any impairment of neutral gate, thereby restricting situs of dispute to reserved gate and obliging U to conduct its picketing accordingly; however, not only did U fail to confine its picketing to reserved gate, but it engaged in picketing a mere 100 feet from neutral gate, thereby failing to comply with Moore Dry Dock and to minimize its impact on neutral Ees, with object of enmeshing neutral Es and Ees in its primary dispute)

Electrical Workers, Local 323 (Renel Construction, Inc.) 264 NLRB No. 081
(reserved gate was not so remotely located as to impair effectiveness of U's picketing in bringing its message to public and to primary Ees, where U's claim of remoteness contradicted its stipulation that reserved gate was properly established; while reserved gate was not located on main road, there was no indication that public's use thereof was restricted or that U could not communicate to public at such location; and there was no evidence of confusion caused by improper marking of gate which would cause U not to be able to adequately convey its message)

Moreover, primary gate must not be placed so as to impair effectiveness of picketing at that location, for purpose of separate primary gate is to minimize impact of picketing on neutral Es w/o substantial impairment of effectiveness of picketing in reaching Ees of primary E

Plumbers, Local Union No. 398 (Robbins Plumbing & Heating Contractors, Inc.) 261 NLRB No. 072

(U's contention that it was privileged to picket at neutral's reserved gate rather that at gate reserved for Ees of contractor with whom E had dispute and its suppliers since its right to legitimately publicize dispute was compromised by fact that Ees of E with whom it had dispute were not visible from that gate, rejected, where U had ample opportunity to contact primary E's Ees and suppliers each time they entered and departed and public informed since gate on public street from which picket signs would be visible; fact picket sings not visible to Ees of primary E from their work site, irrelevant)

Ventura County District Council of Carpenters (Commercial Industrial Constructors, Inc.) 259 NLRB No. 0

(U's fining of its members who worked behind its picket line for neutral E at construction site at which U had labor dispute with another E, violative of 8(b)(1)(A), since such discipline induced or encouraged neutral Ees to refuse to perform services, w/i meaning of 8(b)(4)(i)(B), with object of causing neutral E to c/d/b with primary E; fact that neutral Ees failed to use gate reserved for them was not crucial or determinative fact, since area used by them for entering and leaving jobsite was not part of gate reserved for primary E and suppliers)

Fact that primary did not own land or buildings at site not decisive; Bd looks to duties of those Ees using picketed gates and determines whether or not these duties are connected with normal operations of the primary E)

(jurisdictional dispute cannot by definition exist unless there are rival claims to same work and, in absence of active and competing claims, Sec. 10(k) is not applicable; thus, if one renounces its claim, Sec. 10(k) proceedings are aborted, even where E maintains interest in securing Bd decision on merits of dispute; similarly, Sec. 10(k) does not apply in absence of conflicting claims but one U pickets to get future work, even if E would have valid ULP claim under some other section of Act)

Foley-Wismer & Becker and Shurtleff & Andrews Construction v. N.L.R.B. 695 F.2d 424 (C.A. 9, Dec. 1982)

(Bd properly quashed 10(k) hearing, since no jurisdictional dispute existed between Teamsters and Operating Engineers where they executed agreement that work involving use of trailers pulled by cranes in hauling construction material would be manned by composite crew consisting of engineer operating crane and teamster assisting in loading and unloading trailer; Teamsters explicitly stated it has no interest in operating crane, and Operating Engineers only claimed work traditionally performed by its members; and Teamsters' trailer work had never been sought by Operating Engineers)

Foley-Wismer & Becker and Shurtleff & Andrews Construction v. N.L.R.B. 695 F.2d 424 (C.A. 9, Dec. 1982)

Operating Engineers, AFL-CIO, Local 925 (Bradshaw Industrial Coatings, Inc.) 264 NLRB No. 127
(notice of hearing quashed notwithstanding E's claim that U's picketing was for purpose other than forcing E to pay E's workers area standard wages where at no time did U make any demand for work assignment at job on behalf of its members)

Local 372, Service Employees International Union, AFL-CIO (Pepper construction Company) 262 NLRB No. 106

Local 1294, International Longshoremen's Association, AFL-CIO (Cibro Petroleum Products, Inc.) 257 NLRB No. 037
(notice of hearing not squashed since no sufficiently unequivocal disclaimer where Local U, which had ct suit pending alleging that International's constitution had been violated by assignment of work in dispute to another Local, stated in its disclaimer that if successful in its ct suit it would of course take position it should be assigned work in dispute)

International Union of Operating Engineers, Local No. 673 (Oliver B. Cannon & Son, Inc., of Florida) 256 NLRB No. 184
(contention that Painters disclaimed disputed work by memorandum of understanding, rejected, since Bd has long held such disclaimers ineffective where, as here, Ees represented by disclaiming organization continued to perform disputed work)

Ironworkers, Local Union No. 395 (Morse Electric Co., Inc.) 254 NLRB No. 049
(notice of hearing quashed where one of two competing Us orally disclaimed any interest in work at issue and there was no evidence such U engaged in conduct inconsistent with its disclaimer; contrary to E, Bd concluded that in making oral disclaimer, U had effectively renounced its claim to work involved)

Local Union No. 542, Operating Engineers (Local 15253, Steelworkers) 247 NLRB No. 159
(notice of hearing not quashed since jurisdictional dispute existed, notwithstanding one U's disclaimer of interest in work through its attorney by letter and on record at hearing, where U had engaged in noninformational picketing at disputed worksite and threatened Ees and officers of competing U to prevent them from crossing picket line)

Foley-Wismer & Becker and Shurtleff & Andrews Construction v. N.L.R.B. 695 F.2d 424 (C.A. 9, Dec. 1982)
(E's contention that one U's disclaimer of disputed work was ineffective in that it involved no giving up of work and because its members' wages were not reduced by reason of disclaimer, rejected; cases in which genuine jurisdictional dispute existed notwithstanding disclaimer dealt with violations in which disclaiming U had performed it if required; here, however, disclaiming U had never performed, and did not request, work claimed by other U)

Local 1294, International Longshoremen's Association, AFL-CIO (Cibro Petroleum Products, Inc.) 257 NLRB No. 037
(conflict in testimony does not prevent Bd from proceeding under Section 10(k). Bd is not charged with finding violation did occur but only that reasonable cause exists for findings violation)

Bricklayers, Local Union No. 44 253 NLRB No. 15
(conflict in testimony does not prevent Bd from proceeding under 10(k) for, in this type of proceeding, Bd is charged w/determining that reasonable cause existsfor finding violation rather than occurrence of violation)

Local Union No. 72, Boilermakers (Local Union No. 701, Operating Engineers) 247 NLRB No. 016
(U stated to general contractor that U would shut down construction project if subcontractor did not abide by anticipated IJDB award in favor of U; U stated to subcontractor that friendly relations would be impossible if disputed work was not reassigned; and U's picketing caused other Ees not to report to work)

7580-8040-1125 Between local union and single employer

Operating Engineers, Local Union No. 18 (Luedtke Engineering Company) 264 NLRB No. 115
(both by their terms and past practice, two agreements, E association and memorandum agreements, did not cover disputed work of hydraulic dredging as that work was excluded purposely because 3 of 4 signatories of association agreement had other long-term agreements with another local covering their work; as to latter agreement E did not become party to memorandum agreement until more than one month after work in dispute began, primary purpose of memorandum agreement was to cover different project, and U agent said that latter agreement did not apply to work in dispute)

Local 295, Teamsters (Emery Air Freight Corporation) 255 NLRB No. 135

Local Union No. 1333, Painters & Allied Trades 247 NLRB No. 197
(E not obligated to comply with Joint Board decision since it did not agree to be bound by decision, nor did E join in submission of matter to Joint Board since it was neither present nor represented in proceedings, and its submission of information to Joint Board was insufficient to amount to participation; further, award did not set forth factors weighed in making decision)

7580-8040-4433 In subject case

Local Union No. 72, Boilermakers (Local Union No. 701, Operating Engineers) 247 NLRB No. 016
(although IJDB award was not finding on E, Bd considered it as factor in determining proper assignment of work in dispute; however, Bd gave award no controlling weight where Bd was unable to evaluate award because record did not indicate what evidence formed basis for award, and award did not explain even in cursory fashion what particular facts were relied upon)
